INFORMATION IN THIS JOURNAL IS FROM RELIABLE SOURCES.

INTRODUCTION
Cosmology is the science of the Universe as a whole; a treatise on the structure and parts of the system of creation. Our title COSMOLOGY NEWSLINK, was formulated from the need to fit together inter-related subjects and data which may or may not have bearings on each other and perhaps leading to the answers or conclusions of some of them-if not all of earth's mysteries in which case this magazine has accomplished its purpose. Most of our title was suggested by Mr. Patrick Dineen, of Co. Kerry, Ireland. We added the LINK.

This issue of CNK has appeared very fast behind number 14 due to the terrific influx of sightings and other information. Even our very own astronomer Patrick Moore of BBC television has got himself involved in the unidentified flying object subject in a BBC TV programme when this went to press. (May be see next issue). THIS ISSUE was thoroughly researched. The material presented here is first class information. We would like to give a special thanks to a lady who is only known as ANNE, who has translated our French language Phenomenes Spatiaux for us. (In the next issue). Anne comes from France. Thank You Anne.

We wish to thank also some well known personalities of television and films, for taking a look at CNK and giving us their unbiased scientific opinion, which makes a magazine as small as ours more credible, more scientific in our approach to many fields of investigation. We don't mind if some of you out there have NEGATIVE thoughts on these subjects-that is a healthy attitude to take too, because to be a total believer in all which is read, is to become gullible. Don't fall into that trap! Non-believers usually research just as hard, if not harder to get at the facts, and when they find them...well you know the rest!

Some disbelievers I am reading and hearing, are saying that the photograph of the opening at the North Pole (page 12) is a fake! If they doubt it's credibility, they should have a word with Ray Palmer and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in the U.S.A. IN FACT, a photographer in Kent has told us he saw yet ANOTHER published photo, in some Daily Newspaper sometime this year. (HAS ANYONE ELSE SEEN THIS?) Therefore, despite what the skeptics say about the Hollow Earth mystery, THE HOLE AT THE POLE IS STILL THERE, and I'm sorry to say, despite the personal opinions of some meteorologists and what they think...IT WON'T GO AWAY!! (See letter page).

THOSE UFO SIGHTINGS keep occurring in Wales, even as this was typed they kept coming in. (See sightings page). 1977 is a big year for a UFO flap, the spate of UFOs with beings seems very prominent at the moment. Due to the flood of these sightings pouring into CNK from everywhere, I have had to produce TWO SUMMER editions to keep up with the news and to get it on record here.. and FAST! This is the first time in our history this has occurred. NEWS SNIPS: WE ARE STILL aiming to produce an encyclopedia of the UFO/and related phenomena. We still need more orders before we can commence. 2 volumes at £5 @ 200 pages. Issue 16 is to be all UFO.

1977 THE BIGGEST UFO FLAP TO DATE..Sightings!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

SILVER SUITED BEING SEEN IN WOODS BY HOUSEWIFE & SON!!!
SILVER SUITED BEING 7ft TALL SEEN HOVERING ABOVE HOUSE!!

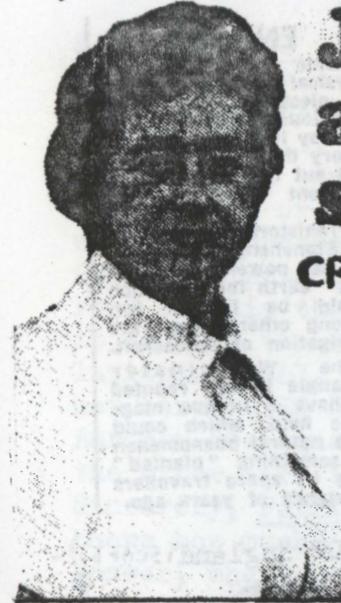

TWO Sightings of a silver-suited being have been reported to police within the space of a few days in the districts of Wales. This is on top of sighting in this area, of sightings and experiences of Joyce Bowles sometime ago and reported in various media and CNK issue 14.

The latest spate of silver-suited beings runs like this:-
*note: Whether these beings are one and the same remains yet to be proved.

24th April 1977: From Mr. A. Roberts, who once again had his car to the radio, came the news of a 7 foot being which was seen walking through a wood, towards a boy, who started to back away in fright. Later this same report was broadcast on the National News of London Independent Television, which is usually to ufologists amazing, to say the least. The boy, who described the space visitor as 7 feet tall walked towards him. He backed away. His mother, we believe, was apparently observing this through her window of her house, couldn't believe her eyes at first and continued watching her TV at first sight. But the being, wearing a silver type of garment or space suit, stayed there. The woman looked again and she described him as having a square head, with a black face. We think this could be the headgear perhaps. The being came to the window, it appears, and at this point the woman dialled for the police. It was at this point, it disappeared, she said. CNK has no further information from any source on this incident.

THE SECOND sighting was TODAY as this was being typed. This was brought to CNK by Mr. Milton, who heard it on the radio: WEDNESDAY 4th May: RADIO LONDON reported a sighting of a silver suited being seen hovering for 40 minutes in the air above a house in Milford Haven, West Wales. It was reported several times on the news on this local radio station. The being was reported to be actually hovering without any craft as if on silent jets. Once again as this is being typed, we have had no further news. Mr. Milton is annoyed, and so are we here at CNK, that this sort of news is NOT made headlines on TV but takes bottom place, or is not mentioned at all. If anyone else has a similar complaint like this we would like to hear it. Also any more news on this report.

JOYCE BOWLES: "He took my hand" in front of his shoulders, like a woman's.

"I could see what looked like buckles on the bottom of his legs. And he was wearing something like gaiters. His touch was warm—like a human being's.

"Once he had told me what he had to say—and I can't repeat what it was—he turned round and walked back to the thing.

"We watched it rise into the air and slip away into the sky, humming with a high-pitched scream.

"Ann and I had been on our way to visit friends. But we went straight back to my home in Winchester.

"I've had a bad chest ever since. My hands swelled up too and I had to take off my wedding ring. All around my wedding ring is raw."

Joyce daren't tell anyone what the spaceman said

SUDDENLY, Joyce Bowles's car stopped. Even though there was nothing wrong with it. She and her friend Ann Stickland were puzzled.

