Subject: Get Ready. Part 2 of 2.

It looks like some time-travellers are going to come and help us.

Help us help you rid your planet of these beings who do not belong here, who have never belonged here, who have never earned the right to be here, who are only here through a freak of nature, through an accident of enormous proportions, an accident that has left damage and an aftermath we intend, with your assistance, to rectify and remove any evidence of its existence from throughout every corner of your world and throughout your history. This is a great endeavor, and what has gone into the planning stages of this mission is beyond the level of understanding of many of you at this time. There are here now representatives from thousands of worlds, hundreds of galaxies, numerous different races and beings from many different dimensions. There are beings here who have come in service to this mission, to our Creator and to you from different timelines, and you would more clearly understand this as time travel. This is how important this mission is deemed by beings all throughout every corner of this immensely vast universe.

You, the beings known as Human, are the centerpieces of this entire mission. It is you that this mission cannot succeed without, and it is you that must make the initial moves throughout every step of this operation, as you are the maestros and it is you that conducts our entire universal orchestra. We must wait for you to cue our instruments before we may start to play. We find ourselves in a constant state of waiting for you to make your move before we can make our move in support of you in many different ways. There are many moves that we have waited on you to make, and there are many moves that you have indeed made, we wish you to understand this, and wish you to know that progress has been made steadily since the undertaking of this great endeavor. It is at this time we again wait for you, the people of Earth, to make your move.

What we are waiting on is for those termed our Earth allies to kick into high gear their mission to take into custody all the men and women listed as members and associates of your criminal cabal, their underlings, and all who conspire and have conspired with them. These beings must be removed from your society before we can begin the implementation of many projects we hold as very necessary for the continued safe passage of many of your people. There are challenges coming over the horizon for your world and we wish to be able to be there right by your side when these challenges come into view. Help us help you and we will do just that. Make your move, we wait for you, the conductors, to cue us and our orchestra will begin to play. This is our promise to you.

We are your ascended family of the Ashtar Command.
