Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: Thank you for the sample copy you sent me recently, I think it's a great little journal----a true service for the sincere, new direction seeker in our troubled times. Even before I opened your package, I already sensed friendly and warm vibrations reaching out, as if The New Atlantean Journal had its own reassuring aura. This initial impression was greatly reinforced while leafing through the heady mixture of its rich contents. I felt strongly that your Journal is a vital source of Ancient Wisdom, and also a vital link of communication from the timeless Great Forces that guide us contemporary aspirants towards the new Golden Age.

Besides being artistically attractive, the layout is like an inspired overall design for a transcendental-mood evoking vehicle (should be used as an aid for meditation or astral projection, just by keeping a copy at hand!) While scanning your illustrations, long and far reaching chains of associations were triggered in my mind, strange images were surfacing, making me wonder if they came from another life or from another dimension. The articles are well put together. The overall appearance of your Journal is very appealing, despite its inexpensive non-glossy look. The veritable treasure house of information you managed to squeeze into one single issue makes one wonder how it is possible to put so much into such limited volume and at such a budget price. Congratulations! Oscar Magocsi, Toronto, Canada

* HOW do we do it? Hard work... Period. We Care for YOU, and all our readers. I am glad that it shows! Thank you most kindly.
P.S. You discovered our 'secret' subliminal commications!!!

Dear Joan: (From a fantastic card sent to us from a subscriber who changed his address)... "SURE, I BELIEVE IN U.F.O.'S --- KNOWING YOU MAKES ME BELIEVE IN ANYTHING!" From Bill Hamilton, Glendale, Arizona.

* Blush, Blush! But -- True! SUCH a compliment! Love it!

Dear Joan: Was much interested in the article THE BELL ISLAND MYSTERY. IN going through some back issues I discovered that in your December, 1978 Journal you had an article entitled THE 'ATLANTEAN' PREDICTS, by Rev. Thomas A. Long, dated August 8, 1978, in which he predicted these events would occur. Seems like Rev. Long should be given credit for his forecast. Enjoy your magazine very much. Let's have more on Nichola Tesla. Cordially, Alyce Lodge, CREATIVE PROSPERITY, Scottsdale, Arizona.

* Credit hereby given to Rev. Long, and THANK YOU for saying it!

Dear Editor: I've finally received my first issue of the New Atlantean . It is a superb publication and I would like to obtain some back issues if they are available. Sorry to have bothered you with unnecessary correspondence but experience has taught me that the postal service is not always reliable. Thank you for answering my complaint. Many do not. Marian Neilson, Sugar-creek, Ohio.

- * We have have tremendous difficulties with the delivering of our issues. Needless to say it is almost impossible to track down many of our straying magazines! But, we DO answer all the mail concerning them! That is, IF the complaint letters get here! Even those don't make it here the first time around!

Dear Joan: Enjoyed your note on Mr. A. Rogers article, "I Remember Atlantis". Funny thing is I have a written record of eleven previous lives which have had a direct bearing on the life I began living as an identical twin on May 8, 1909. Dan Moran, Marion, Ohio.

- * Please share your 'far memory' with the other readers! If you write to Mr. Regis Kormic, in care of the Journal, he would be most interested in discussing it with you.

Folks: I do like this publication as it give me a different and special view of things. In no way do I have everything together -- but I do like to keep an open mind on all aspects of Life and Learning. Please keep up your good work with the thought in mind -- that other Seeker's After Truth exist out here along with myself. Enclosed $10 for 3 more years. Georgia B. Mason, Richmond, KY.

- * Yes, Maam! Your type of reminder is ALWAYS necessary as we can become bogged down with printing costs, delivery problems and just day to day details! A magazine is NOT just problems ----- a magazine is just a piece of paper until it reaches PEOPLE... PEOPLE are what make it worthwhile....

Dear Sir: I was quite impressed by the quality of your Journal, and I certainly enjoyed the article by my friend, Martin Riccardo... Ferne Miller, Lodi, New Jersey.

- * The "VAMPIRE" article by your friend has been received by our readers very well! AND, the 'Vampire' drawn by our own Sigvald was remarked upon as well! Dracula ia alive and well in our Journal.... We hope everyone enjoys Part Two in this issue...

Dear Joan: Enclosed is a check for a three year subscription. I enjoy the New Atlantean very much. There is always something I would like to comment on.

Please read the June Travel Holiday Magazine. That is if you haven't already. "The Two Faces of Tenerife". I quote: "Some speculate that Atlantis exists. The remains are the Mountain tops of the Canaries. The mountain Teida on the island of Tenerife is a high volcanic cone." The quanches were the early inhabitants of the Canary Islands. They were blond, blue eyes and red hair, considered survivors of Atlantis. They originally were giants -- 6 to 8 feet tall, beautiful physical body structure. They were killed and captured by intrigue and deception centuries ago by the Spanish. I spent a month at Las Palmas, the Gran Canary Island. It was festival time in memory of the Quanches. It was delightful, the music, dancing, flowers, decorations, the pageant, etc. I would like to write more on these people at a later date. I bring these notes to you for verification of another instance of Atlantis and Tenerife.

The Fair God, written by Lew Wallace, 1873. This man has authored many a book, the best known is Ben Hur. This writing is taken from the, "Mysterious Depth of Antiquity." ... Quetzalcoatl, the Fair God, came from Atlantis across the ocean to Mexico. He was trained in the Temple of Atlantis in the Priesthood. He came to Azatlan people, he taught the people a high standard of living and of learning, a peaceful prosperity of home and country culture. This flourished for centuries. He then said good bye to his people with a promise of return at a later day. He slowly wended his way across the continent, across the ocean, to Tenerife, slowly walked up the mountain, to the top of Teidra, to the volcanic cone, over the rim of the volcano and was seen no more. He had gone home to Atlantis. Tenerife and the volcano being the last remnants of Atlantis... These seem pertinent facts worth writing. Dr. Ruby Hoffman, Tehacapi, California.

* Thank you for sharing! I envy you the opportunity to go to the very volcano and mountain and shore of the Atlantean.... Perhaps that volcano is rumoured about as is Mt. Shasta?????

The volcano erupts... The quake trembles... The 'signs' appear, on land, under the ground, in the air... The 'Legends of the Lost' are even now manifesting again on this earth in this time/era.

TO BE - OR - NOT TO BE
TO SURVIVE - OR - NOT TO SURVIVE
THAT IS THE QUESTION

OR -- When does 'hand-service' replace 'lip-service'? Either you believe what is happening - or - you do not. Period. There is no more time to argue. To debate. To question. It's Either/Or. Now/Never. The 'push' has finally come to 'shove'. The commitment has to be made, the responsibility assumed. The time to quibble and nibble around the edges of this subject has passed. The 'lesson' of personal responsibility has to be taught.

IF war comes... IF famine creeps over the land... IF the seas again are turned into bloody waves... Who do you blame? It matters not! What DOES matter is how YOU, as an individual, meet this challenge. If war comes and you are a front-liner - do YOU run to save your own life? Or - do you stay and fall with your friends? If you have little food - do YOU share what little you do have - or do you hoard it, hide it, sneak it when others are not looking? These very hardships are most carefully given to us for one reason. To see just what we will DO in such circumstances. And, please remember, DOING and SAYING are two vastly different things! You can preach love, but can you GIVE it? You can say 'spiritual' but can you LIVE it? This is why a 'Utopia' is NOT given to man. He would never even have the chance to exercise his own will. Which is his most precious possession... NOT his money, his food, or his mansion-on-the-hill. These pass away ... But the soul of Man, his 'free will' to choose, and to stand OR fall by his own decisions, is Eternal. Eras come and go, oceans rise and fall, Mankind shall always exist to CHOOSE. And so it has always been and shall be...

FACE AND PYRAMID FOUND IN MARTIAN PHOTOS! - Baltimore, MD - Rock formations resembling a human face and a pyramid have been found in pictures of the Martian surface transmitted to earth by a spacecraft orbiting the planet. An electrical engineer and a computer scientists, using photo enhancement techniques to sharpen images have developed pictures of the "face" and the "pyramid" but they are not speculating about the origin of the two formations. SCIENTISTS TO EXAMINE CLOAK IMAGE - San Antonio, Tx (AP) - A cactus cloak containing the image of the Virgin Mary and thought to be more than 450 years old will undergo a series of complex scientific tests aimed at unlocking its mystery. The tests were suggested after scientists concluded five dozen infra-red photos on the image of Our Lady of Guadalupe taken last year failed to explain how the image of the Virgin Mary was applied to the cactus fiber cloak and why both have lasted at least 450 years. EXPLORERS DESCRIBE HUGE CAVE IN WEST - Sheridan, Wyo (UPI) - A group of explorers have emerged from a cave in Northern Wyoming's Big Horn Mountains, saying it may be the deepest ever found in the nation. The team of six men and one woman, all from the Sheridan area and ranging in age from 23 to 40, spent two weeks in what they dubbed the Great Expectations Cave, squeezing through narrow passages, swimming through pools over their heads and sleeping in darkness so black they often wondered whether their eyes were open or shut. They reached an estimated 900 feet depth before stopping... The country's deepest cave - Neff's Cave in Utah - is less than 1,200 ft. deep. ... The group reached a barrier they couldn't overcome without other equipment, but he declined to say what the barrier was. "We don't want to tell anybody that,"... "Right now we're one jump ahead of some other people and we don't want to give it away."... SOURCE: ROCKY MT. NEWS - 3/25/80.

INVASION OF THE GALAXY CLUSTER! Mountain view, CA - The announcement was something out of Star Trek - discovery of a SuperCluster of galaxies -- bulking across two billion light years of space, hurtling earthward out of Virgo at more than one million mph. Not to worry - says Dr. Smoot of the University of Ca. team that found the thing. Since Virgo is 65 million light years away and the galaxy cluster is many more light years beyond it - it won't be upon us for a long time! SOURCE: TORONTO SUN - 12/14/79

BOOKLET TELLS HOW TO SURVIVE NUCLEAR ATTACK - London - (AP) - British bureaucrats have thought about the unthinkable and come up with a new civil defense booklet that tells homeowners how to cope -- but -- some of the recommendations in the booklet - nicknamed "Doomsday Manual" - are causing a controversy here. Most criticized is the emphasis on a do-it-yourself approach to survival for the general public while plans have been made to provide underground shelter for government and other officials. "It is indeed a great comfort to learn that when the holocaust arrives, our government will be safely housed in a three-story bunker deep under a wooded hill in the country," B.J. Greenwood from Maidstone, Kent, wrote in a letter to the Times of London. "What a shame that they will no longer have a population to govern!"

RATS SURVIVE 34 ATOMIC BLASTS - Agana, Guam (Reuter) - Researchers say they have discovered rats apparently thriving on the heavily radio-active contaminated island of Runit, part of the Enewetok atoll chain in the Pacific... They said the rats may be descendents of an underground rat population that survived 3 atomic bomb tests.... "These rats are definitely contaminated, but they seem to be dealing with it okay," ... MELBOURNE (Reuter) Mice that have been plaguing parts of Australia are now attacking humans in Victoria. They have eaten crops, fruit and grain worth more than $6 million across 15,000 square miles of the state. "Mice have eaten everything we had - they have wrecked our home." Farmers who have laid poison around barns, sheds and haystacks have swept thousands of the dead mice into piles over a foot high the next morning. DATED: 4/18/80

ODD ILLNESS HITS ENGLISH CARNIVAL - DATED: 7/13/80 - Nearly 300 children and a dozen adults were rushed to hospitals Sunday after collapsing at a carnival in Hollingwell, England. Another 200 were treated at the carnival grounds. Police at first suspected food poisoning and then insecticides from nearby farms, but they later abandoned both theories. The victims had fainted and suffered nausea, leg pains and watery eyes. Most of them left the hospital after treatment, but some returned complaining of new attacks.