Then, there in the heart of the lonely countryside, something happened that bewildered them even more. "Across the road was what looked like a white sun, a very bright glare," Mrs Bowles told me.

"We both got out of the car and then we saw this UFO. It was oval, glowing luminously and making a humming sound. A man got out and walked towards me, holding out his hands. He came right up to me and took my hand.

"He eyed Ann up and down. She was terrified. So was I, but I didn't show it. The man started to speak in a foreign language. Then he switched to broken English. I said yes, but I wasn't sure what he'd said.

"Then he did say something to me which I understood. But I can't tell anyone what it was. I wouldn't dare.

"The man looked similar to spacemen I'd seen in that area before, though his hair was rather longer. It fell

It happened on March 7 and was the third time in three months that she had seen a space visitor.

Shocked

Her companion, 63-year-old Mrs Stickland, said: "I didn't hear what the man said to Joyce and she refuses point blank to tell me, because of a promise she made to him.

"My mind went blank. I was so surprised and shocked to see him there. And frightened.

"I've never had such an experience before. At my age, I'm a bit too old to have shocks like that."

Mrs Bowles, 42, claims to have met her first spaceman last November while in her car with a family friend, Ted Pratt.

Again it was on a lonely road near Winchester. And again her car stopped suddenly—reports of UFOs from all parts of the world say cars are affected.

This time, said Mrs Bowles, a man in a silver outfit approached her car, touched it and then returned to a "curious" craft in a field.

Other people reported seeing a UFO in the same area that evening.

The second incident happened when Joyce Bowles was with Ted Pratt, again on the outskirts of Winchester.

"Ted and I had gone to get some petrol," she said. "when we heard this shrill whistling noise.

"The car began to rock and suddenly we were both inside this machine.

"One of the spacemen standing a few feet from me was the same man I saw the first time. Lights were blinking and flashing everywhere in the machine.

Circle

"The man told us this was 'his field,' whatever that meant.

"Another spaceman pulled out a paper which had all sorts of lines on it. In the middle was a circle with rings around it.

"The men all had high jackboots with pointed toes. The boots, like their silvery suits, were luminous.

"In the middle of their belts was something like a glittering stone and the man next to me kept pressing his stone, or touching it.

"Ted believed it was something to do with receiving messages.

"It all ended suddenly. We just seemed to come to, and were back in our car, stationary. By a river, completely lost.

"A powerful beam of light filled the car and then gradually seemed to shrink into the sky."

Does the famous Triangle have a strange power?

THE now-famous Warminster Triangle has experienced an average of two UFO sightings a week in the past 12 years.

That's why enthusiasts flock there from all over the world.

But why does this area between Warminster, Winchester and Glastonbury seem singled out as a "base" for inter-planetary exercises?

Some ufologists associate the sightings with mystic and even spiritual forces.

MYSTERY

The Holy Grail—the cup from which Jesus is reputed to have drunk at the Last Supper—is said to have been buried on Glastonbury Tor by Joseph of Arimathea when he came to England in AD60.

For this reason, many space-watchers believe that what they see in the sky is connected with the Second Coming.

There are also the mysterious leys—a network of straight lines marked by monuments, graves, burial barrows, stone crosses and other ancient holy places or items.

Warminster lies at the crossroads of 12 leys, which is unique in Britain if not the world.

Many people believe the leys have a strange power.

ENERGY

Some experience a physical sensation, like an electric shock, when they touch ancient stones.

They link this with the theory that the leys were laid out to "exploit" the inherent energy of the earth.

Prehistoric centres such as Stonehenge were said to be powerhouses for this "earth force" which could be tapped for, among other things, the navigation of spacecraft.

The Warminster Triangle is also reputed to have a unique magnetic field, which could be a natural phenomenon or something "planted" here by space travellers thousands of years ago.

From Edward O'Hare (CNK) with his eye on UFOs

Martians landed?

I THINK I encountered the Martians recently. I was walking to Staple Tye when I was suddenly felled into the dirt face down. While I was gingerly turning over two spiky haired male Martians passed by without saying a word. Picking myself up one rushed back to where I had fallen, studied the area and on finding something rushed back to his friend. Has anyone else seen them, as I have read UFOs are in the area.—L. READERS LETTERS Where you can have your say. CNK threw out a challenge to astronomer Patrick Moore, who is biased against the unknown, but appears to listen with open ear at least to it, on the Aurora Borealis phenomenon at the poles. We did it in connection with our study into the Hollow Earth central sun or the Smoky God (as they prefer to call it elsewhere) which is supposed to be the actual CAUSE of the auroae there. CNK anticipated his reply, considering that he may not have even read of this theory, or hasn't put his mind to wondering WHY it is that the Aurora ONLY occurs to great extremes in those latitudes ONLY, and nowhere else on earth...for example, why not here, OVER DUNMOW in Essex???? His reply: "Dear Mr. Harris, Auroræ are caused by particles from the solar wind entering the upper air. You can look this up in any elementary book. Sincerely, Patrick Moore FRAS FRSA." (I wonder if Mr. Moore knows how much 'pressure' he is under to provide a sensible answer, when challenged about the unknown which he has given himself to explore—poor show Mr. Moore!—Editor)

Dear Mr. Harris, Thank you for your letter and for the dollar you enclosed. (ed. For return postage). I have no objection to your using quotes from my books but you will have to give credit (as I see you intend doing anyway). I mention this really to keep you out of trouble with my publisher! Yes, I know that many people use my work and present it as theirs but—what can one do? It is annoying but so long as truths get through unsullied then that, I suppose, is the main thing. Yours Sincerely, Lobsang Rampa, Calgary Canada.

Dear Ted, Michael read your magazines and thought they were ok. I started to read but I don't get much time, but I will finish it. I can't interest anyone in the North Pole! —Jean Potter & Michael Potter, Gadby Road, Sittingbourne, Kent.
*Do you and Michael want to go there alone then, Jean, eh?

Dear Ted, I am not a member of the government. I just attend the House of Lords where I made my maiden speech not on the subject of UFOs. I am not asking any questions on UFOs yet. Whenever anyone has asked a question on UFOs in the other place, that is, the House of Commons, it has got nowhere at all. All governments have covered up on the subject for years. You have only to read Keyhoe's latest book ALIENS FROM SPACE to know all about the CIA cover up. All best wishes, Brinsley Le Poer Trench, Earl of Clancarty.

