The Quarterly Journal of the National UFO Museum

$4.95

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the second issue of Notes from the Hangar, the quarterly magazine of the National UFO Museum. As we said in our first issue, we are hoping to create one of the best contact points and informational exchanges on UFOs available, and we hope you think that this issue is another step in that direction. Our editorial policy is still evolving, so, please, let us know what you think about the contents, pro and con, and where you would like to see Notes heading. As the voice of the museum, it is truly YOUR forum.

The continuing phenomenal response to NUFOM's presence in the UFO community is still amazing us, gladdening our hearts, and filling my in-basket! We are doing very well and are becoming bigger and stronger with every week. We knew from the beginning that a UFO museum was something that was badly needed, as the rumored attempts to put together other UFO museums around the country prove. We have no quarrel with those other groups, and in deed, it is my hope that we can all work together for the betterment of the UFO community, and the population of this planet. Clearly, the time for a National UFO Museum has come.

Our plans continue to evolve as we near our goal of opening. Currently, we plan to open a book store and gathering place here in the Reno area soon, then the museum proper to follow next year. Although the work of pulling our book stocks together, compiling UFO reports and collecting artifacts and exhibits for the museum continues to pick up momentum, we are still heavily into promotional activities of every kind, having but barely scratched the surface of contacting people interested in the subject of UFOs. Send us the names and addresses of your friends and acquaintances who are interested in UFOs and we will add them to our mailing list. If you want to take an active role in helping to bring NUFOM about, please see the write-up inside on becoming a NUFOM Field Representative. Your help is both needed and much appreciated! NUFOM is an all volunteer "army"!

If you have not yet joined the National UFO Museum's Friends Of The Museum Association please take the time today to fill out the enclosed membership form and to mail it to us... That will ensure that you continue to receive future issues of this magazine, as well as supporting us all in the creation of the National UFO Museum.

Dear NUFOM,

Thank you for printing my "Dulce Base" article. I had to laugh at the comments about it in your letter section. What a group of misinformed, unenlightened arm-chair critics. I'm an independent researcher and information exchanger. I do not work for the USAF OSI or any military or government agency. I received no info from William Moore; Linda Howe; William Cooper; John Lear; or "Val", for the Dulce base article.

Just because Moore and his bird-brain agents tried to mess with the mind and discoveries of Paul Bennewitz, does not mean the base at Dulce is not there.

Remember Moore is the one who said Linda Howe made up the cattle mutilation phenomenon. He also tried to discredit the fantastic book Crash at Aztec by William Steinman.

I was once like those arm-chair evaluators of truth, based on my lack of experience and "in the field" research.

I was once pompous and thought that the Dulce base "just could not exist". I went out and researched for myself. Now I have the experience and I know. I've seen the "reptoids" face to face; I've seen the saucer craft at close range and been in underground bases!

Folks, this stuff is real!!! Uninformed cri-dicks are doing everyone (themselves included) a dis-service in calling this data disinformation and not verified facts. If you want verification, second hand info will never convince you...you must get first hand "experience" or you will never "know".

I suggest you contact Secret Saucer Base Expeditions, Gary Schultz, P. O. Box 599, Gardenia, CA 90248. He can put you in contact with groups of people who go out "in the field" and witness the alien/government activities.

I have made contact with people who worked at Dulce Base (Section D). Even a construction worker who helped put it together.

After the article was written, a team of researchers (including Japanese investigators for the Nippon TV, prime time, two hour "UFO Special") went to Dulce and video taped the odd features in the area, by helicopter.

Another team (with an OK from local Indians) did soundings and measurements which went into a computer simulation of the below ground features, which conform to the descriptions of the base design reported by "Thomas C." (former security officer at Dulce). Even the location and output of the magnetic impulse generator, in the lower levels of the Dulce Base. "MRI" brain scans were analyzed of abductees taken by the "Greys" to Dulce Base. The Japanese broadcast the results showing brain "implants".

The Biopure Corp. went public to inform the population that they are producing a supplement to human blood made of cow blood.