3 MEN WITHOUT PLANES OR PARACHUTES REPORTED FLYING OVER WASHINGTON STATE.
DATED: APRIL 10, 1948 --- SOURCE: EXAMINER, SAN FRAN, CA. -- Longview, Wa. A tale of three men flying over Longview without the help of airplanes or parachutes startled the Lower Columbia River area. The mysterious apparitions were reported by Mrs. Viola Johnson and James Pittman... Mrs. Johnson said what she saw "looked like three men in dark drab flying suits flying through the air"...As far as I could judge they are about 250 feet high and circling the city"... A VOLCANO SPARKS WEIRD HUMOR! Tacoma, WA - The volcanic activity at Mt. St. Helens has touched some funnybones. Denny MacGougan of the Tacoma News Tribune collected these from local punsters: - Professor George Nock of the University of Puget Sound Law School suggests that if the mountain were to blow big, the university should give it a degree -- "MAGMA CUM LOUDLY." -- Ed West contends the steam and ash eruptions were originally scheduled for last October, "BUT GOD COULDN'T GET HIS ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT FILED ON TIME!" -- C.C. Clouse wants the government to drop bombs filled with peanuts and popcorn in the crater, so an eruption would shower folks with the goodies. -- Rick Van Cise, KTNT radio's night DJ suggests that a major eruption might be prevented by smearing the mountain with a pimple cream.

POISONOUS FOG STRIPS BEACH OF VEGETATION - Vancouver, B.C. (AP) Officials say they suspect a fog was responsible for killing a strip of vegetation near the northern end of Vancouver Island. Lanny Hubbard, a spokesman for the Provincial Environment Ministry, said Friday the ministry had no idea of what was in the fog. He said it disappeared without a trace. "ALL I know is that we were informed on Monday by local observers who told us what had happened," said Hubbard. What they reported, he said, was that a 10,890 sq. ft. seaward strip of vegetation in the Campbell River-Courtenay area - curled up, turned brown and died for no apparent reason. "At this point we are guessing," he said, "But it seems like some sort of fog that came in from the sea in patches." SOURCE: ALBQ. JOURNAL - 6/2/80

COMING CATAclysm?

Prophets and scientists alike agree that our planet is destined for cataclysmic changes...now, new evidence indicates the change from the Piscean to the Aquarian Age will be far more cataclysmic than expected--and hastened by the power-madness and greed of Man's own actions.

This frightening and hopeful book tells why the years 1979-2000 are the critical ones in the social, economic, political and geological changes that herald the end of this cosmic cycle as predicted by the Bible, Cayce, and many others...changes necessary for clearing away the degeneracy and evil pervading our planet and for opening the way to Man's higher evolution.

These changes are ALREADY underway--the signs are all around us, in the Dow-Jones averages, in UFO's, in the observations of scientists and mystics. Read this startling book... learn to recognize the traps of fear and negativism, find out what YOU can do to attune yourself with forthcoming positive changes and protect your loved ones.

Rushed into print as result of new evidence that indicates terminal phase already underway.

PART 11

Who would have thought that Earth's elder planet, Maldek the Magnificent, would ever stoop to aiding and abetting the weak-minded plots of those poor mortals on Earth? Truly, I do see terrible repercussions in the offing. How does the ancient saying go? Those whom the Gods would destroy they first make mad, it also seems like it's about to come true now. There is a cosmic law that forbids the intervention of the outer planets in the affairs of the inner planets. Maldek evidently has ignored that law, therefore, since the destruction of a planet seems possible, the Cosmic Powers have decided to introduce a new planet into our Solar System, and within a year it will attain a stable orbit relatively near our Sun.

I think it will take over Earth's orbit if the planet Earth is destroyed - but the output from our Computer tells us that Earth will survive, while the other planets in our System will all suffer to some degree. . . Now, back to Maldek . . . The Alpharions had been orbiting a remote controlled vehicle around Maldek, that carried a payload of a certain strain of microbes ----- that if unleashed on the enemy would affect the nervous system and the brain --- resulting in madness, idiocy and other related symptoms. The orbiting of the Germ Ship had gone well, without incident, until a new comet ----- passing too close to Maldek, had upset the orbiting germ carrier. It went out of control and rapidly lost altitude, until, as Fate would have it, it crashed near the capital of Omertia. The germs at once attacked the people, and over half the population lost their minds and were reduced to the level of raving maniacs in a matter of days. The Alpharions were unable to explain their innocence in this unfortunate incident, as the political situation of both powers on Maldek had been badly aggravated to their recent involvement in the affairs of Earth. So -- now a state of war existed on both planets.

This new comet had passed close to Maldek was none other than the planet Venus... that had careened in from the depths of outer space, being attracted by the gravitational pull of the Sun. The next planet it affected in its flight was Mars --- and the pull of the passing comet robbed Mars of most of its ocean water, and threatened to throw Mars off its orbit. The scientists on Mars had seen this danger coming through their scopes and had computed the orbits of both Mars and the comet for many months before the catastrophe --- and this had given the Martians enough time to send up into orbit around the planet two artificial space stations that helped to stabilize the rotation of Mars -- and thus saved that planet from complete destruction. These two space stations we know today as Phobos and Deimos, the little moons of Mars.

Now the comet was closing in on Earth, and since the bulk of the Earth was a bit greater than that of the comet, the Martian oceans that had gone along with the comet were now attracted by the Earth's mass, and they rained down on the Earth when the comet passed at its closest to the earth. The sea's level was raised all over the Earth by about one hundred feet, and this did submerge many low-lying coastal cities over the planet. Many ancient and beautiful coastal cities were lost in the downpouring of the oceans of Mars. ... The war between Atlantis and Swern ceased for awhile, due to the wide-spread destruction and general helplessness that such severe flooding was causing. Great engineering projects along most of the coastlines of the world were speedily begun, in the hope of saving as much land as possible from succumbing to the rapidly rising level of the ocean.

All available aircraft were equipped with levitating devices that could then raise many tons of rock and float the rock through the air to its destination, the coastlines of the continents. Giant stone causeways were built -- 200 feet high and hundreds of miles in length, up and down the Atlantic coasts of Europe, Africa and the Americas. Huge pumping machinery was set up inside the stone walls, to suck up the unwanted water, which was then pumped into huge space tankers -- which rapidly took off to dump the water on other planets.

The great stone walls succeeded in temporarily protecting the endangered --- but only for awhile, as the greater disasters yet to come, would submerge even the walls, and practically erase all vestiges of the great civilization throughout the entire world. This was the time of the End of an Age.....

The people that owned space craft decided to emigrate to the other planets. Our Moon was then a fertile planet, capable of supporting life, but in a more limited way than her sister planet, Earth. The passing of the comet had also disturbed conditions on the Moon, but not as badly as it was on Earth. The Moon had a period of rotation then that was different -- and one day and night on the Moon was approximately 40 hours long. The comet in passing had slowed down the rotation, and this raised great tidal waves on the Moon --- that did extensive damage to the Lunar cities. Great underground cities, at this time, were built, both inside the Moon, and also inside our Earth, to accommodate the people who did not wish to leave their home planet.

In these underground cities, the people that fled from the surface felt much safer -- but they had to contend with problems that affected their light - heat and water supply, from time to time. About half the underground population eventually became mentally affected, due to dangerous levels of radiation that could not be controlled by their machines. Meanwhile --- the war between Atlantis and Swern had started again, but on a smaller scale ...

The huge quantities of bombs and other weapons had failed to arrive from Maldek, while both the Atlanteans and Swernis had used up about 80 percent of their weapons and aircraft. The Atlantean War Council then devised a new plan, whereby they would deploy foot soldiers and cavalry, armed only with swords, spears and maces. This would make their fighting forces virtually independent of the lasers, ray guns, and flying torpedos that they had depended so heavily upon in the past. Most machinery and scientific equipment had been taken over by the Science Department when the scientists had discovered that the invading comet now posed more of a threat than any warring nation ever could.

Now -- the wise men of Atlantis were wondering what disaster would strike next, as they remembered the ancient prophecies that told of all Atlantis becoming a sunken and lost world, without even so much as a memory remaining. Everyone wondered and prayed and many, on the verge of hysteria, stormed the government buildings, screaming and begging for immediate transportation to another planet, even to another solar system.. The government quickly assured the people, that their most learned astronomers had figured out the future course of the comet with absolute certainty, and that it would rapidly retreat from the Sun... and lose itself forever in outer space.

Those Atlanteans of means, who owned spacecraft capable of long voyages - hurriedly packed and took off for the moons of Jupiter ... Others who did not have space craft booked passage on the governments huge air transport craft, and they were daily evacuating many hundreds of Atlanteans, taking them to their new homes in the endless caverns in the Earth's interior... The only ones who were left behind were those suffering from incurable maladies and the hopelessly crippled. Now the comet had reached its closest proximity to the Sun, and was slowly orbiting around it preparing for its return trip to the outer reaches.

As usual, members of the Cosmic Council on Saturn had closely followed the whole drama on their TeleScreens, and now their leader said, Brethren, I think it is high time that we started some preventive action in this most horrible affair. Let us descend to the chamber of Cosmic Powers and try to see if we can control that comet, and perhaps give it a stable orbit.... The Great Ones of Saturn entered the chamber and deftly began to manipulate the dials and levers that controlled the Magnetorays, with its forces of attraction and repulsion.

The great beams of force lashed out from the surface of Saturn, and enveloped the runaway comet in a vibrating aura of magnetic pressure that slowly but surely started rotating the core of the comet, slowing it's speed, and steering it into an elliptic orbit between the orbits of Earth and the tiny planet that is Mercury.

Slowly the comet wobbled, this way and that way, and began to follow a new curve in order to take to it's new orbit. Astronomers on all the inhabited planets had been anxiously watching this cosmic drama -- and when they realized what was happening they all breathed a sigh of relief... However, all was not well with the planets as yet, as the two leading nations on the planet Maldek were still at war with each other. The Omertians had just finished assembling the biggest and deadliest bomb ever made, and their chiefs of staff were now discussing the best way to use it against the Alpharians. The power of this bomb was such that it could actually melt and disintegrate the components of the atoms of hydrogen, oxygen and silicon, and no one was actually sure of how much of a chain reaction would occur.

The following day after the Horror Bomb was assembled, the leaders of Omer-tia received a warning from the Cosmic Council on Saturn -- a warning to dismantle the Bomb immediately. A Saturnian Emmisary actually teleported himself into the Omertian Council Hall on Maldek, and gave the War Council a sharp reprimand and a strict warning not to use such a bomb, as its chain reaction would be impossible to control, and it would therefore leave nothing untouched on the entire planet. This certainly was the Ultimate Weapon. NO one could survive this nightmarish weapon. The Omertian War Lords objected to this warning, Most of the people on Maldek were now beginning to suspect that they were headed for certain destruction, and all who had access to a space craft held an underground meeting that night, and the following night, and all the civilian space hangers quietly opened their doors.

Does Chinese 'Nessie' lurk in remote lake?

PEKING (AP) — Is there a Loch Ness-type monster lurking in the warm, murky depths of a remote saltwater lake in the Tibetan highlands? It's possible, says a Chinese researcher.

Chen Ting-en, a researcher in geology and ancient life, wrote in the Peking Evening News recently that residents and officials living near Wenbu Lake have reported some strange sightings and mysterious disappearances.

Chen said one official told him that he and two others have seen a dinosaur-like creature with a body as big as a house, a long neck and a small head swimming through the water.

OTHERS GAVE similar descriptions of the creature and reported that a man piloting a raft across the lake had been swallowed up without a trace in a whirlpool that appeared suddenly at its center, Chen added.

He said the official told how he once left a cow tied to a tree beside the lake and returned later to find it missing. The beach was marked with tracks indicating that the cow had been dragged into the water, he said.

Wenbu Lake is approximately 40 feet deep and has hot springs bubbling up from its bottom, a suitable habitat to support a monster, Chen wrote. It was part of an ocean 300 million years ago, but since then has been geologically isolated, retaining only its salty water.

THE LAKE is so isolated that Chen, while on a geological survey trip to Tibet in 1976, could only reach it by walking for six days from Shenchia County, 450 miles from the city of Lhasa in southeastern Tibet.

