INCREASING UFO ACTIVITY IN NOTTINGHAMSHIRE

Over recent weeks there has been a perceptible increase in UFO activity in the Nottingham area, this has ranged up as far as Mansfield to more localised reports over the Nottingham City area itself.

We were recently contacted by Mr Neil Cairns of Langwith near Mansfield who told us of continuous LITS (Lights In The Sky) activity in his area. He had in fact videoed the lights on numerous occasions and sent a copy to the PRA for analysis.

Although the video showed a distinct light moving up and down near the horizon (stated by Mr Cairns to be approximately a mile away), the camcorder had been set on 'automatic' and the light slowly moved in and out of focus. There were close-ups of the light, showing a glowing circle with a flat spot on top, but again, this could probably be explained by the physics involved in the camera lenses reflecting the light internally.

However, in spite of these shortcomings, the video footage does confirm that an unidentifiable light has been appearing in the Langwith area on numerous occasions. It should also be remembered that Langwith is in the same vicinity as Shirebrook. The area where Darryl Spence took what has now become 'classical' video footage of a 'Flying Triangle' hovering over the town late at night and subsequently being intercepted by two (we believe Military) helicopters on the night of the 23rd August 1994.

More recently on the night of the 7th January 06, we were informed that two 'cotton reel' UFO's had appeared over the Hucknall area of Nottingham (see page 4 of this issue). This investigation is still on going.

On the night of Friday 13th January 06 we have been informed that a bright light and heavy vibration occurred in the Hyson Green area of Nottingham (see e-mail message below).

Hi there,

Just been onto your website and I certainly hope I'm not wasting your time with this.

I live in the Hyson Green area of Nottingham. At approximately 01.30-01.45 this morning, I was awoken for what seemed to be no apparent reason. I opened my eyes to see a bright light shining through my window. It wasn't a car headlight as my room doesn't back onto a road or anything similar; there are other houses and alleyway directly facing it. The light began to fade but while lying in my bed I felt a heavy vibration but no noise. I initially thought that I was shaking due to the strange nature of this but that wasn't the case. The only way I could describe it was if the entire house was throbbing, if that makes sense. This vibration then slowly subsided. Unfortunately I didn't get out of bed to look at it-I was a little bit freaked by the whole thing and naturally it took me a while to get back to sleep.

My first thought was that it could have been a really vivid dream, but it seemed a bit too vivid to be a dream!

I wondered if anyone else had contacted you with anything similar.

There is little more to add at present, but I would ask all PRA members in the Nottinghamshire area to keep a 'weather eye' open for any reports of UFO activity and to advise us a.s.a.p. Ed.

DOWN IN THE FOREST SOMETHING STIRRED!

A Review of photographs taken by John Hanson.

The audience that attended the presentation by John Hanson at 'The Great British UFO Show' on October 1st 2005, were treated to a display of extraordinary photographs taken during a number of his excursions to Rendlesham Forest.

Unfortunately John spent much of his presentation playing difficult hear, tape recordings of his interviews with various UFO witnesses and it was not until the end of his lecture (when he was running out of time) that he turned to the subject of the strange events that were still happening in Rendlesham Forest.

The majority of readers will be familiar with the revelations of what occurred at Rendlesham Forest from the 26th—29th December 1980. During this period, RAF Bentwaters and the USAF Woodbridge Base had nightly visits of unusual flying objects.

On or about Christmas Eve, three airmen encountered a triangular object in Rendlesham Forest.

At first the lights were thought to be from an aircraft that had gone down in the vast expanse of pine and the airmen received permission to go and investigate. The men subsequently experienced an event that was of high strangeness and left them feeling bewildered by their experience.

A first-hand account of the Bentwaters -Woodbridge UFO incident has been told in the book 'Left At East Gate' written by witness Larry Warren and his associate Peter Robbins (Michael O'Mara Books Limited ISBN 1-85479-231-8).

"As my mind tried to register what I was looking at, the ball of light exploded in a blinding flash. Shards of light and particles fell onto the fog. Several cops ran into the woods. I couldn't move; I tried to cover my eyes, but it was too late. Now, right in front of me, was a machine occupying the spot where the fog had been." - Larry Warren, former USAF Security Specialist.

As a result of the astounding events that took place in Rendlesham Forest some twenty six years ago, the forest has become a 'Mecca' for Ufologists and there have been many claims made about some of the bizarre incidents that have taken place during their visits.

John Hanson's photographs appear as convincing evidence that there are still some very strange goings on, taking place in the forest.

The photographs have been supplied to us without any details, other than they were taken during a sky-watch trip into Rendlesham Forest.

