"To date, no unidentified aerial phenomena has given any indication of threat to national security." U.S. Air Force, Office of Aerial Phenomena.

UFO'S POSE NO THREAT--The Air Force has investigated more than 8,000 reported unidentified flying objects in 16 years "and has yet to discover any evidence that UFO's represent a threat" to U.S. security. It also said today that probes of such sightings back to 1947 have failed to turn up any evidence that UFO's are "alien interplanetary space vehicles under some form of intelligent control." This report was furnished to the Associated Press as the Air Force looked into a new epidemic of strange sightings in the skies over New Mexico. One of the Air Force's leading civilian consultants on UFO's has gone to Socorro, N.M., to investigate the latest reports. He is Dr. J. Allen Hynek, director of the Dearborn Observatory at Northwestern University. The latest report on "Project Blue Book," the congressionally ordered Air Force study of unidentified flying objects, extends through 1963. It shows that over that 16-year span, 7.7 percent of the 8,128 reported cases remain unidentified. Source: The News-Sun--Hobbs, New Mexico--4/30/64.

LIFE ON OTHER PLANET, RESEARCHER CLAIMS--"Man is not alone in the universe. If we make an effort, we can contact other life," Dr. Bernard M. Oliver, vice president in charge of research and development at the Hewlett-Packard Co., said Thursday night. Man now has the capability to contact life on other planets, he said. Addressing members of the Institute of Electrical Engineers (IEEE) attending the annual regional conference in Hotel Utah, Dr. Oliver advanced the theory that life abounds in the universe. He offered the belief that life is common in the universe and the density of life is such that there are no doubt several populations within the present radio range. He said there have been no contacts with life on other worlds "of any significance, because no real concerted effort has been made to do so. Such a contact would have as profound an impact on our world culture as did the voyage of Columbus on the culture of the "Old World," Dr. Oliver said. "With our present sending and receiving equipment, our chances of contacting other intelligent civilizations are really quite high," Dr. Oliver said. The cost of such a program would be negligible compared with the impact it would have, he said. Dr. Oliver was the featured speaker at the banquet session of the three day conference of the IEEE. He is a former vice president of the institute. Recognized at the banquet session with a fellow award was Prof. Obed Haycock, director of the University of Utah Upper Air Research Laboratory. MAN CLAIMS HE SAW UFO'S FIVE TIMES, TALKED WITH OCCUPANTS--"I don't know why they picked me," said Apolinar A. Villa, Jr. "I'm just an ordinary working man--just a mechanic. They said there was a purpose. What it is I don't know." Five times in about five years, says "Paul" Villa, he has seen flying objects. Twice, he has talked to their occupants. And once, he says, he returned from his encounter with a roll of film. If Villa is the victim of fantasy, it's fantasy in Kodacolor. Villa, 47, lives with his son and daughter-in-law in a trailer behind 601 Niagara NE. Born in Tijeras, he attended Longfellow Elementary School and Lincoln Junior High School. He quit during his first year at Albuquerque High School. Since then, he served in the Army Air Force. A mechanic, Villa works for N.C. Ribble and Co. here. "The pictures are authentic. They're the real thing," he says. "There are a lot of things I can't say--because so help me God, I don't think anybody would believe it. But the pictures are the real thing." Villa, who is not suprised at recent UFO sightings, took his pictures with a Japanese camera the last time he saw the UFO's, he said. Last June 16, he said, he spent from 2:30 to 4 in the afternoon with the people --men and women--borne by the space machine.

The UFO's occupants, said Villa, were not superhuman. But they were superior to our species in physical qualities, and in quality of knowledge. UFO crew members, he said, expect a large-scale renewal of volcanic activity along the volcano rim just west of here. And they expect it soon. This year they expect catastrophic war between Russia and China--a war that will involve many Asian nations. Why hasn't Villa sought a place of safety? "We can't get away from what God has decreed for us," he said. Villa said his first UFO sighting came on the west coast, when he conversed with the occupant of a small UFO. Twice, the devices hovered over his home then at 4187 Edith NE. The second time, the home was burned, Villa said. The burning was for disciplinary reasons. Once Villa sighted a UFO near Lindrith. This was the largest--about 900 deet in diameter. The object he viewed near Peralta was about 160 feet across, Villa said. From it stepped a number of people from the far distant galaxy of Coma Berenices, imaginably far distant from here. In the meeting, and in telepathic contacts before and since, Villa said he acquired fragments of the starmen's knowledge.