Chen said the mysterious creature appears to be very similar to one reported to exist in Scotland's Loch Ness. Researchers have sought for years to establish positive proof of the Scottish monster's existence.

The survival of dinosaurs and other ancient life forms in Wenbu Lake is possible, Chen said, adding that hard work by scientists may eventually bring the truth to the surface.

THE PLEIADES: HOMEWORLDS OF THE ANCIENTS?
by Patrick O'Connell - CONCLUSION -

WHO WAS THE MYSTERIOUS 'ALIEN' WHO RETURNED GEORGE ADAMSKI'S PHOTOGRAPHIC NEGATIVE WITH THE STRANGE SYMBOLS? WAS HE ONE OF THE LEGENDARY RACE OF "GOD-MEN" OF WHICH THE VERY ANCIENT SUMERIAN TEXTS SPEAK?

An analysis of so-called "magic writing" and the symbols on the Adamski photographic plate (illustrated in Summer '80 Journal) seem to show a distinct similarity to electronic printed circuits! For example, in the book THE 12th PLANET, by Zecharia Sitchin, AVON BOOKS, he states that the ancient archaic Sumerian pictographs for the terms EN and LIL, have more in common with 20th century science and technology than with purely religious beliefs!

Sitchin points out that the "GOD-MAN" Enlil was described in ancient Mesopotamian texts as having been apparently in charge of the landing of the 'astronauts' from the planet Marduk, the "12th Planet", on planet Earth - some 430,000 years ago! Many of the ancient pictographs resemble modern-day technological hardware, as Figure 1 shows. This drawing depicts how the Sumerian pictograph denotes the term "ENLIL" showing "... a structure with a high tower of antennas rising from it, as well as a contraption that looks very much like the giant radar nets erected nowadays for capturing and emitting signals - the 'vast net' described in the texts of the most Ancients."

The Tablet of Destinies described in the "Epic of Creation" also appears to relate to communications, space ships, and the navigation of these ships from one planet to another. Sitchin provides detailed evidence to support his thesis that Enlil's "Mission Control" was located at Nippur (Babylonia) and depended on the information contained in the "black box" to purportedly control the orbits and flight paths of the spaceships that "...maintained the bond between Heaven and Earth." Could the Kaaba, the cube of black stone, which appeared mysteriously in the desert in Antiquity - now located at the sacred shrine of Mecca, the center of Islamic faith, possibly have originated on Marduk, the home planet of the Nefilim, or is there some other 'out of this world' explanation? A partial answer could be forthcoming from examination of the myths and legends surrounding the Tablet of Destinies.

The Tablet, according to Sitchin, may have contained computer programs that "... guided the ships, without which the contact between the Nefilim on the Earth and their link to the home planet would be disrupted."

Is it possible that the so-called 'magic writing' of the Ancients can or could provide the triggering mechanism of permitting human beings and the 'Aliens' to transmit energy to one another? Is the 'magic writing' and 'space writing' somehow connected? Could this be one of the secrets that could unlock the thought-guarded Ancients' lost cities and long-forgotten subterranean passageways that lead to underground city-complexes?

Perhaps this has already become a Reality -- at least in part --! For example, one device now in existence purportedly transmits energy from one location to another. By drawing the diagram of an electronic circuit in India ink on parchment, or more conventionally, by constructing such a device, called the "ELOPTIC" Energy Machine, one can experiment with these powerful energies. This machine (US Patent Number 2,482,773, September 27, 1949) is called by it's inventor, Dr. Galen Hieronymus, the "Hieronymus Radionic Measurement Unit. Send 50¢ to the US Government Patent Office - Washington, D.C. if you want to obtain a copy of the patent. More information concerning the most interesting machine is contained on page 22 - of John Freeman's "SUPPRESSED AND INCREDIBLE INVENTIONS" - available from Al Fry, Dept. NAJ, 879 Park, Perris, CA. 92370 - $7.95 ppd.

Amateur archaeologist believes he's found pyramidal city under water near Chandeleur

By MARIANNE DAY DUBOSE
SUNDAY STAFF WRITER

THE SUN/THE DAILY HERALD, Gulfport-Biloxi, MS - March 23, 1980

After seven years of research, an amateur archeologist from Baton Rouge says he has located an underwater Pyramidal City near the Chandeleur Islands south of Biloxi in the Gulf Of Mexico. The city, he says, could date back to the Stone Age. Before the end of the summer, George L. Gele and divers from the National Space and Technology Laboratories Diving Club will take a fully equipped expedition to the site in hopes of making physical contact with the submerged structures. So far, weather problems have interfered with seven other expeditions.

Gele, an architect and a planner for Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, says he has discovered 40 or 50 partially-buried stone structures on the Gulf bottom. At least one of them is believed to be a 30 foot tall pyramidal structure. He used a side-scan sonar and sub-bottom profiling instruments in his explorations. ... "I ran across information on a theory that major religious centers of various civilizations were distributed evenly across the surface of the earth. I became curious about the 30th parallel or latitude. Most religious centers are located there." He discovered that the Gulf site near Chandeleur is mathematically located in one of these strategic areas. The particular site where Gele believes the city is located is exactly 120 degrees from the Giza Pyramids in Egypt and 180 degrees from the Potala at Lhasa, Tibet, an important religious center.

"They are at the same latitude as our site and equally distributed from that site ... on the ocean floor ... is a place where seven rivers come together. It was a land mass that was once above the water." Using the satellite photographs, Gele says he found evidence of a spot in the Gulf that is "U-shaped with a long line, that terminated with a blob at the end. The satellite showed something, not an island, but at the same mathematical point, he says, "it was something that could be seen from space - not an airplane." The photograph and his research add up to one theory - there is an ancient city located in the Gulf.

"We have evidence that shows a mass which is 1.2 nautical miles square, he says." "There are rectangular and square objects on the bottom. We also have located masses which are standing up, maybe 20 feet high... We have an area in which there is a cluster of rectangular structures." "We have identified three. One is protruding three feet out of the sand, one is five feet, and one mass is nine feet out of the sand. We know exactly where they are."..."We are going to shake up the concepts of our past," he said. "It is time for the structures to be found."

THE HISTORY OF
VAMPIRES IN AMERICA AND THE NEW WORLD

by Martin Riccardo
VAMPIRE STUDIES SOCIETY
POB 205, Oak Lawn, Il.
60454.....

SHIFTING BACK TO THE UNITED STATES - Vampires were again flagrantly in the public eye - at least in the Broadway and movie 'revival' of Dracula with Frank Langella bearing a majestically evil presence.

The play "Dracula" first sank its teeth into the Big Apple over 50 years ago - but since then bloody vampire realities have also pierced the lives of New Yorkers.

In 1959 a 16 year old boy calling himself 'Dracula' was arrested in New York on charges of murder and assault. He was said to prowl the streets only at night, always garbed in a black cloak. Even after his capture - he believed he was impervious to the electric chair because of his vampire nature. In 1932 the occult investigator William Seabrook had the bizarre experience of having his own blood sucked from an open wound by a young woman who believed she was a vampire.

She was from Brooklyn Heights, New York, and was quite striking with her thin figure, pale skin, red hair and green eyes. After he encountered her spontaneous display of bloodlust on a seashore, he tried to help her. Unfortunately, it was discovered too late that she was suffering from a fatal case of pernicious anemia.

More recently, a woman who went by the name of Lilith told some psychic researchers how she bit into the neck of a young man she came across while in a New York cemetery. She admitted to them she was "a very evil person who liked the taste of blood." Stephen Kaplan, currently New York's leading vampire hunter, has even heard of one man who "had his teeth filed down so that he could purposely bite somebody and draw blood."

Also in New York, the noted parapsychologist Raymond Van Over came in contact with a young woman who believed she was being attacked telepathically by a vampire. She had first felt a surge of inexplicable terror when she encountered some strange people in a restaurant. Before she could leave, one young man clutched her arm and said he was a vampire who loved to drink the blood of young girls. She ran from the place, but later she experienced some ghastly incidents - a blood stain appeared on her wall where a picture had fallen, blood appeared on a piece of clothing she tried on, and on another occasion her whole bathroom seemed to be splattered with blood. Eventually she started to hear voices taunting her, and this led to a complete emotional breakdown.

Vampire incidents have occurred in almost every section of the United States. A family in the Seattle suburb of Federal Way has been visited several times by a man dressed up as a vampire, who on one occasion drove off in a hearse. In Lauderhill, Florida, school children have been frightened by a tall man running up to them in cape and fangs. And in Toledo, Ohio, there is said to be a man who calls himself "the Count", comes out only at night, keeps a coffin in his room, and occasionally bites people on the neck.

By all accounts, it seems clear that Americans have long held some peculiar obsessions regarding vampires. Today this can range from the late night insomniac who loves to watch horror films, to murderers like Richard Trenton Chase of California, who admitted drinking the blood of at least one of his six victims. Who is to say what lies behind our native fascination with the nightmare world of the undead? Perhaps the answer is quite simple ---- Vampirism is just in our blood.

MY "MAGIC LAWS" FOR ABUNDANT HEALTH AND PEACE OF MIND

By Luke G. Thomas

A poor Vermont boy, I was orphaned at 12. I did all the wrong things up to age 58 and yet have managed to live to age 87, sound physically and sharp mentally. I am neither retired nor in a rest home; I am truly enjoying productive activities.

Many NAJ readers believe an unseen energizing force may be tapped by receptive researchers to greater or lesser degree. Some seek mystic wisdom, mantras or amulets. I found the "magic pearl" by learning and obeying simple, natural laws of eating, deep breathing, mild exercising, resting and respecting the loving Creator.

IT PAYS TO CONSIDER NEW IDEAS

You may need the priceless information brought to me in 1950, following a fourth heart attack. Survival seemed remote. I also suffered from painful arthritis, high blood pressure, prostatitis and obesity which I blamed upon age. I WAS KIDDING MYSELF . . . it was the effects of wrong information. Since 1950 my body rebuilt itself with what I put into it. Doctors say my heart is sound . . . I suffer no pain, use no medication, exult in energy.

Once I corrected mistakes, CHANGED HABITS brought me, automatically, HEALTH, NEW IDEAS and ENTHUSIASM. Thus I gradually became PROSPEROUS and HAPPY. Life wants you to be the same. We are mysteriously endowed with body cells which replace themselves INDEFINITELY according to what goes into the mouth and through the mind. ADDING LIFE TO LIFE IS SIMPLE, for "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap". This is POSITIVE, INEXORABLE TRUTH! It is possible to undo some damage you created, as I did, through ignorance and violation of fixed, universal laws.

How far you may improve your health, circumstances and influence by following my advice, no man can tell. These "magic laws" should work for you as they have for me and thousands of others. YOUR OWN CHOICES of food, water, thoughts and action will decide the outcome. "The human body," says Dr. H. G. Bieler, M.D., "has an amazing capacity to repair its own injuries and to heal its illnesses". MY BODY DID IT WHEN I TREATED IT INTELLIGENTLY. If you dream of more abundant and productive life on earth my "magic laws" are worth trying.

CHANGE WHAT YOU CAN CHANGE

You cannot change your countenance, your genes or aptitudes but YOU CAN MAKE BETTER USE OF WHAT YOU HAVE. How you live, now that you have read this story, may determine HOW LONG YOU LIVE IN YOUR SELF-HEALING BODY. Right where you live . . . just as you are . . . start from where you stand, as I did, to feel all new. ACT NOW: Place 28¢ stamps on a long envelope self-addressed to a potentially happy, healthy, successful person . . . yourself. ACT NOW TO CHANGE YOUR LIFE THIS YEAR!

Eerie sinking

BY LAWRENCE DENNIS
TIMES - UNION

Jerry Willis isn't sure, but he wonders if the infamous Devil's Triangle has now claimed another victim. Willis' new 40 ft, Fiberglas-hulled ketch sank beneath him with frightening rapidity off Stuart on January 22. "It was strange," Willis said in a telephone conversation from his restaurant in Mavarre. "I have no explanation. Maybe there is something to the Devil's Triangle. I know one thing -- it's enough to scare the hell out of you."