- (1) This photo shows a bizarre line of fiery light surrounding a sky watchers backpack, although nothing was seen at the time. It is also possible to see numerous 'globes' floating around the group as they make their way through the forest. The 'globes' are a somewhat recent phenomenon that have become prominent since the introduction of digital cameras.
- (2) A lone hiker stands pointing at something (?), while a streak of light passes above him.
- (3) A photograph taken in the woods which resulted in a blue (inverted 'V') light being seen top left.
- (4) I'm not quite sure what this person has been doing, but the photograph captured a zigzag of streaky orange light on the left hand side.
- (5) Whether this wavy streak of white light was visible at the time the photograph was taken is not known, but it remains a mystery.
- (6) Finally a blue wavering band of light heads down from the sky towards the ground.

All very strange and an indication of some of the weird events that may be encountered in Rendlesham Forest at the present time.

Whether there is any connection with past UFO events we do not know, but they lights could indicate 'an intelligence' in the area.

MYSTERIOUS LIGHTS SEEN OVER HUCKNALL,NOTTS. 7th Jan.06

We are currently in the process of following up reports of strange orange lights being seen over Hucknall, Nottingham at 11.45pm on the night of the 7th January this year.

Initially we received a telephone call from a Mr K.Worley who described having seen two 'cotton reel' shaped glowing lights over Hucknall at about 11.50pm.

The 'cotton reels' had a pulsating red light at the top and bottom, while the centre of the object was described as being white.

The objects were described as "sitting in the sky", the height was unknown, although there was a low cloud base at the time. They were then described as "circling around each other".

A further two witnesses confirmed the sighting and one stated that he had seen something like flames dropping from one of the objects. They were moving slowly around together, but shortly afterwards zig-zagged straight up into the sky and were gone.

We are awaiting the completion of questionnaires and when these are completed further details will be published in the next OVNI.

At this stage we cannot rule out small hot air balloons of some kind, as this could explain the flaming pieces falling from one of the objects.

WE WATCH AND WAIT

By J.F.Rayner

It would seem that the members of the NASA programmer team have seen a large dust cloud rise from the Moon's surface.

It has been suggested that it was the equivalent to about 70Kg of TNT. This cloud of dust was emitted from the edge of the Mare Imbrium found in the Sea of Rains.

The cloud was put down to having probably been caused by one of the 'Taurids' (meteor shower), which were seen in October and early November 2004.

It has been said that the information gained from this may very well help the forthcoming astronauts in their next landing on the Moon. Whenever that will be is anyone's guess at present.

However may I say it is not all guessing at all, as some people very well know.

There are more interesting developments that are now to take place and will undoubtedly continue to do so. Just as to when and where, we shall all have to wait and see.

May I wish all the PRA members a very good New Year. Mr J.F.Rayner

(This event is also mentioned in 'Tale Enders' Ed.)

AWESOME MEMORIES

I have had many sightings, some with other witnesses and some on my own. I can't tell you how lucky I have been to see such things, it changed my life and outlook entirely.

There is no doubt in my mind that ET craft are here and as such, normal life is not possible, Society's normal that is. There is much more going on than the average man or woman can comprehend.

I can appreciate the technology of ET craft, I once saw one go 'warp speed' from a crawl in a spectacular blaze of colour. It accelerated away faster than the eye could follow, from a brilliant white to yellow/orange/red/blue/violet all in a second or two, its speed was astonishing. Almost 30 years later, I can still recall every detail and I am still in awe! Paul.

'FLYING TRIANGLE SEEN OVER MARLBOROUGH, WILTS. 30 SEPT. 05

With thanks to our colleague 'Busty' Taylor for this report.

It was at 4.30am on the 30th September 2005 and Ms. Maria Wheatley lay awake in her second floor bedroom in Marlborough, Wiltshire. She had woken up and for some reason, just couldn't get back to sleep.

After lying in bed for a further five minutes, Maria decided to get out of bed and look out of the bedroom window. Downstairs, her dog was sleeping quietly.

As Maria peered through the window, it was foggy and all she saw at first were the usual street lights giving an orange hue to the night mist.

It was then that she saw something very strange indeed, a glowing triangle-shaped object was moving very slowly across the sky, travelling in a South to North direction.

The 'Flying Triangle' had several rows of distinctive red lights, "I can't remember the exact number." commented Maria. "It looked a darkish-grey colour and seemed to have rounded corners and I watched it for about three minutes as it slowly continued its journey across the sky."

"I checked the time, it was 4.45am and the craft had now slowly moved behind some distant trees. I gave up trying to follow it as by now I was frightened to watch it."

