Gerald T. Schulz of Tucson, Arizona, U.S.A. is seen here in the Public Information Office of the now-defunct Aerial Phenomena Research Organization's headquarters in that city. Schulz is a researcher delving into the Alternative 3 idea, and was visiting the A.P.R.O. offices in 1979, when this photo was taken. He is holding a plaster cast of a Bigfoot creature and some photos of mutilated cattle. A life-size model of the "grey" humanoid type of alien is on the right.

Skeptic paralyzed in 1986 in multiple-witness Soviet UFO incident

by Thomas Mehner

The author, Thomas Mehner, of Suhl, German Democratic Republic (East Germany) is a CUFORN member with his Bachelor of Arts degree. He is trained in astronomy, physics, astronautics, computers, and archeology. He is CUFORN's Consultant in aeronautics.

A 24-year-old citizen of East Germany had a sighting of an interesting phenomenon when he was visiting friends in Gerassimov, near Moscow in mid-October, 1986. He does not want his name mentioned. (We will call him Hans-Editor) He is an electronics engineer and was accompanied by a secretary and an interpreter at the time, 11 p.m.

The sky was completely clear that night. Gerassimov is a village in a largely wooded area with the only military or government sites being several asphalt storage squares used as storage places by the Forestry Department. The region is directly under a flight path of an international airport.

At the time of the observation, the three observers were on the roof of the friend's house. (Editor's note: We were not told why they were on the roof). No lights could be seen from the village. Hans and the others saw a white shining object quickly rising on the horizon. It seemed to be a strongly demarcated light cone with a narrow opening angle in the direction of the ground. (See the drawings on the next page). When it had reached a height of about ten degrees above the horizon, the object began to move toward them and seemed to be about five kilometres away.

The witnesses said it was disk-shaped with a diameter of around 100 metres. As it moved toward them, its lower surface became visible. The entire lower surface was lit up. The cone had a sharp, luminous dark border. Even though the light cone shone toward them, they could see no shadows cast on the trees below.

Suddenly the object dissolved into a deep blue, sharply bordered circular cloud with a halo around it. At the same time, the light cone was extinguished. The cloud and the circle faded from view in ten minutes. The appearance of the cloud and its size did not change during the duration of the observation.

Hans reported a side-effect. He said he suffered paralysis of his neck and his right shoulder which was turned toward the object. The paralysis lasted a few days. So this case can be evaluated as a CE2 with effects on an observer.

Before the event, Hans was a rigorous adversary of all UFO reports. He now has excluded any known terrestrial flying body as a cause of the phenomenon. He emphasized that there were no military aircraft aloft in the area at the time. He was not able to say whether the object could have landed in one of the Forestry Department storage areas. These would not likely be accessible to him as they were government property and could not be examined for landing traces.

The preceding article is an excerpt from a larger one sent in by Thomas Mehner, entitled "The Phenomenon of Unidentified Flying Objects in the German Democratic Republic (GDR) The complete article was too large for reproduction in the Bulletin."

Goodman and Cameron hold lively discussion about Robert Lazar & S4

by Tom Mickus and Grant Cameron

KVEG Radio in Las Vegas recently dismissed Billy Goodman as the host of its nightly 3-hour phone-in show, not long after it aired interviews with Robert Lazar. We present here a telephone interview between CUFORN's Manitoba member Grant Cameron and Goodman. It was on the UFORNET computer network bulletin board on January 8, 1990. The interview took place in late December, 1989.

Cameron: "I wanted to quickly ask you about this Mr. Lazar. You've had this guy on your show a number of times?"

Goodman: "I certainly have, Yes."

Cameron: "What's your gut feeling on this guy?"

Goodman: "My gut feeling?"

Cameron: "Yes."

Goodman: "He's telling the truth."

Cameron: "Is that right?"

Goodman: "Oh, yes. I probably shouldn't say that word - telling the truth. As far as I'm concerned, what he has said, and he has been on my show twice, and I've talked about it wide open and nobody has disputed it. It's been all over the west coast. My show goes into ten states. If people had any desire to dispute it they could have. No one has. Other people have confirmed it. Some people say, 'Yes, they know about it'. They are saying it very nonchalant."