U.S. News and World Report (August 7, 1989) reports on America's doomsday project, "COG" (continuity of government) and it's over 50 deep underground complex "Command and Control" centers. It was also disclosed that officials have "JEEP" (Joint Emergency Evacuation Plan) ID cards and will be taken to underground cities in event of "any" emergency (natural, man-made, or "alien" threat).

I'm not talking theory, I am talking conspiracy! ...one so vast and complex that those who today do not believe or wake-up, will be kissing "alien"/fascist one-world government ass when they should be kicking it (1992-1999).

Take responsibility for you life, your thoughts, your rights, your country and your planet.

Your Friend,
Jason Bishop III

Dear NUFOM,

Just writing to say thanks for setting up the Museum, the field has needed something like that for many, many years; I hope you stay around for 100 years. I also enjoyed your first issue of Notes. The Letters To-- was great, please do keep this feature. The best story was on Wilhelm Reich, I hope you will do more on this outstanding man. See if you can round up some stories on Stealth Technology/Philadelphia Experiment connections, Time Travel and the Inter-Dimension Hypothesis.

Thank you very much for brightening my day.

Happy Hauntings!

Dear NUFOM,

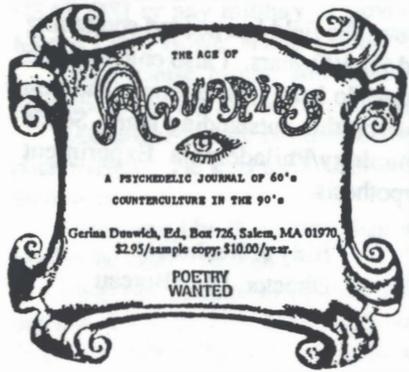

A year ago, I would have found the contents of your newsletter too much of a stretch for my credulity. A year later, I still find it astonishing, but very believable.

I've never doubted the existence of UFOs and ALFs, and I've always considered the attempts of big name scientists and experts to define the boundaries of natural and verifiable phenomena as so much whistling in the dark. And speaking of the dark, that's where I'd classify most of our governments policies and actions since 1900.

Only in recent years have I learned how we're governed from behind the scenes by such ilk as the Bilderbergers, the Trilateralists, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Federal Reserve Bank, international financiers, the Rockefellers and Rothchilds, and the list goes on and on. Last March, I read the William Cooper papers, and for the first time, a lot of seemingly disparate pieces of information and scenarios came crashing together, and I'm still somewhat stunned from the shock waves. I just hadn't made a solid connection between the UFO cover-up and the treasonous activities of those skunks running our phony government from backstage.

I love life, I love liberty, but when lizards rule (figuratively, and apparently literally--the Reptoids!), life sucks! Millions go homeless, land and peoples are raped, wars rage, xes rise, ignorance prevails, and you know the rest. I want to do something about our "situation", but do what? Apart from my wife, who doesn't like to hear to much of this stuff at one sitting, and one friend, who might be a little interested, I know of no one who would find the UFO/Alien/Secret Government conspiracy thing even remotely believable. I'm certainly not fond of ridicule, and perhaps that's why I salute the courage of Paul Benewitz, John Lear, William Cooper, and many others who've probably been killed trying to inform the uninformed.

Sincerely,
Gary Drake

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY FOG REMOVAL

BLUE SKY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPEMENT COMPANY, a small Massachusetts-based high tech company pioneering in state of the art weather modification technology, has successfully tested a prototype device capable of dissipating fog and low-lying cloud from the vicinity of an airport. Based on actual observational data we can state with confidence that areas up to several square miles can be cleared of fog or low clouds. Unlike conventional cloud seeding with chemical condensation nuclei our method, which works by disturbing the weak electromagnetic potential gradient of the atmosphere, is equally effective on all types of cloud or fog regardless of temperature or time of year, tests have shown no disruption of radio or other aircraft instruments and no biological harmful effects. A unit could be installed at an airport for under $20,000. The economic potential for aviation is vast and also many lives would be saved by use of this technology.

