

Extraordinary Bigfoot and UFO Sighting in Rural Western Missouri

By Margie Kay

Daniel Lile was deer hunting at the Four Rivers Conservation Area near Rich Hill Missouri on December 2, 2012 with his bow ready when he spotted a tall figure walking across a clearing 75 feet from his position.

The experienced hunter knew immediately that he was not looking at a bear or any type of typical animal. The large bigfoot walked very slowly just inside and open area while foraging for something. The creature had brown hair with a red tint, a large upper body, wide shoulders, and a big conical shaped head. It walked upright on two feet.

The bigfoot then turned and looked in Daniel's direction so the hunter readied his bow in case he needed it for defense. The hunter was quite alarmed, but tried to make no noise. The bigfoot then turned and walking very fast, navigating a small hill quite quickly using large strides, and disappeared over the hill.

Daniel's brother and hunting partner was in a different location and did not witness the incident.

Upon returning home, he told his father and mother about the incident. His father, Brian Lile, called his Missouri Ghost Hunters Society (MGHS) partner Don Overton and they set up a return visit to the same location three days later.

December 5, 2012: Don Overton, Brian Lile and his wife, and two sons all returned to the bigfoot sighting location in order to obtain evidence or capture it on film. The site is a 1 ½ – 2 mile walk into the woods from the parking area. The team arrived at the location at dusk with their investigation equipment. They found several piles of fawn bones in different places. It appeared that there were 10-12 fawn remains in each location. The men, all being experienced hunters, thought that this was very unusual.

Daniel, the witness to the bigfoot sighting, showed the investigators a tree where the bigfoot passed and the location where the top of the head reached. The measurement indicated that the creature stood eight feet tall. The group then checked for EMF readings, magnetic anomalies, and did other testing but found nothing unusual.

The team set up two high-end night vision video cameras and began filming. Next, they all heard large footsteps in the woods behind them as if something very large was walking on two feet, breaking limbs and dragging something large through the woods. No one was able to see anything using night vision or flashlights, but heard these strange sounds on and off for approximately two hours.

Then things got really strange. The group saw a single orb of light move from one side of a cleared section to the other, then shoot straight up and out of sight in an instant. They thought that this could not be something man made because of the speed at which it moved. It was an independent light source with no beam as if from a flashlight. Next, more lights started coming out of the woods to their Northeast across the field, about 75 yards away from them. The group could see these lights with the naked eye, but were able to see more with the night vision cameras.

The objects were very tiny up to the size of a softball held at arm's length. As time went on, the lights moved in and out of the woods, from 6' above the ground to an unknown height, above the tree line upwards, and increased in quantity until there were "dozens" of them, all North and Northeast of their position.. The objects zoomed back and forth in all directions, including towards them and back and crisscrossing each other and exhibited strange behavior such as disappearing from one location and appearing in another in less than a half-second.

The witnesses were unable to tell the distance or size of the objects, except for the orbs that seemed to be very near them just above the field or just inside the woods. One of the larger lights went behind a tree, then moved halfway out.