Cameron: "You have other people who worked there?"

Goodman: "They are very nonchalant saying they know there is activity there."

Cameron: "Some of your tapes are circulating around, and a lot of researchers are now working on this case."

Goodman: "Terrific. Let them circulate and let them contact me personally and we can go from there, but you've called me when I'm in the middle of about nine different things. I'm producing a special. You talk about a tape that is going to circulate. I'll probably have the best show of the entire year coming up New Year's Eve. I'm going to have the Best of Bob Lazar, the Best of Bill Cooper, and the Best of Virgil Armstrong. This is going to be a tape the world is going to want. All of their inside information.

Cameron: "Is there any way I can get a copy of this tape?"

Goodman: "I can give you a number. It's area code 702-564-4404. I call the man Rodger the Dodger, but his name is Roger. And he tapes every one of my Happenings going all the way back to August. He can run down who we have had on, basically what was discussed, what really outstanding information was revealed. He has it all down pretty good - more so than I have. So you are a UFO researcher?"

Cameron: "We're dealing in a paper that deals with a very high ranking Navy person that we are going to expose. It will be published in 30 to 60 days."

(Editor's Note-The paper was privately photocopied for a few researchers and was never published).

Goodman: "Why are you going to expose him?"

Cameron: "He's former President of Penn

State."

Goodman: "But why do you want to expose him?"

Cameron: "We want to prove there is something to this."

Goodman: "Great. Oh, there's something to it, my friend. What are you talking about? We had over 200 people up in the middle of the desert that saw it."

Cameron: "You were at the test? You were on the Special?"

Goodman: "That's where I was."

Cameron: "On the KLAS Special?"

Goodman: "That was me. You can imagine what we were doing up there. We had over 200 people. You saw the busload of people. We are talking about a lot of listeners that don't imagine things. I'm talking about doctors and lawyers. We had policemen there too. There's no fabrication here. Everybody saw it."

Cameron: "Have you done any pressing to get any statements from anybody? From Groom Lake or Nellis?"

Goodman: "I've had them on the show. They're on tape with what they saw. I've had callers, policemen, say "I can't say any more but I was there and I saw it." It's all over the tapes. As far as written form, no. I don't do that kind of thing."

Cameron: "I was meaning the officials. They must be denying this."

Goodman: "Well, of course, they're denying it. Well, there's no denying it. No one's denying a thing. What are you talking about? There has not been one denial. We had Senator Bryant on here - the Senator of Nevada. He didn't deny it. He says he can't talk about it. That's what their answer is. The Undersecretary of Defence said it's too Top Secret to even discuss what's going on up there. You're talking about an area where everything goes on. Anything goes on there. Have you got my office number?(Gives it) if you want to do an interview - some inside information or something. It's all happening here - there's no question about it. I guess you're getting the tapes. This

New Year's Eve thing will be phenomenal."

"Lazar has been on at least two times. Maybe once more where he called in. He describes the UFO. He describes touching them. He describes how many there are. What they look like inside. How they're made. How they get here. I mean it's phenomenal. You call the office and we'll do an interview and put the whole thing in perspective."

For the essence of what nuclear physicist and electronics engineer Robert Lazar knows about the UFOs he worked on for the U.S. Navy at Area S-4 in Nevada, see Bulletin No. 11, No. 1, January-February, 1990. A full reprint will cost new readers and non-subscribers who missed the issue only $3.70 including postage. Checks or money orders should be made out to "Lawrence J. CUFORN gets cover

by Lawrence J. Fenwick

Here are some of the details of our cover photo in our Vol.10, No.6, November-December, 1989 issue.

The photo was originally in colour. It was taken by Eduard "Billy" Meier, on the parking lot of the Semjase-Silver-Star Center in Hinterschmidrut Switzerland. He used an Olympus-35 ECR camera. The picture was taken on October 22, 1980, at 11.23 a.m.

