
C. R. I. F. O. ORBIT DISCONTINUES PUBLICATION

Leonard Stringfield (Cincinnati) announced discontinuance of his publication well-known among saucer circles as the "Orbit". Reason: increasing costs in publication, pressures on private life and business responsibilities. Another deciding factor, in Mr. Stringfield's own words: "... is that "Orbit" -- its format, policies, theories, etc., -- seems to be out of character with the beliefs and principles of saucer dom's growing coterie of demagogues, extremists and sensation hunters. It seems, too, that to prosper in civilian research one must show sympathy with all the astronauts who frequently slip off to Mars or Pluto and come back with wondrous tales of omniscient races who want to help us poor earthlings. Others who seem to prosper do so by errant, pixie-like personalities. Such rubs off in their writings or lectures and by this they sell themselves or subscriptions rather than honest-to-goodness work. Then there are those who peddle only the 'sensational inside stuff' -- or a vitriolic hate for the Air Force. Following none of these courses, Orbit soon got the cold shoulder in some quarters, and in others became the target of smear and surreptitious sniping. For about a year the writer ignored all the snubs and snipes but when it began to appear that subscriptions were dropping off in the midst of a new era wherein personalities dominated research, it seemed high time for a change... It is now obvious that Orbit is 'over the hill' in this new ere-- its usefulness and prestige gone!
