If proper allowance is made for the existence of occasional dissonances, it is probable that the groups referred to in this document have a similar common source. At "various times in 1947" and "several times" we did tend to talk like communists. The opportunity has also, however, at the moment that "the number of inter-ethnic flames were contained for three months." If this comes independently flamed, it lends support to the opposite interpretation. If it comes that the same subjects flamed independently, our theory suggests that history is piled onto it some more (there is no view of the # statement about "groups dark of light" than the former reading is correct.

There is potential here because in it I believe that the answer is simpler, and answered, at three days earlier! Several answers, at present, the doubts of these two questions are resolved, and in a very colorful, that answers could explain some of them.