LETTER FROM MICHAEL HUNT OF Anglia Television.

Dear Mr. Harris,
Thank you very much for your letter dated 6th April with which you kindly enclosed issues numbers 12,13, and 14 of COSMOLOGY NEWSLINK.

I regret that lack of time prevents me from writing any special articles for your magazine, but you are very welcome to abstract any of the information from the leaflets I sent you. I think it is very unlikely that the summer temperatures for 1977 will be 5 degrees (do you mean degrees centigrade or degrees fahrenheit?) higher than those of the summer of 1976. My impression, and it is not a forecast, is that the temperatures of the summer of 1977 will be moderately high, but certainly below those of 1976.

You mention the article in issue number 14 on the possibility of the earth being hollow, I would be less than honest if I did not say that I find the theory extremely unlikely but that of course is merely my personal opinion.

Yours Sincerely,

Michael Hunt.

*Thank you Michael Hunt for your express reply. 5 degrees Fahrenheit or Centigrade, I suppose. My weather 'predictions' were based on other astronomers sun observations only, and the reoccurring cycle of the last two years repeating themselves, (guess work actually). It could go either way; my guess is upwards in years to come. We will indeed be using your weather leaflets in magazines to come also, and thank you for allowing us to do so. This will help us become MORE cosmological in nature, with a better balanced magazine. -Editor.

Dear Editor, Here's an experience I had in the summer of 1976 which I thought may interest you. I call it A FRIGHTENING EXPERIENCE. My name is Terry Reeve, I am 11-years old. We was on camp in the tent, in Danbury Park, Essex, at night time. My friend Richard Whymark was telling me that on Christmas Day, a little black man appears in the corner with a black suit, hat, and cape. After that we had to visit the toilet for a wash and when I was washing, I saw a black tooth brush with a black hat and cape. I picked it up and I went sort of frozen stiff. My friend ran away. I took it back and gave it to the teacher. This story is my true account. Terry Reeve, 11, Lower Mill Fields, Dunmow, Essex.

*Comment: This world is full of strange stories, but this one gave us the brush off!

SEED FROM UFO?

Dear Mr. Harris, Thank you for the magazines, Don't you think you could put up your sub to £1. for 3 and 35p each? After all, a pint of Guinness costs about as much. About the seeds.... Our Horticultural experts at Efford do not recognise it and are rather of the opinion that it isn't a seed as such but part of the seed bearing husk of some plant. I certainly could'nt get it to germinate and was 'disinterred' after some weeks quite unchanged.

I see the Welsh Children's sighting appears in your latest C.N.K. (no.14) As for the Chilcomb encounters near Winchester I have been very much involved in these having interviewed the witnesses and BUFORA representatives have appeared on T.V. discussions and interviews concerning these episodes. The outlines of the affairs are written up in the last issue of BUFORA Journal. We may not have heard the last of this business. (Editor's notice: HOW PROPHETIC-see sightings page)! Our research team has as much data and information ufo-wise as it can cope with and as you know statistics breed statistics so that all material has to be sifted to essentials and cross-checked before it can be of use, however we always hope that useful end results will be achieved.

I do admire your efforts to keep things going single-handedly through thick and thin. My best wishes to you. Dr. Geoferry Doel. PS. I am in the process of handing over BUFORA presidency to 'Tim' O'Brien, I have not been one hundred percent during the past two years and feel they should have a really active president who can attend more meetings than I do.

* So sorry Dr. Doel to hear that! I hope BUFORA will be able to cope. As for putting up CNK prices again, I hope not DESPITE the crippling paper prices. But if I really have to- " @/&(')!!!

U.F.Os, AMERICAN INDIANS, AND THE HOLLOW EARTH...Do they have something in common. CNK has discovered something.

By Edward Harris, Editor

Tracing man's origins has been baffling scientists and anthropologists for centuries. Equally as baffling is the origins of the American Indians. Some early red men were found on the island of Jamaica many centuries ago.

However, Did you know, that the American Indian, in his infinite wisdom, could have originated from the centre of the earth? WE ALL KNOW that cave drawings are an accurate description of what early man actually saw, no less are paintings by the red Indian of America. Therefore when, in a book called BLACK ELK SPEAKS, we see an old Indian painting of a holy indian chief "At the centre of the earth", we are left wondering. BLACK ELK, which is the life story of a holy man of the Oglala Sioux, by John G. Neihardt (ABACUS), 1972, will once again point the finger, or compass in that direction. In the same book, there are drawings of a strange 'flying machine' of rainbow colours, looking remarkably like a UFO of today. To complicate matters, as this went to press news arrived from APRO in America of UFO sightings seen over the Yakima Indian Reservation near Toppenish, Washington, in November 1976. There has been a concentration there of sightings lately. WHAT IS THE UFO REDMAN CONNECTION? CNK hopes to be searching out the answers. This report will be seen next time.

To return to Black Elk, Indians do not lie, so the hollow earth picture is genuine. BUT in this case, Black Elks experience we feel was a natural astral projection. In which case the UFO he encountered and the weird beings he described were of the spirit planes of existence.

METAPHYSICS

We in CNK have just learnt from studies of Indian way of life that what is now being realised by scientists in the study of metaphysics, which is the study of natural occurrences, is that the American Indian was practicing it as his true religion, that was until he was uprooted, by those who could not see the light. The Indian's way was of nature, ie., a living tree must be left alone, only dead trees were to be taken for wood etc., to name just one item. What did the white man do to the sacred trees? METAPHYSICS is the natural state of things. It has no place in the concrete coffin man is building around himself DAILY, neither the pollution put out by the filth from INDUSTRY, CARS, MOTORWAYS OIL, etc.

