SUMMARY

Site consists of a large square or rectangular, ^{multi-storied} structure/building with many strange/unusual angles. There is a lot of steel and glass around. There is a large lobby at the entrance of this building. Access beyond the lobby is strictly controlled by uniformed personnel. There is a counter at the left-hand side of entry to controlled area. Once beyond the control point one must go either down a well lit hallway to the left or a dark hallway to the right. On the top floor of this building is a large open area that is divided into work areas. There is a feeling like being in a library; looking, searching, researching information. There is a tall angular "tower-like" object which is very tall and is connected to the structure.

There is a feeling of electromagnetic energy connected with this object. A feeling of broadcasting, sending and receiving information. Personnel associated with this site appear to foreign - either Latin or Asian.
