TERRORISM AND ANTI-GRAVITY

The destruction by Arab fanatics of the Manhattan trade centre on September 11th is generally thought to have consequences for areas seemingly remote from the original event. It could even lead to a covert admission by the USA that it has energy sources perhaps derived from previously unmentionable contacts. If in fact it does possess the control of gravity manifested in the flight patterns of UFOs, as some people think, then it is much less vulnerable to pressure from the world's oil suppliers.

Saudi Arabia, the origin of Osama bin Laden, his riches and even his bodyguards, is at the centre of his international organisation and probably would not willingly assent to cutting the financial lifelines of his terrorist groups or risk permanent disturbance of its symbiotic relationship with Western oil consumers. Yet the USA expects the anti-terrorist pressures to succeed. If therefore it has no fear of an oil embargo and can insist on Saudi compliance, has it perhaps access to an alternative energy source?

If this is so then, because of the finite supply of hydrocarbon fuels, plans will have been made for the development of this alternative, which could then be used to persuade the Saudis into supporting the international anti-terrorism drive. If this pressure succeeded, the USA would not need to say how it was done, and the possibly extraterrestrial secret would remain unrevealed. It's just speculation, of course, but fascinating all the same!

UK's CAA FILES DOCUMENT 30 UFO NEAR MISSES

WESTERN DAILY PRESS, BRISTOL ENGLAND June 15, 2000, reports: Hundreds of passengers were within a split second of Britain's worst aviation disaster when two jets missed colliding by just 100 feet at Heathrow airport. The public was shocked and public confidence severely dented. However, what air travellers didn't know was that in the last two decades there have been around 30 similar near misses - with UFOs. The Western Daily Press has uncovered a dossier detailing the sensational incidents. The Civil Aviation Authority's 'X-Files' are now in the possession of top investigative author Nick Redfern who has shown the contents to the Daily Press. The CAA's hidden files, only recently released after years under wraps, documents pilots' and air traffic controllers' descriptions of the unidentified flying objects, which were close to bringing down jets loaded with passengers. Last night the CAA's spokesman Chris Mason said of the classified papers:

"Our reports are from highly trained pilots and air traffic controllers. We have no argument with what they say they have seen, even if what they saw can't be explained. We admit that in some cases the aircraft which were nearly in collision with the aircraft have never been traced. We keep an open mind about UFOs. Some things just can't be explained, but they have been reported by top professionals and we do take that into account."

The CAA has been carefully and quietly collecting and analysing data pertaining to near-collisions between airliners and UFOs for a number of years. In addition, while such a claim might sound like something straight out of an episode of 'The X-Files,' it is one supported by the CAA's own records. "I've never seen anything like it before and can't explain what it was," said British Airways pilot Mike Dalton, of his sighting of a large, silver disc-shaped object from his Boeing 737 flying from Rome to Gatwick on the night of November 5, 1990. "My co-pilot and I called in two cabin crew to see it and then it went out of sight. Ground radar couldn't pick it up, so it must have been travelling at phenomenal speed." Subsequent investigations determined the UFO had been seen by a second BA pilot and the pilot of an RAF Tornado aircraft who was obliged to take "violent evasive action" to avoid a collision with it.

On the night of 21 April 1991, the term 'close encounter' took on an altogether more significant meaning for the crew and passengers of a London-bound airliner. At 9.00 pm Captain Achille Zaghetto, who was piloting a McDonnell-Douglas MD-80 aircraft, was amazed to see an unidentified flying object pass his aircraft as it flew over the coast of Kent at a height of more than 22,000 feet. As the UFO was no more than 1,000 feet above the airliner, and the incident therefore classed as a 'near-miss', an official inquiry was launched by the CAA. Approximately two weeks later the following brief statement was issued: "The pilot said the object was light brown, round, three metres long, and did not describe any means of propulsion." The aircraft was under the control of London air traffic control centre who had no other aircraft in the vicinity, but consistent with the pilot report, a faint radar trace was observed ten nautical miles behind the Alitalia aircraft. "Extensive inquiries have failed to provide any indication of what the sighting may have been." But more was to come. The next incident to occur took place on June 1, 1991, when a yellow-orange cylindrical object, ten feet long, was seen at close quarters by the crew of a Britannia Airways Boeing 737 en route to London from Dublin.

Sixteen days later, yet another cylindrical-shaped UFO was sighted, this time by one Walter Leiss, a German engineer aboard Dan Air flight DA 4700 as it headed toward Hamburg.

January 6, 1995, Captain Roger Wills and co-pilot Mark Stuart were beginning their descent towards Manchester Airport in a Boeing 737 twin jet with 60 passengers on board. Seventeen minutes before touchdown, a mysterious, triangular-shaped UFO flashed past the right-hand side of the aircraft at a distance described as being "very close" - so close, in fact, that the crew instinctively "ducked" in their seats. This is an extract from the conversation between crew of the B737 and the radar controller.

B737: "We just had something go down the right hand side just above us very fast."

MANCHESTER ATC: "Well, there's nothing seen on the radar. Was it an aircraft?"

B737: "Well, it had lights; it went down the starboard side very quick [and] just slightly above us, yeah."

MANCHESTER ATC: "Keep an eye out for something, I can't see anything at all at the moment so, must have been very fast or gone down very quickly after it passed you I think."

B737: "Okay. Well, there you go!"

DISCS IN THE AIR, BUT ALSO IN ANCIENT BARROWS AND BURIAL MOUNDS

By George A. Filer

All around our world there are numerous ancient disc-shaped burial barrows, tumuli, or mounds that were built to bury our ancestors. When I flew for the Air Force, I noticed many mounds from the air in many parts of the world. Ohio, West Virginia, Illinois, Florida, the Middle East, and the area around Stonehenge in England have many examples that still exist. Thousands were built in America, and 18,000 were built in Britain 5000 years ago during the Bronze Age. Both in Great Britain and America thousands of flint discs have been found inside the American Indian and British burial mounds.