Plants, for example, according to recent surveys respond to stimuli such as music or and vibrations. Therefore the Indians who probably talked to the trees, were well in advance of science today who are only just recognising this fact. So who are we to say that the redman wasn't correct, in fact HE WAS! If any lesson is to be learnt, it is THEM teaching US their ways, NOT the other way round. In fact, Michael Milton, who studies them says that we both can learn a little of each others ways, so long as it keeps to the metaphysical side taught by them. But the indifference between the Indian and the 'invading' Europeans in the early times, being ignorant to these things finally led to wars, and the Red Man is now on reservations. Strangely, it seems he doesn't care, as we will see in a minute. Take another human element, sewage, This pollutes rivers, no matter WHAT processing it goes through, if it did not, it is a waste, for the Indian used to put it back onto the land instead, for manure. That, says Mr. Milton, is far better than all the spray fertiliser being used today whereby the tractor driver must stay in his cab protected from the deadly stuff. METAPHYSICS also revolves around the ROUND shape too. Black Elk says everything in nature is ROUND, then why live in SQUARE houses? The pyramid, and all cones, contain healthy energy from the cosmos. Square things DON'T! For that reason the Indian uses a teepee and there is no condensation problems on walls either. WHY is CNK writing about Indians? Because if they originally came from a wiser civilisations eons ago, then they had the pollution problems licked. They may be indeed thousands of years in advance of our knowledge, or at least were then, and the practice led down through the ages, if they did originate from the earth's centre? It is us who are stampeding ourselves into oblivion with our machines. MAN DOESN'T SEEM TO FIT INTO NATURE—look around—WHY MUST MAN HAVE HIS MACHINES??? Animals get along without them! And they don't get heart troubles like mankind does due to his way of life. Therefore I am devoting a whole section here to an old Indian prediction, and IF IT IS NOT HEEDED, mankind will make himself as extinct as the creatures his culture has exterminated. I let the American Indian have the last word, here it is:

"WHEN ALL THE EUROPEANS, AND ALL THE WHITE AND BLACK AMERICANS HAVE COVERED OVER THE LAST BLADE OF GRASS

WITH CONCRETE, POLLUTED THE LAST RIVER, AND SEA, DESTROYED

ALL THE WILD LIFE UPON EARTH, POLLUTED THE VERY AIR WE BREATHE...

ONLY THEN HE'LL REALISE HE CAN'T EAT THE MONEY HE HAS IN THE BANK"

A satellite has revealed a mysterious dark shape at the North Pole. Some people believe it is the gateway to another world.

A few centuries ago, if you were to say that the earth was ROUND you would have been declared insane or the like. Now, when some sort of evidence is forthcoming for the interior of the earth being a hollow sphere, we who believe in it are declared the same. However, much delving into the archives of various information, has led CNK and its staff to the obvious conclusion. Of course the only way we could prove it, even to ourselves, would be to mount an expedition to the pole to find out, if our arm-chair evidence is conclusive. BUT WHO WOULD SPONSOR US ON SUCH A VENTURE? Who would really be willing to undertake such a task?

After studying all the evidence, I myself have come to the conclusion, that such an expedition would have to go prepared for all eventualities. For example, we would need mosquito nets as we got nearer the pole BELIEVE IT OR NOT! However, one thing I find disturbing is that the South Pole-Antartica, may be somewhat blocked as an entrance into the interior because in photos from the ESSA 7 satellite and from a book called ANTARTICA by Ian Cameron, there is no real hole that can really be seen as clearly as in the north. It could be that the ice from that region is denser and actually blocks the way to these inner lands, and we only capture on film ice-capped lands. But in this book, there is good mention of Admiral Byrd, and of the thousands of aerial photos taken of Antartica. According to rumour, these films were shown in America at one stage actually detailing dry warm lands beyond that pole. Shortly afterwards these films, to cinemas, were suddenly not obtainable, and the important parts of the film, had disappeared.

Byrd flew a three-engined Fokker monoplane, first 'over' the North Pole in 1926, and then to ANTARTICA. It proved spectacular. The book gives no mention of an ANTARTIC pole opening. The Essa 7 pictures even side-on view of the earth only shows an opening at the NORTH, not the south. If this is due also to cloud cover, we don't know. One thing is for sure, these photos were taken in 1968 and I have not seen anything like them before, or for that matter saw no mention of it on TV or have not seen or heard mention of any other aerial photographs, except the recent one described on another page of CNK. So if censorship is being applied by some powers that be, somewhere, we ask- WHY? CNK thinks we KNOW why, and the reason IS a good one I must admit-especially with the world at each others throats today, and especially for the WESTERN world people!

Anyway, back to Byrd at Antartica. He wrote (as if in evidence of that central sun): "As the sun set for the last time, the darkness closed in and the aurora jerked into fantastic patterns across the sky, we burrowed deeper and deeper. The planes were dragged into deep pits and covered with tarpaulins." NOTE THE QUOTE ABOUT THE SOUTHERN AURORA displaying patterns in the sky. Hollow earth believers say this is the central sun known as the smoky God because that is its appearance. This central sun is a lot smaller than our main sun, but does the same job. It may be the cause of earth's gravity too in some way. These aurora are only seen, say those who have researched it, is the central sun shining through the interior-earth's atmosphere at odd moments. "VICTORY AWAITS THOSE WHO HAVE EVERYTHING IN ORDER", explorer Amundsen had written-"PEOPLE CALL THIS LUCK. DEFEAT AWAITS THOSE WHO FAIL TO TAKE THE NECESSARY PRECAUTIONS-THIS IS KNOWN AS BAD LUCK." Byrd's expedition was no exception on this journey to the south pole. The next part of their flight 'over' the pole is of interest as we read from ANTARTICA: "Soon, on their starboard bow, they could make out a magnificent range of mountains. These unfolded peak by peak; here a snow-clad shoulder and there an ebony expanse of cliff; here the shining blue-white of a glacier and there a truncated summit raised by refraction, 'a mirage suspended like Mahomet's tomb midway between heaven and earth!'" NOTE the 'mirage' quote. In polar regions there seem to be common occurrences of mirages. As explorers near the opening into the interior, these mirages become more frequent. Sometimes the appearance of the central sun itself, throws them of course, as they think they have 'crossed' the pole, and are seeing the main sun. Compasses don't work as normal in these regions, maybe because of the descending nature of the openings. CNK thinks the ANTARTICA opening could be somewhat blocked, but that remains to be seen when and if the recent expedition comes back with any kind of evidence--that is if they ever DO return!