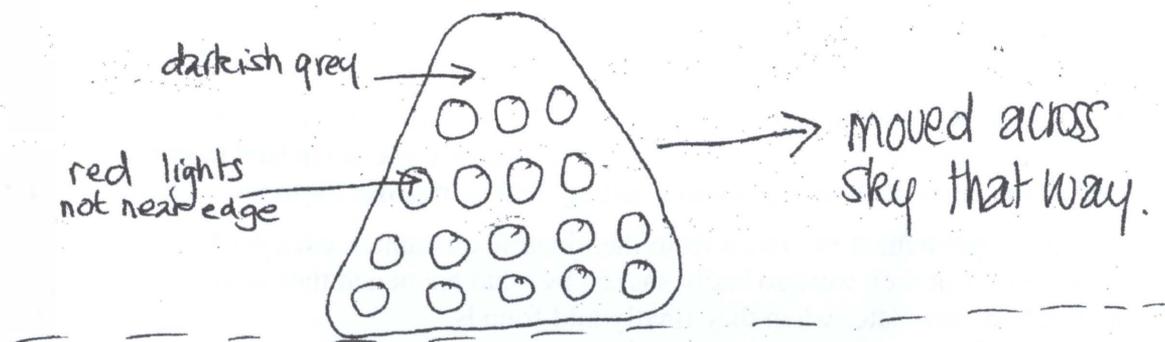

"I had not heard any sound from the FT, but the window had been closed at the time. The weather was misty and cool at the time, with a misty fog at ground level."

"However, I had been able to observe the object quite clearly as it was sharply defined and glowed very brightly. It seemed very unusual with its rows of red lights clearly visible as it moved across the sky very, very slowly."

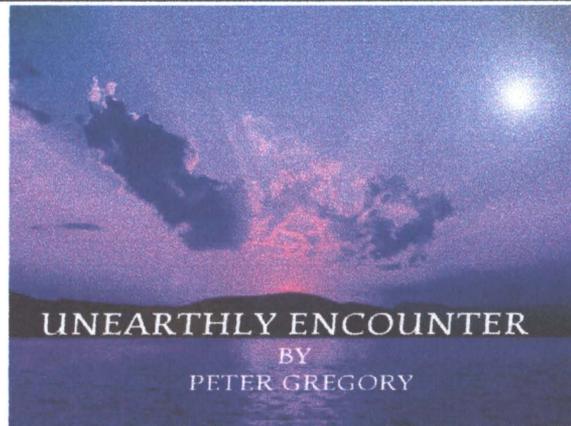

"My dog was apparently not disturbed in any way, as it was sleeping downstairs and I would have heard any movement or noise if it had been frightened."

"From my observation position it appeared quite large, something like 5" - 6" along each side, at arms length."

"The following night I began to worry about my experience and I slept with my 10 year-old daughter to keep me company."

Ms. Wheatley's drawing is shown above and clearly shows the unusual red lighting arrangement. The pattern of lights and rounded corners of the craft is familiar to FT researchers. This is the first substantial FT sighting that we have received for some months and shows that 'they' are still around! Ed.

In 1989 a man and his wife from Nottingham had a strange encounter with something unearthly, while on a midnight walk along the beach at Mablethorpe. The couple that were staying with friends in Wellington road at the time had just returned from an evening in the town, when they decided to take the family dog for a walk.

The night was fine and warm with a full moon and ten minutes later they were walking down the steps that led from Seaview car park to the open beach. They strolled along the sands towards north end, chattering about their plans for the rest of the holiday; enjoying the stillness of the deserted beach. Every so often they would stop and glance back at the receding lights on the main pullover, aware they were totally alone in a place that a few hours before had been crowded with holidaymakers.

They were almost at the point of turning back when they both noticed what looked like a bright star low in the sky over the sea. They stood watching it for a few seconds, thinking it was probably a star or even a planet, not at all concerned by its presence. Then to their surprise and terror it shot towards them at incredible speed, growing in size and brightness as it came. Suddenly it was hovering above them, a large electric blue sphere with multicoloured flashing lights at its centre, which were so bright they almost blinded them.

They stood paralysed with fright, the hair on their heads stood upright and they felt a terrific surge of electricity pulse through their bodies. At the same time there was a strong smell of ozone and a continuous high-pitched buzzing sound that seemed to grow louder and louder. They were held in the grip of the UFO for several minutes, neither able to move or speak, both convinced they were going to die.

Then the lights on the mysterious ball suddenly turned a brilliant white, the buzzing sound increased and it shot straight upwards to disappear in the blackness of the night sky.

Their ordeal over the couple collapsed on the sand completely exhausted and extremely confused. It was nearly half an hour before they were able to sit up and even longer before they could stand. They both felt nauseous and found it painful and difficult to walk, but helping each other, they made their way slowly back to Wellington road. When they arrived there, they were surprised to see their dog, which had vanished at the start of their nightmare, sitting outside waiting for them.

Neither suffered any permanent ill effects from their bizarre encounter, except slight headaches, which lasted for a few days. But they were so badly shaken by what happened they never discussed it with anyone, not until two years later when they finally told friends.

Their story seems totally unbelievable, but they aren't the first people to encounter strange flying objects near Mablethorpe. There's been numerous sighting of such phenomenon over the years by people walking along the beach at Saltfleetby and Donna Nook. RAF pilots have also seen flashing lights and large exotic craft flying near the bombing range at various times.