Recent evidence has also uncovered an ancient alphabet that appears to have been used throughout the ancient world. The burial barrows are constructed to a precise plan, where the periphery of a circle is marked by posts and stakes and is called a palisade. Now, 5000 years later, the barrows still maintain their basic structure unless destroyed by grave robbers or modern construction projects. Within this palisade the dead were buried and a discoid shaped structure was built that looks remarkably like present day UFOs. Not only was a disc shape used in construction but also, each dead body was buried with its own carved disc. Sometimes these small discs came from a hundred miles away and were often carved or chipped from flint stone. Archaeologists claim these disc barrow builders were worshipers of the sun and moon. I asked investigator John Thompson his opinion. He stated, our ancestors saw "things" in the sky and intuitively, but probably incorrectly and as modern man is doing, decided that Gods from space were/are visiting us. They, however and more astutely than us, made the death-heaven connection. Why bury models of UFOs with themselves if they didn't think that these entities "aboard them" were not connected to the so-called spirit-world they were entering? Its obvious they saw linkage between what they observed in the sky and where they believe they were going after dying.

The archaeologists maintain that the discs represented sun or moon worship. Drawings and carvings have been made of the sun and moon for ages, the sun is usually represented as a circle with lines or rays and the moon is generally crescent shaped. So we can hypothesise that our ancestors, like Ezekiel who saw a UFO in the sky, probably worshipped or at least prayed these craft would take them to heaven or at least keep their souls alive. Discs are clearly depicted in the 2,500-year-old palace of Darius at Persepolis in Iran. I think we can assume the depictions of disc craft with triple landing gear are accurate and it makes good sense to assume they were in our skies in ancient times.

These UFO discs have been depicted in 18,000 year-old ancient caves in France. The Egyptians believed a metal craft with a metal door carried the souls of the dead who had led a good life. Many of the objects found in the barrows carry out the disc theme and its importance to the people. Clothing and capes were fastened over the upper chest with a disc measuring two inches in diameter. Jewellery, early armour and even the chief structures of worship carried out the disc theme. Stonehenge itself covered by wood would make a nicely shaped disc. Ancient sites such as New Grange in Ireland, believed to be the world's oldest structure is shaped as a disc. It is similar in appearance to the Mound of Kinowth and both have the disc shape with a rim and representations of windows that faithfully imitate the real object. If the ancients intended to imitate either the moon or the sun their structures would look very different. Almost everywhere in the world myths, customs, and religion claim their individual ancestors came from space. I suggest the history of the world is very different if we recognise the importance of disc UFOs.

ANTI-GRAVITY

Nick Cook, aviation editor of Jane's Defence Weekly, believes that the USA has the secret of anti-gravity, based on developments from the work of Nazi former SS General Hans Kammler. In articles published in August issues of The Mail on Sunday he calls it "a discovery born of the Nazis' desire to conquer the world" which "could also explain the thousands of sightings of UFOs that have occurred since the Second World War." He claims that the German weapons programme had produced aircraft resembling the now well-known elliptical saucer design and that its power supply involved a process which could produce "a weapon more destructive than the hydrogen bomb." He claims to have discovered evidence of mysterious aircraft with reduced gravity systems, paid for from the Pentagon's enormous "black budgets" which financed secret programmes. Anti-gravity, he says, is "a source of energy so great that ... in the wrong hands it could destroy the world."

It certainly would not be good for the oil industry, so it looks like we'll be sticking to hydrocarbons for some time yet!

NEW JERSEY MULTIPLE LIGHTS

CARTERET -- Peter Davenport, Chuck Warren, WABC, CNN, and New Jersey FM 101.5 have reported that a large UFO was sighted near Newark Airport on July 15, 2001. Numerous large bright lights were reported in a flying triangle pattern moving above the New Jersey Turnpike around 12:30 AM on Sunday morning July 15, 2001. Peter Davenport received several reports from witnesses to a cluster of an estimated 15 to 30 golden, or orange, lights hovering and moving slowly near Newark. The witnesses were travelling south on the New Jersey Turnpike. Witnesses had asserted that upwards of 100 cars were seen stopped on the highway, and many of their occupants were standing outside the vehicles, apparently watching the peculiar, V-formation of lights. The Newark Star Ledger carried an article about the alleged incident in its July 16 issue, and it reports that the police department in Carteret, NJ, located just to the southeast of Newark Airport, received dozens of calls about the incident. In addition, CNN TV-affiliate station, WNY, in New York City covered the sighting. Peter and Chuck contacted me and notified me that New Jersey FM 101.5 carried the story on the news beginning each hour. Many callers to the station reported seeing a huge object.

Some eye witnesses claim to have seen a structure, others did not. Astronomers claimed there was no meteorite activity. The Federal Aviation Authority claimed no aircraft were airborne in the area. Some of the witnesses were emotionally shaken by the event, although the nature of it is yet to be determined. The sighting of a flying triangle UFO was shown on New York City TV station WNBC-TV and several other New York stations. The sighting was reported and videotaped by a Carteret Police Officer. The video was shown and the police officer along with several town residents including the Mayor were interviewed. The video was of excellent quality and showed a dark triangular shaped object against a brighter night-time sky. The object had bright white lights on each corner. It was moving too slowly to be identified as a meteor and NASA confirmed that it was not space debris. Its movements and lighting configuration were also not consistent with aircraft. David Stich, who was interviewed by the Newark Star Ledger, said he: "saw the bursts of light from those flares [and they] didn't look to him like spotlights or anything else he could recognize."