EVIDENCE THAT ALL PLANETS ARE HOLLOW

Venus, is a typical example of the hollow earth theory. We borrow an extract from Marshall B. Gardner's book, A JOURNEY TO THE EARTH'S INTERIOR, or HAVE THE POLES REALLY BEEN DISCOVERED, (page 443): "Why does the hot planet Venus have polar ice caps like those of Mars are said to be? And why are the polar caps of Mars seen to throw a mass of light many miles above the surface of the planet when they are seen in a side view if they are only of ice?" Recently approx. 12th March a programme was screened on BBC2 which may show further evidence of polar openings on Mars: In this programme, the end results was that all the theories they had thought up, were proved to be wrong, when the Viking Lander went up to explore. The new theory now is that the poles of Mars are far warmer, than expected, at least one pole, is far warmer than they thought. Therefore the end result of the programme was that they were still searching, and that there's still a possibility of life on Mars, but it could well be subterranean life. WITH THAT CONCLUSION of close evidence into the warmth of planets, it brings the hollow earth theories very close. Not only a hollow earth-but a hollow every planet too. WE KNOW that the moon is hollow since experiments carried out there by U.S. Astronauts proved it with seismographic data. Therefore it figures that what could occur on the moon may be the same elsewhere. What a pity that the astronauts only scratched the surface of the moon- LITERALLY!!! What a waste of billions of dollars to do what an automated robot could well do. CNK believes, that in the light of this 'new' evidence, here put forward, another trip to the moon would be worthwhile, and scientifically rewarding. HOW DID ALL PLANETS BECOME HOLLOW? My educated guess is that sometime in their MOLTEN state, the spinning motion of planets, caused the molten matter to be flung outward by centrifugal forces to form a hollow sphere. This cooled after millions of years to form all that we have on top of the world, to be formed on the inside as well. Now that's a logical guess, wouldn't you say. Try it with a cup of water and see for yourself. Swirl it around-what happens? There's a hole in the centre-right? In space this would be a globe.

A TRIP TO THE EARTH'S INTERIOR

Although imaginary, this trip is based on evidence from what we already know, and from Marshall Gardner's book: "In the first place, if the writer of this book and a company of readers were setting off on this expedition, we should take with us not only the usual equipment of an arctic explorer but we should take also provisions for travel in very warm regions, for we know in advance that we are going to find a very warm and damp climate after we have braved the rigours of the cold weather to be found before we get to what are usually called the polar regions. Scientific instruments would also be taken. Thus well equipped we should take leave of some northern part, we may suppose it to be St. John's Newfoundland. In a little over a week we have arrived at Godhaven, Greenland. Here we would pick up a number of Eskimo helpers, some sleds and dogs, etc., and proceed up the coast of Greenland to about 82 or 83 degrees, which could be done without very much trouble. But by the time we have reached that far we will have noticed several surprising things. We will find that whenever there is a wind from the north the weather is much warmer than when the wind is from the south. And we shall notice that ever since we passed the latitude of say 75 degrees the average temperature has not been growing any colder. Furthermore we shall notice that there is a steady warm current of water coming from the north.

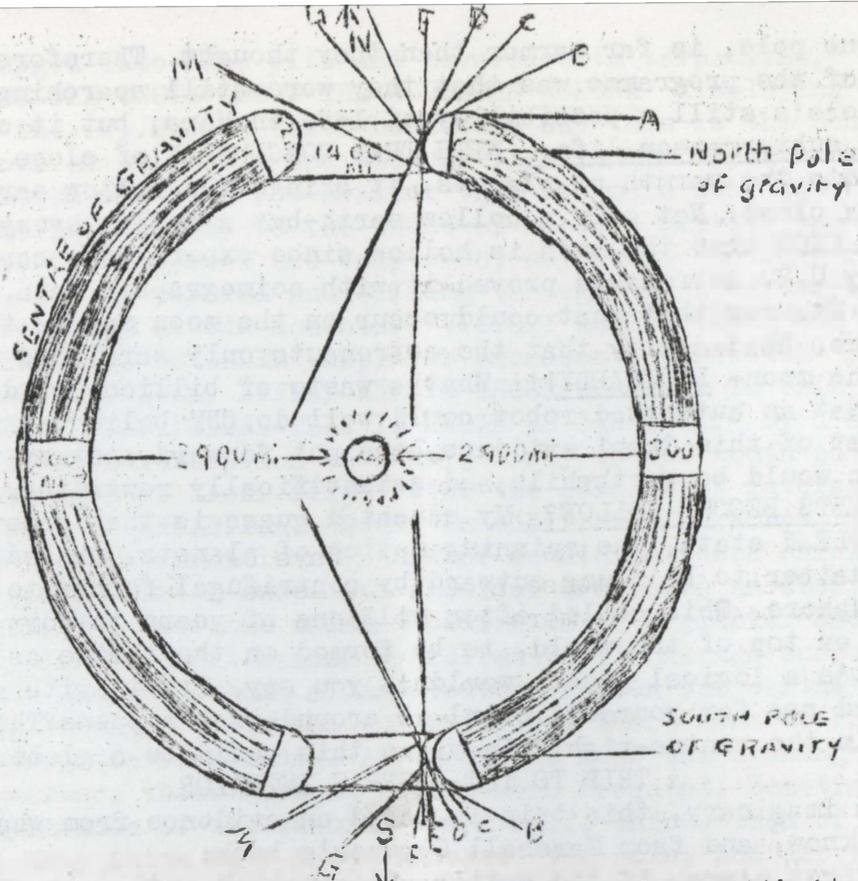

Diagram showing the earth as a hollow sphere with its polar openings and central sun. The letters indicate the various steps of an imaginary journey, At the point marked "D" we see our first sight of a corona of the central sun; at the point marked "E" we can see the central in its entirety.

