1. (S/NF/SK) Statistics:

Viewer:	01B
Session date:	30 JAN 89
Start time:	1106
End time:	1207
Mode of operation:	CRV
Monitor:	011
PI:	Indigestion
AV:	None

2. (S/NF/SK) Cuing: Encrypted coordinates: 805305/165518 and later, "Access and describe the target event".

3. (S/NF/SK) Results:

a. The general area was perceived as fairly smooth and flat land, with water. Either the land or the water had a feeling of a 1" thick "crust" on top (which was not identified).

b. The immediate area of the event was perceived as a large open area surrounded by large, grey buildings. This area was seen as filled with a large throng of people who fell into three categories:

1) There were two people who were central to the event. They were facing each other, and holding something about waist high. Both appeared to be male. There was also an impression that one or both had his free hand raised into the air. Also included in this group is a possible third person (perceptions of this person were very vague) who, although central to the event, itself, does not take direct participatory action, as do the other two.

2) Surrounding the above group of 2 or 3 people, a larger group of 8 to 10 people is located. They are an "official" part of the event, but do not take part in the activity, at all, other than to just be there for it.

3) Surrounding these is a large throng of what appeared to be thousands of people. The general mood of these people ranges from unconcern in the activities to great concern. Their mood, however, is serious, no matter how interested they might or might not be in the actual performance of the activities. This group had a definite "mixed peoples" flavor, and drove strong AOLs of the Vatican, where people come from all over the world.

c. A time line of the event (see time lines, pages 7 thru 9) placed the following sequence:

- 1) The immediate future (next week) shows a rise in "resistance" to the event, which then drops suddenly about the middle of February (see time line, top of page 8).
- 2) During the 3rd week in March, '89, there are strong feelings of "pressure from above" concerning the event. This is followed by a sudden "giving in to the pressure" during the last week of March (see time line, middle of page 8).
- 3) Nearing the end of April, there is a strong feeling of "rising tension" concerning the event (see time line, top of page 9). This tension increases until late in the first week of May '89, when the event occurs, with an accompanying sudden drop in the tension (see time line, middle of page 9). Almost immediately after the event, the tension level suddenly rises again, drops some, then continues to rise again in plateaus over a long period of time.

d. A map-dowsing session indicated three event-related locations:

- 1) A "hot" feeling was noted in open, empty steppes of Russia, around the area of 72 degrees N by 90 degrees E. There is virtually no population in this area.
- 2) The same "hot" feeling was also noted in the Rocky Mountain area of North America, around the area of 43 degrees N by 115 degrees W. This too, appears to be open, empty land, sparsely populated.
- 3) The "location of the target site" appeared as a point which gave a feeling of very high "resistance", located in the area of Gdansk, Poland, at 54 degrees 45 minutes N by 18 degrees 30 minutes E.