There's not doubt these things exist and that occasionally they interact with us in some way, but what they are and where they come from is still a mystery.

TOP SECRET: US NAVY SEAL's CRYPTID APE VIDEO

Cryptomundo Exclusive

13 January 2006

I've learned, through a confidential source, that at least one unit of the US Navy SEAL (Sea, Air, Land) has had a remarkable recent encounter with unknown apes in Africa. And a video was taken. We are seeking additional confirmation and other eyewitnesses. Have any hints of this story come your way?

Due to the sensitive nature of this former US Navy SEAL's intelligence-gathering work, at this time we cannot reveal his identity. Hopefully our posting this initial information will develop other sources and confirmations from current and former SEAL members involved, and from interested researchers with hints of the story.

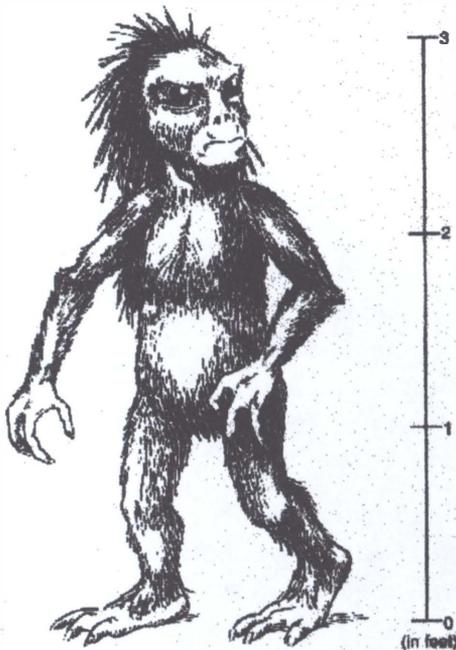

What the former SEAL relates is that he was involved in covert operations in the Democratic Republic of the Congo between 1997 and 2002. According to his account, his team observed a group of thirteen "chimpanzee-like" creatures between 4.5 to 5 feet tall, uniformly gray all over their bodies, with rows of seemingly porcupine-like quills running the length of their backs.

The unidentified apes walked bipedally and were observed by the SEAL team in the act of killing another animal. When the creatures became excited or agitated, the quills or spines stood erect from their bodies.

According to this informant, the US Navy SEAL team took three minutes of video footage of these creatures, but this tape apparently has been classified, due to their mission. This SEAL member still has his mission maps and is able to pinpoint the area of the encounter with this large group of bipedal apes.

The involvement of a US Navy SEAL team would indicate that their activity employed water as a means of transportation, and/or they were working in an area involving a lake, river, or swamp.

What could these strangely-haired unknown apes be? Their description, overtly, sounds like similar hairy short upright creatures (with bizarre spiked hair) known to inhabit areas near certain bodies of water and from specific islands. Various regional names (chupacabras, kappa) hide the fact they all resemble each other in their number of digits, spiked hair, aggressiveness, and aquatic habits. But let's just look to Africa alone, today.

Weird rumblings have been heard from the Congo for decades. In Ivan T. Sanderson's Abominable Snowmen: Legend Come to Life, there is mention of animal collector Charles Cordier finding the small tracks of what the locals called the kakundakari in the Congo in 1961.

I have previously written about an African hominoid that matches the Congolese reports of the Navy SEAL, those of the Madagascar natives' kalanoro, a short, three-toed, bipedal, water-dwelling, mean, scruffy-hair hominoid.

All the tribes of island of Madagascar, located off the east coast of Africa, know of the Kalanoro, according to folklorist Raymond Decary, who researched the common themes connecting the stories of the Kalanoro back in the 1950s. In 1889, a capture of a Kalanoro was reported to the Royal Geographical Society. In 1924, Chase Salmon Osborn described his sighting of two Kalanoro mating.

If the US Navy SEAL report is correct, there may be something quite similar to the Kalanoro living in the Congo area too. (With thanks to Andrew Johnson PRA for bringing this article to our attention).

ARE ALIENS AMONGST US ?

By Leo Noury (France)

When I started investigating the subject of UFOs at the age of 13, I just thought it would be an entertaining and sometimes a little frightening pastime. However, I was never prepared for what I was going to discover and hear.

All this would totally alter my then childish and simplistic concepts of life. I had grown up thinking that aliens, UFOs were something that probably existed, but were so far away that they did not have any kind of effect on life on earth.

As I reached an older age, I began to study the subject more and more in depth, I started to be interested in abductees and contactees: I read keenly the Ufology classics: Hopkins, Jacobs and of course the often self-published books by contactees. I still thought, that these abductions were performed by aliens that interacted only occasionally with us: they performed their abduction, their contact for what ever purpose it was. Then, they just left and went back to wherever they came from. I was very sceptical of claims of a constant interaction between the human race and alien races.

However, the more I read contactee claims, the more I continued hearing about aliens living amongst us. The sources were very varied: from controversial people like George Adamski to impeccable researchers like Timothy Good in his superb "Alien Base".