I interviewed the Right Reverend Chubenko (who has higher rank than Monsignor in the Ukrainian Church) by phone. He also saw the object. He sent me the following e-mail. 'I wanted to report this sighting, since it occurred at approximately 12:45 AM July 15, 2001, over the town of Carteret, New Jersey. I am an Orthodox Ukrainian priest - and my son (who is a funeral director was going out on a death call) gets in touch with me via his cell phone at about 12:40 and tells me I need to get dressed quickly and come outside. He was just getting ready to get on to the New Jersey Turnpike when he saw a huge collection of lights numbering about 30 + over the town of Carteret, and, specifically over the "Carteret Shoprite Shopping Center." I immediately put on a pair of shorts and slippers and went outside. By this time, my son was standing in front of the rectory (which is aside of the church) and was pointing to the series of lights moving in an easterly direction towards Staten Island. The Lights were arrayed in a series of triangular forms, but I only counted 13 or 14 lights. I say 13 or 14 because I was so taken by them that I didn't want to take my eyes off of them to count them twice. The entire group of lights was moving from right to left (east) and totally in unison. As they were moving, a light would "drop" a "new" light from it (less intense than itself) and the "new" light would fade away. Immediately after that, the light that just "dropped" the new light would also fade out. This happened about five times as the collection of lights continued to move. As the entire sequence of lights continued to move behind the buildings to my immediate left, I had to move to our parking lot to see them and as I did, I began to lose sight of the group of lights until there was only one light and then none at all!

'This was the strangest phenomenon I have ever seen. I estimate that the lights were no more than 3-4000 feet above the town. I am a private pilot, so I have a little idea of height and some sense of distance in the sky. The sky was totally clear - no wind - stars were visible in the sky as well as approaching aircraft to Newark. There were no aircraft in the vicinity of the "lights" and my son commented that the airplanes which were on approach to Newark airport were lower than usual. The lights made absolutely no noise and moved with such precision that they resembled a huge craft, yet I get the sense that they were individual lights and not one large craft. They definitely were not a meteor shower, as a neighbour of mine neither yelled to me, nor were they stars moving. They were a "calculated" series of high intensity lights moving in a specific direction. At this point, I can only call them UFO's and that they definitely were. I only wish I knew what they were doing here. If anyone else saw them or can explain their purpose, I certainly would be interested in hearing about it.'

Thanks to Rt. Rev. Taras Chubenko, Pastor, St. Demetrius Ukrainian Orthodox Cathedral 645 Roosevelt Ave. Carteret, NJ 07008.

Editor's Note: I had a long talk with Father Chubenko who is an excellent witness and was also trained as an electrical engineer. He estimated the lights were 400 to 500 yards apart and connected to the same object, since they did not change their relative position and brightened and dimmed together. It looked like a huge triangle of lights. I asked if the lights might be flares dropped from aircraft? He felt this was impossible because the lights brightened and dimmed in a synchronized operation. It was obvious all the lights were connected to the same object. Multiple witnesses also claim they do not believe these were parachute flares, blimps, or other similar phenomena. I'm driving up to interview several witnesses tomorrow and trying to get a copy of the videotape made by Carteret Police. Thanks to Peter Davenport and Chuck Warren. <http://www.UFOcenter.com> Hotline: 206-722-3000

SETI@home Users Spammed by Computer Vandals

By SPACE.com Staff posted: 01:00 pm ET 24 May 2000

Computer vandals broke into the alien-hunting SETI@home database, stole tens of thousands of e-mail addresses and spammed users last weekend, it was reported Wednesday.

SETI@home operators say its biggest-ever security breach is now sealed. The popular program simulates the power of a supercomputer by running on the background of more than 3 million personal computers to search radio data for signs of extraterrestrial intelligence.

The prank is annoying for SETI@home users, and it's troublesome to commercial efforts to launch similar "distributed computing projects" which work by tapping into the personal computers of thousands or millions of participants via the Internet.

Two Stanford University graduate students recently announced their scheme to thwart users who have been submitting false results or claiming more SETI@home work than they really did to gain glory on the project's Web page. But that process is useless to protect against this sort of hack.

50,000 e-mail addresses taken

SETI@home users participate in the project by downloading and installing software to crunch space signals collected by a huge radio dish at the Arecibo Radio

Observatory in Puerto Rico. When operational, the program appears as a vibrant purple signal-graph screensaver on computers. The processed data is returned to the project's servers in Berkeley with an ID number attached, and a computer there then sends another "work unit" back to the volunteer's e-mail address.

Hackers inserted themselves into that moment in the process and hijacked e-mail addresses by submitting a range of ID numbers to the servers, project director David Anderson told MSNBC.com.

Anderson estimates that hackers absconded with as many as 50,000 e-mail addresses and then sent e-mails that menaced users' privacy.

Once users started alerting SETI@home managers, they responded by no longer sending out e-mail addresses. No other personal information, including passwords and real names and addresses, was compromised, Anderson told MSNBC.com, but hackers could still get usage statistics about volunteers separate from e-mail addresses.

Eventually, SETI@home would like to set up clients with passwords, but the project currently lacks resources for that. For now, the project has funds to continue through to the end of the year.

VIDEO GIVEAWAY!

Following a recent SIGAP video evening we have two copies of the boxed set What Happened on the Moon? – An investigation into Apollo to give away. Those present at the meeting viewed extracts from the videos which run to more than 3½ hours viewing time and are based upon part one of the book Dark Moon - Apollo and the Whistle Blowers by David Percy and Mary Bennett.

The first two members' names out of the hat on 1st December 2001 will be sent a copy. If you wish your name to be entered into the draw please write your name and address on a plain piece of paper and send it to:

SIGAP Moon Video Giveaway, Belmont, Markenfield Road, Guildford, GU1 4PF. Good luck!

DISCLOSURE AND SEPT 11th 2001

AN ANALYSIS BY DISCLOSURE PROJECT DIRECTOR
STEVEN M. GREER M.D.

As we mourn the tragic loss of precious life on September 11, and as we all pray for justice and peace in the world, let us also rededicate our lives to the task of creating a world in which those atrocious and evil acts can never be repeated. Let us pray for the world and our nation and ask that Providence guide our leaders and protect our soldiers as we unite to create a safe and just world.

Having lived in the Middle East for 3 years, during which time I saw first hand the madness and horror of terrorism, I have no illusions about the scale of the problem we are facing: Those who live in the utmost bigotry, religious fanaticism, and evil, bloodthirsty hatred are seldom reached by reason. Those few rabid dogs who threaten the whole of humanity must be restrained, and if necessary put down.