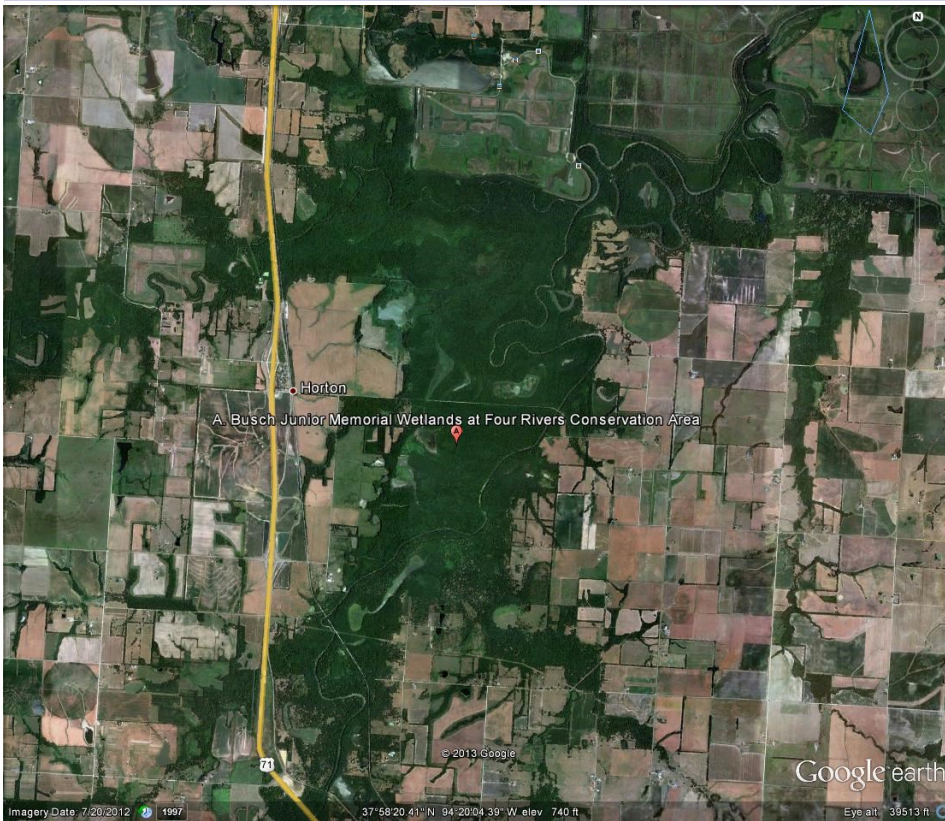

The lights were all a very bright white color with a tinge of blue to them. They heard coyotes howling in the distance, and the "thumping" footsteps in the forest the entire time they remained in the woods. However, there were no other animal sounds. No bugs are out this time of year due to the cold so the lights could not have been bugs.

It was very cold, and although the group thought they had warm enough clothing on but were not properly prepared. They decided they had to leave at approximately 10:00 p.m. when their hands were frozen and they could no longer operate the cameras. One camera has 40 minutes of footage of the orbs, and the other has just a few minutes because Brian was working with other equipment at the same time.

On the way back to their vehicle the team heard a very loud scream unlike any type of animal they'd heard before. A few minutes later, a second scream came from a different location, as if in answer to the first. All of their equipment was packed away so they did not get the scream on audio. However, the group all agrees that it was likely two bigfoots communicating with each other.

A few days after the radio interview, Debbie Ziegelmeyer and I went to Don's home and met with him and his wife and Brian and his wife. At that time, they showed us the video they took while investigating the location of the bigfoot. Halfway into the video orbs started to appear in the woods and very close to the camera.

Next, a large bright light appeared in the sky, and moves slowly from right to left, then stopped. Then more lights appeared, with several blinking on and off, but a definite pattern could be established with triangles in a circle. A very, very large circle.

I called the Missouri Department of Conservation and asked if any predators were known to make piles of fawn bones, and was told that was very strange, and not a known behavior of any local animals. I then asked if there were any large brown or black bears in the area and was told that there were no bears north of I-44 in South Missouri. I asked if the Department had received any reports of bigfoot sightings but they did not know of any.

I researched several bigfoot websites to see if there have been other sightings in the area, and there are several. A check at www.bfro.net shows 102 reports in the state of Missouri – not counting the reports I've recently found out about through listeners of my radio program.

Two people reported that there were bigfoot sightings in Swope Park in Kansas City in 2010 and 2011, and another in Holt, Missouri in December of 2012. u As of today's date, these have not been reported to BFRO. How many sightings go unreported?

Other online Bigfoot and Sasquatch research sites report a number of sightings along the 71 Highway corridor in Missouri and Arkansas since the 1970's, but more recently since September of 2012. This coincides with UFO and orb sightings reported by witnesses along the same path.

Some bigfoot sighting witnesses have reported seeing UFOs, or in fact, alien entities following or near a bigfoot. This gives rise to the question: "Is bigfoot connected to UFOs?"

