4 1/2 - very tall stone and brick wall with wrought iron spikes on top. Beyond the wall is an extensive park-like estate. Like it was once a palace or hunting lodge for royalty. Beyond this wall is the destination from the bridge. Area is secured, there is air of tight security -- even though it is not quite apparent.

SUMMARY

It seemed to me that an individual, involved with the Soviet space program, was driven to a bridge that divides East and West Berlin. He got out of the vehicle and walked across the bridge, from the East zone to the West zone, in broad daylight and without fanfare. He was ^{warmly} greeted by several individuals on the other side, got in another vehicle and departed. The destination appeared to be a large estate located somewhere in West Berlin.