Willis, 35, has been sailing since the age of 8. After his ketch sank, Willis and two companions were carried northward in a life raft by the Gulf Stream for five days before being rescued. He said his ketch was well equipped with the standard safety equipment... Seconds after sinking, only the life raft that saved him and his crew remained afloat. Willis, who was carried under by the suction of the sinking vessel but bobbed to the surface, said that was only one of the strange things about the mishap. "Our radios wouldn't transmit," he said. "My EPIRD put out for five days, I never even saw a plane. I just don't understand how it (the ocean) sucks down Coast Guard approved lifesaving devices and cushions. I had my fenders tied together on deck. I had one gallon water jugs on deck. I even threw in my overboard pole (a buoyant 15 to 20 ft. rod with a flashing light on top which is designed to float indefinitely) - it sank. My teak-wood hatch covers ... nothing came up, nothing."

The circumstances surrounding the actual sinking of the vessel were no less mysterious. "I got up at 7 am and did all the standard things you do when you get up at sea," Willis said. "I checked the bilges for water. They were dry."

Wonder farmer won't yield secret

'The experimentation centers on energizing the seeds. The energy source? The energization is imparted by the human mind.'

VALLE DE SANTIAGO, Mexico — For three months, Mexico's wonder farmer has been deluged with questions about how he produces 60-pound cabbages, 10-pound onions and collard greens the size of palm fronds.

J. Carmen Garcia maintains his success came from a formula on a scrap of paper given him by a stranger who claimed to have been held captive in an underground city by extra-terrestrial beings. Now, Garcia has entrusted what he calls "the method" to the mystical Rosicrucian Order of San Jose, Calif. for the benefit of mankind.

Garcia, whose perennial giant vegetables made him a folk hero in his Guanajuato state valley 260 miles northwest of Mexico City, was challenged by Agriculture Ministry agronomists to a grow-off in December 1977.

THE CONTEST, on identical side-by-side plots, was conducted at the Ministry's Tangaaneque experimental station near Tampico. When the April 1978 harvest was in, the unschooled farmer and his associate, Oscar Arrendondo, had put the government agronomists to shame.

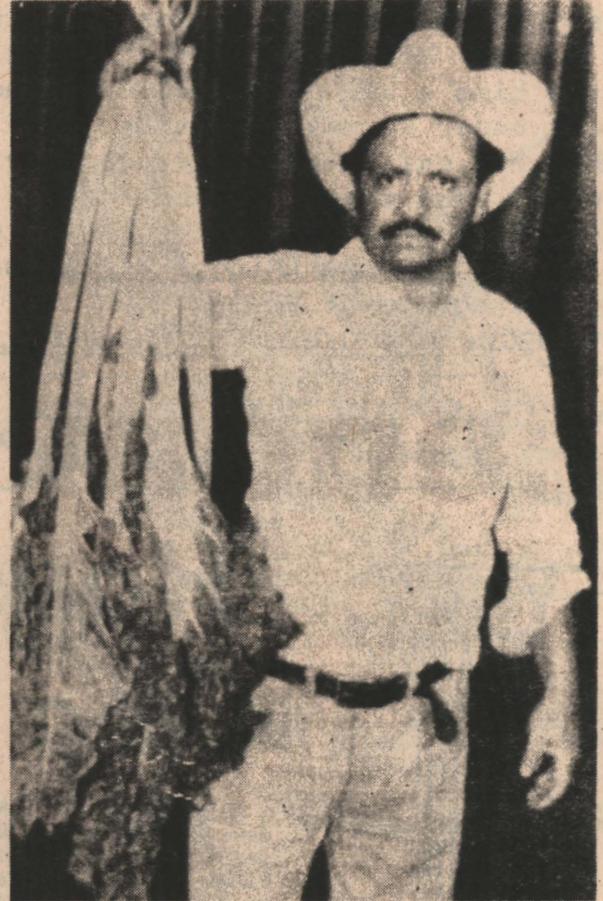

A ministry spokesman, researching results of the contest at the request of UPI, said:

"In cabbage alone, Garcia outgrew the agronomists 107 tons per hectare (2.5 acres) to 5 tons per hectare. However, government experts determined that his large produce was less nutritious than normal-sized produce and the government decided not to pursue the matter."

Last February, UPI distributed an illustrated dispatch about Garcia based on an article by Bill Robinson, a San Diego police information officer, who happened upon the farmer and his big vegetables while on a Mexican vacation.

INUNDATED BY more than a thousand letter requests for more information, Robinson visited Garcia again, with UPI along to interpret.

"I don't want to talk any more about how I got that formula. That's not important," Garcia said.

Vanishing hitchhiker is baffling

LITTLE ROCK (UPI)—Reports of an elusive hitchhiker, who predicts Christ's second coming and then vanishes from moving cars, are being told in Arkansas, but the tales' sources cannot be found.

State police said they received two reports, both on a Sunday, that a clean-cut, well-dressed hitchhiker had been picked up along highways near Little Rock and then, after warning of Christ's second coming, disappeared.

Troopers did not record who called in the reports and efforts to track down witnesses to the disappearing disciple were frustrating and fruitless.

The stories have spread across the state and are being retold with conviction. All details are similar, with the exception of the witnesses' identity.

State Trooper Robert Rotten said Friday that there's not much police can do with such reports.

"It's not a violation of the law and no hazard is involved," he said. "It's illegal to hitchhike, but if he disappears, this hitchhiker's going to be hard to arrest."

Peter Kolosimo, in NOT OF THIS WORLD, relates a bizarre story concerning the purported discovery of an Alien by an American adventurer called John Spencer, in 1920. While at the Mongolian lamasery of Tuerin, he chanced upon an entrance to a subterranean passage. The tunnel was illuminated by a strange green light! At length, he arrived at a room with 25 or 30 rectangular boxes. He opened each, in hopes of finding something of value. The containers were in actuality coffins, each containing a human body- except one: an Alien, whose head was of pure silver with round holes where the eyes should have been, no mouth, and an oval-shaped thing full of holes where the nose should have been! He reached in to touch it, when suddenly the big round eyes emitted a terrifying green light! Spencer made a fast exit after he dropped the lid! Later, wanting an explanation of what he had seen, a monk told him that the silver-headed man was a "high lord who came from the stars!" He then pointed to markings behind the altar: the constellataion Taurus and the Pleiades!

THE GIRL FROM THE LEMURIAN COLONY BENEATH MT. SHASTA!
by William F. Hamilton

James Churchward authored a controversial book in the 1930's entitled "THE LOST CONTINENT OF MU" which tells of the destruction of a huge continent that once occupied the Southern Pacific Ocean over 12,000 years ago. The collapse of Archean gas chambers below the Earth exterminated Mu's 64 million inhabitants in a fiery holocaust that sent most of this massive piece of land to the bottom of the ocean. The Hawaii Islands, Easter Island, and various South Pacific islands are cited as above-water remnants of the ancient land of MU, also known in occult circles as Lemuria.

Did a continent exist? Did any of its peoples survive? Where did the survivors go? Did the Lemurians build anything that survives today as mute testimony to their ancient presence in the world? Were the Mayans the descendants of the Lemurian Empire of the Sun? How does Lemuria relate to Atlantis? Questions, questions followed by evidence, counter-evidence, arguments, heated debates, wholesale belief, and wholesale disbelief. It is not possible to treat all of the facets of these questions in these few pages.

I have no proof or evidence to substantiate claims in favor of the Atlantis and Lemurian legend, but sometimes I investigate, analyze, and research the UFO phenomena, psychic phenomena, and astro-archeology in an attempt to uncover new clues to our hidden past.

I run across some fascinating people in the course of my investigations who tell me many unusual stories. About three years ago, while on the trail of reports of UFO base locations, I met a young very pretty blonde girl with almond-shaped eyes and small perfect teeth whose name is Bonnie. Bonnie has told me an incredible story and has related a volume of interesting information on Atlantis and Lemuria. Bonnie is sincere, cheerful, and rational, and says she is a Lemurian born under the sign of Leo in 1951 in a city called TELOS that was built inside an artificial dome-shaped cavern in the Earth a mile or so beneath Mt. Shasta, California. Many people have reported seeing mysterious fires and lights on the slopes of this 12,000 ft. volcanic mountain. Mt. Shasta is perennially shrouded in snow and is sometimes engirdled with lenticular cloud formations that cap the snowy peak. UFO reports have been prolific in this section of Northern California. One report involves a close encounter between a Mt. Shasta's sheriff's car and a glowing disk. Bonnie, her mother, her father RAMU, her sister Judy, her cousins Lorae and Matox live and move in our society, returning frequently to TELOS for rest and recuperation.

Bonnie relates that her people use boring machines to bore tunnels in the Earth. These boring machines heat the rock to incandescence, then vitrify it thus eliminating the need for beams and supports. A tube transit train system is used to connect the few Atlantean/Lemurian cities that exist in various subterranean regions of our hemisphere. The tube trains are propelled by electromagnetic impulses up to speeds of 2500 mph. One tube connects with one of their cities in the Matto Grosso jungle of Brazil. The Lemurians have developed space travel and some flying saucers come from their subterranean bases. Bonnie says her people are members of a federation of planets.

They grow food hydroponically under full-spectrum lights with their gardens attended by automatons. The food and resources of TELOS are distributed in plenty to the million-and-half population that thrives on a no-money economy. Bonnie talks about history, of the Uighers, Naga-Mayas, and Quetzals of which she is a descendent. She recounts the destruction of Atlantis and Lemuria and of a war between the two superpowers fought with advanced weaponry. She says the Atlanteans built a huge crystal-powered beam weapon that was used to control a small moon of Earth as a missile to be aimed at China, but their plans went awry and the moon split in two coming down into the Atlantic, north of Bermuda, deluging the remaining isle of Atlantis. She claims her people have historical records of this event contained on holographic computers that can re-project any event from the Akashic record. Her people are now part of a much greater underground kingdom called Agharta - ruled by a super race she calls "HYPER BEINGS".

I met Bonnie's cousin, Matox, who, like her, is a strict Vegetarian and holds the same attitudes concerning the motives of our government. They constantly guard against discovery or intrusion. Their advanced awareness and technology helps them to remain bigilant. Will we openly meet these long lost relatives of ours? Bonnie says yes, but this is part of her incredible mission. Her mission -- to warn those who will listen of coming cataclysms that will culminate at the end of the century in a shift of the Earth's axis. After this catastrophe, she says the world will be one, and the survivors will build a new world free of way, poverty, disease and exploitation. The world will exist on a higher plane of vibrations and man will come to know his true history and heritage.

Science-fiction? Bonnie is a real person. Many have met her. Is she perpetrating a hoax? For what motive? She does not seek publicity and I have a devil of a time getting her to meetings to talk with others, but she has done so. There has been little variation in her story or her answers in the past three years. She has given me excellent technical insighst on the construction of a crystal-powered generator that extracts ambient energy. She has given me new insights on UFOs and their purposes in coming here. Bonnie's father, the RAMU, is 300 years old and a member of the ruling council of TELOS.

Though I have never met him, she reports that his psychic powers are well-developed and that hers are immature by comparison. Bonnie does seem to have telepathic ability.

On the next page is a copy of a tunnel-entrance map drawn by TAL LEVESQUE which she says has some degree of accuracy. Many tunnels are unsafe and closed off. All tube transit tunnels are protected and are designed to eject uninvited guests. Does Bonnie have the answers we are all looking for? I don't know. I am not making the claims nor can I provide proof. Bonnie says she would like to satisfy our need for proof and will work with me on a satisfactory answer to that problem, but she is unconcerned with whether people accept her or not. Bonnie is humourous and easy-going and well - poised, yet sometimes she becomes brooding and mysterious. Accept this as a tale told for amusement if you will. But, what if she is right? Do we face coming cataclysms? She says her people are busy planning survival centers for refugees. One of these is to be near Prescott, Arizona. If Bonnie is correct, then her predictions will come true and it will give us all much to think about. Skeptics don't need to bother themselves with this story as they have other more solid events to run around and dispute. Those of you who have knowledge of these things presented by Bonnie are invited to get in touch with me and share their information. Perhaps we can all learn about the strange Planet Earth. As Bonnie has said to me several times --- "You can go within and sense the truth of what I say and that will tell you better than anything else I could say to you."