Don and Brian seemed very serious and credible as they told me this story while I interviewed them on Un-X News Radio Show, and again during the interview when Debbie was with me. With Brian's background as a Federal Police Officer, and Don's as a Youth Counselor, it seems unlikely that either would perpetrate a hoax.

It has been reported by other investigators that UFOs have been seen near or along with Bigfoot. Perhaps there is a connection.

INFRARED: A POTENTIAL REAL LIFE “PHANTOM ZONE”

by Joe Palermo, Paranomologist

During a conversation I was having with Margie Kay about more and more “spirit” and “orb” pictures being realized in today’s world, I made a comment about the imaging chips in consumer digital cameras being inherently sensitive to the infrared light spectrum and that it seemed this may be a huge contributing factor. Margie Kay request I write about this for publication. The ensuing research put me on a trail of intrigue and discovery.

If the information I’ve brought together is accurate and true, and my speculations can be applied for experimentation and affirmation, hold onto your seats.

First, some definition and background on Infrared light. From Wikipedia,

“Infrared (IR) light is electromagnetic radiation with longer wavelengths than those of visible light, extending from the nominal red edge of the visible spectrum at 0.74 micrometres (μm) to 300 μm. This range of wavelengths corresponds to a frequency range of approximately 1 to 400 THz,[1] and includes most of the thermal radiation emitted by objects near room temperature. Infrared light is emitted or absorbed by molecules when they change their rotational-vibrational movements. The existence of infrared radiation was first discovered in 1800 by astronomer William Herschel (*his was an experiment of measuring the temperature in each spectrum of refracted light and noticing an addition heat source just outside of the visible light spectrum-JLP).

Much of the energy from the Sun arrives on Earth in the form of infrared radiation. Sunlight at zenith provides an irradiance of just over 1 kilowatt per square meter at sea level. Of this energy, 527 watts is infrared radiation, 445 watts is visible light, and 32 watts is ultraviolet radiation.[2] The balance between absorbed and emitted infrared radiation has a critical effect on the Earth's climate.”

There is a TON of understanding to be derived and applied from this information.

Emitted or Absorbed

I first want to draw your attention to a statement in the first paragraph ... “Infrared light is emitted or absorbed by molecules when they change their rotational-vibrational movements.” Hmm. If this is accurate, then sunlight isn’t the only source of infrared light which is supported by the fact that we have human manufactured light units capable of producing infrared light. “Rotational-vibrational.”

This term is also referred to as rovibronic coupling, which is “the simultaneous interactions between rotational, vibrational, and electronic degrees of freedom in a molecule. When a rovibronic transition occurs, the rotational, vibrational, and electronic states change simultaneously.”

Now, the molecule is defined as “the smallest physical unit of an element or compound, consisting of one or more like atoms in an element and two or more different atoms in a compound.” Put that together with what was stated about molecules and infrared light ... “Infrared light is emitted or absorbed by molecules when they change their rotational-vibrational movements.”

Speculation - if a consciousness ... “disembodied spirit” ... “ghost” ... was be able to manipulate the molecules in its immediate environment towards the creation of a memory pattern, might that pattern of molecules, by virtue of the vibrational change, emit that infrared light that infrared sensitive consumer cameras pick up on(QM) in the image of their last incarnation (their last body).

Further Consideration

It’s been speculated through the work of Gregg Braeden that “Emotions generate frequencies and these affect the patterns within our body, even as our bodies are affected by the changing frequency of the earth.” (Source: <http://www.mindbridge-loa.com/Gregg-Bradens-shift-of-the-ages.html>)

Emotions are a function of consciousness, not the brain. The brain is a conduit connected by the neurological network (nerves) for the mobility and function of the body (voluntary and involuntary actions) anndddd ... the chosen physical expression of emotions. Consciousness stays “brain bound” until a.) one develops and expands their consciousness (psychic ability) enough to observe, or affect beyond the immediate physical body (remote viewing, astral travel, telekenisis, what have you), or b.) there is no physical housing for it but continues after death as a measurable frequency.