But we must distinguish between short-term remedies, however necessary, and long-term cures. To avert an even graver cataclysm, great care must be taken, and we need to look deeply at the larger causes of the sickness that visited New York and Washington on 9/11.

I have been asked what relation the Disclosure Project may have to the healing of this consuming and potentially lethal illness that has afflicted humanity in this, the millennium of peace. Is the Disclosure Project relevant in this new world? Yes, more than ever.

For nearly 10 years we have been meeting with senior CIA, Pentagon and political figures, advocating a general disclosure on so-called UFOs, Extraterrestrial Intelligence and related energy and propulsion systems currently held by illegal, 'classified' projects. These projects, unsupervised by the Congress or President, are illegal, rogue, shadowy operations that are a direct threat to both short term and long-term national and world security concerns. Their 'black' funding status deprives genuine security, intelligence and military programs of much needed support and technological resources. And they are withholding from valid, legal projects the new technologies that could both prevent and intercept the catastrophe of 9/11.

The valid, true, legal government of We The People is deprived of both technologies and funding that could have prevented the massive national security and intelligence failure that led to the events of 9/11. While conventional and legal programs are starved for staffing and new technologies, clandestine and rogue black projects are awash in upwards of $100 Billion per year. Largely privatised, these operations have both the means and the technologies to have prevented 9/11. And yet they did nothing.

Why? Because they do not exist. Consider these words of Senator Inouye: "There exists a shadowy Government with its own Air Force, its own Navy, its own fundraising mechanism, and the ability to pursue its own ideas of the national interest, free from all checks and balances, and free from the law itself."

In the unacknowledged world of such projects (see the book Disclosure by this author) there exist the technologies to monitor, intercept and penetrate the terrorist cells of Osama bin Laden and others. But this is a case of not just the left hand not knowing what the right hand is doing: the left hand does not even know the right hand exists.

Such 'shadowy' projects hide within the vast bureaucracy of government, military intelligence, corporate, laboratory and institute operations in the U.S. and abroad - compartmented away from the public, the Congress and usually even the President, CIA Director, and Secretary of Defense. The Disclosure Project has penetrated these projects, obtained testimony, code names and facility locations. The illegal nature of such projects, their highly compartmented nature and their large financial resources prevents normal oversight and control by the government of the people. They are able to avoid detection, work in compartmented cells funded by clandestine sources and evade interception by even skilled investigators in the Congress, Department of Defense and CIA. Indeed, their modus operandi are not dissimilar from the very terrorist cells we are trying to penetrate and neutralize.

Let no one interpret this as an indictment of 'The Government', 'The CIA', 'The Pentagon' etc. On the contrary, the point is that the conventional, legal government, military and intelligence community are for the most part the first victims of these operations, not the perpetrators. In fact, in meetings with the head of Intelligence for the Joint Chiefs of Staff (J-2), the head of the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) and the Director of the CIA, I have learned first hand of their frustration and horror at the unchecked power of these rogue operations that undermine our security and make a mockery of the rule of law and the constitution, as Senator Inouye correctly observed. I am sure 99%+ of the conventional government, military and intelligence community are not only denied access to these projects, but are victimized, blind-sided and hindered by them.

In short, The Disclosure Project stands ready to provide Congressional and other government investigators with the insider witnesses who can expose these operations and put them back under the control of the legitimate government - where they can do the people some good. I have little doubt that such projects possess - and are withholding from the legal government - the means to prevent another 9/11.

Beyond this, in 1994 Dick D'Amato, then senior counsel to the Senate Appropriations Committee, told me personally that with a subpoena power and a top secret clearance, he could not penetrate such rogue projects - and that somewhere between $40 billion and $80 billion per year were going into such unsupervised operations. And that was in 1994 dollars! In the zero sum game of government budgets, this means today upwards of $100 billion per year is being siphoned off into operations of dubious value, which do not benefit - and may erode - our national security.

The operational readiness and competence of our intelligence and military community are being undermined by such 'shadowy' projects - and yet after 10 years of meetings with our leaders in Washington, at the U.N. and in other countries, we still see that nothing is being done about it. We the people, the media and the armed services must demand a change, before it is really too late. Our government, our nation, the people and our courageous men and women in the military and intelligence community need and deserve better. We must stand-down these rogue projects and give back to the people and the people's representatives the means to protect and defend our nation and the civilized world.

But these near-term concerns, though grave, are subordinate to a larger, more fundamental problem: Clandestine projects, largely privatised in the contracting sector of shadowy corporate/government operations, are withholding from the public the definitive cure for the underlying illness: Oil.

We have hundreds of witnesses whose testimony, government documents and related evidence will prove that UFOs exist - and that some of them are made by humans using extraordinary breakthroughs in physics, energy generation and propulsion. In short, the technologies needed to replace the internal combustion engine and fossil fuels already exist in these clandestine projects - projects that we the people have paid for.

Make no mistake about it: We have not needed oil, and especially Mid-east oil, for decades, and we can prove it. And yet the cornerstone of our foreign policy and presence in that troubled region has been directed at securing cheap, abundant and reliable supplies of oil. Again, the conventional government, diplomats, Congressional leaders and so forth are completely unaware of the existence of these new energy and propulsion systems. So they blindly pursue policies to ensure the continued safe supply of that noxious stuff that runs the entire western economy. Unaware of these clandestine projects - projects that hide behind a bogus claim of national security - our leaders do the best they can, with both hands tied behind their backs and a blindfold over both eyes.

This is not to excuse in any way the evil, monstrous and inhuman acts of Osama bin Laden or others of his ilk. There can be no rationalizing such horrific deeds. But we can understand it: Why him, why us, why now: why?