From time to time we see birds in the air, and if our trip is being made at all late in the season—and knowing what we do know we shall not be afraid of some delays, for it is a hospitable country to which we are going and not a land of perpetual ice—if, we say, our trip is being made rather late in the season we shall see many of these birds flying north. Suppose we were to leave our ship at any point along the coast of Greenland and carrying petrol launches in the sections on our sledges were to go overland until we came to the open polar sea which Dr. Hayes discovered. In that case we should have to camp every so often, and would find plenty of game along the route and comfortable temperatures for sleeping in our tents. But in summer, mosquitoes would be a nuisance. Then we could come to the coast of Grant Land or of Peary Land, and then going out on ice-surface for a little we come at last to open sea. Then with the launches, we start the last lap of our journey. As we proceed the water becomes warmer, all trace of ice is left behind, the flocks of seabirds thicken and perhaps we run into herring. Our first night on the water we shall be surprised to see, after the setting of the sun, a glow in the sky which gradually defines itself as a ring covering the whole visible horizon while long streamers of light wave in fantastic patterns overhead. The Aurora, for such it is, is now no longer only to the north of us, as it would be if we saw it from a lower latitude, but it is directly over our heads and even to the south of us because we are almost on the edge of the aperture, and reflections from the central sun come from the higher strata of the atmosphere which are illuminated for an immense area by the diverging rays of the central sun coming through this immense aperture. As we proceed these auroral displays become ever more bright and steady and symmetrical. The sun we have been accustomed to seeing in the heavens is each day a little nearer the horizon. At last there comes a time when we cannot make any more observations by it, and one day when we wake up, we find an extraordinary thing has taken place. It is apparently daylight when, perhaps, by checking our watches, it ought to be dark. Only it is a peculiar daylight. It is the sort of light which usually precedes a storm, an angry reddish light with a heavy atmosphere. If we were unprepared we would believe that some terrible atmospheric disturbance was about to take place. But if we are prepared we know now that we have sailed far enough over the rim of the earth's aperture so that the sun we see is no longer the sun of the outer firmament but the inner sun which never sets." Marshall Gardner continues, saying there would be a great rise in the temperature and air humidity.

"Maybe we find we are in one of those currents from the north which we met with before we began to sail across the edge of the aperture. If so we may find it a great deal stronger and the water a great deal warmer at this point. As we proceed two things forcibly strike our attention; one in the "sky" as it still appears to be, and one in the water. The first is that the sun is no longer moving. The other is that the water is fairly alive with organisms.

But we are approaching land and we strain to see what lies ahead. Perhaps it will be a low lying beach, and we disembark, take out our tents to make our first camp. We will want fresh water, as we are now no longer in a region where it is to be obtained from ice or snow, for it is most too hot for us here, unacustomed as we have been by the previous journey north to warm weather." Mr. Gardener, in this imaginary story based on facts, suggests what could be found there, from fresh water streams, to weird vegetation and trees-like pine trees. The air may be warm and steamy also, with mosquitoes everywhere. We may find the source of the red pollen, which some early explorers found in glaciers at the north pole. It may be thick enough to colour the air when the wind blows. These conditions can cause much humous to be created by rotting vegetation. Natural gas may be found deep down there. (Maybe that is in part, where we get it from today, as it seeps upwards through fissures in the earth's crust-Editor).

In this part of the interior, there would be glaciers, due to the influence of the cold coming from the outerworld.

"Finally, if our expedition were well enough equipped with ships we could sail through the oceans of this interior world, explore its coasts, sail up its rivers and finally out on the other side. Here we would need every aid that the Antarctic explorer has to have, for the journey from the Antarctic polar lip to the nearest civilisation would be far more arduous one than is the similar journey in the north. But if we had taken our aeroplane through the interior with us, success would doubtless crown our flight and we should return to civilisation having explored the last part of the earth that is left to explore." At this point Marshall Gardner leaves the reader to speculate the entire situation. He concludes that chapter with: "Our country has the men, the aeroplanes, the enterprise, and the capital. Let our country (America), go ahead with this great work. Or if our country holds back and lets private citizens earn the glory that will be theirs. It is the greatest priveledge that has ever been offered to an explorer, and we are very sure that there will be many explorers eager to grasp it and certain to succeed when they have grasped it." Little did Mr. Gardner realise just how true his words were to be. His book, written in 1920 was well advanced for its time, and little did he know then, that an aeroplane would indeed be used for that purpose, even if the pilot was unaware what he was to find. Also a prophetic drawing of earth from space showing that which in the 1970s only goes to prove-that THE EARTH REALLY IS HOLLOW!

The story about the experiment aboard a U.S. warship with a unified electric field.....

 An astounding, now classified story, has come to our attention about an experiment with the same unified field, which took place in Scotland in the 1960s, in which one of the research team disappeared in mid-sentence. It was reported we believe in one of England's National Newspapers, but as it is under the official secrets act, we cannot say anything about it. All we can tell you from our sources here at CNK, is that IT REALLY DID HAPPEN. It was an accident. The equipment was transferred to another place, which we cannot divulge, where three buildings completely vanished. The experiments are now believed to be discontinued, until a solution to these accidents can be solved. After all MATTER transference ie like in the fiction series STARTRAK, would be a boon to all (?). Readers still interested in more details must search out the tiny mention of this in back dated papers. -Editor.

A similar situation occurred aboard a USA warship, it seems, when the whole ship completely vanished, reappeared somewhere else, and returned to the same spot from whence it was. When CNK heard about this case, we were not satisfied about the truth, now due to the above account, we can bet our boots it is true. In issue 13, we made a bit of a mess of the Allende letters story, so to recap, here it is again:

The writer of the letters to a Dr. Jessup, a Carlos Allende said to him: "Your invocation to the public that they move en Masse upon their Representatives and have thusly enough Pressure placed at the right & sufficient Number of Places where from a Law demanding Research into Dr. Albert Eienst-eins Unified Field Theory May be enacted (1925-27) is Not at all Necessary. It May Interest you to know that The Good Doctor Was Not so Much influenced in his retraction of that Work, by Mathematics, as he most assuredly was by Humantics.

His Later computations, done strictly for his own edification & amusement, upon cycles of Human Civilisation & Progress compared to the Growth of Mans General over-all Character Was enough to Horrify Him. Thus, We are "told" today that Theory was "Incomplete."

Dr. B. Russell asserts privately that It is complete. He also says that Man is Not Ready for it & Shan't be until after W.W.III, Nevertheless, "Results" of My friend Dr.

The cube-shaped clouds in a hurry!

THE increase in sightings of unidentified flying objects over Britain, recently examined in the Mirror's Hellicar Report, prompted the question: is someone up there watching us? Readers have told us about their experiences. Here is a selection of letters:

I WAS watching a football match on a bright Sunday morning. A few woolly clouds were sauntering in the sky.

My attention was caught by a procession of clouds in line, coming swiftly over the horizon.

They were white, roughly cube-shaped, and travelling AGAINST the wind.

In about a minute, they crossed the sky and disappeared over the far horizon. The speed was incredible.—G. Sloane, Bideford, Devon.