Observable Activity of Consciousness

Poltergeist. Per Wikipedia “In folklore and the paranormal, a poltergeist is the apparent manifestation of an imperceptible but noisy, disruptive or destructive entity. Most accounts of poltergeist manifestations involve noises and destruction that have no apparent cause. Reports also include inanimate objects being picked up and thrown as if by an invisible person; noises such as knocking, rapping, or even human voices; and petty physical attacks on human beings, such as pinching, biting, and hitting.

Poltergeists have traditionally been described in folklore as troublesome spirits who, unlike ghosts, haunt a particular person instead of a specific location. Such alleged poltergeist manifestations have been reported in many cultures and countries including the United States, Japan, Brazil, Australia, and all European nations.[1] The earliest recorded cases date back to the 1st century.[2]”

Also ... “In parapsychology, Nandor Fodor proposed that poltergeist disturbances were caused by human agents suffering from some form of emotional stress or tension. William G. Roll studied 116 different poltergeist cases and found that the agents were often children or teenagers, and supposed that recurrent neuronal discharges resulting in epileptic symptoms may cause recurrent spontaneous psychokinesis (RSPK), which would affect the person's surroundings.”

Let us consider one theory on the causation of poltergeist activity (and, interestingly enough, an episode of the CBS series The Walton's exemplified this) ... when a young woman matures to the point of her reproductive cycle beginning, hormonal changes create mood swings, strong swings of emotion. In some cases, objects in the home of sad young lady have been observed to move about on their own. Once the hormones settled, poltergeist activity ceased. In metaphysics, there is the theory of the “law of mind action” based on the bible teaching of Proverbs 23:7, “As a man thinketh in his heart, so he shall be.” Me thinks the “thinketh in his heart” refers to ... emotion!

Directed, or commanded emotion is the theoretical cause of manifestation or materialization. Materialization defined is “The direct conversion of energy into mass, as in pair production.” Remember, emotion is a function of consciousness that uses the brain for expression in our frequency of existence.

The Brain Or Consciousness “BOSTON, Mass. — Neuroscientists at the Mayo Clinic campus in Jacksonville, Fla., have demonstrated how brain waves can be used to type alphanumeric characters on a computer screen. By merely focusing on the “q” in a matrix of letters, for example, that “q” appears on the monitor.

Researchers say these findings, presented at the 2009 annual meeting of the American Epilepsy Society, represent concrete progress toward a mind-machine interface that may, one day, help people with a variety of disorders control devices, such as prosthetic arms and legs. These disorders include Lou Gehrig’s disease and spinal cord injuries, among many others. (Source: <http://scienceblog.com/28038/mayo-clinic-researchers-show-brain-waves-can-write-on-a-computer-in-early-tests/#orBkj8CDKG0CQP1W.99>)”

Without consciousness, the brain can’t function. A definition of brain dead, “Complete cessation of brain function as evidenced by absence of brain-wave activity on an electroencephalogram: sometimes used as a legal definition of death.” Ergo, consciousness is the “fuel” of the brain.

Conclusion

What I’ve shown is a connecting of seemingly random scientific information that might very well support my theory that consciousness, energized by a heightened level of emotion, may have the power to affect the molecules in the immediate locale enough to cause a materialization that can be photographed in the infrared spectrum while still undetectable in the normal visible light spectrum.

This might also explain the materializations, in some instances, during a seance in which high emotions on the part of those wanting to speak with the dearly departed feed the emotional content of the dearly departed’s consciousness causing the same molecular effect for being photographed. I would also add that in the instances of someone being touched, or items being moved, if photographed at the exact same time, might render same photos.

Final Thought

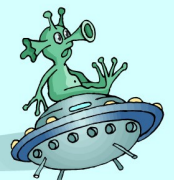

It’s also important to note that images of figures resembling what have come to be known as “grey aliens” are also being captured with infrared sensitive cameras. In this respect, I’ve seen one photo taken in a cemetery somewhere in Missouri that captured what appeared to be a “grey” alien. I saw a video presentation at a public meeting of the UFO Study Group of Greater St. Louis in which an unidentifiable flying craft was shown moving into an inner area of what was then the maximum security prison in Jefferson City, Missouri. It could be speculated that these (and other) beings, because of their consciousness, exist in a plane of infrared frequency.