CUFORN's Editor has a print of the photo. On it, you can see the autumn colours appearing on a tree in the background. We got the details from Philia Gabriel of the Center in a letter dated April 28, 1990.

For more on the Meier photographs, see the letter in the Letters to the Editor section in this Bulletin.

Letters to the Editor

...FROM SWITZERLAND- THE MEIER PHOTOS AND MODEL UFOS

We never had any UFO models in our garage. There exist just two models, which are connected with Billy(Meier). They were made by students of a synthetic material for Young Film and Genesis III. When they shot the film at the Center, they brought the models from America for scientific tests. The examinations showed that Billy's UFO pictures couldn't have been falsified.

After the tests, the models weren't annihilated, but were kept as souvenirs, one for Genesis III and the other one for Billy. It is still on the shelf in his office. Each model cost $400.00. Billy himself never made and never had any models.

The only exception was that Semjase one time brought a metallic model made to a scale of 1:10, modeled exactly like the original one she commanded. This model was especially for taking photos to show the difference between real and false pictures. Unfortunately, all these pictures were thrown into a waste-basket by Billy, in error, and were thrown into the fire. Somebody found the half-burnt photographs and sent copies all over the world, with the lie that Billy made models for taking pictures and that these are his so-called real UFO photos.

That is the story of the models. The lies were used by incorrect and envious people. Included amongst them are Kal Korff, William L. Moore and Colman von Kevitzky, who work with these lies against the truth. As you have written, not one of those people who tell lies about Billy was ever here in the Center. They didn't even call or write. In no way have we ever had the chance to make their acquaintance.

Concerning Dr. Marcel Vogel (who examined the sample UFO metal given by Semjase to Billy who gave them to Genesis III and then were given to Vogel), Billy doesn't know him personally, but is impressed with him.

We would like to help you and send you other photographs for your publication. With personal regards from Billy,

...FROM AN ABDUCTEE WITH AN IMPLANT, CONCERNING ROBERT LAZAR

I have some comments about the Lazar interview (Vol.11, No.1, January-February, 1990 Bulletin) which may be useful to you.

When my phone was tapped in Miami, I simply announced through the receiver that I was (and still am) willing to give our government all the information I have about the visitors and that it wouldn't do them a bit of good. They are impotent in this field because the visitors call all the shots regarding where, when, and with whom they interact.

Since, in our culture, the military is supposed to be the end-all when it comes to power and control, it would not be in their best interest to reveal such a weak hand. Several times I've caught them trying to plant a line of thought which would conceal their helplessness concerning UFOs. After writing a few letters which poked holes in these stories, these leaks subsided. They insulted our intelligence with theirs.

Now they give us this more complicated scenario which intersects well with a preponderance of technological information reported by a large cross section of people who have interacted with the visitors. The information Lazar has imparted rings true, but the story is just too humanly self-serving.

The Lazar interview is very interesting and just the sort of information we crave. Once again, we are being given what we want. I feel that a clue is found with the doctor who hypnotized Lazar. Keck stated that he was convinced that someone did mess with Lazar's head, possibly using mind control techniques and chemicals. Thus Lazar could easily be a pawn in the military's disinformation game.

I base this perspective not on what I know about Lazar's information or credibility, but on the consistent behaviors I've observed on the part of the visitors over many years. If the visitors made mistakes which allowed their craft to be seized, and if our having these craft endangered visitor functioning on earth, they'd simply take them back. Using the same infiltrating techniques they used to visit me within sight of the shuttle launch pad at Cape Canaveral, which has more microwave surveillance than you'd need to cook the whole world a big dinner, the visitors could easily access a hangar in the middle of a desert. If a technician who did not have high security clearance can accidentally wander into an off-limits area, then the visitors can trip up whatever security measures are in place.

In other words, Lazar's information is likely a deliberate leak and, unfortunately for Lazar, he's been put through hell to make it convincing. I would contend that the whole project is a theatrical display designed to make our military look important and in control.