It was his effort to convert parts of his knowledge to his own profit, says Villa, that resulted in a stream of ill fortune. His home burned--totally and without insurance. He shot himself in the arm. He went through bankruptcy. "They seemed to have known me for a long time," said Villa. "There were lots of things they had answers for. They were a very friendly sort of people. Friendliness notwithstanding, they left Villa in no doubt about what would happen should he persist in efforts to duplicate their devices. Villa said the starmen are interested in New Mexico because of a magnetic fault in Farmington--their ships travel "magnetic lines." "They put a lot of stress on New Mexico and parts of Arizona and Utah," he said. "They mentioned something about volcanoes." Clothed in tight-fitting one-piece uniform, the starmen made an attractive crew. And what did they think of us? "Their opinion is not that we're bad or good," Villa said. Nor will they attempt to save the human race from itself. "They know that there is a super intelligence that governs the universe and everything in it," he said. STAY AWAY FROM ALL UFO's, WARNS SANTA FE POLICE CHIEF--A report that an Albuquerque elementary school student was burned while viewing an egg-shaped object hovering over her school has brought forth a warning from Santa Fe Police Chief A.B. Martinez. Martinez asked all youngsters, and everyone for that matter, to stay away from any mysterious objects. The Santa Fe police chief gave no hint as to what he might believe the UFO's really are; however, he indicated that if any are sighted by local residents they should be treated with respect and caution until more information as to their identity is available. NEW MEXICO UFO STILL UNEXPLAINED--Washington, May 4, (UPI)--The Air Force has not yet been able to explain the unidentified flying object spotted April 24 by policeman Lonnie Zamora near Sacorro, N.M. Col. Gordon Furbish, chief of the Armed Forces Press Branch, said that initial investigation has not indicated what the object was. Source: The Tribune--Albuquerque, New Mexico--5/4/64. DEFINITE PATTERN IN UFO SIGHTINGS SEEN BY TUCSONIAN--The unidentified flying objects (UFO) reported in the last few days are making the same pattern as those in France in 1954 and in Brazil in 1960, a Tucson couple found. The places where people are seeing strange things land or fly low in the sky form a straight line across the earth, said Mrs. Coral Lorenzen. She is director of the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization, headquarters here. The organization has 800 members around the world interested in UFO's. "This is not the sort of dispersement which normally results from random activity," said Mrs. Lorenzen. "It suggests purposful activity." She said her husband, L.J. Lorenzen, a Tucson engineer, yesterday found one straight line of sightings in New Mexico through Socorro, Caballo Reservoir, La Madera, Albuquerque and Espanola. Another straight line through Tularosa, N.M. and Helena, Montana intersects with this one at Albuquerque. Last night a California couple reported what they described as a flying object near Baker, California. And an object hovering in the sky was seen from a school house in El Paso, Texas. This forms a straight line with an earlier sighting at Deming, N.M., said Mrs. Lorenzen.