Loltun Cavern's Ancient Artifacts

They point to a pre-cataclysmic culture

Revised and updated version

By J. Manson Valentine, Ph.D., FN 1962

PHOTOGRAPHS BY THE AUTHOR

PART ONE

The search for Ancient Civilizations is as old as archeology itself; yet no definition of the term 'ancient' has yet emerged from all the research and discovery. The temporal scale along which we trace the history of man into the remote past seems to present no concise time-marks.

Until recently many archeologists and their geological colleagues refused to take seriously the possibility that our earth could suffer cataclysmic upheaval. The likelihood was clearly pointed out to the world early in the nineteenth century by Cuvier and other illustrious members of the French school of naturalists who based their opinion on sound paleontological ground. It is now generally conceded that catastrophic conditions periodically visited the earth. It is theorized that they might well have been brought on by cosmic forces warping the planet's magnetic field with consequent and disastrous shifting of its rotational axis.

During such times of cataclysmic assault, all the forces of nature might well have been unleashed. In one titanic blow it could have combined volcanism, quake, tidal wave, flood and the battering by tornadoic winds of sufficient velocity and sub-zero temperature (in the polar regions at least) to deep-freeze the bodies of mastodons. So universally devastating could have been the effects of polar instability that vast areas of the land would have disappeared...

Stalactite that was worked by man and worn by water in Loltun Cavern.

Big vestibule room, Loltun Cavern, Yucatan.

Man's works, unless already protected underground, could not possibly have survived the holocaust intact and must have come to an abrupt halt all over the world at the same time. In short, an archeological hiatus would have been born. The paleontologist, studying his fossil-bearing strata, would someday identify this sudden break in continuity as an "unconformity" and record that the stratum immediately above the fossil contained new faunistic elements. Our planet has apparently received four major cataclysmic shocks in the course of the million or so years that are ascribed to the Pleistocene Age. Each shock terminated a time of relative warmth and plunged the world into another glacial situation. The last of these ecological revolutions occurred, according to a variety of corresponding evidences, as recently as 11,500 to 12,000 years ago. Civilizations alive prior to that time may truly be referred to as 'ancient'. They may readily be dated as belonging in this category by their metaphysical sophistication plus their association with signs of intense environmental disturbance.

For many years, the author has been seeking evidence of precataclysmic culture. During the search, he has come to realize that by far the most accessible records of such a relic nature are to be found either in the great - virtually indestructible limestone caverns, or at the bottom of the sea. The first clue came during his explorations of the caves of the Yucatan - especially that tremendous and sacred repository of antiquities and link with the remote past - THE LOLTUN, documented in DISCOVERY OF X-KUKICAN - published by the Alabama Museum of Natural History, Feb. 1965, and THE NEW ATLANTIAN JOURNAL. This magnificent evidence of the workings of ancient man ramifies deeply and widely through the Puuc hills of central Yucatan that crest only five hundred feet above sea level... Jeff Wilkerson* has determined that the end of our civilization—as we know it, will most probably end in March 1987!. He reached this conclusion after researching the two calendars of the Aztecs: one, a religious calendar of 260 days, and the other, an agricultural one of 365 days in the year. Every 52 yrs each calendar starts on the same day, and some of these times that this happens are thought to mark a period of great catastrophes! The last time this happened was 450 yrs ago, when the Spanish brought about the end of their civilization! The next time such a period is to occur, is 1987! Send in your UFO sightings or Alien encounters! See it illustrated here!

May 17, 1977... The Memphis Press-Schimitar stated that 5 Law Officers reported seeing a pyramid-shaped UFO over Shelby, TN. "It was as big as a football field!" Seen on 3 separate occasions, it was estimated to be 300 feet long and was flashing red and green blinking lights on its corners! It was almost standing still at one point, and was only 200 feet off the ground. Send in your UFO sighting or Alien encounter! See it illustrated here!

MT. HOOD STANDS OVER PORTLAND, OREGON'S LARGEST CITY
U.S. Geological Survey Has Issued A 'Volcano Watch' For The Area

Mt. Hood

12 Quakes Strike In Mt. Hood Area

Vancouver, Wash. (AP) — Twelve earthquakes were recorded Saturday in the area of Mt. Hood, the Oregon peak where a volcano hazard watch is in effect, scientists said.

Federal officials warned people to carry a portable radio and stay alert in the area, but scientists were cautious about predicting an eruption.

"We're not alarmed, we're alert," U.S. Geological Survey geologist Tim Hait said Saturday.

Hait said the 12 quakes Saturday compared with eight quakes on Tuesday, six on Wednesday, one on Thursday and eight on Friday.

ABOUT 90 QUAKES have been recorded since July 6, Hait said. He said most were small but some went over 3.0 on the Richter scale.

The Cascade Range mountain about 50 miles from Portland, Ore. has been quiet since Wednesday. However, scientists Saturday began installing monitoring devices at the mountain.

Mt. Hood National Forest officials warned people in the forest to carry a portable radio "to be alert and have a high sensitivity of what is going on," said Rick Schuster of the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Bob Oliver, Oregon public safety assistant, said Friday he was "getting in touch with locals, drawing contingency plans. But we're not running around screaming."

"IF IT SETTLES down, fine," Oliver said. "But if it follows the same pattern as St. Helens, we might well have to consider evacuating."

Mt. St. Helens remained in a lull.

THE PHENOMENOLOGY OF THE LEY SYSTEM

By

COLIN H. BLOY

Those who wish can tour round the area of the U.S. S.A.C. base of Torrejón in Madrid and they will find very strong lines converging on where the nuclear arsenal is.

Equally around the nuclear power station south of Madrid, the first in Spain, one may find a line system which unites the red pressure vessel of the reactor with megalithic stones, both ancient and modern and also with a mediaeval castle of the Military Order of Calatrava, an order very close to the Templars, an order very knowledgeable in these energies - a phenomenon confirmed by studies with nuclear stations in England and the U.S.A. where one of our group recently entered in his protective suit with official permission, the pressure vessel of a reactor in Detroit, which had been closed for repairs, and was able to carry out a dowsing analysis which revealed a 64-bar line passing through and various geometrical field effects in and around the vessel.

All these modern altars, because they are foci of human consciousness, as is this podium at this time, are in the system, along with megalithic sites (X) and here we have a very curious photograph of the Windscale nuclear plant in England with a stone circle next to it, and mediaeval churches and modern churches - many churches of the Mormons are within the system and in Salt Lake City they have their department of informed architects - as well as neo-gothic churches and also those of Antoni Gaudi - a strange man if ever there was one.

But at the end of the day we are left with the phenomenon in this very hall. We have reproduced here, which is neither a religious or nuclear site. How can we, if we are prepared to accept that the observation is correct, how can we reconcile all these phenomena in a satisfactory hypothesis.

Perhaps a clue resides in the observation we have made, about which I made a brief statement last time - namely music. In a 12th century Romanesque Church in Andorra, we made several experiments with sacred music, Handel's Messiah and Gregorian Plain-Chant. Played in the church, they produced around it and for many kilometres the symbols or geometrical field effects, always in groups of 49. We also noticed that in certain chapels of the Anglican Church where they also sing a form of Plain-Chant, the same effect results.

Some two years ago, driving through the village of Arenys de Munt here in the Maresme, I noticed the lines in the church in a state of great activity - I entered the Church to see what was going on - and the priest was in the act of raising the host.

Sadly the cases where this happens are few.

And we do not therefore assume that the phenomenon is produced by mechanical or ritual acts - if it were so the world would be filled with confusion. We conclude that in some way it is the state of mind of those present that reacts with musical frequencies or the spiritual field to produce these field effects.

And it is not a phenomenon which results uniquely from purely religious acts for we have noted the same phenomenon playing songs from Jesus Christ Superstar in the same church, and also at a corrida here in the Plaza Monumental when the bull is killed.

What we feel is that the effect is not due to a mechanical act but because the mechanical act raises to a particular level the brain rhythms of those present. I salute the priest at Arenys de Munt for his capacity to communicate his feelings for the sacred to his congregation and to produce in it this effect. We believe that the effect of Gregorian Plain-Chant on ourselves and our reaction to it, is what produces the changes in the subtle energy fields around - while we were in Andorra - up to the point that with great care, we were able to demonstrate to our satisfaction that without any external aid, there are states of mind that the individual can use to produce these field effects around him.

What is critical is the presence of a group or an individual who are open to this state of mind, whether it is provoked by internal or external influences. It is a phenomenon which is sometimes conscious and sometimes unconscious and depends to some extent on the direction in which the general and particular influences at work in society are pushing us, whether towards the altar of a temple or to a network of T.V. transmitters, or to the head-quarters of a political party, or to an arsenal of atomic weapons, of which we are all afraid, and therefore have our consciousnesses very much focussed upon them.

It is the phenomenon of the bionic field, the subjective field, the ether or as the Russians call it, the bio-plasmic field. The ley-lines are the result of condensations of human consciousness - in the majority of cases, unconscious, but in certain cases, conscious, and this latter is normally the context of magic, of the miraculous, the paranormal. That is to say that consciousness is also an objective field, although the words subjective and objective, sometimes appear identical.

The subtle energies, which are completely outside of, but not completely, the electrical, electro-magnetic, gravitic and radioactive fields, are intimately related to our consciousness. It is a unified cosmos. One cannot distinguish between any parts of it - in the final analysis all is part of all - as Einstein said. The question, as we see it, is whether we dominate these fields or they dominate us.

And in this sense the ley lines may be called telluric because they are related to the earth, for in the first instance, man in his basic proto-historical state of consciousness was directed to water, his fount of life, and secondly, by higher states of consciousness in which he contemplates his altars, ancient and modern, sacred and profane - thus water and ley-lines are related.

I have spoken to some extent with the context of mysticism - a word which also creates confusion - and is considered that antithesis of rationalist, positivist and scientific attitudes. I maintain that, in its manner of qualifying reality, there is no distinction.

If the realities of dowsing indeed go beyond positivist science, we are left without vocabulary - apart from expressions like magic, esotericism and mysticism. It is a unified cosmos where there is, and science is beginning to recognise it, the ultimate phenomenon of the unified field where everything may be resolved in balanced equations, i.e. the electromagnetic, gravitic, electrical, including the bionic, etheric, and spiritual fields, all of them are manifestations of the unified field and the dowser, suitably armed, is a pioneer, as you are all here pioneers, in the extension of mankind's knowledge, but we must always realise that if we really want to penetrate into these realities beyond the frontiers of positive science, we must be prepared to confront mysticism, magic and esotericism, not just as lazy concepts of realities based on fantasy, but as the realities of the primary and proto-primary states of the material world - and we should enter as it were religiously, not prisoners of narrow dogma, but with a profound respect for the forces which truly move the universe, with faith in innocence, and motive - which can only be for the good of humanity under the macrocosm.

HIJACK STATION BENEATH THE OCEAN?

CREDIT: ZENOLOG, WINTER 1979

SOURCE: DAILY MIRROR, AUSTRALIA

AUGUST, 1979.

KIDNAP: Many researchers believe that UFO's are using Bass Strait as an under-sea base, from which they hijack passing planes. Frederich Valentich, who vanished on October 21, last year, was not the first pilot to be lost among widely reported fluries of saucer activity.

Planes have disappeared over the Strait in four known cases. And weird, pulsating lights and immense skycraft are reported over this mystery-shrouded part of waters in greater number than anywhere else in Australia....