If the visitors gave our military those craft, then it would have been to dissuade us from military aggression and for the same reasons I am willing to tell the military everything I know: because they can't do a thing with it. We would realize that their technology is so advanced of ours that they could give us their own gun to shoot them with, and we wouldn't know where the trigger is to do it.

If the visitors are in collaboration with our government/military, then they aren't as smart or wise as their technology and actions suggest. Judging by visitor behaviors, which have been absolutely consistent in its perplexing detail, they would have to be in absolute control of the situation. Thus what the military might really be saying is that they are being held hostage by the visitors in order to have these vehicles in the first place.

You see, if we only look at the human side of Lazar's story, it jibes, it makes sense. What little knowledge I possess of physics allows Lazar's information to make sense or, at least, be exceedingly intriguing. The force fields I've touched while with the visitors felt like magnets repelling each other. But all that James Bond secrecy, the death threats, is gratifying as hell to us. It makes us feel old terra firma beneath our feet, when, actually, we're quite at sea. It's appropriate that the Navy should have given it a go.

I am poking holes in the Lazar information not out of malice, or some need to protect a theory I might have, but rather to promote some observational skills. I'd just as soon he be correct and be done with it. I'd love it if the military really got smart and wise, and came up with a really good story to get themselves off the hook. It could heal a lot of wounds and misgivings in this country if they'd just say "We don't know." But no, they have to protect their primitive problem-solving methods: Violence.

In a sense, Lazar states they don't know when he calls the propulsion system "magic". And the rest of us are playing into military hands by focussing on how to get our hands on those saucers. It's another smoke screen hiding the fact that the visitors are in our bedrooms, and anywhere else they'd like to be, in the middle of the night or in broad daylight. They hide in the plain sight of our own inability to look outside ourselves. We desperately want something we can understand, when the whole point is that we do not. How can we learn anything if not first through that realization.

We are dealing with a species which knows a great deal about us and, at least in some ways, are probably a lot more intelligent. If they were more like us, they would have destroyed us long ago. They obviously have different priorities. The key to those priorities lies in what they do consistently. What Lazar has said is inconsistent with a vast compilation of visitor behaviors. It's just us again.

LETTER CONCLUDED ON PAGE 9

LETTER CONCLUDED FROM PAGE 8

All the best,
Estrella Berosini,

Barton, VT 05822,

...MORE COMMENT ON LAZAR

Congratulations again! All CUFORN Bulletins have been superlative, but especially so is your January-February issue of 1990, as the article re Robert Lazar and his opinions warrants considerable credibility exceeding that of disinformation promulgated by the U.S. government. His disclosures as to modus operandi probable for UFOs are logical and agree with my long-held theories. Wisely left out are pertinent religious aspects, largely obnoxious to the umpteen sects with ingrained prejudices highly resistant to change.

Sincerely yours,

Lloyd L. Arnold,
Consulting Engineer,

... PROFESSOR/MEMBER TO GIVE UFO COURSE AT UNIVERSITY OF NORTH DAKOTA IN FALL, 1990

My Fall, 1990 UFO course ('UFOs, ETs, & Close Encounters') appears to have already made a little history at UND: Its enrollment has exceeded 100 -- an apparent record for a non-required/requirement-meeting sort of course. (It's an elective, with three solid semester hours of quite respectable credit).

The initial enrollment period is now completed--but there will be some more. (In fact, there'll be more than I felt there would be only a few days ago when I sent out my letter of 4/28/90 to "friends and interested persons." Then I predicted "at least 120." It may very well go far above that, based on things we've been hearing.) UND staff can now sign up (since initial student registration is over) and there will be one more substantial registration period August 28th through September 11th which will draw in many more students. Yesterday I set a limit of 200 total (but don't really expect it to reach that. But, quien sabe?)

In this basic registration period, 101 have enrolled. There are 67 males and 34 females. Freshmen: 22; Sophomores: 37; Juniors: 28; Seniors: 14. (Editor's Note: Professor Salter lists those who have enrolled in terms of their Major and the number of students from each course. A total of 44 courses are represented).

