Incident 107 -- near Placerville, California -- 14 August 1967

If details of the observers' statement are accurate, it would be difficult to assign an unequivocal origin to the object seen in this incident. There are a few statements which, taken alone, strongly suggest that a meteor was observed: high rate of speed, "seemed to go in a straight line," white smoke trail, "disappeared in a puff of dark gray smoke." However, unless the description of the object (4-6 feet long and 2-3 inch square object) and the estimated altitude (less than 1000 feet) are illusory, the meteoric explanation will not hold.