* On October 19, 1934, there was an even eerier mishap. The new Tasmanian plane, Miss Hobart, was over the Strait with 12 passengers aboard, eight miles from Wilson Promontory. Also in July, 1920, a schooner disappeared in the Strait, setting off an intense air-sea search. Ship crews and captains reported seeing "huge, motionless flares" hanging over the ocean. Neither schooner nor plane were ever seen again. No wreckage was ever discovered. In that era, the term "UFO" was yet to be invented... NOTE: Guido Valentich, the pilot's father, has said many times he believes that his son was kidnapped in mid-air by a UFO. As of this writing, no evidence of Valentich has yet emerged, no plane, no wreckage, no pilot. Australia holds many mysteries!

Soviet ships leave on new Bermuda Triangle mission

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet oceanographic vessels left Leningrad on Friday to conduct research with American scientists on big whirlpools and other phenomena in the Atlantic Ocean's so-called Bermuda Triangle, Tass said.

The Soviet news agency said the research ships would take part for four months in the next stage of the joint U.S.-Soviet "Polymode" project to investigate the Bermuda Triangle.

According to some reports, the Atlantic area to the west and south of Bermuda has had an unusually large number of disappearances by ships and planes.

Tass said Soviet oceanographers view as their main objective continuing research on "gigantic underwater vortexes" which can reach a diameter of hundreds of miles and create swirling currents to great depths.

GLOBAL UFO REPORTS!

IRANIAN JET PURSUES UFO - London - Source: Japan Times, 5/1/80 - An Iranian Air Force jet was dispatched early Wednesday to pursue an unidentified flying object near Tehran, the state-run Tehran Radio reported. The radio, monitored by the BBC in London, said the phantom jet "alarned the people of Tehran when it flew across Tehran's air space at about 1 a.m." To allay fears that the aircraft may have been an American or Iraqi fighter plane, the radio reported that the Iranian jet was "in pursuit of a reported un-identified flying object." The plane found nothing and returned to base...

REAL SPACE INVADERS - KUALA LUMPUR - SOURCE: The Sun, Melbourne, Australia 6/14/80 - A flying saucer attacked an oil terminal with laser beams at Port Klang, in Malaysia, witnesses say. Three people have told police they saw the UFO blast a house with a laser beam and start a fire which destroyed two houses and a shop only six meters from the Felda and Caltex oil terminal, the New Straits Times reported. The 'attack' took place at 2:30 am, three days after a big fire and explosions ripped Port Klang last week. The witnesses told the New Atraits Times they were driving from Port Klang toward Kampung when they saw a bright, luminous, ball-like object about 10 meters above the oil terminal. The bluish-red object, about 60 cm in diameter, was spinning, they said. The witnesses said they drove on and saw the object hovering above the house nearest the oil tanks. When they stopped their car about 30 meters away, they saw the object emitting a laser beam like a bolt of lightning which hit the house nearest the tanks...

THE CASE OF NASRA ABDALLA EL KAMI: EGYPT - Source: The "Sicilia" of 15.8.70. (Sent to us from an unknown saucer magazine, Italian.) "The story we are going to relate is very strange. This recital may appear unbelievable, but up till now no one has been able to ding a valuable argument to oppose the excited, but lucid, declarations of Nasra Abdalla El Kami, a woman of the Egyptian people, 36 years old.

This woman was suffering from a chronic hemorrhage for eight years. She had left the hospital of the University of Alexandria a few months before, where the doctons declared themselves powerless to cure her case. Nasra then went to visit her sister who lived in a little industrial town of Karf El Dawar, 50 kilometers from Alexandria. She was lodged in a room adjoining her sister's room. Around three in the morning, the family of Nasra were awoken by screams of pain; they immediately ran into her room, but found it empty. A smothered sobbing sound directed them towards the kitchen. There, they saw Nasra stretched out on the table on her back with her abdomen showing wounds and medicated treatment. There were traces of blood all around.

To her frightened and astonished family, Nasra then related that three men and a woman descended from an "enormous, round white thing" which she saw through her window. She said they came into her room after the "big plate like thing" descended from the heavens and landed in the fields. After this she did not remember very well what happened.

She immediately felt tired, but the three men and the woman had operated on her stomach by removing a rusted nail which she had in her abdomen. Nasra showed a nail which had been fixed with a piece of tape, in the palm of her right hand. Her family realized at once that Nasra had obviously been operated on. When the police and the doctors arrived from the hospital at Alexandria, they recognized at once that Nasra had been operated on and that the surgical operation was exceptionally modern. The doctors were stupefied by the sewing of the wound, which was executed with special thread and by a ultramodern method. The most strange in this affair, is that Nasra's hemorrhage completely ceased. The Egyptian doctors, who knew her case well, were the best placed to confirm that Nasra had truly been operated on and healed. But by who?

Who, therefore were these three men and this woman "descended from the heavens in an immense plate like thing which landed in the woods?" The following night, Nasra woke up with a shock and started to scream with fright. Her family ran up to her room at once. She told them that the three men and the woman had come back, descending this time through the ceiling, and that they changed the bandage after having examined the wound. She even said that one of them, while giving a little friendly caress on her cheek, pronounced a strange word which resembled "Okay"! Nasra dared this time to intervene in the mystery by suggesting that the three men and the woman were "genies" or spirits that came to take care of her and save her... ..

● Kachinas representations of spirits

Gazette Telegraph-

Friday, June 20, 1980

By MARGARET NICOLL
GT Staff Writer

When an enormous silver disc came to rest high atop Arizona's San Francisco Peaks more than 600 years ago, the Hopi Indians little realized the impact those strange visitors would leave on their society and culture.

The kachinas, or "friendly ones" in the Hopi language, were powerful beings who taught the Indians the universe's secrets of fertility and medicine, says the legend.

The kachinas lived among their earth-bound brethren for 300 years, never eating or even aging, teaching the Indians survival in the barren land of the great Southwest and giving the pueblos a way of life still followed today.

It was during one celebration that a few Hopi boys got overly zealous and accidentally killed a kachina, says Johnny Mongwa, member of the Owl Medicine Clan.

The rest of the kachinas immediately deserted the Hopi. One Indian man followed the kachinas, beseeching them to return, not to leave the Hopi behind. He was told that if the Hopi would dress up each year in remembrance of the kachinas, their power and blessings would remain with the tribe.

Hopi villages have continued the tradition of kachinas in their social organization — each clan has a totemic name represented by a kachina. Mongwa's clan of the owl is select group of people who often are feared by other clans.

"The owl is a nocturnal bird and many other clans fear it's power," Mongwa says. "The owl would like to be a friend but the minute he tries, the clown kachinas will taunt and torment him."

The owl and the mudhead kachinas are mortal enemies, Mongwa says, that viewers will see in mock combat at kachina dances. Although colorfully costumed kachina dancers perform a home dance and a bean dance, the rain dance is the kachina's main function.

Mongwa says he has never failed to see it rain following a kachina dance and he's been to more than a hundred dances — definite testimony to the kachina's power.

Whatever the legend, written accounts cannot trace the existence of the kachina doll before 1680 when the great tribal rebellion of the pueblos occurred, Mongwa says. And it's those early kachinas dolls, simply carved and almost pure white, that conduct the most power, he adds.

"Antique kachinas have been found that look almost like spacemen," Mongwa says. They feature wicker masks with small tubes connected to wicker "lung tanks" strapped to the backs of the figures.

Although most animal kachinas are modern, Mongwa says the clown kachinas are reminiscent in design of those earlier "spacemen" figures.

Mongwa compares the Indian use of kachina dolls to the Roman Catholic Church's tradition of icons.

"Kachinas are like the Catholic saints," he says. "They aren't gods and they aren't worshipped. They're just friendly spirits."

Being Indian is a state of mind, not of blood, Mongwa says.

"If you walk in balance with nature you are as much Indian as any blood-born Indian," he says. "Anyone who tells you differently is doing the same thing people accused the white man of doing."

Following their Springspree appearance, Mongwa and Orr will attend Broadmarket Square's Festival West and Jefferson County's Festival of the West before going to Cheyenne, Wyo., for Frontier Days.

people's mental health LINKED to state of economy

By ROBERT LOCKE
Associated Press

IRVINE, Calif. — The nation's economic ups and downs produce significant changes in the rate of psychological problems, child abuse, suicide and stress-related physical maladies, says a University of California economist.

"The people who set the economic policies make it sound as if the effects end with your checkbook and your bills," said Ray Catalano of the University of California at Irvine.

"But the economy is really pervasive in our lives. It affects our psychological and physiological well-being and it is felt throughout our society."

Catalano and psychologist David Dooley have been studying the effects of economic changes for more than six years. Their surveys have included Kansas City, Mo., Los Angeles and Orange counties in California, and rural Maryland.

Catalano said in an interview last week that his research and that of others indicates a deteriorating economy significantly increases the rate of child abuse, suicide, mental depression, stress-related diseases and other problems. American and Australian studies found a relationship between fatal heart attacks and the economy, he said.

"It seems to be clearly true in males," he said. "They get more depression and more clinical kinds of symptoms when the economy goes bad."

Women, however, go to mental health clinics more often when the economy is improving, Catalano said, adding: "I don't think anyone really understands that."

He said one theory suggests that, during bad times, a wife with an outside job "is just playing too important a role to be pulled out of the family, even if her behavior is increasingly strange."

But when things get better and the second income is less vital, "people are willing to say, 'Gee, Ma, you're acting kind of weird,' and they'll get her out for treatment."

During periods of rapid economic growth, industrial accidents increase significantly as inexperienced workers join assembly lines and overtime keeps tired employees on the job, he said.

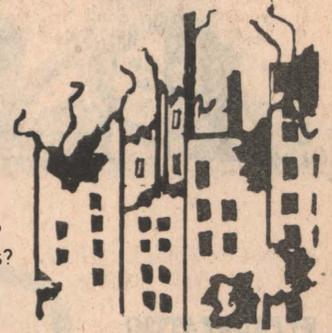

Economic disruption, Catalano said, forces changes in lifestyle and robs people of many small but crucial resources that help them cope with life — "People just don't do as well in dealing with their problems as they usually do."

Volcano Lore Lost Valley Ape Men

By PAUL FATTIG
Of the Courier Staff

Ernest Wilson chuckles a bit when he sees media coverage about Mount St. Helens.

The rumbling mountain is an old friend to the 78-year-old former Washington resident.

"That mountain is a bit different than most mountains," he says with a grin.

Wilson should know. As a youngster of 13 he began hiking on the 9,677-foot peak shortly after his parents bought a farm about 16 miles from the mountain in 1914.

Later he worked for the Forest Service, cruising timber and surveying, growing to know the mountain like the back of his hand by the time he left Washington to move to Grants Pass in 1952.

His wife, Arabelle, grew up about six miles from the Wilson farm.

Wilson recalls seeing a wisp of smoke coming from the peak's small crater in 1914. But that doesn't compare to the rumbling and shaking that has been going on since mid-March of this year, following a dormancy since 1857.

Earthquakes were not unknown in those days, he said, adding that he recalled seeing water rise quickly in local streams for no apparent reason.

"About a couple of hours later we would always get a good, sharp earthquake," he said.

Wilson, who lives at 1991 NE D St., could talk for hours about the volcano and its unique character.

"Lots of people don't know about the milky-blue waters of St. Helens," he says.

see very deep, maybe a foot."

He figures the water, the headwaters of the Kalama River, was colored by volcanic ash.

Wilson will tell you about the landmarks — the ancient rock symbols on nearby Elk Mountain, and places like Spirit Lake, Goat Marsh, Tum Tum Mountain and Lost Valley.

"Now that's a weird place," he says of Lost Valley. "It's the only valley I know of that escaped the lava flow."

"In late August, when the creeks got low and the snow on the mountains showed bare spots, the mountain would turn a dark green color — not white like most of 'em," he said. "And it would color the water milky-blue, you couldn't

The lava flow of 1857 created a "landlocked" valley where vegetation was left untouched and where a lake formed.

Wilson said the only time he recalls being scared was when the lake in Lost Valley "went out."

It happened in 1933 on Christmas Day. A chinook wind and warm rains blanketed the area, melting snow on the mountain.

