

~~SECRET~~

P: PT 91007
V: 049
D: 910123
T: 1225-1307
S: 01
M: ERV w/ 052

Summary of Information

The site consists of numerous manmade objects/features which have been incorporated into a very rugged area. The terrain spreads out into a wide, flat area on one side of the site. A majority of the objects/features blend in extremely well into the naturally rugged terrain. There is an extremely large feature which causes a change in the direction of movement or motion into a rounded square appearance. There are numerous flashes of blue. These flashes are long and thin. They are arranged in a diamond-shaped figure superimposed over a series of parallel rows of the same blue. There are numerous lines/corners which come together in impossible ways which form groupings of extreme angles. In addition, there are also numerous long, flat and slanted surfaces or slopes.

There is a dark, round object behind me which rhythmically opens and closes. There is a series of curving parallel lines coming out of this object. A loud buzzing sound is apparent.

There is a bright light shining behind a group of people walking down somewhere which feels "inside". All that is evidenced by the presence of people are the shadows created by their legs as they walk towards me. Their attitude is solemn with a strict purpose in mind. There is a man that is either bald or wears his hair well cropped. He is the "center" of this group. The group of people gather around a long and narrow object. This object looks as if it had been split down the middle and then spread out. There is a jumble of parts and items. There is a curved-surfaced object within this larger object. I do not understand the technology with which these individuals are dealing. Near them is an object which resembles a pyramid with its top cut off. Equally nearby is a series of angles which resemble directional arrows.

~~SECRET~~/NOFORN

~~SECRET~~

There is a peaked object which contains a loud humming sound. There is an interior spinning motion with an associated thrusting or pushing out of something. The sides of this peaked structure are not solid but flap or move. One edge of this peaked object is adjacent to a very rugged area.

There is a circle or ball with numerous long, thin lines emanating from it seemingly floating far above the peaked object. Whatever it is emanating is very penetrating and produces immediate nausea and a headache. It also effects ones balance.

There is a dark, bar shaped object which has two, wide ring-like features attached to the top. The rings extend vertically. There is lateral movement along one edge of this object.

Another object consists of a long, rectangular bar. There is one flat disc-like object sitting about midway. There are two additional discs which extend from below, and on either side of, the flat disc at a 45 degree upwards. Each disc appears to contain numerous concentric circles. Nearby is a foreign or alien sounding mechanical throbbing sound.

~~SECRET~~/NOFORN

~~SECRET~~

Elsewhere is a series of large, flat and almost circular objects which joint together at a common point or intersection. Their surface is a shining, yellow-amber color. They resemble a group of circles whose planes pass through one another. Above this feature is a smaller object which consists of a circle with a pointed appendage sticking out of the center. It is tilted at a 45 degree angle upwards.

There is one, long narrow structure in the open. Its width is disproportionate to its length. There are a number of white, circular objects grouped near one corner of the structure.