Fanatics like bin Laden are hell-bent on running America out of the Middle East because they view our presence there as a virtual invasion of their land, culture and values. They view us as an imperial power colonizing their region in order to secure cheap oil, and it is resented. To a lesser extent, they are concerned about our support for Israel, but bin Laden himself has made it very clear in numerous speeches that their main concern is getting the US out of Saudi Arabia, the land containing the most holy sites in the Islamic world. For decades, our foreign and military policy - whether in Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Iran or elsewhere - has been driven by our strategic oil and energy interests.

As we learned on 9/11, the price of oil has been much higher than we thought.

While never condoning the evil deeds of bin Laden et al, we must recognize that such malevolence does not evolve in a vacuum. The milieu that gave rise to such atrocities must be understood and corrected.

The good news is that the Disclosure Project can prove that we have a replacement for oil, coal and conventional energy. In a decade we could reach energy independence: bin Laden et al may keep their oil, for we will not need it.

For 50 years, America and the world have had their destiny hijacked by rogue, shadowy projects that have abused the national security act to suppress these energy and propulsion systems. Our foreign policy, oil and energy policy and environmental policy have all been driven by what is hidden in clandestine projects. Our leaders, scientists, policy makers and the people have not known that the definitive solution to the world's energy, environmental and poverty problems have been stolen from us. It is time we take them back.

Things called UFOs have been seen for decades. What are they? Where are they from? How do they work? In these answers lie the solution to the world geo-political crisis, third world poverty, oil, pollution and many other pressing concerns. We have the answers. Is anybody listening?

The events of 9/11 are truly tragic: they were preventable. Operationally, we could have and should have intercepted that mission of terror - if only our good and courageous men and women in the military and intelligence world had the resources stolen by rogue projects. And the root cause of the problem - our oil policy and dominant presence in the Middle East - is a problem of our own making. We have allowed these 'shadowy' projects to grow and they have taken from us the definitive solution to the oil and energy crisis.

An old Chinese saying states that 'Unless we change directions, we are likely to end up where we are going...' As we look at where we are going, can anyone question that we must change directions - and soon?

The Disclosure Project is dedicated to bringing forth the information and top-secret government witnesses so that these rogue programs are returned to the government of the people. We are dedicated to disclosing these energy and propulsion systems that will give us the means to become energy independent. This is a tide that will lift all boats. This is the beginning of a new chapter in human history.

So as we remember those fallen on 9/11, let us see through our tears to a course of action. Let our actions be our remembrance. Let our actions bring forth the means for opening a new chapter in human history - one of abundance, justice, equality and peace. All that we need has been given - and again stolen - from us. Do we have the courage to bring it forth?

The day those terrible events occurred in New York and Washington, I vowed that we must redouble our efforts to disclose the truth. And more: to start a project to disclose and build those new energy and propulsion technologies to forever replace our need for oil. Please join us if you can help. Our actions to build the world anew will be the most fitting memorial to those innocents who left this world on 9/11.

CRYBOT CAMERA EXPLORES ANTARCTICA, PREPARING FOR ET HUNT

By Robert Roy Britt, Senior Science Writer
 posted: 07:00 am ET 29 May 2001

The search for extraterrestrial life - on Mars, Jupiter's moon Europa, or anywhere - is not likely to be an easy chore. It's a pretty safe bet that there won't be any critters, or even fossils, lying around on the surface.

So someone, or something, is probably going to have to do some serious digging. And in the case of frozen Europa, or even the ice caps of Mars, that digging will involve some pretty fancy technology capable of boring down through thick ice in conditions a little more harsh than wherever you are reading this article.

No problem. Researchers are laying the groundwork, or rather the under-ice work, right here on Earth. And they're making some interesting findings along the way.

More than 3,900 feet (1,200 metres) below the surface of the West Antarctic ice sheet, a camera designed by NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory is proving that it can handle extreme environments. The camera was dropped into a pre-melted hole. In the future it will be mounted on a so-called cryobot, which would melt that its way through the ice and then takes pictures.

An early version of the real cryobot is being built, and researchers hope to test it in the Yukon later this summer. Meanwhile, the camera tests have discovered mysterious pockets and streams of water lurking below the ice.

"This project fits into the bigger picture of planetary studies," said Frank Carsey, JPL's principal investigator on the project. "It provides us with some understanding of how to observe what goes on deep in ice caps - Earth's ice caps, Martian ice caps and ice caps on Europa."

The cryobot will be outfitted with two cameras and lights. Over the next couple of years, researchers plan to add other monitoring devices, including biological sensors that would search for evidence of life in the Antarctic ice sheet and eventually on Mars, Europa or elsewhere.

Treasure trove of information

The Antarctic Ice Borehole Probe Project is supported by NASA and the National Science Foundation. The project recently completed a three-month test of the camera that will be mounted on the cryobot, studying the vast West Antarctic ice sheet (it's as big as the United States and Mexico combined).

Researchers say the ice holds a potential treasure trove of information related to the geological history of this frozen continent and the mechanisms by which ice flows to the oceans. Microbes are known to reside under mountain glaciers, researchers say, where it is warmer and there are nutrients from impurities found between water crystals. And life has already been found in other extreme locations under Antarctic ice.

"These locations are very old places. Some, such as on Mars, are hundreds of millions of years old," said Carsey. "The base of a planet's polar cap chronicles the planet's climate and can reveal much about its history and biology", he said.

Other studies show that significant changes in glacial melting and flow rates could have a considerable impact on global sea levels, so researchers are racing to learn what's going on below the ice.

Under-ice water systems

The cryobot camera investigated Ice Stream C, where 150 years ago the ice suddenly stopped flowing in one area in the lower part of the stream. This so-called sticky spot, currently flowing at a rate of about 6.5 feet (2 metres) per year, greatly differs from its neighbouring streams, which zoom along at some 1,300 feet (400 metres) per year.

Lowered on a tether through four different boreholes, the camera revealed what appears to be an under-the-ice water system. In places, a water-filled cavity measured roughly 4.6 feet (1.4 metres deep). Researchers had expected no more than a few millimetres.