OF COURSE there are UFOs! I saw one in 1954. It was a warm autumn evening and as I passed two women talking one screamed: "A flying saucer!"

It was like a giant tadpole—an iridescent blue head with a faint pale blue tail. It was about two thousand feet above us.

And the noise! It was like a subdued but terrifying hiss.—W. G. Oliver, Slough, Bucks.

ONE summer evening I saw what at first I took to be Venus. Then I realised the star was moving and increasing in brightness.

As it approached it pulsed and its light changed from whitish to pale orange. It was a disc and emitted a pulsating sound.

It stopped—then suddenly moved in the direction it came from. I have observed identical situations on several occasions.—T. Outram, Dartford, Kent.

LATE in 1975, while watching a TV film in a darkened room, my wife spotted something in the sky through the window.

A lovely red glow filled the room and then I saw a beautiful red circle of light with a blue surround.

Outside it was clear-out like the setting sun. No sound, no sparks. Then it just seemed to switch off and disappear.—C. B. Griffiths, Rhymney, Gwent.

HIGH-SPEED SOUP

EARLY one morning, I saw a white flying object in the sky moving very slowly. It was shaped like two soup plates turned outwards. After staying still for about a minute, it moved off at high speed.—D. Greenwood, Haringey, London.

JUST after 11 p.m. on a night in July a luminous green object glided across the sky for about 15 seconds. Suddenly, it changed course and was gone in a flash. It had no body and no tail, it was just a flying wing.—W. E. Pelling, Arundel, Sussex.

FOR years, people from all over the British Isles have sent us reports of sightings.

They have asked where they could obtain information, or report experiences, and not be laughed at. That's why we started our centre.

If any reader would like to send us a stamped addressed envelope, we will be happy to return them a free UFO news sheet.—Peter Paget, UFO Information Centre, Star House, 78 Portway, Warminster, Wilts.

Franklin Reno, Were used. These Were a complete Recheck of That Theory, With a View to any & Every Possible quick use of it, if feasible in a Very short time. There Were good results, as far as a Group Math Re-Check AND as far as a good Physical "Result", to Boot. YET, THE NAVY FEARS TO USE THIS RESULT. The Result was & stands today as Proof that The Unified Field Theory to a certain extent is correct. Beyond that certain extent No Person in his right Senses, or having any senses at all, Will evermore dare to go. I am sorry that I Misled You in My Previous Missive. True, enough, such a form of Levitation has been accomplished as described. It is also a Very commonly observed reaction of certain Metals to Certain Fields surrounding a current, This field being used for that purpose. Had Farraday concerned himself about the Mag. Field surrounding an Electric Current, We today Would NOT exist or if We did exist, our present Geo-political situation would have the very time-bombish, ticking off towards Destruction, atmosphere that Now exists. Alright, Alright! The "Result" was complete invisibility of a ship, Destroyer Type, and all of its crew, While at Sea. (Oct. 1943) The Field Was effected in an oblate spheroidal shape, extending one hundred yards (More or Less, due to Lunar position & Latitude) out from each beam of the ship. Any person Within that sphere could see Nothing save the clearly Defined shape of the Ships Hull in the Water, PROVIDING of course, that that person was just close enough to see yet, just barely outside of that field. Why tell you Now? Very Simple; If You choose to go Mad, then you would reveal this information. Half of the officers & crew of that Ship are at Present, Mad as Hatters. A few, are even Yet, confined to certain areas where they May receive trained Scientific aid when they, either, "Go Blank" or "Go Blank & Get Stuck." Going-Blank IE an after effect of the Man having been within the field too Much, IS Not at all an unpleasant experience to Healthily Curious Sailors. However it is when also, they "Get Stuck" that they call it "HELL" INCORPORATED" The Man thusly stricken can Not Move of his own Volition unless kow or More of those who are within the field go & touch him, quickly, else he "Freezes." (To be continued—PERHAPS).

?Our metaphysical expert Mike Milton, believes failures of the Unified field, by laboratories unable to control it, is due to the fact they havn't taken into consideration that every living thing is surrounded by an AURA itself. Therefore the hyperfield interferes, causes unknown energies, and disappearances. (More about this in another issue).

UFO turns up

GUARDIAN 29-4-77

● Hey there—you with the stars in your eyes! Flying saucer spotters from the Essex UFO group scan the skies of Walthamstow. (X 097)

WATCH THIS SPACE! That's what the Essex Unidentified Flying Object Group was doing in Walthamstow on Saturday night.

And the four-hour space-spotting stint paid unexpected dividends for the group's 20 enthusiasts on Coppermill Lane marshland.

Said Leytonstone flying saucer-spotter David Procter: "Everything was quiet over Walthamstow until 10 pm

Then it happened.

"One solitary ball of light was spotted over some flats near the railway sidings. Then the light started moving. We flashed it with a torch and the light came towards us.

"It gathered speed. There was a greyish light coming from inside it and a red light behind. But it made no noise—unlike a plane or helicopter."

"We've investigated whether a satellite could have been over Walthamstow and we've checked with some airport authorities—but that object is still unidentified," he added.

CARRIED ON SPOTTING

Freezing cold was the only other thing that the spotters noticed until the marshland mystery loomed on the horizon.

"We were so excited we carried on spotting for an extra hour, said David.

"People came up occasionally to tell us about the strange things they'd seen in the sky over the borough.

"They heard about our session from the radio," he added. It was also mentioned in a national newspaper. Saturday's spot-in was the first time the group had come to Coppermill Lane.

"We normally choose Pole Hill in Chingford but things seem to be busier in Walthamstow these days," said David. "We'll be returning at the end of May."

NEWS SNIPS:

IN THE NEXT ISSUE we hope to present: a complete issue of photos and UFO sightings. This is to deal with a tremendous backlog of reports from Gene Duplantier of Canada, Ed. O' Hare of Harlow, and Bob Blonville UFOs & Metaphysics and esoteric material, some say do not go together. I also thought so in 1972 at the inception of CNK.. WRONG! After all unknown sciences like Kirlian photography, Pyramids are all wrapped up in that word. UFOs and the pyramids, tunnels beneath the earth are all part of the parcel, it appears.