Trauma journal launched

by Lawrence J. Fenwick

Dr. David Gotlib, a psychotherapist and M.D. in Toronto, is now producing a monthly newsletter on anomalous trauma resulting from UFO abductions. He is CUFORN's specialist in regressive hypnosis who has worked with CUFORN on several reported abductions.

According to an article in the Feb., 1990 Anti-Matter section of Omni magazine, the newsletter "will conduct ongoing dialogues and present professionals with a regular forum for discussion," in Dr. Gotlib's words.

Excerpt from "Account of the Salter UFO Encounter of March, 1988: The Background, Development and Ramifications"

BY JOHN R. SALTER, JR.

EDITOR'S PREFACE: John R. Salter, Jr., M.A., Sociology, is a CUFORN member and MUFON State Director for North Dakota; Professor and Chairman of the Indian Studies Department of the University of North Dakota. He is president of the UND Chapter of North Dakota Higher Education Association and also Chairman of the university's Honors Program Committee. He is now writing a biography of Maurice Travis, a former leader of the labor union he formerly belonged to, the Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers. Salter is the author of Jackson, Mississippi: An American Chronicle of Struggle & Schism, (Melbourne, Florida: Robert E. Krieger Publishing Company, 1987). He is a former lecturer in sociology, Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Salter spent four years as a community organizer on the South/Southwest Side of Chicago and was attached for almost four years as a professor in the Graduate Program in Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Iowa in Iowa City. He and his wife Eldri have two children, Maria, and John III, 24, who now lives in California. Salter is 55. He was a key organizer in the Southern Civil Rights Movement. He received the UND Award for Student Advising in 1988. As a native American Indian, he was honored by American Indian students in 1988. He was seriously injured in a rigged automobile accident in Jackson, Mississippi on June 1963. He received three awards in 1989 for his social justice work: one, presented by the Commanding General at Grand Forks Air Force Base; another from the State Superintendent of Public Instruction; and the 1989 Award from the North Dakota Martin Luther King, Jr. Commission, presented to him by Governor George Sinner.

Salter and his son John were abducted by humanoid creatures just north of Richland Center, Wisconsin at 6:25 p.m. on March 20, 1988. He had earlier encounters in the summer of 1941 in the Smoky Hill River area of Kansas, at the age of eight; one night in August, 1952, near Flagstaff, Arizona on Woody Mountain, where he was a U.S. Forest Service fire lookout at the age of 18; in late May, 1957, near Mayer, Arizona, at night, at age 23 (the same age as his son was in the 1988 abduction).

He and his son have recalled much of their 1988 experience gradually, through a series of dreams. It seems that there was a 1½ hour time loss involved.

Here is part of a 21-page "Account of the Salter UFO Encounter of March, 1988: The Background, Development, and Ramifications", by John R. Salter, Jr., Copyright 1989 by John R. Salter, Jr., Revised and Expanded, December, 1989. CUFORN is very appreciative of Professor Salter's kindness in sending it to us.

"Then we are standing--John III and I--not far from the passenger side of the pickup which is parked on the level stretch of the Pier Spring Road, under some trees. It is almost dark. Completely at ease, I can see two or three small humanoid figures climbing up on the back bumper, looking at our gear in the back of the truck. Up closer, they are four to four and one-half feet tall, thin bodies and thin limbs--but comparatively large heads and conspicuously large, quasi-slanted eyes. There are several of these small people--perhaps six or seven--and a taller humanoid figure, almost as tall as I (six feet) and not as proportionately thin as the others."

"His features are more, as we would use the term, "human," -- and he may well be a mixed-blood. Whatever clothing type they're wearing, it's tightly fitting and, to us at this point in recall, non-descript. Our communication with them is more than thought-impressionistic; it's telepathically specific."

"John III sits down. Three of the small humanoids gather around, viewing him with as much fascination as he does them. Everyone is very pleasant. The tall humanoid is attached to us in a special fashion and is obviously our key liaison. Now we are walking through the darkening woods, up a ravine and over a small ridge, to the UFO which is in a rather secluded clearing, some distance from the pickup. I stumble and fall backward but am immediately cushioned by a (telekinetic?) force. Very, very gently, several of the humanoids reach for me and pull me to my feet."

