

Subject: Agents Of Light Newsletter. Parts 1 and 2.

From: "John Winston" <johnfw@mlode.com>

Date: 05/08/2012, 06:29

Newsgroups: alt.conspiracy.area-51

Subject: Agents Of Light Newsletter.
Aug. 4, 2012.

Here is the latest from Byran J.

.....
.....
Agents of Light Newsletter
~~~~~

July 2012
~~~~~

Welcome to the Agents of Light newsletter. The purpose of our monthly newsletter is to establish contact and support for Lightworkers and their families. We provide support for their spiritual growth and ascension, connect them to their etheric teachers, and train them how to access Light energy for themselves, the Earth and all other life on this planet.

There are hundreds of practical uses for Light energy, and it can serve us and our children in any manner we can conceive, while also helping raise the Earth's vibration. Our goal is to help create a critical mass of higher frequency energy that will raise the planet's vibration and lead us all into the New A-e.

Besides providing instruction on how to access Light energy and how the ascension process works, we also help people remove obstacles to their s-iritual growth and help them develop a working relationship with their etheric teachers.

In the first article, we discuss the shootings in Colorado and Arizona and how that relates to current and future tyranny on the planet. We need to continue to examine our hearts to determine whether we are loving others and ourselves. While this is truly a difficult time for the planet, we can exponentially expand our sp-iritual growth at this time.

Next, we take a special look at The Hunger Games movie and share what was revealed to one person about the future of the planet, and what we can expect to happen to our future i-carnations, if we don't expose and resolve the global tyranny occurring on our planet at this time.

As we did in last month's issue, we identify key personalities from the 18th century that have -eincarnated to help fight the global tyranny that is seeking to enslave the world, which would ultimately destroy the planet. This month, we discuss re-ncarnations for Ben Franklin, John Hancock and Robert Morris.

In the next article, we share a Past Life Intervention that the etheric teaches used, to help a man from Switzerland remove the energies still present after a very difficult experience as an African-American slave from Mississippi in the mid-1800's.

As we continue on through this challenging year, we will continue to help support Lightworkers and their families, and those who are interested in achieving ascension. We encourage readers to take advantage of the various activations, publications, readings and training that we make available for those pursuing their spiritual development.