As we are a research facility only, without the personnel, capital, facilities, or marketing expertise to set up and run a business to market our hard-won proprietary knowledge to the aviation community, we are seeking venture capital and marketing expertise. Dear NUFOM,

One thing that's always bother me about discussions of the extraterrestrial theory of UFO origins has been speculation as to how are ahead of us the occupants would be. With all due respect to those who engage in such speculation, the whole thing is a pointless game. How many years are they ahead of us? Years of what? Do the aliens advance in one steady, nonstop, relentless advance, or do they have periods where scientific research is stymied by lack of interest and/or funding, or possibly because a particular breakthrough is required for further advances? Do they have "Dark Ages" as we have had, where scientific progress not only fails to advance, but actually engages in retrograde motion? And where do we start counting the years at?

A few historical examples will illustrate my point. The first working steam engine was invented by Hero of Alexandria in the First Century, A.D., not too long after the Roman Republic became the Roman Empire. This development was ignored, largely because the large reservoir of human musclepower (mostly slaves) available to the Empire made machines less attractive to produce. If Hero had gotten the same kind of attention James Watt did, the Industrial Revolution would have started about 1700 years earlier than it actually did. Assuming UFOs are "nuts-and-bolts" craft built in factories that were an end production of a similar revolution, do we begin counting in the days of Watt, or of Hero? Similarly, all three ingredients used in the production of gunpowder (charcoal, sulphur, and saltpeter) were in widespread use in ancient Egypt at the latest (the Egyptians used sulphur in their medicine). Again, if some experimenting physician had hit upon the right combination, the armies of the pharaohs could have been equipped with guns, or at least gunpowder bombs for use in siege warfare, before all the other empires of antiquity had come into being. Rome, Greece, Persia, Assyria-- none would have appeared, and if the innovation came early enough, even the Hyksos invasion could have been stopped in its tracks. How long does it ke to go from crude gunpowder weapons to ray guns? We don't know, and we also don't know if short cuts are possible.

One of the maddening things is that we MIGHT be able to do everything the aliens are supposed to do right now, if we had only hit upon the proper combination of technology. Take the cavemen, for example. They could have taken up horseback riding; wooden spurs and animal hide stirrups were entirely possible, yet stirrups did not appear in Europe until the latter days of the Roman Empire, via the nomadic barbarians of the Central Asian steppes. So simple an invention, and yet it was missed for millennia. For that matter, it should be possible, using caveman technology, to achieve flight using hot air balloons. A large basket made of woven reeds, balloon fabric made of animal skins, vine or woven fiber cords, and ballast made of almost anything, and you have a balloon. If a caveman held a leather pouch over a campfire and watched it go up in the air, he would even have the spark of inspiration needed to cause him to think of the idea. But, so far as we know, no caveman ever did. Our civilization has far more inventions available to it than anything the cavemen could ever dream of, of course, and that is my point. If the cavemen, with their paltry collection of inventions, missed out on modern horseback riding and hot-air balloon flight, then what inventions have WE overlooked in our far more material society?

One final point: ever since the Industrial Revolution began, Man has been accumulating knowledge at a steadily increasing rate. It took far less than one hundred years for cars to replace horses, the telephone to replace (for the most part) the telegraph, with newer technologies in the process of replacing THAT now, and for single-shot, muzzle-loading muskets to be replaced by automatic firearms with magazines. If this rate of progress is the same everywhere, and the process of knowledge accumulations will always get faster as time goes by, I figure that we should reach the levels the aliens are at now within one hundred years AT MOST! If a culture a thousand years (as we reckon it) more advanced than we are can do no better than what the aliens are doing, said culture would have to be incredibly stagnant and decadent. And if it took a million years to reach that point, the aliens would almost literally be brain-dead.

Well, that's about it for this little tirade against one of the UFO speculator's favorite games. I hope everyone thinks very carefully about this, for it shows just how far off the mark we may be when we try to determine the level of advancement of a civilization we know nothing about.