With time, as I continued my own research, I began to meet contactees, who were more often than not extremely credible, intelligent and sane people. What was so extraordinary was that an important fraction of them spoke about meeting aliens in everyday situations! These beings were actually living amongst us in major European cities.

I will now put forward the material I have gathered, although it sometimes seems far fetched, it is all too true. In order to protect the witnesses' secrecy I will change all their names and a few details of their encounters. However, everything else will be respected. It is now time to embark on the journey to the border of two worlds.

The first story and possibly the least spectacular took place in a very famous European capital. The witness who I spoke to extensively at a UFO conference is a well-balanced middle aged woman that is extremely intelligent and honest. The encounter took place in 1977 or 1978. Like every morning she was driving to work, suddenly as she was crossing over a famous bridge our witness, that we shall call Mary, felt as if time was slowing down. All the cars, the passers by, seemed to be walking as if in a slow motion film.

Mary's attention was soon caught by a tall man dressed in a black suit, she was mesmerised by him. He was wearing a black, old fashioned suit and a bowler hat that even in 1978 was out- of- date. What surprised her most was his face: it was a grey silvery colour and it was almost shining in the morning sun. His hand was also the same colour. The being suddenly looked mockingly at Mary: he gave her a smile and walked on. Mary had the impression that he was definitely non-human. Suddenly, as the being passed by her, the environment seemed to return to normal: the flow of time which had almost stopped began again; the city seemed to regain its normal morning rhythm. Mary has also had a strange dream of being surrounded by "surgeons" in operating masks.

Although, she claims that this dream is linked to an operation she had a number of years ago, it is possible that our witness is an abductee without even knowing it. Linking many abductees- contactees is the fact that they possess latent or active psychic powers: - Mary had already a history of psychic powers

The late Betty Hill also had a history of psychic powers and phenomena, well before she even had her world famous abduction.

Most (but not all) of the contactees I have studied have impressive psychic and healing abilities. They represent one of the main reasons of contact. They can also be a consequence of an alien encounter.

.The second account is that of a middle aged lady. Her sincerity and discretion have impressed me, that is why I have decided to include her account in this article.

Bernadette is a lady that works in Paris (FRANCE) she is a psychic although she only discovered her abilities after an extraordinary experience. Roughly ten years ago, as she was travelling on the Paris metro, her attention was drawn towards a handsome blond man aged about 35, he was dressed in a suit, however, his blue eyes seemed to radiate knowledge and spirituality. As Bernadette left the metro she realised that the man seemed to be following her. He seemed to only be noticed by Bernadette who kept a close surveillance of him. Suddenly he just disappeared!

A few days later, Bernadette saw him again. She was overcome by the same sense of peace. She felt the urge to follow him. The man seemed to be invisible to others. All of a sudden the beings legs began to dematerialise as she was entering the metro. The platform was crowded with commuters. Her first thoughts were how would they ever enter the train? Then, an incredible thing happened: the entity unleashed an invisible energy field -there is no other word to describe it- that pushed the other passengers aside making a way for Bernadette to enter the metro. At that, the being disappeared totally... After the encounter Bernadette's psychic powers seemed to be unleashed. Could it be that the encounter's sole purpose was to show Bernadette that she was a bridge between two worlds? Time will tell!

These two experiences show us that it is sometimes quite futile to search for otherworldly beings in UFOs or outer space: often they seem to be here living amongst us in big cities. They seem (for part of them) to be able to manipulate the space-time continuum. On some occasions they are visible to all around them. At others, they are only visible to those who they want to be seen by. This explanation can only account for a fraction of every day life encounters: Many people have actually met presumed ET's in every day circumstances doing often, mundane jobs and interacting professionally with a great number of people. These beings seem to lead normal lives! There seems to be no psychic phenomenon here: something extremely physical is taking place: the implications I will talk about later.

This account is taken from Timothy Good's blockbuster "Alien Base". In 1963 he was in a roadside restaurant at the California Arizona border. Suddenly his attention was caught by a stunning Nordic looking woman. Good was so impressed by her appearance that he sent her a telepathic message: are you an alien? Immediately, the young woman nodded at Good and gave him a broad smile: she then walked on oblivious to all other clients...

A few years later, Good lived a similar adventure: he was in New York city in a hotel lobby: he decided to send a telepathic message to any extraterrestrial in the vicinity. If they were present, they could come and sit in the seat beside him. Within a short amount of time a business man sat in the seat by Timothy Good. He was fairly young and very ordinary looking. Timothy Good had the intimate conviction that the man was a Visitor. Good decided to send a second telepathic thought to his suspect: it was a request for him to place his index finger on the right side of his nose. Our visitor complied immediately... Coincidence? Human telepathy? Maybe... However, there is a strong possibility that twice, our UFO researcher has undergone a close encounter in a ordinary public place...