"Throughout this entire, still continuing recall process of mine is the clear, persistent definite sense of a brightly lighted room--a kind of white light--and a deep, blue glowing panel. An implant is placed very carefully up into my right nostril and well beyond. There is a strong sense that the last time this happened to me was a long time ago, when I was John III's age, in 1957. There is now an injection into my neck, at the thyroid area; and then an injection into my upper, central chest(thymus gland). John III's face is scanned very thoroughly with a "flashlight" type instrument whose head is so soft that it melds into the contours of his face; special attention is given to his chin and jaw area. Then we are out in the open again." The text continues later with:

"Our tall humanoid friend walks with me back through the woods to the pickup. He is carrying some sort of light, obviously for our benefit."

END OF EXCERPT FROM ARTICLE

Jan.9, 1990: "This is with respect to important recall from the 3/20/88 UFO interception in Wisconsin. This recall came by vivid dream (including words) in the early morning hours of December 28, 1989; then receded temporarily into unconsciousness; and then surfaced early that same afternoon into full consciousness, at which point I immediately recalled its initial appearance in the early morning. It arose in the afternoon while I was talking with John III (home for the holidays) and Eldri at our home. In following this pattern--arising in the early morning hours, receding temporarily, and resurfacing permanently in the afternoon of the same day--this recall took the same trail to recovery taken by virtually all of my recall from the 3/20/88 encounter. I immediately told all of this to John III and Eldri and then, as is my customary practice, made thorough notes. Later I indicated this to my colleagues Kevin Henke (Grand Forks) and Betty Hill (Portsmouth, NH), to Larry Fenwick of CUFORN(Canadian), and to Dr. Leo Sprinkle (Laramie, Wyoming)."

"I will indicate this to others on a highly selective basis."

"In this recall, the tall humanoid is giving an informal lecture. True to form, his words are coming into me in a telepathically specific sense. He is telling me that in his system--what we humans call Zeta Reticuli (the double star system), there are far-flung planets. Intelligent (humanoid) life was initially based on one planet. Then, a long, long time ago, a migration began which carried these humanoid people from planet to planet, in a stepping-stone sense."

"One by one, the other planets in the ZR system were visited; many were settled but some were not suitable for settlement. This migration in its own right took a very long period of time indeed. Now, however, the humanoid setting in ZR is all one collective society--one social system--interplanetary in nature. The (full-blooded) humanoids are all of one racial stock but the physical variants (height, weight, eye structure, precise skin color, etc.) can be attributed to such factors as heat, light, and oxygen differences vis-a-vis widely separated planets."

"These planets--their planets--are closer together than those of our solar system. During the latter part of this discussion, there was, vividly imposed into my mind in a telepathic fashion, the Aleutian Island chain: a long string of islands in a quasi-circle. It was as though I were looking down at the Aleutian chain spreading forth and outward. (I have never been in Alaska and I don't think I've ever even seen the Aleutian Chain depicted on television. I've never even particularly interested in the Chain. This "shot" was from a fair ways up, so to speak. The islands were small but a number of them were quite visible. I'm certain the tall humanoid then identified this as the Aleutian Island Chain-- with specific usage of such as an analogy in his depiction of the string(s) of planets in the double star system of what we call Zeta Reticuli. He has certainly seen the Aleutians from above!"

"I drew, during this informal lecture, a sense of the considerable courage shown by these people as they underwent these migrations of so long ago: from one planetary frontier to the next."

"In this contemporary period, it is not unusual for humanoid crews to include people exemplifying the variants in this humanoid race."

"Of course, it is my strong feeling that the tall humanoid himself is a mixed-blood: a half-human."

Thank you for your letter welcoming me to CUFORN, but I think you are going to be more of a help to me than I am to CUFORN, but you never know, I may have an experience that would be of interest to you--who knows? --else why have I been so interested in UFOs for so long? I believe nothing is without a reason, and nothing happens without a reason.