Sincerely,
Gregory W. Detwiler

Dear NUFOM,

Hey! Is everybody asleep? Shape up. Pay attention.

After an avalanche of reports, photos, imprints, even fatalities no one cares or wonders where they come from. Even the late Dr. (may he rest in peace) Hynek said, like a babe in the woods "we don't know where they come from."

Okay. Now let's determine where they DON'T come from, and this is from outside the solar system. My letter in the January 1982 National Geographic reads:

"A spacecraft traveling at 1000 times the speed of astronauts on their way to the moon (15 million miles per hour) would require 192 years to reach Proxima Centauri, the very nearest star."

So let's look closer in, very close: the moon.

Several years ago an item in the legitimate press (New York Daily News) stated that NASA had refused to release 125 lunar photographs to an investigative group. Imagine! 125 photos showing things that NASA doesn't want the public to see!

Why does NASA flout the Freedom of Information Act and get away with it? Why doesn't this investigative group keep the pressure on NASA and publicize their plight? This news far outweighs Balboa's discovery of the Pacific Ocean.

I have several lunar photos that NASA may have deemed "borderline".

67-H-327 shows a half mile wide hole (not a crater) as seen from an altitude of 32 1/2 miles. Inside is a colossal skyscraper size object of manufactured appearance.

These photos were obtained in 1979 from NASA supplier BARA photographic, Inc., P. O. Box 486, Bladensburg, MD 20710.

Later I wrote to NASA to inquire if the photos were still available as I feared that they might have been put on the "forbidden" list. They sent me copies of some and believe me you should see the difference between the BARA photo of 67-H327 that is clear with good resolution and the NASA samples that are dark, fuzzy with poor definition, not conducive to closer scrutiny.

We are surrounded by the NASA-Air Force-Pentagon-White House conspiracy of silence.

Dear NUFOM,

Thanks for the copy of Notes from the Hangar.

Of course I had already read certain of the material... the most interesting pieces to me, therefore, were the one Jim wrote on UFO disinfo, and the piece on Scientology and UFOs. There seems to be some similarity between the Scn. idea of the "between lives crew" [not a rap group, I presume] and Kyle Griffiths claims of deceptive entities met after death who pose as dead relations, gods, etc.

Overall it was a good mix of material covering the most popular and divergent UFO theories, as well as a bracing dose of skepticism, on the Dulce Base claims at least.

In fact, it was a damn good debut issue, certainly as good as anything the UFO magazines on the mass market put out. The only thing you seemed weak on was photos, but since most UFO photos are too vague to be considered hard evidence that is no major drawback, in my opinion.

So, who was it who said that a sufficiently advanced technology would be indistinguishable from magic then: Sturgeon or Clarke? I said the former, Jeff Fisher said the later. I've heard it attributed to them both. Maybe I'm confusing that pronouncement with Sturgeon's Law: 90% of everything is crap. Or is that 99%? Whatever...

Saonarya,
Greg Krupey

[It was Clarke who said it. You have Sturgeon's Law correct. It was Hank Stein, one time editor of Galaxy Magazine (the Sci-Fi one, not the girlie mag) who amended Sturgeon's Law to 98%. --Ed.]

Dear NUFOM,

I would like to tell you about a problem with UFO research. While looking through the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature for 1949-1951, I looked up 'Flying Saucers' only to discover that in that brave new world of 1949 when, as the MJ-12 documents said, "the public reaction was one of near panic" 'flying saucers' was listed under 'Hallucinations'. The whole subject was dismissed as false in 1949, at least so far as the Reader's Guide was concerned. When I looked forward to 1954, the Library Journal had an article on the subject listed along with the other news magazines of the day. I asked the Librarians to bring it out, and suffered a meaningful shock. The literature of the time was apparently divided into those who believed firmly in spaceships from Venus, and (I still can't believe this) books dismissing the whole subject as the result of ball lightning!

