

Subject: DNA.

From: "John Winston" <johnfw@mlode.com>

Date: 09/07/2012, 21:36

Newsgroups: alt.conspiracy.area-51

Subject: DNA.

July 9, 2012.

Here is a rather complicated discussion of DNA.

.....
.....

Ja-is

Genetic auditors are seamless processors of DNA and related materials that harbor genetic infusions of the materials that will construct and create a living organism such as the human vessel. Each of you has these genetic markers within your DNA strands, and it is these markers that will decide for you the mold which your body will take shape within. These genetic traits differ, of course, from individual to individual, and these genetic markers are passed down not only through the generations of ancestral family, but are also passed down from the higher realms above you in some cases. These genetic precursors for some of you have been gifted of you from beings of the higher realms. Not all your DNA that you possess at this time has been inherited by you from your human birth parents. Some of the DNA that some of you possess has been infused into your human DNA to give you traits, abilities and a personality of something more, something greater if you will, than what you would have possessed without this interaction and infusion.

We would like at this time to begin programs where we will reintroduce, if you will, your real birth parents to you. Many of you have parents that exist within the higher realms, and it is these parents that have bestowed upon you some of this star DNA that you possess within your human strands of DNA. Your scientists of your world have identified these, what for them, are unidentifiable strands of coded messages and have concluded that it is unidentifiable and they have labeled it ♦junk♦ DNA, although junk is not nearly what this valuable resource is to you. What they have labeled as junk is a treasure beyond measure. It is you your past, your memories of your past, the being that you truly are and the genetic markers of your universal heritage and ancestry. This code that runs deep within you is incredibly valuable to you at this time, as it is what is leading you back to who it is you truly are and where it is you come from.

The study of human DNA has bona fide virtue, successes, breakthroughs, and has achieved certain levels of understanding for your people, your scientists and your researchers, but we wish to say to you that your level of understanding of DNA and all its powers, abilities and processes are far beyond the current understandings of even your greatest, sharpest and most visionary minds of the human species on your planet. We would like to begin to roll out educational programs where those of you who wish to take the next steps and learn so much more of these sciences that they have studied can do so under the tutelage of some of our top scientific minds and teachers in these fields. The knowledge that is available through these programs is unlimited, and those of you who wish to participate in these programs and lectures can do so. There are no minimum requirements and naturally, there is never a monetary fee. Each and all of you who are interested in any of the programs that we offer are free to enjoy them, to learn from them and to share this information with others if they find it enlightening, interesting, knowledgeable, and worth their time and effort.

Your DNA is one of the fields of science that we feel is a very good place to begin your higher dimensional studies, as so much can be explained to you once you have a firm foundation of understanding of this science and its related sciences and fields of study. One of the attributes of DNA that you may not currently understand is that DNA pulses at a rate that is sometimes beyond your frequency level of your current 3rd dimension. To understand this would be to imagine that some of your DNA exists beyond the measure of your current dimension and some of it exists within your current dimension. It is as if some of your DNA traveling down a strand will disappear from your reality and then again reappear at another section of your DNA strands. This has had your scientists and researchers baffled for many years now and would continue to confuse and stifle their research if not explained to them in some detail of what is the cause of this confusion.

We at this time do not feel this is the arena or the medium to share and discuss in great detail this subject matter, but we will say to you that as some of your DNA exists in a higher dimension, cannot some of you also exist in a higher dimension ? Would this not make sense of why some of your DNA contained within your physical vessel disappears and reappears at altering time signatures and frequencies? This is a key to unlocking greater understandings of your realities. We wish you to think about this and think about how many alternate realities you as an individual being may exist within at this very time as you take your next breath. The being that you are is multidimensional in nature. This means you exist in multiple dimensions, not throughout different time periods or intervals, but at one moment in what you understand as time, which we understand as only one moment, the now moment. You have many lives, many identities and many personas. You have many friends and many family, you have many different experiences, careers, loves, friends, dreams, homes, starship cruisers, everything and anything that a being is or experiences you possess on many different levels and even times of existence, as timelines are also a very integral part of understanding this whole.

We will at the appropriate time when we can speak personally with you explain in great detail all you would wish to learn and understand about this DNA and how you exist within multiple dimensions, time frames and places throughout this entire universe. For today, we will say that we know you far greater than you may believe. We may on one level be standing with you as we speak to you through our channel today. This is what we would like you to think about. We would like you to think about how you can be there and you can be here at the same moment, and we would like you to think about just what this reunion between our people and your people and the merging of our two dimensions really means for you in the greater sense, in the brighter and clearer picture. We look so forward for this day for many reasons and we feel this reconnection is one of the most important and essential outcomes to our entire mission here, and we wish for you to have clear insight into what we mean when we say this will truly be a reunion on many more levels than may be evident for you at this time.

Until we meet again, let us say being apart from you has been as if a part of us has been missing for a very long time. We are your higher dimensional friends and family. We are the Galactic Federation of Light.

As channeled through Greg Gies

.....

John Winston. johnfw@mlode.com