Although I don't understand it, I'm fascinated with the description of the anti-matter reactor--no buttons to push and no moving parts --fascinating to say the least!

From your Bulletin it looks like I'm going to get some up-to-date UFO information - I'm getting tired of hearing over and over again all the old well-known escapades.

...FROM FLYING SAUCER REVIEW, MARCH, 1980

Dear Sir, — One of the main arguments claiming the "ETs" indifference or even malevolence towards humans (ref. Budd Hopkins' article "What They Are Doing To Us", in FSR 33/2) lies in the question: "Why — given their super-technology — aren't they saving us from the infernal mess we've produced on our planet?"

No doubt this thought of "evolved super-beings coming from Space to establish some order in the chaos we've created" is most attractive.

However, the Cosmos — so far as we can deduce from daily life — does not function in that way. Two of the cardinal Cosmic Laws are the Law of Free Will and its derivative, the Law of Responsibility. Persons (i.e. individual souls) as well as whole planetary cultures are free to establish and lead their own life-styles according to their free choice, the price (or bonus) being that they are to assume responsibility for the respective results of that choice. There seems to be no way of avoiding this bilateral Cosmic Law.

Thus, the Cosmos hardly ever allows a situation where people, organizations, nations, or cultures, (or entire planets, for that matter) can profligately and irresponsibly break the Laws of Creation and still conveniently "get away with it". Sooner or later the price of corruption, evil, and moral deterioration must be paid, and often painfully.

Therefore, it seems that peoples' expectations that the "ETs" should save us from paying this inevitable price spring from a somewhat childish, embryonic primitive — even pagan — mentality. A mentality based on the notion that the negative feedback for moral degradation can be avoided because eventually a sort of saviour will appear who will absorb the blow and take the suffering instead, with the result that one can hope to get away from one's misdeeds — be it on the global or on the personal scale.

Well — life doesn't seem to work that way at all. Such an "arrangement" would be too convenient, too easy, and too useless. If people (i.e. souls) do not learn what is to be learned from the negative results of their misdeeds so as to avoid further Evil in future, then what moral and educational purpose is there in human suffering?

Therefore: the key concept in this issue is RESPONSIBILITY. In this context, our longing for the "ETs" to save us proves, in fact, the total denial of our own responsibility for the criminal way in which our planet is run.

Moreover our own World Leaders — Heads of States and heads of giant economic and financial organizations, who control the world's wealth and the lives of billions of people — are totally indifferent to human suffering, or else they would have run the world on a totally different basis from that of personal material gain.

So, on what moral ground can we expect salvation from the "ETs"?

And yet as a matter of fact the "ETs" did and do offer us non-stop assistance! Through their innumerable messages to individuals and groups during the last decades they have bestowed on us a tremendous amount of information as to the lethal way in which we run our planet; as to our poor spiritual and moral standards which need so much to be improved; as to the criminal handling of our ecology, etc., etc. And what have we done with all this information? Nothing at all!

To say that these truths are merely cultural platitudes does not shatter their tragic validity as facts. Classifying these messages as "banalities" does not absolve us from coping with them. Because our reality is composed of these "banalities".

Instead of studying open-mindedly and beneficially all this ocean of knowledge and information that they have delivered to us, we developed a tiresome mass of so-called "reliable tools" for "examining" the "phenomena". We have developed and set up "UFO research centres" which prefer so-called "HARD DATA" (meaning physical and tangible "proof"), we arrange symposiums, conferences, where people read learned papers. We publish books, and innumerable bulletins. We maintain Research Groups, Metallurgic Test Labs, photographic detectors, etc., etc. All this we do, while avoiding the one central issue: what does OUR responsibility for

for the diabolic mess in which our planet is? And how are we going to start coping with this responsibility?

It seems that we had better take a good, deep, and painful look inside ourselves before we have the moral right even to expect the "ETs" to play the role of Saviours for us.

Yours sincerely,