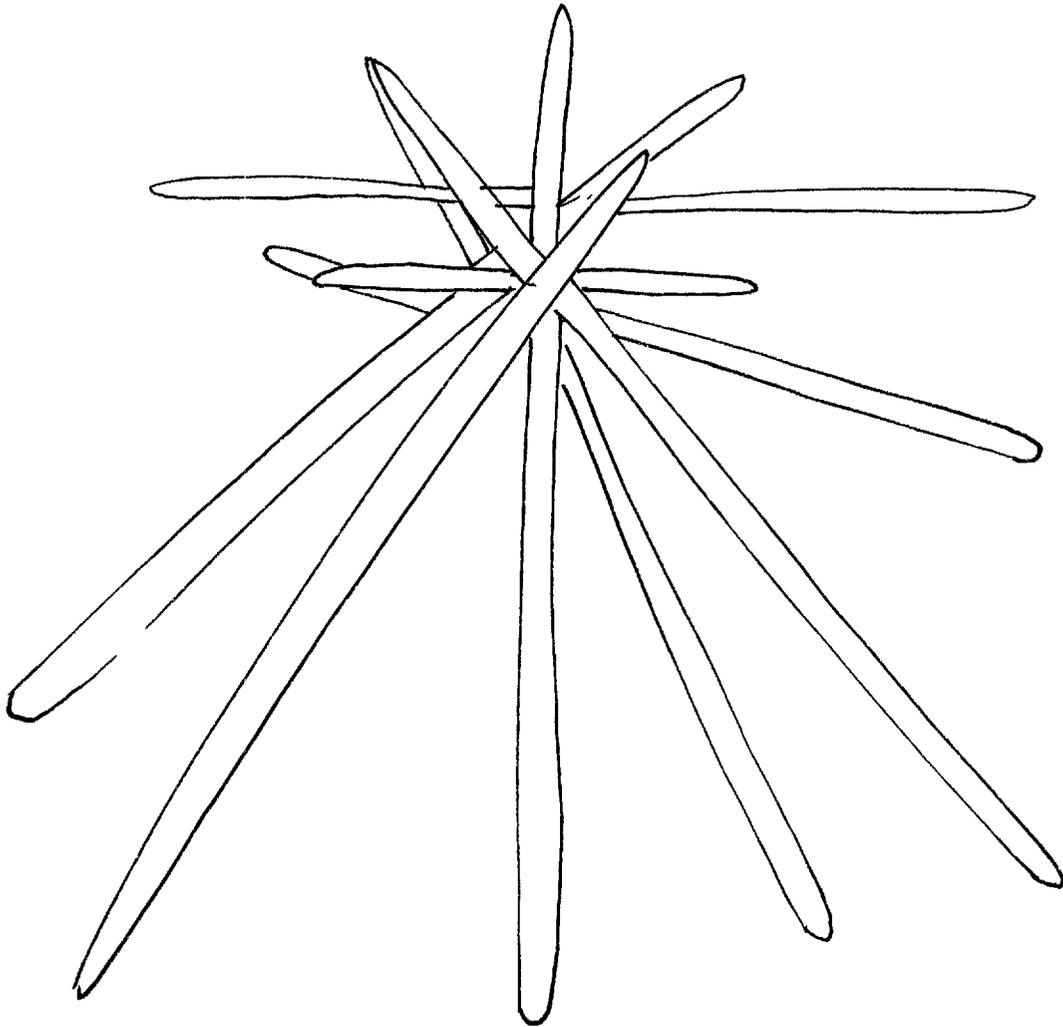

There is a very large, white circular object located at one end of the site. It moves back and forth with what appears to be a "controlled fall" in the downward direction.

Another location contains a number of objects which are jumbled, partially buried and in disarray.

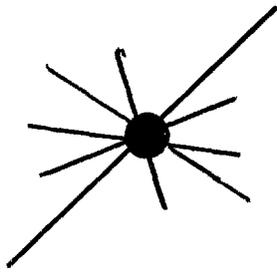

There is feeling of almost an automatic nature to this site. In other words, objects function without direct human assistance.

A squarish beam of something is passing back and forth. The beam itself is quite cool. The interior sides of the beam are reminiscent of oil on water; that is, the swirling, rainbow effect.

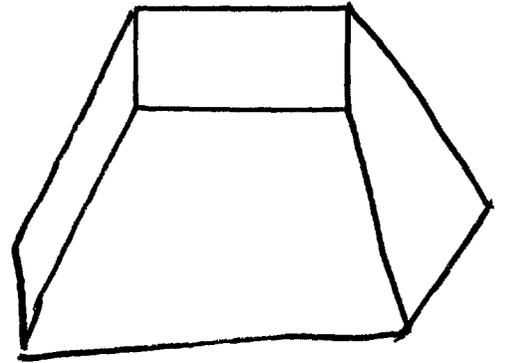

~~SECRET~~ NOFORN

a group of large, flat circular objects which joint together at a common point.
The surfaces are smooth, flat & a shiny yellow-amber color. Like a group of circles whose planes pass through one another

Object whose emanations cause nausea, headaches & loss of balance. Floats above most of site.

Top of object
w/ top cut off.

Disc-shaped object w/interior feature pointed upwards at 45°.
Sits on ground
above most of site.

Series of "arrow"
appearing, objects
near above object

Dark, circular object which opens & closes; there are a series of curving, parallel lines coming from it

P: 91007

V: 049

Site consists of:

- 1- numerous manmade objects incorporated into an area of rugged terrain.
- 2- objects 3 or more objects have emanations of some sort associated with them
- 3- emanation from one object in particular causes immediate physical maladies (nausea, headaches, balance loss)
- 4- few individuals are necessary for general on-site operations; near automatic operations.
- 5- ~~certain amount of diagnostic analysis at least on object on high technology~~
- 5- certain amount of high technological diagnostic analysis on at least one object performed here