These seem to be more frequent than generally realised... One of them concerns the UMMO affair that is very popular in Spain, France and other Latin countries. I am conscious that just pronouncing that name will cause laughing and sneering amongst some. It is a proven hoax, which was confessed in 1993 ... Nothing is further from the truth. I have met some European experts on that affair saying, that on the contrary, it is probably one of the most substantiated cases in ufology:

- There is a form of physical evidence in the shape of their letters that have been kept by many researchers.
- The letters contain high level scientific knowledge that has helped many earth scientists with their research.
- Contrary to popular belief, letters are still being received in countries as diverse as Spain, Great Britain, France and Latin America. The latest letters were received in late 2004 and early 2005...

As a reminder: since the 1960's many UFO researchers and scientists have been receiving letters and documents containing vast scientific, religious and philosophical knowledge. The first letters were written in the mid-sixties in Franquist Spain. Therefore most people thought they were an anti Franquist hoax. Moreover they continued after the death of the Caudillo in 1975. Later, the KGB, CIA and practical jokers were all blamed... to no avail.

How is it possible that some of the world's best and most opened minded ufologists even refuse to look at the UMMO files... ?

I think the answer lies in the fact that although they are ready to accept that extraterrestrials and UFO's are looking at us in saucer-shaped crafts and abduct humans, they are not ready to go one step forward and admit they are living amongst us and interacting incognito in our earth's routine activity.

The account I am about to tell you is linked to the UMMO case: it is not widely known outside the UMMO specialists circle but I believe it is extremely revealing on the degree of interaction in every day life between humans and aliens!

Madrid in the mid sixties: a young dactylographer is looking for a job so he prints a couple of announcements in a local paper: a few days later he is contacted by two "Danish" doctors who ask him to type some scientific articles for them. They are tall and blond but are no different from a perfectly ordinary Nordic earthling. Our dactylographer begins working for them. However his wife is worried: she begins to wonder if those two "Danish" doctors are not spies.

One must remember that we are in Spain in the 60's. It is the height of the cold war and Spain was still under the oppressive dictatorship of General Franco.

The next day, our young clerk decides to go to work all the same. The two Nordic doctors then ask him to type a paper on their home world the planet UMMO situated at 14 light years away. The paper will also include elements of their science. Our young friend is at first sceptical: he wonders if his leg is not being pulled. Then, one of the two doctors reaches inside his pocket for a small transparent ball that starts to levitate: in it is a recording of all the scenes that took place in the dactylographer's house the night before. It is according to the two "doctors" just a "sample of their technology"...

This extraordinary story shows just how "aliens" seem to be living and working in our ordinary world. These "Danish doctors" were not just psychic beings that could temporally manifest in this reality. They were real flesh and blood beings interacting freely with us...

Another similar case was detailed in Budd Hopkins most recent and in my opinion his best book "Sight Unseen". It tells the story of Anne Marie a young American girl who grew up with a man who used to stay at her parents house every summer. He was a family friend to the extent that they used to worry when he didn't turn up.

He used to come and spend the summer months with the family. He befriended Anne Marie. However, when he left the family home, he never left any address, or phone number. He had no known friends... He was also present when Anne Marie was abducted by classical greys.

Importantly Anne Marie remembers receiving letters from Mr Paige that were written in a totally unknown language. It was a language of symbols that according to Anne Marie resembled no other she had ever seen. He also had extraordinary concepts about life: "we are all one, animals, plants and humans".

Mr Paige's habit of disappearing without leaving a trace associated with his strange letters, point to the fact that our hero did not have the behaviour of a normal human being. An old eccentric? Possibly... However, what seems to destroy that theory is the fact that he was present when Anne Mary underwent a classical UFO abduction. In fact, there are elements that tend to show he was the one who was the bridge between Anne Marie and the aliens.

He was not a co-abductee as one could think. He seemed to be linked with the alien phenomenon itself.

Two questions arise when we have studied thoroughly this important case.

Was Mister Paige a human working for and with the aliens?

At first this might seem ridiculous but there are hints that this seems to be occurring in many parts of the world. One has to just think of the MIB phenomenon. Although some of these seem to be semi-physical beings from another dimension or another level of reality, many of them seem to be solid physical beings. They often display very human traits of character: temper, impatient.

Could it be that part of the men in black could actually be humans working with aliens? Therefore it is entirely possible that very ordinary humans are working in all discretion for aliens. Is there no better plan if you want to infiltrate a society than doing it from within? You can impose your ideas, your way of thinking (be it "good" or "bad") without arising any suspicions.

Does this sound silly? Do you know that the iron curtain fell (in part) through the same kind of process: in 1978, a Polish Pope was elected, the late Jean Paul the second.

Many Polish priests naturally supported his ideas that were completely opposed to the "Soviet" ideology. They began holding clandestine meetings with Polish and Eastern European laymen. The most prominent of these then managed to show the people that the communist system was corrupt and dictatorial through clandestine propaganda and subtle changes in every day life.

