CTO and the Opposite of Mars

Venus is not the only heavenly body to circulate, if flying saucers, Jupiter and even Mercury, the smallest of the planets, have inspired their story of UFOs. Mars, which can also be very bright, has frequently been reported as a spaceship.

On June 21, 1952, the F-4 aircraft was on routine patrol over the Atomic Energy Commission installation at Oak Ridge, Tennessee, when at 10:58 P.M. a spyglass from the General Observer Corps informed the pilot that a fast-moving craft was moving in the area. At very high altitude. At about the same time the pilot observed a bluish white light, of an oblique shape and with an exhaust or tail, apparently making passes at him. For the next eighteen min-