To me it was absurdity incarnate. The Library Journal was convinced that a blanket explanation of 'ball lightning' represented a scientific point of view. It obviously didn't. Alleged contacts with 'space people', objects on radar scopes, objects sighted in broad daylight, photographs of objects, all were dismissed as 'ball lightning' in one fell swoop.

To me the biggest problem was that I had accepted a view of the history of UFOlogy proposed by John Keel in his article The Man Who Invented Flying Saucers, run in the Fall 1986 edition of Whole Earth Quarterly. What Keel claims is that, in effect, much of the world of UFOs began with the publication of I Remember Lemuria by Richard Shaver in March of 1945, in Amazing Stories. He further claims that much of modern UFO contactee phenomenon, such as the Men In Black began in Shaver's stories in the mid-to late 40's, under the guiding hand of editor Ray Palmer.

Perhaps Keel's idea is wrong, but the more important point is that the Library Journal, merely nine years after the first Shaver story, had no knowledge of Palmer, Shaver or Amazing Stories.

A third problem with the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature is that best selling magazines are often not considered important enough to be remembered. The National Enquirer, for example, is so universally rejected as 'trash' that nobody catalogs the articles or keeps back copies, despite the fact that 'sensationalist' journalism is a very big business. Other magazines ignored are 'adult' magazines like Hustler, Playgirl, Playboy and Penthouse which often run articles on strange subjects like my personal fixation, The Gemstone File. Lastly, and certainly not leastly, are the thousands of 'special interest' magazines about automobile customizing, hunting, True-Crime, one-shot magazines promoting movies and serving sci-fi fandom. And thousands upon thousands of examples of etcetera which any reader of this letter can find missing just by reading the Reader's Guide in the Library.

This is hardly news to most people with any deep interest. I went looking for articles about Big Band great Glenn Miller in the Reader's Guide and discovered that next to nothing had been written about Miller between 1949 and 1988. I refuse to believe that this is so. The Reader's Guide merely failed to take articles from magazines which did write about Miller and list them, that's all.

The way this relates to the National UFO Museum is that there is very little memory. Recent articles in Newsweek about the finding of what are hoped to be the 'Lost Squadron' of Flight 19 which disappeared in 1945 clearly have never even heard of The Bermuda Triangle Mystery--Solved by Lawrence Kusche. The book itself was so well known it was condensed into Reader's Digest, yet the Newsweek reporter had obviously never heard of it, nor have the newspaper articles I've read about the five sunken torpedo bombers recently found in Florida.

A copy of this book is beside my typewriter. Its hardcover edition is probably in every public library in the country. Newsweek has apparently never heard of it. Simply to remember anything is a miracle when it comes to the 'establishment' media. If the National UFO Museum is serious about its business, it will have to start with the arduous and frustrating task of tracking down periodicals, books and television shows since 1945.

Your first issue is excellent in its range of interesting viewpoints. I have not visited the National UFO Museum, but if you truly wish to preserve the past, then you'll probably clash head on with the public's view of the whole phenomenon. A whole wing of the museum could be dedicated to 'contactees' since 1945. The public would probably reject every 'alien contact' between 1945-1960 because these would involve people from Venus in silver jump suits. Those between 1980-1991 involving alien beings who are literally copies of the ones in the 1979 film Close Encounters of the Third Kind will probably be accepted, because they look like what alien beings are supposed to look like. Whitley Strieber can be contacted by obvious escapees from the 20th Century Fox backlot in Burbank, California and the public at least finds the idea possible. Any talk of friendly people from Venus seen by George Adamski is rejected as nonsense without a second thought.

We are all the product of our times, but we're only the prisoners of them if we let ourselves be. So, I salute the National UFO Museum, and Notes from the Hangar for its variety and broad scope. But you're going up against several problems. First, while the information is out there, it is very disorganized. Secondly, when 'official' viewpoints like the Reader's Guide exist, they will censor out any 'unimportant' information, even if these 'unimportant ideas' appear over and over again (like the repeated stories of crashed space ships out in the desert somewhere). Thirdly, the 'popular' point of view will make it hard to convince people of the true nature of the situation (like the connections between 19th Century hollow Earth theories and 20th Century Shaver Mysteries.) The fourth problem will be dealing with the lack of memory among 'official' sources. (If Newsweek cannot remember The Bermuda Triangle Mystery--Solved what can they remember?)