The straight line pattern was first pointed out by a French mathematician, Aime Michel, from a large number of UFO sightings in France in 1954. Olavo T. Fontes, a professor at the National School of Medicine in Rio de Janeiro, discovered the same sort of alignment in sightings on May 13, 1960, in Brazil, said Mrs. Lorenzen. "The only explanation I can think of is that the straight lines might be for navigational convenience," said her husband. "They do represent the shortest airline distance between two points. A consultant astronomer to the Air Force investigating the Socorro incident said not as much vegetation was burned as should be expected with the rocket propulsion needed to lift off the egg-shaped flying object reported by a police officer. It also has been remarked that none of the sightings have shown up on radar screens. Lorenzen agreed that the burning would be much greater with rocket engines such as are conventionally used today. "However, if the gas were shot out at very high velocity, the necessary lift could be acquired with a small volume of gas," said Lorenzen. "Then, any burning would be from radiant heating and the ground would not be disturbed much." As for the radar screens, Lorenzen said that the UFO's often are reported close to the earth where they would not be seen or rising very fast straight up where the sweep of a radar would not be likely to detect them. WHAT HAS BEEN FLITTING ABOUT HEAVENS OVER CAMAS PRAIRIE?--Cottonwood--What has been flitting about the heavens northwest of here three nights running? Was it an oblong shape with blinking red lights? Was it shaped like a cigar and capable of pulsating like an earthworm. Could it change shape as it whizzed through the night sky between here and Grangeville, appearing oblong one instant and suddenly developing a square middle? Whatever it was, or is, it has been seen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday night by hundreds of curious Camas Prairie residents armed with telescopes, binoculars and cameras...Mrs. Margaret Neeley, assistant manager and news reporter of KORT, received a call at 10:30 Sunday night that a mysterious light was hovering over the U.S. Air Force Radar Station at Cottonwood. She said she drove to Cottonwood with Fred Schumacher, a radio announcer.

"We watched it," she said. "It changed positions from 30, 60 and 90 degrees. Then it darted back toward Grangeville. Then it went out and we started back to Grangeville, but it suddenly appeared again. We saw it three more times. It would go away and then just pop up. I was not drunk." Mrs. Neeley said she checked with the radar station at Cottonwood and found personnel there also had been observing the object. Lt. Col. Luis T. Zendegui, the base commander, said Tuesday: "Something has been seen, but it is hard to confirm. We don't know what it was." Col. Zendegui said a report will be made, but in the meantime "we're watching like everyone else." Mrs. Neeley, anxious for conformation, checked the Idaho County sheriff's office, where Sheriff Gene Fuzzell and Jailor Fay McCullley reported watching the object. Fuzzell said it resembled a "street light, only bigger. It was eight to ten feet long and had an oblong shape. It moved back and forth." Other descriptions ranged from "like a pulsating red worm" to "having six sides and a hole in the middle like a doughnut." Source: The Tribune--Lewiston, Idaho--5/13/64.

OBJECT WITH GREEN GLOW SAT ON PARMA FARM, FLIER SAYS--A pulsating, irradiant, unidentified object sat down on a Parma farm yard early one morning this week, the nations discoverer of "flying objects" said Thursday night.
Kenneth Arnold, a long time Boise pilot, said the object was reported to him by a "very responsible" Parma farm couple who didn't want their names used for fear of bad publicity. Arnold said the object had a pulsating green glow and sat down on the couples farm. He said it scared animals in the barnyard and started dogs barking. He said the couple told him the weird light from the object awoke them at 3:30 a.m. Arnold said the couple came to him because they knew he would "sympathize with us over this peculiar thing." Arnold said he reported the incident to the Idaho Air National Guard. "I won't be suprised if there aren't more of them seen in the Boise area now," Arnold said. "These things come in batches, but usually people are afraid to report them because of the sensational news treatment given them." In 1947 Arnold was flying a search mission over an area near Mt. Rainier in Washington, when he spotted unidentified flying objects that he described the next day as resembling "discs skipping over water." "There's no logical explanation for these things," he said.
Investigators discover what they want to discover. I'd be the last one in the world to sell anybody on the idea there are flying objects--but what if there are?" Source: The Statesman--Boise, Idaho--5/1/64.

April 29, 1964--Las Vegas, Nevada, U.S.A.--Nobody seems to know what happened Wednesday morning when the houses shook and the cups went rattling off the tables. "It's the beginning of the war!" shouted a 10-year-old boy in Paradise Valley. His mother comforted him, saying, "We'll take what comes." But she couldn't explain a mystery jolt which shook the Las Vegas area early Wednesday. Neither could anyone else. The thud, described as sounding in some places like a thunderbolt and in others like a sonic boom, remained a mystery at noon..."People say they heard it," an official commented. "I heard it myself, but I don't know what it was." At midday, nobody knew yet what shook Southern Nevada. Source: The Review-Journal--