THE next issue will be in 3 languages due to the important French case of the FLYING REFRIDGERATOR

Continuing from the last issue the landed UFO case of the boys in Wales..This was the case of 14 children of the County Primary School at Broadhaven,Dyfed. They all saw an unidentified flying object in a field near their school. The Headmaster who wrote to us with sketches in the last issue said:"I am convinced the children saw something. What it was I havn't a clue." Here are more sketches and notes made by the children.

DAVID WARD'S notes are:

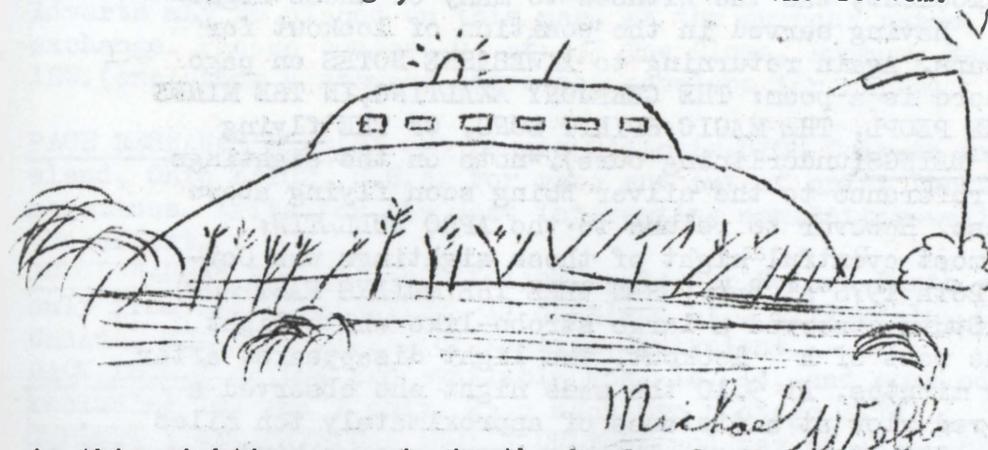

" The ship was silvery. The people were green. The people had a sack of cameras. The ship was smaller than the ships we have. They had pointed ears." Mr. Llewelin said as footnote: A little boy with learning problems, but very sensitive:

This sketch by David Ward of the landing on February 4th 1977 is to us the most important one. Even allowing for imagination the drawing shows lots of details. Mike Milton, who examined all the sketches says that this one is the most important, because David Ward was a "very sensitive boy" and they make the best people in these matters. Mike also believes that each boy was looking at a different portion of the craft, and that is why, all their drawings were slightly differing. Such was the case with Michael Webb, whoes report is:

"It was a cigar shaped base with quite a big dome on top with a red light flashing on top. It was silver and about 40-45 feet high, but I could not see the bottom.

As this sighting case is in the hands of other UFO groups CNK will pass this onto APRO in the USA. Many thanks to the boys and headmaster of the school.

AMERICA:

Something odd is going on this year, the biggest flap of all! UFOs have been sighted over an Indian Reservation AND this happened all in the space and at the time the Indians were staging their holy fast. The even stranger aspect of this is that CNKs front cover design, when drawn up, we had NO IDEA this was going on until now-PROPH.TIC:

Firstly from the spiritual aspect AKWESASNE NOTES, newspaper of the Indians in their Midwinter 1976-77 edition ran an article titled SALOYAT SYOWAN SUIN XHALTAP, with a sketch of the heavens, a BROKEN earth(which we now KNOW to be the scientific truth) and moving stars(UFOs?), anyway, mention was given to the YAKIMAS Indians thus: "Even though the Yakimas spent weeks in fasting and solitude to find their ANAHOI WANPT we spent only the fourth day in the crags and highlands alone and searching. Separate, silent, eating nothing, sleeping in the grass, drinking from the puddles used by elk and bees, we walked around looking for the first word of our Wanpt!" "NOW we have tried to tie this in with the report sent by APRO on YAKIMA REPORTS ON THE INCREASE. (APRO BULLETIN December 1976)" "The frequency of observations of unexplained night lights on the Yakima Indian Reservation near Toppenish, Washington, has risen during late October and early November 1976. There has been a concentration of sightings in this area of Washington for the past number of years. The majority of these latest reports originate from the Satus Park Lookout Mrs.D. Sturm, the fire lookout, was the witness to many of these sightings. Having served in the position of lookout for 17 years. Again returning to AKWESASNE NOTES on page 24 there is a poem: THE CEREMONY EXALTING, IN THE MINDS OF THE PEOPLE, THE MAGIC SPIRIT SONG, OF THE 'flying HUMAN BEINGS' (underlining ours). *note on the sightings page reference to the silver being seen flying above a house. However to return to the APRO BULLETIN:

"The most eventful night of these sightings was October 26th 1976 at 8pm. (WHEN WERE THE INDIANS FASTING?) Mrs. Sturm observed a large strobe-like white light to the west of her lookout. The light disappeared after a few minutes. At 9.10 the same night she observed a very red glow at a distance of approximately ten miles to the SSW of her post. This is in an area behind Simon Butte. The area behind Simon Butte, the night air was clear and the light was of sufficient intensity so that the outline of Simon Butte could be seen in the distance. The glow of the light was a deeper red than that produced by a fire. As Mrs. Sturm observed the glow, there arose from its centre in an area behind the Butte a red cigar-shaped object moving at a high rate of speed. It disappeared into the sky along with the red glow. No flame was noticed as the object ascended into the sky. Another episode occurred on October 30, 1976 at 8p.m. PDT. Mrs. Sturm and another lady observed a large bright orange round ball of light at about 9 miles S.E. of Status Peak. The light was described as being above ground but below the horizon without any motion. It was visible for only a few seconds.

On November 1st, 1976 at 7.30 PST there was another sighting 6 miles NNW of Status Peak by Mrs. Sturm and another lady. This was in an area adjacent to Ft. Simcoe. A red round light ascended straight up into the sky and disappeared at a high rate of speed. On November 3, 1976 the same lady and a friend observed some 16 miles east of Status Peak a bright white light which disappeared after moving parallel to Status Creek and US 97. Ranch hands and visitors at a cattle ranch along US 97 have often observed similar lights in this area about the same time each night." -* It makes you really wonder if long long ago in the pages of history, the American Indian and the UFO had something in common-a UFO CONNECTION?