The fifth problem is perhaps the greatest of all. In 1954 the whole world of UFOs seemed divided into those who believe in seemingly fantastic things without solid evidence (people from Venus, which apparently cannot support life) and those who dismiss all unexplained phenomenon with blanket explanations which pass as 'scientific' (like ball lightning). The unending hatred of CSIOP exhibited by FATE magazine strikes me as a hatred of scientific thought by credulous fanatics. The sneering rejections of any unexplained phenomenon by CSIOOP strikes me as a group of orthodox high priests protecting their turf from heretic religions. With an obvious polarization of world views, finding people to stand outside of them is going to be one heavy load of a task indeed. At least by including as many voices as possible, you're also including as many choices as possible.

Sincerely,
X. Sharks DeSpot

National UFO Museum's Field Representative Program

As you may know, UFOlogists engage in activities across a wide spectrum. Some investigate individual sightings by interviewing witnesses and gathering evidence. Others organize groups to pool data or provide moral support for those who have had too close encounters. Others write books, appear on television and radio, publish magazines and newsletters, or organize conferences and conventions. Many of course combine several of these activities. The National UFO Museum offers you a chance to help in these and similar activities. NUFOM's Field Representative Program is a chance for you to help us to do all the above and more.

The National UFO Museum is rapidly becoming: a repository of data, documents and artifacts; a research and investigation center; an organizer of conferences; a publisher of original publications; a UFO database; a pool of knowledgeable speakers; a bookstore of informative and unique UFO publications, devices and gifts; an educational facility; a hot news clearing house; and much, much more.

But we cannot do it alone! That was why we created the position of Field Representative.

What is a NUFOM Field Representative?

A NUFOM Field Rep is a volunteer staff member of the National UFO Museum working 'in the field' in his or her own "hometown" to further the projects and activities of the National UFO Museum.

What does a Field Rep do?

As a Field Rep your assistance can be invaluable in helping us complete tasks that can be accomplished at a distance from the museum itself, like historical or archival research to help with our publications department, or in searching out original documents or artifacts for our acquisitions and displays departments, or even through your help in carrying out local field investigations of reported UFO sightings or landings.

Field Reps also help by getting the people they have contacted interested in NUFOM and involved in its projects as well. Additionally, Field Reps get them signed up as members of NUFOM's Friends of the Museum Association, and for this they receive a 10% commission as a tangible "thank you".

Who can be a Field Rep?

Anyone who has an interest should contact the Field Representative Selection Board. We are seeking competent, motivated self-starters who understand the importance of bringing the reality of UFOs home to America and the world at this time. You could be a NUFOM Field Representative!

Earth vs. the Flying Saucers

William O. Fuller

Are UFOs dangerous? "Flying saucers" have been with us for long over 40 years. They are not all figments of people's imaginations and they are not all "just" lights in the sky. They can maim and they can kill. But whose side are they on? What happens when we get in their way? The truth is far from Close Encounters or E.T. Forget all those cute, helpful aliens. These guys mean business.

