Summary of Information

Site involves structures of dramatically varying shapes and forms within an expansive, enclosed area. There is a sense of "smoothly curving", grey, and turning. Also a concept of a cube within a cube--as in a cubical shape or structure contained inside a larger, similarly-shaped structure. The cube inside is oblique or at an angle to the expected inside dimensions of the external structure. [source note: there is a feeling that this is an unusual or "different" sort of a site or target. Doesn't seem to be an operational site.] The cue of "most unique aspect/function of site produced "motion, movement, shifting planes and elevations, height, wide, spread out, tall, unique patterns and construction," with a lack of uniformity structure to structure. It seems to be a place where people gather. Site produced and AI of melancholy and nostalgia. Also a sense of timelessness--bygone days but not obsolescence. People gather at this site--both relatives and friends, and complete strangers-- it's a public access place--a lot of different people come here all at once. There's something large, circular, and metallic, tilted, turning, with spaces in it. There's a sense of excitement and involvement. Site seems segregated off from outside, and access is controlled but not restricted. There are open areas among the structures, and walking areas that are not

(sidewalks per se, but are for walking--hard surfaced, winding, wide. There seems to be a large variety of things occurring. A/S of some sort of people diversion. A/S Associated with the site seemed to be a black-and-white image or photograph of young children in short pants sitting on something; one has his arm around something cylindrical or projecting. WJ