The camera also spotted rock and other debris embedded in the ice as much as 85 feet (26 metres) above the base. It was believed that frozen debris would be found no higher than 6.5 feet (2 metres) off the base of the ice stream.

A puzzling set of layers was also found. Researchers suspect that these layers might have been created when ice and gravel froze into the ice sheet. As more water slides under the ice, it might push these debris-laden layers up, then cause another layer of ice mixed with debris to form.

"The layered information will turn out to be very interesting," said Carsey. "These layers tell us about processes upstream." By analysing these ice layers, researchers may learn how ice streams flow and stop flowing.

"With the probe, we have now left the dark ages," said Caltech's Hermann Engelhardt, a senior research associate on the project.

It remains to be seen whether future incarnations of the ice probe will have anything worth finding elsewhere in the solar system.

UFO AGENCY TO HELP IN CATTLE MUTILATION INVESTIGATIONS

Police in Montana investigating the mutilation of cattle have reportedly asked an agency that studies UFOs for help.

Ranchers in Dupuyer and Fort Shaw have reported four cattle deaths. The animals had parts of their faces peeled off and their eyeballs and genitals were removed.

Police say whoever is responsible for the attacks, which stretch back to mid-June, left few clues behind. The killings are similar to several cattle deaths in the 1970s in the same general area of north central Montana, which also remain unsolved.

Colm Kelleher, of the National Institute For Discovery Science in Las Vegas, said the sheriff's office had contacted them over the latest killings. The group says it researches "UFOs and related anomalous phenomena". It helped investigations into the 1970s cattle mutilations and found a link between the killings and UFO sightings around Malmstrom Air Force Base. But Mr Kelleher says while there is a link, they don't know who or what is behind the attacks.

Dan Campbell, of Pondera County Sheriff's Department, said: "I don't believe in little green men. I think 500 people have asked me, 'Well, what's doing it?' If I knew, I would get it in the paper."

CREATURES AND STARGATES

Dr. Eric Davis discussed wormholes as a method of faster-than-light travel at the 2001 MUFON Symposium. He made these startling statements as support for that hypothesis:

"UFO witness descriptions are the database presently available for examining the wormhole hypothesis along with the meagre physical data acquired by surveillance equipment (see for example, references 36-39). And we recognise that witness reports are not rigorous from the standpoint of collecting physics data. Of the more than 650 cases investigated by NIDS, several dozen clearly portend wormhole manifestations. Particular examples include field research NIDS conducted in northeastern Utah whereby the following example data was acquired:

- Intensely bright, coloured balls of light under intelligent control; either monochromatic or changing colour; possessing either smooth or variable liquid turbulence-like surface/internal texture; manoeuvring/hovering near people and around property; brightening or fading and blue/red Doppler shifting when appearing or disappearing.
- Very large, very bright orange-coloured opening in the daytime sky; a completely different or foreign looking sky was seen through the opening; an object was seen (through rifle spotting scope) moving through the opening at rapid speed.
- Faint light appears in the air a few feet above a dirt road; light grows in intensity becoming very bright; bright light then becomes a hole that opens up (growing from 1 to 3 feet diameter) and from within which another light is emanating; a large, black creature (~ 400 lbs., 8 to 9 feet tall) is seen crawling out of the hole (as seen through 3rd generation military night vision, hole appeared 3-dimensional with tunnel-like interior), it stood up and ran away into the surrounding dark of night; the brightly lit hole closed and faded away.

Perhaps we have uninvited visitors that are just literally "popping in" on us. It is too bad that we do not have a videotape of the 3rd event listed and a track on where the large, black creature went.

OUR CROWDED SKY by George A. Filer

Since the successful intercept of a ballistic missile over the Pacific Ocean on July 14, 2001, the aircrews of UFOs have been putting on spectacular shows. Strange bright pulsating lights, discs, plasmas, and Flying Triangles are being reported around the United States.

During the summer months a tremendous amount of electrical energy is being pumped into the atmosphere. This electrical energy comes from multiple sources such as aircraft, automobile engines, radars, electrical transmission lines, communication devices, and even sun flares. Numerous reports of plasmas, orbs, and electromagnetic energy similar to ball lightning have been reported. Project HAARP is also pumping huge amounts of energy into the atmosphere. Dr. Nick Begich the author of Angels Don't Play This HAARP, claims the government is dumping a billion watts of electronic radiation into the upper atmosphere:

"One way to visualize this power level is that a 10-billion watt generator, running continuously for one hour, would deliver a quantity of energy equal to that of a Hiroshima size atomic bomb." (Page 112)

The US Air Force's scientific advisory board on weapons for the 21st century states, "One can envision the development of electromagnetic energy sources, the output of which can be pulsed, shaped, and focused, that can couple with the human body in a fashion that will allow one to prevent voluntary muscular movements, control emotions with both short-term and long-term memory, produce an experience set, and delete an experience set." "It may be possible to 'talk' to selected adversaries "in a fashion that would be most disturbing to them."

Our atmosphere is so filled with energy that this may result in various displays of plasmas in our skies or help make the UFOs more visible. Arthur C. Clarke, author of 2001: A Space Odyssey said: "Any sufficiently advanced technology is indistinguishable from magic. And here it is 2001."

ET PHONED HOME? ALIEN MESSAGE MAY INDICATE CONTACT

CHILBOLTON RADIO TELESCOPE -- Two new incredible Crop Circle formations or glyphs appearing in Southsea, Hampshire next to the radio telescope may give evidence of extraterrestrial contact.