The Cash-Landrum case. Take the encounter of Betty Cash, Vickie and Colby Landrum for example. On the night of 29 December, 1980, Betty Cash, age 51, her friend Vickie Landrum, age 57, and her grandson Colby, age 7, were driving home along a road from Lake Houston, Texas to Dayton, Texas. Suddenly they noticed a very bright light in the sky. As they drove closer they saw it was a huge diamond shaped object. It was hovering several feet above the road and emitting an eerie beeping sound. Occasionally the objects bottom would flare with some sort of flame or glow, accompanied by a roaring sound. Following each flare, the object would rise a few feet and then slowly begin to descend again. Betty Cash stopped the car. The object was very hot, and she feared that her car would be damaged if she drove underneath it. The three in the car watched the object for a moment, and then got out to take a closer look. The heat from the object was intense and very uncomfortable. Colby became frightened and convinced his grandmother to return to the car with him. Betty remained outside the car for a few minutes, baffled by what she saw. When she tried to open the car door, the metal handle was too hot to touch with her bare hand. She used her leather coat as a grip and got back into the car. A few moments later the object began to rise and move away. Then suddenly the air began to fill with the rhythmic chopping sound of helicopter rotors. The sound got louder and louder until they were directly overhead. There were so many helicopters in the air that the witnesses were afraid they might collide. But they didn't. They were following the UFO. Although it was dark, the occupants of the car could clearly see the outlines of the aircraft, and they counted at least twenty. Some were Chinook CH-47 helicopters with double rotors. Others looked like Bell Hueys. As the confused and frightened travelers watched, the helicopters slowly paced the UFO as it flew out of sight. At times the helicopters seemed to attempt to surround or fly in formation around the UFO. Soon the aircraft were gone from sight and the sound of the rotors became faint and finally faded away into the distance.

Betty started her car and drove her friends home. By the time all three were home that night, they were already suffering from the effects of their encounter. All three had nausea and a loss of appetite. They had swollen glands, tender skin and blurred vision. Betty, who had remained outside the car the longest, would suffer the worst symptoms. Her eyes swelled shut, patches of skin came off her face, and much of her hair fell out. The next day Vickie took her friend to a hospital emergency room where she was treated as a burn victim. Eventually Betty Cash had to have a double mastectomy for breast cancer. She is currently attempting to sue the government for medical expenses.

The Mantell case. There are other cases of UFOs harming people. The Mantell case of 1948 has become a classic example. On the afternoon of 7 January, 1948, the tower crew at Godman Air Field, Kentucky sighted a "bright, disk shaped object" far up in the sky. Air Force Captain Thomas Mantell was commanding a flight of F-51s flying over the base at the time. The tower radioed him and asked him to investigate. He began climbing and at 15,000 feet made visual contact. He reported the object to be "above and ahead of me and moving at about half my speed." Captain Mantell continued to pursue the object for some thirty minutes. Soon he was at 23,000 feet and closing on the object. He radioed the tower, "It appears to be metallic object... tremendous in size... directly ahead and slightly above... I am trying to close for a better look." At 3:15 pm all radio and visual contact was lost. A search was immediately launched from the Air Field. At 5:00 pm the shattered remains of Mantell's F-51 fighter were found scattered over half a mile in a field near Franklin, Kentucky. Mantell's body was found in the cockpit. His watch had stopped at 3:18 pm. The official Air Force explanation: Mantell had blacked out and crashed while chasing a weather balloon.

The Kinross case. On 23 November, 1953, radar operators at Traux Air Force Base, Michigan picked up an unidentified blip over Soo Locks and in restricted air space. Immediately, an F-89 jet interceptor was scrambled from Kinross Air Field. On board were officers Felix Moncla, Jr. and R. R. Wilson. As the object, which had initially been hovering, began to move out over Lake Superior, the F-89 raced after it. After nine minutes of pursuit, radar officer Wilson was able to get confirmation of the blip on his scope. The pilot, Moncla, got a fix on the object and closed to intercept it. In the tower at Traux AFB, radar operators leaned over their scopes and watched as Moncla's F-89 neared the object. The two blips on the radar screens seemed to merge. The single remaining blip persisted for a moment and then vanished. When Moncla did not respond to radio calls, the Search and Rescue Unit was dispatched to search for the downed jet. Although the jet's last known position (just before being "absorbed" by the unidentified blip) was searched thoroughly, no trace of wreckage, bodies, or an oil slick was found. Both pilots were experienced airmen and had enough supplies to easily survive a ditch into the lake. As the search continued, the Canadian Air Force was called upon to assist but not one piece of evidence was found to account for the F-89's disappearance.