The CIA did the same in the USSR and other eastern countries. This added to poor economic conditions and a general malaise brought down the Warsaw pact in less than twelve years.

This method is probably the less difficult to put into practise if you need to change a civilisation. On a cosmic scale this process could be done over a period of millennia as opposed to years on an earth scale.

The other question is: was Mister Paige alien or part alien?

This is a very strong possibility: contacts between humans and aliens in everyday situations have been occurring and are still occurring. Let us think of the young Spaniard and the "Danish doctors". Cases like this are very common. I have at least two in my own files. What is so different with Anne Marie's case is the length of the interaction.

It is also possible that some of those beings that interact with us are hybrids part human, part alien as it was theorized in "Sight Unseen". This is largely possible through genetic manipulations. In modern day science, we have produced bacteria that synthesise a vital human hormone: insulin. There are also humanised mice that produce human proteins: hence they are used as specimens for testing new drugs. If one admits that DNA and the genetic code are universal –and more and more studies are pointing to that fact- could it be possible for an extraterrestrial civilisation thousands of years ahead of us to mix its genes with ours? There is also a chilling possibility that we will talk about in a next article: Those "aliens" that look exactly like us could be humans that are possessed by a non- human (alien) consciousness. That possession could be spiritual or technological. Science-fiction? No! science fact: Today many teams of scientists have technologies that enable them to take control of insects but also small mammals.

Through the use of a microchip, a disabled person can communicate through a computer just by thinking the words, the action he wants to perform. Work is underway to do the opposite: implant thoughts in a person's mind through the use of a computer. This is mainstream science, the one you can read about in The Times or the Evening Standard!

This form of possession seems to be much more frequent than we realise it. I have investigated at least one very important and revealing case that I will share with you in the next article. What conclusions can we reach at this stage of our research? It is at this time impossible to think of the alien phenomenon as something that is distant and that only interacts occasionally with the human race. The Aliens come from a wide variety of sources: some of these seem to be other dimensions, other vibratory levels. Others seem to be physical locations in this universe. Whatever the case, there are a good number of contacts that occur in everyday situations with our visitors casually walking amongst us in densely populated cities.

What conclusions can we reach at this stage of our research?

It is at this time impossible to think of the alien phenomenon as something that is distant and that only interacts occasionally with the human race. The Aliens come from a wide variety of sources: some of these seem to be other dimensions, other vibratory levels. Others seem to be physical locations in this universe.

Whatever the case, there are a good number of contacts that occur in everyday situations with our visitors casually walking amongst us in densely populated cities. There is also the possibility of humans working for aliens. These contacts are not a rare phenomenon. They seem to affect a fairly important proportion of the human race. People with Psychic powers have a bigger chance of encounters than others. However not all contactees are psychic.

These are the main conclusions we can reach at this moment in time. However, there is a mixed feeling: on one hand we have aliens that seem to be helping us, as it is the case with the UMMITES. French physicist Jean Pierre Petit claims that part of his work on MHD propulsion systems was made possible through the UMMO letters. Bernadette's psychic powers opened up after her alien experience. This is far from being the only case: a friend of mine developed very strong psychic powers in the wake of an ET experience. Although he suffered many problems after his encounter he did open up to new realities and his view of our world changed radically.

There is at present a growing body of evidence to suggest that the aliens have been responsible for many of humanity's biggest leaps forward: let us just think of geniuses like Nicola Tesla, but also people like Christ and Buddha whose philosophies of love inspired millions. These people could well be inspired by extraterrestrials or extraterrestrial messengers themselves. One must also think of lone geniuses like Leonardo Da Vinci or Van Gogh: Could part of their work be inspired by aliens? Extraterrestrials could also influence us in a more discrete fashion.

The ET or the hybrids amongst us could be gradually pushing forward bits and pieces of technology, philosophy and sciences in order to accelerate the progression of humanity. Think of the all apparently random discoveries made last century: (antibiotics, the microchip...). We must ask the worrying questions:

Is all this done for our benefit? In many cases it seems obvious: Many of these everyday contactees have had their view of life changed for the better after their encounters: Let us take the examples of Bernadette who now has adopted a new view on the nature of reality. The "inventions" mentioned above have undoubtedly helped tens of millions of people.

However could some extraterrestrials be helping us in order to manipulate us for their own purpose? It seems to me, that most extraterrestrials are genuinely here to help us evolve both technologically and mentally, but there are many examples of manipulations by ETs in the ufological literature and also in my personal research. This is a frightening prospect but it cannot be ignored if we want to study objectively the "aliens amongst us" question.

In our next article we will look into the subject of aliens that have become part of people's lives: it will tell the story of contactees who are confronted on a daily basis to the alien phenomenon. They are so used to it that it has become literally part of their life. We will also look into at least one case of manipulative destructive and possessive Alien contact phenomenon. Finally we will talk in more detail about the implications of all this and what can be done...