April 29, 1964--Near Baker, California, U.S.A.--A mysterious dome-shaped object similar to the one reported in New Mexico has been spotted within 100 miles of Las Vegas by three members of a Fontana, Calif., family. "At first we thought it was a water tower, Mrs. Gloria Biggs told the Review-Journal. "But, as we got closer we knew it was something we'd never seen before...Mrs. Biggs, her husband Gus, and her mother, Mrs. Lorene Ayres, were enroute to Las Vegas Wednesday with a carload of worms from their "Wiggly Worm Farm" for distribution to bait shops along the Colorado River. Mrs. Biggs spotted the object about ten miles west of Baker, Calif., a short distance north of U.S. 91. The object was in the low hills nearby. Mrs. Biggs said they watched the smooth, brownish dome for about five or six minutes while the car was moving. Their attention momentarily diverted by some roadside wildflowers, the trio looked back to find the object gone from its hilltop perch. Nothing was left, they said, but a large depression in the ground where the object had been...Source: The Review-Journal--Las Vegas, Nevada--4/30/64.

April 29, 1964--Canyon Ferry, Montana, U.S.A.--(UPI)--A thorough investigation was being made Thursday into several reports of the landing and disappearance of an unidentified flying object (UFO) on the shore of Canyon Ferry Lake. Residents of this resort area just east of Helena said they saw a strange bright object hover just above the west shore of the lake, touch the ground, lift again, then disappear. Newsmen who went to the scene from Helena said they found four impressions in the ground which looked as though a huge chair had been placed on the beach. The impressions were arranged in a square and were about 16 feet across. The newsmen said there was a burned area in the center of the perimeter formed by the holes. Adults said children ran to them apparently very disturbed by what they had seen. Residents said the object appeared to be round and had an almost phosphorescent glow...The Canyon Ferry object apparently was first sighted by Linda Davis, 11, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davis, who live about 100 yards from the scene. The Davis girl rounded up three neighborhood friends and attempted to approach the object. It took off into the sky and disappeared, they said. Bill Beheney called this information into the county sheriff's office and was told to have an adult investigate and return the call. The reason for this, according to Sheriff Dave Middlemas is that they "frequently get calls from teenagers who are playing pranks." However, he did not call this particular incident a prank. "Since it is so close to Vigilante Day, the deputy advised the 17-year-old boy (Beheney) to have an adult examine the area after which an investigation would be made. About an hour later, an adult did call and two deputies were sent to the area. They reported that there were four indentations in the earth about 13 feet apart in a square pattern. Each hole is from six to eight inches in diameter and they are tapered toward the bottom as though made by a cone-shaped object. Each of the holes is from six to eight inches deep. Slightly off center and between the four holes is a scorched area about four feet in diameter indicating that extreme heat had been present in that area."

Middlemas then requested that Malmstrom Air Force Base officials take over the investigation. They were on the scene this afternoon. Newsmen investigating found four holes about the size described by the sheriff's report. They were in an imperfect rectangle, indicating that the visitors from outer space--or wherever--aren't too good at geometry. Fresh dirt was scattered around the area some distance from the holes, possibly indicating that the holes were pressed into the ground by a heavy object. Another similar hole also was noted on a steep slope near the alleged landing site. One newsman who stepped into the roped-off area for a closer look and smell was immediately ordered back by an area resident. Officials had nothing to do with isolating the area. Descriptions offered by the children were generally about the same. Area residents apparently were convinced the children did see something. Since the publicity, a number of Helena residents also said they had sighted a bright object in the sky, generally about the same time as the Canyon Ferry sighting. MONTANA 'UFO' WAS CHILDS HOAX--Washington (AP)--A prank by children caused one of the recent rash of flying object stories, the Air Force said Tuesday. An investigation of reports of skid marks of a space vehicle near Helena, Montana "was determined a hoax perpetrated by children who wanted to play a trick on a younger sister and the show got out of hand," an Air Force spokesman said. Air Force experts have investigated such reports for more than ten years. Source: The Arkansas Gazette--Little Rock, Ark.--5/6/64.