In love and Light,

Bryan J-mes

~~~~~

Colorado Shooting Just Another Attempt to Fool Citizens

Once again, those would seek to enslave the people of this planet and horde its resources have harmed many innocents, and devastated a community through their senseless killings and subsequent plans to reduce our freedoms further.

Even as the true facts of the case are revealed by eyewitnesses from the movie theater and other sources, the mainstream newsmedia obediently ignores these leads, and instead further develops storylines that help to spread these terrible lies. But the truth is out and the planners will eventually be fully exposed. The same is true concerning the Tucson shooting. Past incidents had the same methodology. Future ones probably will as well. Fortunately, none of the three men shown will be held accountable by the Holy Ones for what has been done to them.

Meanwhile, our governments are getting ready to collect all civilian weapons through the United Nations. The military is preparing to permanently patrol our streets, and the governments are getting ready for martial law. All of these things and more, have been well documented by the perpetrators themselves for many years. None of this should be a surprise to anyone.

As mentioned in last month's issue, deliverance won't come through an uprising against the globalists, or a spectacular 'second coming' of Christ. Nor will the Federation ships come to 'beam us up.' But the Holy Ones will keep the planet from being destroyed, and will help ensure citizens have opportunities for freedom instead of tyranny. The rest is up to us, so we have to wake up and see what is happening!

The Holy Ones stress over and over again that we must reflect on our personal lives, and contemplate how much we are loving others and ourselves; especially ourselves. Only by loving ourselves can we hope for eternal life, and later ascension. And only through love of others would they allow us to have eternal life or ascend. By lovingly working through obstacles experienced in this life, we can achieve our full spiritual potential.

We can best prepare ourselves by self-examination through meditation and seeking guidance from our spiritual guides and teachers. Everyone has at least 12 etheric teachers and two guides. Call on them and they will guide you to the Light!

Wake Up Planet, or Hunger Games Will Be Reality in 100 Years

Back in March of 2012, I experienced one of the most significant emotional events that I can recall in my life. Four months later, this event still impacts me, and reduces me to tears if I dare think about it.

I was dragged to the movie theater by my daughter (now 17) to view the Hunger Games, a movie that I was unaware of, which was adapted from a young adult's book that I had not heard of either. But she was very excited about seeing it, so I tagged along.

The story takes place in the future in the totalitarian nation of Panem (U.S. I believe), after some type of catastrophic event had devastated the planet. Within the 12 regions of the nation, a boy and girl (between the ages of 12 and 17) are chosen through lottery, to participate in the Hunger Games, and each child is required to fight to the death until only one remains. There are even some children who are trained to be fighters from the time they can walk. This annual event is televised, and carried as much glitz, glamour and drama as our current Olympic games.

The Hunger Games were instituted as punishment for a previous rebellion against the government, in which a lot of people were killed. This was one method they used to control the population, besides also limiting food and the placement of cameras on every corner.

Not long into the movie, I saw people saluting each other with three fingers. When that occurred, my thoughts went back to the fall of 2008, when I found myself constantly doing that same thing. I was doing it to everyone, and calling it "three-fingered praise." I thought it was unusual that I was doing it, so I eventually decided that I wasn't sure what it meant, so I should probably stop.

After seeing it in the movie, I didn't think it was funny anymore. In fact, it was now tied to quite a bit of emotion and I started tearing up. In the movie, it was used to express special thanks, admiration, or to say goodbye to a loved one. Several times, it was given after one of the children were killed in battle.

I knew then that there was more to this than just a fictional story. There had to be something more to it. The rest of the movie had a great emotional impact on me, so I decided to ask my etheric teachers about it.

They told me that this was indeed slated to happen in about 100 years. Nine nations would implement the games, and they would continue for 74 years. So the movie depicted the last time they were held. All told, approximately 74,000 teens are expected to be slaughtered during this period.

The games will end, because the people will again rise up in approximately 175 years. The leaders of the future uprising include future incarnations of Alex Jones and Jesse Ventura, among others including myself.

Hunger Games was published by Suzanne Collins on September 14, 2008, which was the same month that I started unwittingly using the salute. She had received some criticism because of the similarities between Collins' book and the Japanese novel Battle Royale (published in 1999 by Koushun Takami).

I learned that Collins had a former incarnation as Charles Dodgson (Lewis Carroll), who wrote many popular stories throughout the years, such as Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, and Through the Looking Glass. He was profiled in our February, 2012 issue. Dodgson is now supporting Collins as one of her spiritual guides.

Battle Royale was also intended as a warning about to the planet about this future event. Both Takami and Collins received their inspiration from the 5th dimension, as this is often done to try and help us awaken before it is too late.

In this case, it is not too late for the planet yet. But as this point, atrocities like this are still scheduled for our future. Some people may ask, "But why should I care? I'll be long dead by then. That is true, even though their great-great-great grandchildren and beyond will have to deal with it.

But what they don't realize is that those grandchildren will be us, because we will all be back during that time, in a subsequent incarnation. Each and every one of us. So we had better deal with this now. We need to stop the tyranny!

Part 1.

John Winston. johnfw@mlode.com

Subject: Agents Of Light Newsletter. Part 2.
Aug.4, 2012.

This talks about famous people from our past who have volunteered to be born again and fight to make this world a better place.

.....
.....

Prominent Leaders Who Came Back to Fight Tyranny

In last month's issue we shared how certain key leaders from the 18th century had re-incarnated at this time in key roles, to fight again for freedom. While they may get ridiculed by politicians, political pundits and the mainstream media, they have the support of the Galactic Federation, and have come from the Light.

Below are a few more of these leaders and heroes from the 18th century that have re-incarnated in this era to fight the tyranny once more!

Ben Franklin (1706-1790) was a true renaissance man of the 18th century. He possessed many talents and accomplishments, being accomplished as an activist, author, businessman, diplomat, inventor, musician, printer, politician, inventor, satirist, scientist, and statesman.

He had a major impact on the forming of the United States. One of his biographers (Walter Isaacson) described him as "the most accomplished American of his age and the most influential in inventing the type of society America would become."

Franklin was selected to serve as a delegate to the Continental Congress and signed the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution. He later became a strong abolitionist. Franklin was able to ascend, and is now an etheric teacher, working for the Light. His soul had also incarnated as several other significant incarnations, such as St. Germaine and Joseph, the father of Jesus.

At this time, his soul incarnated as Dr. Steve Pieczenik. Pieczenik is a psychiatrist, former official for the U.S. State Department, and a best selling author and publisher. Pieczenik is considered to be the model that Jack Ryan is based on in the Tom Clancy books and movies. He is also an expert in international relations and terrorism.

Dr. Pieczenik created some controversy by stating that the 9/11 attack and the recent shooting of Osama Bin Laden were false flag operations. Readers may recall that the September, 2007 issue of Agents of Light explained why Bin Laden could not have been involved based on his personal frequency and Light ratio.

John Hancock (1737-1793) was a prominent businessman during the American Revolution and helped to lead and finance the American colonies battle for independence. He was a delegate to the Continental Congress and signed the Articles of Confederation and Declaration of Independence.

Today, his soul has incarnated as Bob Fretcher, an author, businessman, and investigator.

Fl-tcher assisted the U.S. Congress in investigating the Iran Contra scandal. He has also investigated or exposed the m-rder of Sonny Bono, and the gove-nments involvement in illegal arms sales, d-ug trafficking, and the use of weather control equipment as w-apons.

Robert M-rris, Jr. (1734-1806), was a delegate to the Continental Congress, and a signer of the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation, and the United States Constitution. From 1781-1784, he served as Superintendent of Finance and managed the Continental Navy, and except for George Washington, was considered the most powerful man in America.

Judge Andrew N-politano (born 1950) is a former New Jersey Superior Court Judge. He has written numerous books and is an outspoken advocate for personal freedom. He has hosted several television programs, and is currently a po-itical and judicial analyst for Fox News Channel, commenting on legal news and trials.

These men are just a few of the dozens of gove-nment, business and spir-tual leaders that have reincar-ated into circumstances that would allow them to stand against the global tyranny that seeks to control and ultimately destroy the planet. We will identify more of these special and unique personalities in subsequent issues.