From the State Director

By Debbie Ziegelmeier
Missouri MUFON State Director

Reported sightings for Missouri so far this year are at 18. One would believe this to be low in comparison to previous months but upon looking back at this time in 2011 the year our UFO Flap began here in Missouri, we are right on pace. By the end of March 2011 there were only 22 sighting reports. The increased activity in 2011 didn't begin until August with 37 sightings, and carried on increasing monthly with a total of 51 for the first three months of 2012. It's hard to predict what the rest of the year will bring, but knowing Missouri's past sighting history it should be very interesting.

Asteroid, meteor, and comet activity have increased in 2013 with a 17,200 mile asteroid (2012 DA14) near miss and a meteor close call in Russia which injured 1100 people, both on February 15th.

The meteor hitting Russia was predicted by our Missouri MUFON Assistant State Director Margie Kay during a SKYPE presentation at our local meeting on November 21, 2012. Her prediction was that a meteor would hit Russia sometime early in 2013.

This week we also have a comet (2013 Pan-STARRS) visible to the naked eye which can be seen until March 16th. The comet will be visible 30 minutes after sunset in the western sky about halfway between the horizon and the moon. Just a note, for those with "smart phones" there are asteroid apps available which give daily alerts on asteroid near miss activity as well as celestial apps which will help you map and identify objects in the night sky.

This month's St. Louis area MUFON meeting falls on Wednesday March 20th. We will be meeting as usual at Culpepper's Restaurant located at HWY 270 and Olive Blvd. from 6:30pm to 9:00pm.

Our guest speaker will be Missouri MUFON's Chief Investigator and Star Team member Joe Palermo, who will be discussing an exciting investigation he is currently working on. Joe has over 35 years' experience as a UFO/Paranormal investigator and is currently producing a documentary on one of these investigations. Joe will also be available to answer any questions you may have concerning his presentation or his past experiences in this field.

For those of you who have been trying to contact me via e-mail, my address has recently changed. My new e-mail address is: mufondiver@gmail.com

Hope to see you at Culpepper's on Wednesday, and as always our meetings are free to the public and open not only to MUFON members but guests and UFO enthusiasts as well. A $2.00 donation is always welcome to help defer the cost of our speakers and videos.

K.C.'s Open Mic Night a Huge Success

By Margie Kay
Assistant State Director

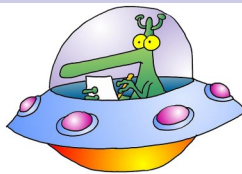

The K.C. MUFON group tried something different at their March 11 meeting - Open Mic Night. Section Director Richard Hayde and ASD Margie Kay invited attendees to tell everyone about their own UFO sightings and encounters. A local witness who attended the meeting for the first time started the night off by telling everyone about his incredible ongoing sightings from his home in Independence, Missouri, the photos he has been able to obtain and his new blog at <http://missouri-ufo.blogspot.com/>

Next we heard from an ex-Merchant Marine who saw a huge "flying city," an ex-truck driver who experienced an object which caused a complete black out of his truck lights and console, and was in complete darkness for about 10 seconds while driving 60-70 mph on the highway, and many other very strange and interesting stories.

When you hear of events like these it is apparent why there are groups like MUFON. We all want answers.

K.C. MUFON meets on the second Monday of the month, usually at Westport Flea Market at 6:30 pm. The location may be changing soon so watch the chat list for upcoming events.

Calendar of Events

Missouri MUFON Monthly Meetings:

St. Louis meets on the third Wednesday of the month, Kansas City meets on the second Monday of the month, and St. Joseph usually meets on the third Thursday of the month. See more information at missourimufon.org. Meeting announcements are also on the Yahoo Chat list.