ON FLYING OBJECT--PARENTS RESENT AIR FORCE CALLING REPORT 'PRANK'--College professors and Air Force experts to the contrary, parents of children who reported seeing an unidentified flying object five days ago are still convinced there is no prank. The Air Force was quoted by the Chicago Tribune as saying the alleged "flying object" at Canyon Ferry village about 25 miles from Helena was a prank of children. This was after a Northwestern University professor, Dr. J. Allen Hynek, reportedly investigated all recent UFO reports for the Air Force. Hynek was quoted as saying all but the first report, April 24 near Socorro, N.M., have been explained. Mrs. Bert Davis, whose 11-year-old daughter was the first to report the incident the night of April 29, believes there are unanswered questions related to the incident. But she does not accept the prank story. Mrs. Davis was suprised to hear of the Air Force report. "I don't know what to say because they said they would not give out any information," she said. Another parent, Harold Rust, said he doesn't care what the Air Force or other experts say, he believes the children. "The Air Force questioned them seperately and in a group for three and a half hours and never shook the story of any one of them," Rust said. There were four Air Force officers against five children, the oldest 16, Rust said. "My kids wished they never had said anything," he continued. "They are teased by other students at school and even the principal told them he didn't believe them Rust said. Rust said the recent UFO report was not the first. A "flying object" hovered over two men fishing from a boat during daylight less than a year ago, not far from the alleged sighting last week, Rust said. "They swear to it," he said. "But they were joked so much they won't tell it any more." Source: The Independent Record--Helena, Montana--5/5/64.

April 24, 1964--Newark Valley, New York, U.S.A.--The Owego area is agog over the report of a Newark Valley, N.Y., dairy farmer that "space men" have visited his farm and he talked with them for two hours. The "visit" is supposed to have taken place the morning of April 24 but it was kept quiet for a while because the Federal Bureau of Investigation was notified. The Tioga Sheriff's Dept. took a statement from the farmer, Gary Wilcox, 37, who said a federal agent also had been to see him. School children in Newark Valley began spreading the startling story and it then got down to Owego where it is now a frequent topic in street conversation. In a telephone conversation last night Prof. Nathan Hall, supervising principal of the Newark Valley Consolidated Schools and a former principal at Rome and East Smithfield in this county, said Wilcox was a good, dependable student in school and "is a good, substantial farmer of fine reputation." Mr. Hall said he knew nothing about the "space man" story, however, and appeared inclined to think possibly it was a "gag" of some kind but he said he had no means of knowing. Like others, however, he wondered how the "men from Mars" were able to speak such good English. According to Wilcox's story he was spreading manure in an open field on his 300-acre farm just north-east of Newark Valley. Shortly before 10 o'clock he decided to check another part of the farm which is almost rounded by woods, to see whether that piece of ground was ready for plowing. As he stepped through the woods towards this spot--which is about a mile from his home--he saw a shiny object which he thought at first was a discarded refrigerator. As he approached closer he saw it was not a refrigerator and he thought possibly it was a wing tank dropped from an airplane. Wilcox said it was 20 feet long, 16 feet wide and shaped like an egg. It looked like aluminum but more durable and seemed to have different metallic characteristics. He touched it and felt no heat. There was no visible door or hatch.

Suddenly two beings appeared. They seemed to be about four feet tall and had clothing with no seams and a headdress with a dull-faced hood. He could not distinguish facial features. The beings appeared to have arms and legs but he couldn't tell whether or not they had fingers and toes because their extremities were covered. The one being stood by the craft and the other came within about five feet of Wilcox, saying, "Do not be alarmed. We have spoken to earth people before. We come from what you folks call Mars." Wilcox said he thought it was a joke someone was pulling on him and tried to laugh it off but the men appeared dead serious, and he didn't know what to make of it. The conversation continued for some time. The men said they were interested in fertilizer and soils and asked why Wilcox was spreading manure. They said they grew food in the atmosphere but changes in the atmosphere are creating problems and they are visiting earth to learn about organic materials. Wilcox explained what wonderful fertilizer manure is but that where that is not available, commercial fertilizer does a good job. Wilcox said both men had trays in which they scooped up soil samples. He said they told him they can travel here only every two years and that they chose the Western Hemisphere for this year's visit. Incidentally, they told him earthlings never will make it to fly to the moon or other planets because they cannot stand radiation. Martians are constituted differently and their bodies can take it without trouble, Wilcox said he was told. The creatures said they land only in daylight because they are less readily visible in daylight. They expressed surprise that Wilcox saw them. The Martians, Wilcox said, asked for some commercial fertilizer to take back with them and he said he would get them a bag from his barn. All the while they were talking the "space craft" sounded like an auto idling, he said. As he turned to go for the fertilizer he heard a slight sound and looked around. In a matter of seconds the craft was out of sight. There was no exhaust or fire raising of dust, he said. Since he had promised the fertilizer he went and got the bag and left it in the field. The next day it was gone. Source: The Review--Towanda, Pa.--5/8/64.