"Well, that lake was filling higher and higher," he recalled. "It found a subterranean channel under the lava — it broke through the surface four miles below."

"It tore out a hole in the ground probably a quarter mile wide," he said. "It's as big as the crater of St. Helens is now."

The water rushed down the mountainside and eventually into the Lewis River where it smashed into the dam near Aireal. Farther downstream there was six feet of water in downtown Woodland.

Wilson said boulder as "big as this house" were washed down the mountainside.

"They called it 'Christmas Canyon,'" he said of the canyon formed by the rushing water. "All pandemonium broke loose. There was a full-page write-up in the Oregonian but they didn't mention the lake."

Wilson and his wife later hiked to Lost Valley and discovered that the logs in the lake had drifted to one side.

"Jammed up tight, you know," he said. "The lake was gone."

Wilson laughs when he talks about the "ape men" of Mount St. Helens.

"Yeah, there are quite a few stories about the ape men up there," he said. "Wild men, you know, rolling rocks down on people. I was telling my daughters about the ape men once — it got real creepy."

A local Indian legend tells of ape men, a type of "Bigfoot" creature, fighting over an Indian maiden, resulting in the mountain's rumbling and shaking.

"The Indians had the devil right in them if they saw one," he said. "Those Indians were brave men — anything scare an Indian must be pretty bad."

"They said every time they saw one something terrible would happen to them," he said. "Yeah, the mountain has a weird feeling about it — real crazy."

But Wilson said he has never seen an "ape man" on the mountain.

On nearby Elk Mountain Wilson recalls seeing rocks piled in strange formations, resembling human bodies in the prone position.

"They were about the size of a man — about six feet long and two and a half feet wide," he said. "I never did figure out what they were."

He also recalls stories by local Indians that told of the 1857 eruption.

"The Indians claimed it was dark for many days," he said. "For days and days it was black."

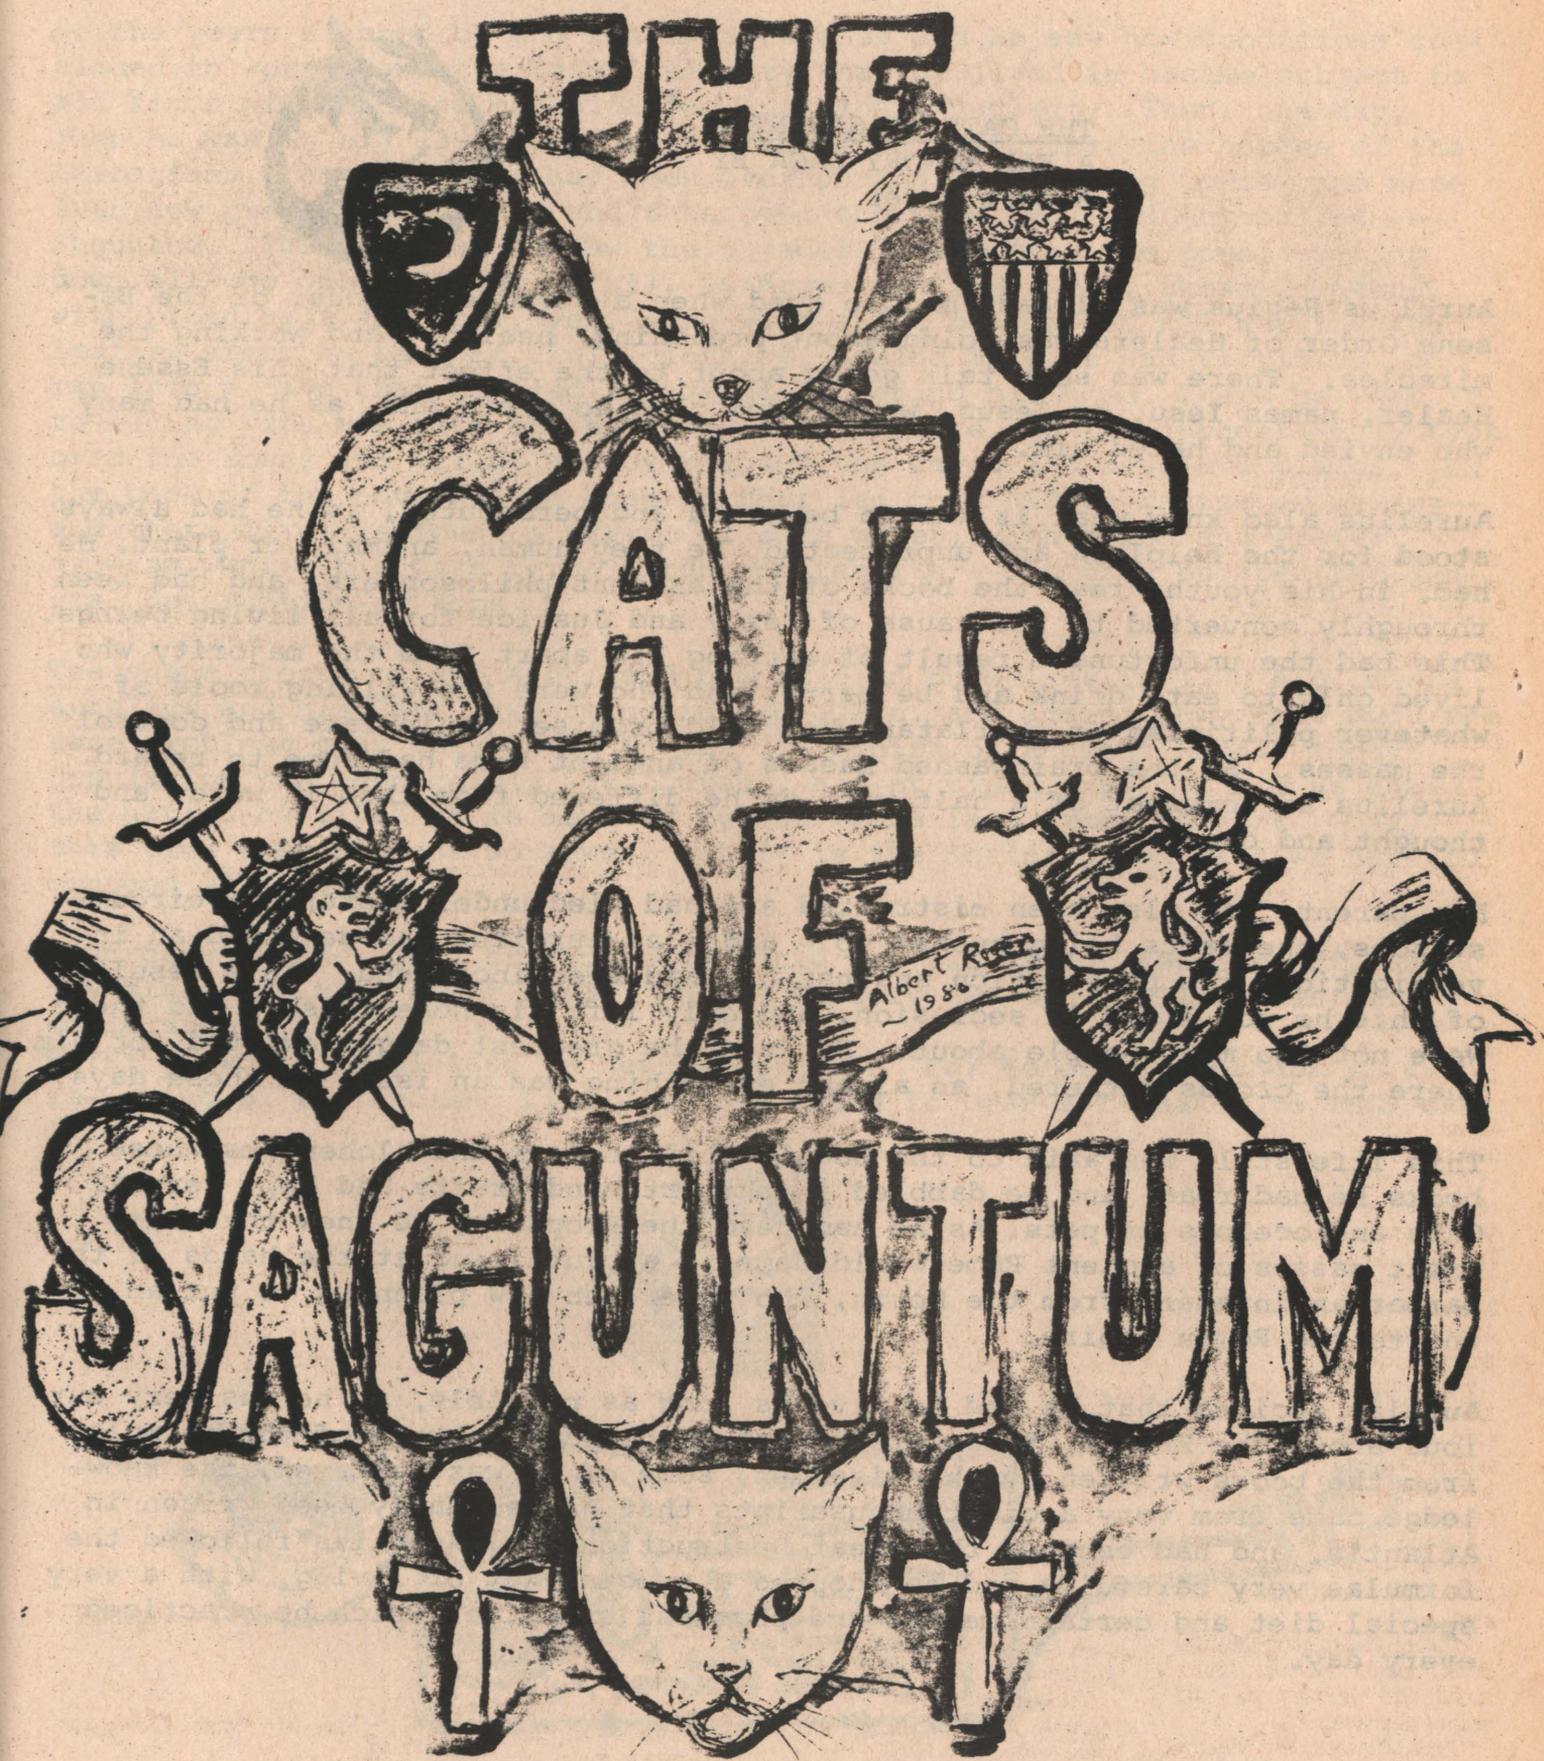

Does he have any predictions on whether a similar eruption will occur soon?

"No, and I don't think anybody else has," he said. "But it sure is exciting."

THE CATS OF SAGUNTUM
A FAR MEMORY SAGA BY Albert Roger

Aurelius Regius was already middle aged when a strange preacher of the Essene Order of Healers was going about preaching, healing, and working the miracles. There was some talk going about to the effect that this Essene Healer, names Iesu, or Jesus, would soon come to a bad end, as he had many who envied and hated him.

Aurelius also knew what it was to be hated and persecuted, as he had always stood for the helpless and unprotected, be they human, animal, or plant. He had, in his youth, read the books of the ancient philosophers, and had been thoroughly converted to the cause of Mercy and Justice for all living beings. This had the unfortunate result of setting him apart from the majority who lived only to eat, drink and be merry, and who were the willing tools of whatever politician or charlatan who could promise, manipulate and control the masses. So the brainwashed masses of ancient Rome had come to regard Aurelius as somewhat of a half-wit, as he differed from them in word, and thought and deed.

His parents had also been mistreated and had died under mysterious circumstances, the facts being hushed up - and - as Aurelius had demanded an investigation, the persecution against him had been increased. As a result of this he now lived in seclusion, and only left his home to shop and there were not too many people about. He knew the greatest danger existed for him where the crowds gathered, as almost everything was an issue in those days.