The first glyph appeared on Tuesday, August 14, 2001, and shows a framed alien face with large dark eyes and a small mouth. According to an employee at the Chilbolton Observatory on Monday, August 20th, a second glyph appeared inside of a fenced area with a complicated binary code that seems to be a reply to a message broadcast from the Arecibo Radio Telescope in Puerto Rico on November 16, 1974. Astronomer Frank Drake and Carl Sagan sent a strong signal into space towards M-13, a star system 25,000 light years away. That radio signal depicted a stick drawing of a human and the Earth's location in the solar system. An apparent alien answer to the radio signal in a pictogram has caused a heated controversy. Some say aliens made the glyphs, others claim hoaxers using boards to knock down the wheat made the glyphs for an upcoming television program. The glyph is very complex and tells us the aliens have large heads in comparison to bodies smaller than ours, provides their DNA, and that they apparently live on Mars and Jupiter (if you assume they are in our solar system). The glyphs are composed of hundreds of little cells acting as pixels in the wheat. Charles R. Mallett and the BLT scientist team have already made some preliminary discoveries indicating the glyphs are real and not hoaxed.

Genuine crop formations or glyphs are often observed with plasma balls or luminous orbs over them and sometimes strange sounds are reported. People entering the formations claim physiological effects. Large knuckle like or exploded nodes are noted on the stalks of grain, meteorite dust is often found within the fields, and electronic and electrical effects can be measured. Formations made by tricksters do not have any of these effects although it has been suspected that some tricksters may have seeded fields with swollen-node-stems. Hoaxers could seed a formation with authentic swollen-node-stems, but this would be a difficult process. First authentic matching plants with swollen nodes would need to be dug up, transported, successfully transplanted, and kept alive at night without leaving traces. Crop circle electronic/magnetic sensors are able to pick up various kinds of readings in authentic fields.

Bruce Maccabee wrote, "At my suggestion Paul Vigay has compiled a graphic representation of the number of agriglyphs per month for the last several years. It shows that the foot and mouth disease restrictions on entering fields had little or no effect on the numbers. Very heavy fines are given to be who enter fields without permission. Experts on both sides are withholding judgment until scientific analysis can be made of the alleged alien message and its authenticity. Early indications are that the glyph contains information that could only be known by high order of intelligence. Some scientists claim aliens would not communicate in this way, but they may not use radio communication since it so slow. Thought waves sent from the Moon by Astronaut Edgar Mitchell were virtually instantaneous. Aliens may want everyone to see their handiwork.

Perhaps they have attempted to reach various governments who have ignored them, and they prefer to openly communicate. There are many possibilities and it's too early to rule out alien contact.

[As SIGAP speaker and renowned crop circle expert Andy Thomas was quick to point out in the national press, the signal sent out by Drake and Sagan will not reach the M13 star system for another 24,973 years, and so is unlikely to be the source of the formation at Chilbolton. – Ed ]

ASTRONOMERS DISCOVER EXTRASOLAR PLANET 'COUSINS'

BY JEFF FOUST, SPACEFLIGHT NOW. Posted: October 16, 2001

Astronomers announced on Monday that they have discovered eight more extrasolar planets, including three that scientists called "cousins" of planets in our own solar system.

A team of astronomers from the US, UK, Australia, and Belgium said that they had found eight gas giant planets orbiting Sunlike stars, bringing the total number of extrasolar planets, or exoplanets, to nearly 80. Their discoveries, announced on Monday, were based on observations from telescopes in Australia, California, and Hawaii.

Three of the eight new planets were of particular interest. Each of the three had characteristics - mass, orbital distance, and orbital eccentricity - that are more closely similar to planets in our own solar system than of most of the other exoplanets discovered to date.

One, orbiting the star HD114783, has a minimum mass the same as Jupiter, orbiting its parent star at an average distance of 1.2 astronomical units (180 million kilometres) with an eccentricity of 0.10, or close to circular. A second, orbiting HD23079, has a minimum mass 2.75 times that of Jupiter and orbits its star at an average distance of 1.48 AU (222 million km) with an even lower eccentricity, 0.03. The third planet orbits HD4208 at an average distance of 1.69 AU (253 million km) with an eccentricity of 0.04, and has a minimum mass just 81% that of Jupiter.

These three planets are a far cry from most of the other exoplanets discovered to date. Those planets have had some combination of very large masses, very eccentric orbits, and/or orbits very close to their parent stars. None of those extrasolar planetary systems even faintly resembled our own solar system, leading some to wonder if our system is the exception rather than the rule.

Other astronomers argued that a type of observational bias was taking place, based on the radial velocity technique that has been used to discover most exoplanets. That technique indirectly measures the presence of planets by looking for Doppler shifts in key spectral lines in the light of the parent star as the gravity of the orbiting planet causes the star to wobble. Very massive planets, and planets orbiting close to stars, would exert the biggest forces on the star, making them easier to detect than smaller, more distant worlds.

"Most of the planetary systems we've found have looked like very distant relatives of the solar system - no family likeness at all," said Steve Vogt, a University of California Santa Cruz astronomer. "Now we're starting to see something like second cousins."

Hugh Jones, an astronomer with Liverpool John Moore's University, made a similar familial comparison. "These discoveries strengthen the statistics we are accumulating for such planets and we are now starting to see, if not twins, then second cousins," he said.

Not all the new exoplanets announced on Monday would qualify as cousins. One planet, orbiting HD39091, is at least ten times as massive as Jupiter and has a highly eccentric orbit that takes it between 1.15 and 5.85

AU (172 and 878 million km) from its star. Another has an orbit just 10.5 million kilometres from the star HD68988, completing one orbit in less than 6.3 days. The other three new exoplanets have orbits far more elliptical than any planet in our solar system.

These new planets, combined with the nearly 70 other exoplanets found to date, are helping astronomers get a handle on planetary formation. "To understand the formation and evolution of planets and planetary systems we need a large sample of planets to study," said Anne Kinney, an astronomer who heads NASA's Astronomy and Physics Division. "This result, added to others in the recent past, marks the beginning of an avalanche of data which will help to provide the answers."

Those involved with the discoveries are confident that they will soon be able to find planets virtually identical to the largest planets in our solar system. "In a few years' time," said Vogt, "we could be finding brothers and sisters."

NEWS IN BRIEF/ SIGHTINGS ROUNDUP

CLASSIFIED DOCUMENTS VALIDATE MILITARY AND PRESIDENTIAL INVOLVEMENT WITH UFOs

REDWOOD CITY, California, September 10, 2001 The Majestic documents investigation team has just released three leaked classified UFO documents. Actually, there are two one-page memoranda to President Truman and a memo from General Hoyt Vandenberg along with supporting authentication material.