December 30, 1963--Epping, Essex, England--Only days after publication in this newspaper, of an article on unidentified flying objects three local youngsters--one a Buckhurst Hill girl--claim to have seen a flying object land in a field at the Ivy Chimneys Riding School, Epping. An urgent phone call at our office on Monday came from 16-year-old Pauline Abbott, a trainee riding instructress at the riding school. Pauline, who lives in Ardmore Lane, Buckhurst Hill, said she was riding her horse into the yard of the riding school when the animal stopped, and refused to move. "I heard a squelching noise coming from the field," she said. "I shouted, and the thing took off. I just stood there, I was too scared to move." But Pauline wasn't too scared to investigate. When she got to the field, she found deep, indented marks in the field. "It was about eight feet across, and one and a half feet deep, with four lines radiating from the circular marks, and "cup" marks at the end of each line...other people came forward with similar evidence, that the object was "flat, white, and shiny, and silent...it had a dome on top, and was flat, round, and shiny," they said. "People tell us we are mad but we know what we saw." Source: The Times & West Essex Star--England--1/3/64.

October 19, 1963--Near Monte Maiz, Argentina--Truck driver Eugenio Douglas told police the following story: "I was driving my truck to Isla Verde when a luminous object--apparently a spaceship--surrounded by a light of blinding brilliance, came down near me. Three very tall beings, dressed in strange cloths and carrying unknown kind of weapons, came down out of it towards me. I lost control of my vehicle and drove into a ditch, but I finally got back onto the road and kept on driving at high speed. The three beings kept coming after me. A blinding red light came from their craft. The creatures followed me for about a mile and a half, and shot out a gas which burned and caused me to lose my vision temporarily. When I finally arrived in the outskirts of the town of Monte Maiz, they suddenly stopped the persecution. They then got back into their craft, which disappeared into the distance." The article goes on to state that Senor Douglas had indeed been burned by something, and that the doctors that examined him were not able to find the cause of the burns! Date Unknown--Near Glendive, Montana, U.S.A.--What do you do when you see a strange lighted object in the sky that at times turns pitch darkness into a seemingly moonlight night? An object that hovers nearly stationary at times, then skoots high into the heavens at speeds estimated at thousands of miles per hour. An object, that through field glasses, at times, is oval-shaped, but very round and brilliant when approaching you. When a hunting party made up of Gordon and Steve Quilling, Keith Chadderdon, along with Clifton Liddel and Ray Bushie of Eau Claire, Wisc., saw this sight while hunting near the Fallon Bridge southwest of Glendive, they watched it for approximately 3½ hours, most of the time with field glasses. As Gordon tells the story, he had just downed a fine buck far back in a ravine when they first were attracted to the phenomena. Their hunting partners from Wisconsin had gone on down the creek and were sitting at the predetermined meeting spot. Suddenly the hill to the south of them was lit up much like a set of headlights were shining on it. Without further ado they headed up the creek where the rest of the party was moving the game down the gulch. Chadderdon states that at this time the light was strong enough to see your way and then would return to pitch darkness. While under observation by the group, the object moved both up and down and side way movements without any apparent pattern of sustained flight in any one direction...Keith said "I was certainly hoping if they were from another planet, they weren't looking for a meal of earthmen. I could just see myself on a planet with an apple in my mouth." Source: The Herald--Sidney, Montana--10/23/64.
