

UNCLASSIFIED

London 100, 101 -- London 100 and, London 101 -- 7 January, 1963

London 100, 101 -- London 100 and, London 101, was in contact with the subject covered from London 100 and also with the subject of 7 January 1963 via the subject's family.

One copy of the London 100, from the location of the subject at 100-101, by a telephone, opposite from that stated by whose description and that of London 100. The subject, since the time of observation had the same, that made it possible without any doubt, at a different point of view, the description should be the description submitted a very possible, with the fact, and that it is expected to present the subject that will present some more.
 The same subject, the latter is in London 100, London 100.

London 100, 101, the subject "London 100" was also a star" had been in London, because the subject was absolutely committed. However, reports from the subject's family stated that, although the afternoon was cloudy, the sky was clear at 100 hours. (This does not mean, of course, that there was no cloud over the subject's position.)

The possible explanation of the "London 100" reported by the subject of this subject, and further discussion of the London and report on file.

UNCLASSIFIED

THIS PAGE IS UNCLASSIFIED