~~~~~

Past Life Interventions

Occasionally, a person's etheric teachers will encourage them to get a Past Life Intervention to help resolve a serious lingering issue in their present life. Rather than just identify the incident to help a person "process" the event that caused their suffering, we actually alter the official Akashic record so that the impact of the event is not felt in a person's current life; so in essence, it never actually happened.

Intervention

The following intervention was for a man in Switzerland.

Story

We go to the mid-1800's in the state of Mississippi. We see a young b-ack boy at the age of seven, and he is with his mother. His name is Jo. His mother's name is Dolly, and she is a cook and housemaid for a wealthy family that live on a plantation.

Jo helps his mother a lot, always doing what she needs to make it easier on her.

Jo stays near his mother to try and stay out of trouble. His father is no longer around, having been hung with a group of other men, who were accused of stealing several horses.

Jo knows in his heart that his father would never have done such a terrible thing.

He always promised his father that he would see after his mother, and make sure she was safe.

We now see Jo at age 12. He and his mother were sold to a different family, and now live in a different home in Mississippi.

Jo is not very happy, and though he promised his father he would always take care of his mom, he is beginning to spend less time with her, sneaking out and visiting other children who have parents that also work on the plantation.

Jo has had many close calls and he feels excited when he almost gets caught, which gives him a surge of energy that is appealing to him. He begins to stay out longer and longer, always getting a rush from doing something he is not supposed to do.

He sneaks in and no one in the house has ever caught him. Jo and his mother sleep in a small back room, near a storage room, which makes it that much easier for him.

His mother begins to get suspicious around his 13th birthday, thinking that maybe he had just gone out to do some chores. She begins to pay more attention and realizes that Jo is actually sneaking out multiple times day and night. Dolly becomes concerned when she overhears her masters discussing that bottles of moonshine have been disappearing from the study. She has never seen him drink, but something makes her wonder if Jo is sneaking these bottles when he goes out at night.

It takes her awhile but she begins to carefully pay more attention to Jo's actions, questioning his every move, what his activities are, and who he is with. She is concerned that if he is not careful, he will get into trouble, and end up in the same situation as his father.

Dolly knows in her heart that Jo is a good son and that being an only child, having lost his father at a young age, and the stress that they live under, makes it very hard for him to do as he would like. There has always been talk about freeing people like them, so that they no longer have to answer to anyone themselves. She dreams of the day that her son can live in peace without the worry that someone will treat him like an animal, and that maybe someday instead, he will be treated with respect as he sorely deserves.

One night shortly after Jo's 14th birthday, Dolly overhears her masters again talking about missing moonshine.

Something makes her feel very strongly that Jo was the one who took it. She becomes fearful for his safety and tries to figure out a way to go out and find him, knowing that if she leaves, suspicions will arise, because she never asks to leave, and is expected to stay close by her living quarters in the evening.

Dolly waits until she is certain that the house is asleep, and she quietly sneaks out the back door nearby her living quarters, to set out to find her son. All the while, she p-ays for his safety, because if she is caught and they find out he is responsible, they will likely beat him, probably giving him one chance depending on how lenient they may feel at the time.

Dolly can not bear the thought of losing her son, as she did her husband. She is wandering the plantation grounds, whispering his name, frightened and shaking, so afraid that someone will hear her. She comes upon a barn that is farthest away from the main home, overhearing laughter and loud voices. Dolly recognizes Jo's voice and quietly enters the gates of the barn. Standing there unnoticed, she watches her son with three other young men, sitting on a pile of hay, drinking directly from bottles of moonshine. Not one of them is more than 14 years old. Yet all of them are intoxicated, and oblivious to anything that could happen around them.

Part 2.

John Winston. johnfw@mlode.com