This life-style was akin to the occult philosophers and alchemists whose books he had read, and he dabbled in the arts and crafts and kept several Cats and ocelots as pets. As he had read the Prophets, he knew that the great masses of ancient Rome would come to a brutal end at the hands of the barbarian invaders from the North, who were even now planning to put an end to the Roman Empire.

Aurelis decided that he had to live as long as possible, as he was very curious about the Future, therefore he put into practice some of the formulas from the books written by the wise men, some of it was believed, the knowledge came from very ancient manuscripts that had actually been written in Atlantis, and had escaped the Great Destruction. So, Aurelius followed the formulas very carefully and he adopted a special way of living, with a very special diet and certain mental and physical exercises which he practiced every day.

So the years slipped by and ran into decades and he saw how conditions continued to worsen and the beautiful city that he lived in became subject to all kinds of abuse and exploitation and finally neglect. Then, one day, when he was in his 139th year of his life, he heard that the hordes of the barbarians from the North had been overrunning neighboring towns, and were even now prepared to enter and take over the town he lived in, called --- Saguntum. The next day he saw the invaders swarm into the town, cutting down all who opposed them. Tall, handsome men they were, these invaders, with blond hair and grey eyes, some with short beards and all wearing the leather armor as part of their clothing. Seeing this he was terrified, and ran into a cave that nestled in the hills behind his home. There he went into hiding with his cats and he found safety there, as the invaders only took over the towns and villas and overlooked the caves and desolate places. In the back of the cave was an opening that led to a hidden ravine or valley-- and there Aurelius found a stream of pure water, with herbs and fruits growing, while his Cats found birds and rabbits -- so they escaped the general destruction of Rome.

The scene closes on 200 A.D., and now we find ourselves in 1980 A.D. where Aurelius and his Cats have reincarnated again, and again, they face much the same problems that they faced in the Old Empire of ancient Rome. Today's population has been coldly indifferent, and at times cruel to him as again the nation he lives in is menaced by the barbarians from the North, only this time they are not Norsemen, but it is the Soviet Union that we have to contend with here.

According to the Books of Prophecy, World War III is not too far off, and may start any time after 1983. So --- history has run 'Full Circle' it would seem!

NOTE: We would be pleased to hear about YOUR 'Far Memory'! Perhaps in the re-living of the Ancient Life - it can bring to bear safeguards to THIS one!

In my constant experiences with the unknown and in search for greater knowledge and truth I was trying an experiment with Mercury in front of a 'charged' mirror.

As my face dissappeared in front of the mirror, i could see for the first time, a green nebulous light forming. Suddenly I could distinguish the features of a man. In the beginning it was like the face was coming out of a green smoke. But later on, the face 'materialized' strong enough to see all the proper features.

He was a happy looking individual with deep-blue eyes and reddish hair. He looked kind of funny or at least I thought so, for his eyes were sparkling like a kid who has done some mischievous act. I was surprised for I always thought that MASTERS should be very ceremonial and dignified, while this apparition looked more than Mickey Rooney doing some of his humorous interpretations!

"I want to clear up something which is very important to me and my reputation!" he said in fast and a little difficult-to-understand English. - "My name is JOHN DUNS SCOTUS"

I thanked him for coming to my call and I apologized for I did not know at all who he was.

"I just lived a few years back and died in 1308. I was called in England and in Germany the SUBTLE DOCTOR" -

I thought to myself: "My God, it's over 600 years and he calls it a few years back" , but I guessed that he read my mind for he added at once:

"For you, it might be an eternity...for me...just a short time. Anyway, I came to answer your call for a selfish purpose. That is....I want to clear up my name"

"I'll be glad to help if I can and do what ever you request Mr....Mr...."

"Call me JOHNNY.... You see, when I lived, people were quite ignorant. Eventhough some genius artists and writers were born in Renaissance, few people understood my theories, which I hope to-day some people will review. Nobody knew about PSYCHIC ENERGY or PYRAMID POWER then, and the more I try to persuade them to understand, the more they withdraw from my findings.

He continued: "Many of our children are not as smart as they should for their parents have drunk alcohol and have done damage to their chromosomes. Those children have a 'heck-of-a-time' to assimilate, memorize and learn properly. In order to increase the so called to-day ALPHA WAVES

"I designed the CONE shaped Cap to be placed over the head to increase the understanding power of the mind and to absorbe all the Psychic Energies and knowledge that is 'floating' around."

"Using these caps, assimilation, concentration and memorizing should improve a 60 to 80%, depending on the individual."

"However, they have used them to ridicule children and to scorn them instead of the real meaning of these caps."

"Can you help me, to clear up my name, after so many years? Wisemen and sorcherers have used them often during their trance-like-meditation and the desire for mastery."

"The proper use of these caps will allow the PITUITARY and PINEAL GLANDS to be aligned. The Pituitary gland is the PSYCHIC CENTER of IMAGING, the greatest power in man, named after PETER (JESUS DISCIPLE) for the FOUNDATION of the DIVINE PRINCIPLES in MAN!"

"The 'alignement' can be speeded up if sounds are pronounce in conjunction while wearing the Cap."

"I wish they would call them DUNCE SMART CAPS instead of just DUNCE CAPS!"

"The colors of the caps should be according to the need of each individual. That is, if a person needs help mentally with mathematics or figures he should wear a GREEN colored cap. If he needs more peace, he should wear a WHITE cap. BLUE is for inspiration and more memory. PINK is for a more loving personality. YELLOW to repel envy and jealousy! LAVENDER to understand the DIVINE LAWS clearly. Red for more pep and energy. ORANGE for recovering body or mind energies"

Then he said a few joking things and with the greatest smile he said that he could not wait any longer for his 'present body' was ready to wake up, and that his astral body should be there at once for he was in-carnated in another person in Russia at present!

I was quite over-joyed with this wonderful visit. Next day I went to the Library to find out more about this man. To my surprise, I was engrossed in his incredible life and I will suggest you, dear reader, to do the same, that is, to go to your Library and read the exciting biography of DOCTOR JOHN DUNS SCOTUS, the Subtle Doctor!

HOW TO SURVIVE A NEW AGE FINANCIAL CRISIS!
by Joan O'Connell

Feeling the 'pinch' of the inflated dollar? Seeing fewer and fewer people at your bookstore or church or attending your lectures? Getting less response from your readers? AND finding that your costs have now doubled or in many cases TRIPPLED and the proverbial 'wolf' is coming around the corner and about to knock at your front door? Well ----- what do you intend to do about it? Weep? Moan? Groan? Complain? Yell? Write your congressman or storm city hall? OR - do you think you have the courage to actually DO what is necessary to increase attendance or boost production? You say WHAT do I have to do? I will tell you in one word: ADVERTISE. (I have extremely good ears -- I just heard that groan go up from out there in Readerland!) But, it is true just the same!

Of course, there are other methods! Some of them work SOME of the time, some of them work PART TIME, and many of them don't work at ANY time! (The ones that don't work at all are: moaning, groaning, complaining, yelling and procrastinating!) Especially PROCRASTINATING. IF you have a business that has been 'off' for at least two months or so: DO YOU REALLY THINK THAT IF YOU GO ON AS YOU HAVE BEEN DOING (DOING NOTHING ABOUT IT) THAT THE PROBLEM WILL JUST 'GO AWAY'? Ho Ho Ho!

You say: "Advertise?" "I just paid the rent, the utilities, the printing bills. I had to pay that speaker from out of town that was supposed to bring in 150 people (at 10.00 a head) and 23 housewives showed up dragging 6 bored husbands. I have 6 dozen books on hand (How to Eat Crispy Crunchies/Critters and LIKE it!) that I can't give away and I don't know where my next customer is coming from and you say ADVERTISE?"

YES! Do you REALLY think that people are going to hear about your store, or church or product by 'picking' it up telepathically? Or --- they suddenly dream about coming to your lectures? Or they just met a friend who had a friend who had a thrice worn out cousin who just last month HAPPENED to hear about that new church (just outside of town, I think, or was it downtown behind the pink building or???)? So much for that old cliché 'word of mouth'! YUP, talk sure is cheap, doesn't cost much for that kind of advertising --- but --- will they ever find you? How many lectures would you attend or books would you buy -- if you did not READ about it somewhere? In the newspaper, or in a magazine, on a bulletin board. THINK ABOUT IT!

In our next issue I will tell you HOW and WHERE to ADVERTISE for the best results for your New Age Business! In the meantime, don't do anything about your bad business --- and prove me right!

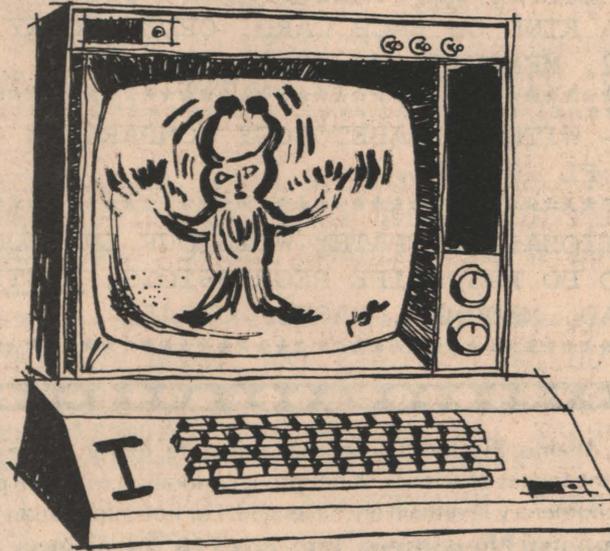

DOES YOUR BUSINESS, CHURCH, OR PRODUCTION LINE HAVE A SPECIAL NEED FOR BUSINESS ADVICE? There are many subjects that can be covered in an over-all way, but there are many of you who have SPECIFIC needs, answers to questions that concern only YOUR affairs! Printing? Mailing? Distribution of books, etc? Counter sales and displays?

Writer of book on Devil's Triangle injured by bomb

JULY 19, 1980

FORT LAUDERDALE — A mystery writer was in critical but stable condition at a Fort Lauderdale hospital Friday, involved in a mystery of his own after a bomb exploded in his pickup truck.

Richard Winer, 55, author of the best-selling book, The Devil's Triangle, lost his right leg Thursday evening. It was shattered in a bomb blast as Winer turned the ignition key in his blue pickup truck, parked in the driveway of his Fort Lauderdale home.

Police were searching Friday for a man who was seen driving away in another blue truck after the blast. A neighbor described the man as being in his 20s, with shoulder-length red hair and a beard.

WINER, questioned briefly by a detective in the emergency room at a Broward County hospital, said he had no idea who tried to kill him. But neighbors speculated that someone may have been angered by Winer's campaign for a clean-up of narcotics sales and prostitution in the neighborhood.

"Dick's a very outspoken person," said neighbor John Sell, who responded to Winer's calls for help after the bomb exploded. "He speaks out a lot and he can get himself in more damn trouble than anybody."

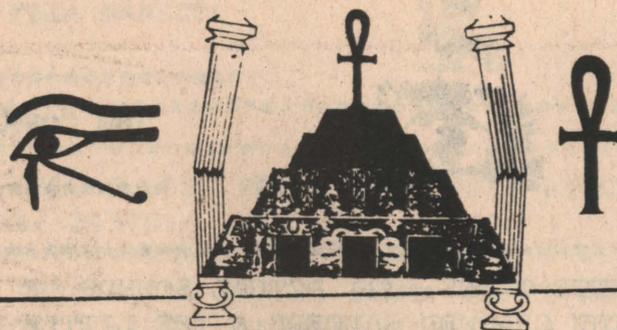

Deep-sea gargantua

2/6/1980

BOSTON (AP) — A deep sea monster — 450 pounds of squid — went on display today at the New England Aquarium, as experts tried to figure how the beast reached the shores of Massachusetts.

The giant squid — not unlike the one battled by Captain Nemo, 20,000 leagues under the sea, in the Jules Verne classic — was found dead last weekend on Plum Island, Mass.

It was discovered by wildlife rangers at the Parker River Natural Wildlife Beach. Ten men were rounded up by the aquarium staff to carry it by stretcher from the beach.