All of it is posted to the Majestic documents website at <http://www.majesticdocuments.com>. In addition to leaked documents, the team's discoveries at the National Archives continue to validate a deep-seated involvement by national security organisations with UFOs and control of the related crash retrievals.

CAUS IN COURT: CAUS V. DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

In the midst of our turmoil, the U.S. Court of Appeals has decided to listen to oral arguments in Citizens Against UFO Secrecy v. Department of Defense (DoD). The case will be argued in San Francisco on November 6, 2001 at 9:00am.

For those unfamiliar with the nature and background of this lawsuit, I suggest you view the information on the CAUS web site. Simply stated, it is a lawsuit under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) for information about the "Flying Triangles" that have been seen in our skies. The DoD has stated that it conducted a reasonable search but could not find any information. CAUS is arguing that the DoD did not do any search.

The essence of this lawsuit involves our right to know about an advanced technology in our reality, especially when that technology is evidence of another intelligence.

The hearing is open to the public. CAUS would like a large turnout for this hearing. We can make a statement on November 6 if enough people show up. Information as to the location of the courthouse as well as the courtroom will soon be posted on the CAUS web site.

This afternoon (09 Oct 2001) I received a call from the clerks' office of the U.S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco stating that the three judges have decided to:

1) Deny the CAUS motion to take Judicial Notice of the additional documents obtained from the Department of Defense after the District Court dismissed the case. These five documents were obtained pursuant to a subsequent FOIA request to the DoD for all DARPA responses. These documents clearly indicate that DARPA employees, who did respond to the request for information about the Flying Triangles, did not take the request seriously and thus did not conduct a "reasonable search." The U.S. Court of Appeals, for some unknown reason, is refusing to consider these documents with the CAUS appeal brief in deciding the reasonableness of the search. (See CAUS in COURT on the CAUS web site for the specific documents)

2) Consider the CAUS appeal without oral argument. The U.S. Court of Appeals has determined that no oral arguments are necessary and will decide the appeal based solely on the submitted briefs. The clerk stated that this is routine in about 80% of the cases. The appeal will be accepted without oral argument on November 6 and a decision rendered sometime thereafter. It now appears that without considering the additional documents, the U.S. Court of Appeals will not have a complete picture of the unreasonableness of the DoD search. Further in eliminating oral arguments, the Court is denying CAUS the opportunity to place a statement on the record.

CAUS now has two strikes against it in its DoD appeal. Let's hope that a third strike, the denial of the appeal, will not be forthcoming.

UFO REPORTS FLOOD POLICE IN NORWAY

Date: Wed, 26 Sep 2001 11:13:22 GMT

Source: http://www.ananova.com/news/story/sm\_408429.html
Police in Norway have been inundated with UFO reports. Lights and craft of different sizes have been seen throughout the north of the country in recent days. One woman from the town of Bodo is claiming that a small flying object landed on her lawn before lifting off and flying away.

Three people in Mosjoen say they hid for cover when they saw a low-flying, whirling object pass over them. Helgeland police chief Roar Torgersen said he doesn't doubt that each of the witnesses saw something. He added: "We also have several other witness observations of the same phenomenon in the same time frame."

Others have reported sightings of small, brightly lit balls which made a hissing noise and silent larger objects. Two other people reported the same sighting, according to Aftenposten.

UNITED KINGDOM TRANSPARENT DISK

LONDON - The witness reports: "On October 4, 2001, I was on the 9:30 AM Flight leaving Heathrow Airport. The plane was in a steady climb and when we reached about 10 to 15 thousand feet above the puffy sparse clouds I was looking out the forward window. Looking as close to straight down as I could, I saw some sort of movement between the ground and the puffy clouds right below us. I could see that the ground was being distorted as this object passed above it. It caused a wavy appearance to the ground. Looking closer I could see a definite line where the distortion ended, it looked like a huge contact lens, or a clear plastic disk flying beneath us. I watched the disc pass under three or four clouds and always continue on the other side. I could only track it so far because of the small windows on a Boeing 777. I then leaned back and could still see it in the window that was in line with my shoulder. It was travelling in the opposite direction as the airplane, and going maybe three times faster than the clouds passing below us. I watched it until I could see it no more due to the small windows. Right after it was gone I noticed directly below us a nuclear power plant. This object was travelling away from the power plant. I believe this was not a reflection as it was observed from two different windows. It took me a few seconds to realize that what I had seen was really there. Thanks to NUFORC

BRIDGEWATER, SOMERSET - On or about August 19, 2001, a flying triangle shape object pointing towards earth with a circle shape on top with alternating red, blue and green lights was seen at 11:45 PM. It was silent and rotated in front of my car, then flew off and hovered for roughly an hour above a small village called Brent Knowle. It is here that 3 witnesses including myself, observed the UFO with binoculars. Broken clouds started to form in the distance and gradually our vision was limited until after the last bit of cloud passed we looked back to see that it wasn't there.

FLYING SAUCER REVIEW

An international journal established in 1955, is a quarterly magazine printed by quality litho on fine art paper, and with overseas governments and air force libraries as long-term subscribers and read by Prince Philip since the 1950s, FSR is recognised as the leading international organ in the world on the subject.

It is produced in England with the collaboration of a team of more than seventy experts and specialists from Britain and twenty other countries, including Western Europe, and the USA, Canada, Latin America, Russia, Ukraine, Slovenia, China, Japan and the Middle East. They include numerous PhDs, doctors of medicine, astronomers, physicists and other scientific experts.

FSR needs your Subscriptions to SURVIVE! in these hard times. We would dearly love to reproduce every issue in full on the WEB. I am afraid if we did this we would not last. It seems everyone is attracted to the New Glossy UFO mags, most of poor content. FSR has survived now for over 43 years and still delivers very high quality content from all over the planet.