The Evening Sky January 2006

On a clear midnight in early January the starry sky to the south is as good as it gets. The distinctive figure of Orion stands just a little to the west of the meridian, due south, and is trailed to the southwest by the Dog Star Sirius. The V shaped head of Taurus the Bull complete with orange/red eye in the form of the bright star Alderbaran is visible high in the southwest.

Orion, the Hunter is easily identifiable: three equally bright stars in a slanting line form Orion's waist or belt. The stars Ballatrix and the very bright Betelgeuse mark his shoulders while the searing Rigel and fainter Saiph lie under the belt forming his knees.

The star Betelgeuse is a slowly pulsating red giant star 1,600 times the size of the Sun and destined to explode as a supernova in a few million years' time. Rigel is a highly luminous blue giant star 50 times the size of the Sun. Rigel will eventually evolve into a red giant star before exploding as a supernova.

The planet Mercury may be glimpsed low in the pre-dawn sky an hour before the Sun rises in early January. Venus is the dazzlingly bright 'Evening Star' setting around 90 minutes after the Sun. Mars, Saturn and Jupiter are prominent throughout the night. Full Moon occurs on January 14, and the Earth is closest to the Sun (perihelion) on January 4.

At long last a spacecraft will leave Earth bound for the edge of the solar system. The New Horizons spacecraft will make the first reconnaissance of Pluto and its moon Charon and visit one or more objects in the Kuiper Belt region beyond Neptune.

The solar system contains three zones: the inner rocky planets, the gas giant planets and the Kuiper Belt. Pluto is the largest body of the icy third zone of our solar system.

Each of the zones has its own class of planets: the rocky worlds, Earth, Venus, Mercury and Mars; the gas giants, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune and the ice dwarfs of the Kuiper Belt. There are far more ice dwarf planets than rocky and gas giant worlds combined yet, no spacecraft has visited a planet in this class.

The ice dwarfs are planetary embryos whose growth stopped at sizes 100 miles to 1,500 miles across. Ice dwarfs are much smaller than the full-grown planets of the inner solar system and the gas giants region.

The ice dwarfs are ancient relics that formed over 4 billion years ago.

Because they are literally the bodies out of which the larger planets accumulated the ice dwarfs have a great deal to teach us about planetary formation. New Horizons will seek those answers.

The primary launch window for New Horizons will be between January 11 and February 14, 2006. Using Jupiter in a gravity-assist flight, New Horizons will arrive at Pluto in 2017. The spacecraft will be travelling so fast that once launched from Earth, it will reach the Moon in 9 hours. Wow!

Enjoy Your Evening Sky!

A SAD PASSING. It is with deep regret that we wish to inform our readers that our New Zealand colleague HARVERY.L.COOKE died on the 1st of December 05, after a short illness.

Harvey (87) had served in the RNZAF during WW2 in the Far East and was a keen aeronautical enthusiast as well as being a prominent member of the Tauranga UFO Society. We have passed on our condolences to his family members.

MAJOR DISCOVERY IN THE OUTER SOLAR SYSTEM

A team of astronomers working in Canada, France and the United States have discovered an unusual small body orbiting the Sun beyond Neptune, in the region astronomers call the Kuiper belt. This new object is twice as far from the Sun as Neptune and is roughly half the size of Pluto. The body, temporarily code-named "Buffy", has a highly unusual orbit which is difficult to explain using previous theories of the formation of the outer Solar System. CANADA-FRANCE-HAWAII TELESCOPE NEWS RELEASE Posted: December 14, 2005

AUTHORITIES HUNT FOR 'BIGFOOT' IN MALAYSIA Associated Press December 30, 2005
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia - Authorities began searching the jungles of southern Malaysia on Friday for the mythical "Bigfoot" following a reported sighting of three giant human-like beasts, officials said. Wildlife authorities may set up cameras in the 309 sq.mile Endau Rompin National Park in Johor state to see if the creatures do exist, they said. Park director Hashim Yusof ventured into the jungle Friday to survey the site where three fish farm workers reportedly saw the beasts -- two adults and a young one -- last month, Hashim's secretary told The Associated Press. She did not want her name used and declined to give details. The fish farm workers were in the jungle to clear an area for a fish pond. They alerted their employer who photographed what appeared to be footprints measuring up to 17 inches, said Lim Teong Kheng, the chairman of the Malaysian Nature Society in Johor. He said brown hair reeking of body odour was also reportedly retrieved nearby, and a broken tree branch at the site appeared to indicate the creatures were some 10 feet tall. The New Straits Times newspaper on Thursday reprinted one of the photographs taken by the fish farmer, showing what appears to be a triangular depression in the undergrowth. Lim welcomed the investigation by the national park saying "Bigfoot" sightings have been reported for decades in the area but never taken seriously for lack of evidence.