The Valentich case. On the evening of 21 October, 1978, Frederick Valentich took off from Moorabin, Australia headed for King Island. The flight proceeded normally until 7:06 pm when Valentich radioed the Melbourne Flight Service Unit (FSU) asking if there was any known air traffic in his area. FSU answered negative. Valentich then described an unknown aircraft which was following his plane. "It seems to me that he's playing some sort of game. He's flying over me two, three times at speeds I could not identify." Valentich told the tower. "It is just orbiting on top of me also it's got a green light and sort of metallic like it's all shiny on the outside." From 7:06 pm until 7:12 pm Valentich repeatedly called the tower asking for an identification of the object which was harassing him. At 7:12 pm he made his last comment, "That strange aircraft is hovering on top of me again. It is hovering and it's not an aircraft." Then there were 17 seconds of open microphone noise followed by a clanging metal sound. Then all communications ceased. At 7:33 pm when Valentich's flight did not arrive at King Island, a search and rescue operation was activated. The search lasted for seven days but absolutely no trace of the aircraft was found.

Estimate of the Situation. The U. S. government officially began investigating UFOs in 1947. It was that year that Secret Project SIGN began, concerned with gathering data about Unidentified Flying Objects. In 1948, as sightings increased, the members of the Air Technical Intelligence Center of the Air Force were asked to write a Top Secret report on the UFO phenomenon. It was based on all of the most current information available to the Air Force at the time, including gun camera films which have never been made public. The conclusion of the Top Secret Estimate of the Situation was that UFOs were artificial craft of extraterrestrial origin. Air Force Chief of Staff General Hoyt Vandenberg rejected the report on the grounds that there was no physical evidence to support the conclusion. He then ordered all copies of the report burned immediately.

Bluebook Report number 13. In 1951 the Air Force created Project Bluebook, a successor to Project Sign. During the early days of Project Bluebook, administrators wrote 13 progress reports and one special report number 14. All of these reports have been declassified and released with the exception of Bluebook Report 13. The Air Force claims that it has lost all remaining copies.

Secrets. In 1950 a senior radio engineer from the Canadian Department of Transport sent a Top Secret memo to the Controller of Telecommunications. It was the result of an interview with Dr. Robert Sarbacher, consultant to the Research and Development Board of the U. S. government. Dr. Sarbacher was quoted as saying that the U. S. government had classified flying saucers as a higher security matter than the H-Bomb, that they did in fact exist, and that the government considered it of tremendous significance. Former Senator Barry Goldwater had stated the the UFO phenomenon is classified above Top Secret. He has repeatedly attempted to get access to the Air Force's own UFO files, stored at Wright-Patterson AFB, but he has been denied access. The NSA (National Security Agency) has admitted to holding at least 239 UFO documents which they refuse to release. There is a massive cover-up going on. With something so potentially dangerous as UFOs, the government has no right to hide the information from us. Cattle mutilations are still happening. They are not benevolent space brothers, they're alien cattle ranchers. And we're their food source. If I were you, I'd keep my eyes on the skies.

The Exo-Biological Intervention (EBI) Hypothesis

William F. Hamilton III

Historical:

Various groups of human, humanoid and non-human races came to earth in the distant past and colonized our planet. There were, no doubt, squabbles among the different groups and races. One or more of these groups bred the species of modern homo sapiens into existence for purposes of their own. This explains why there is no missing link found between primates and humans. Probably due to interspecies and intergroup conflicts, we were freed of our original bondage to our creators.

Bear in mind that on a spiritual level of existence some of us may have been our own creators, but on a physical biological level, the earth human is an artifact of genetic engineering and genetic manipulation. There are non-terrestrial humans who have near-perfect genetic breeding and whose life spans exceed our own by at least a factor of ten. They have perfect sight, hearing, and form. They are telepathic and intelligent. We are a poorer model of this same type human.

Other species, perhaps the Grey humanoid, has bred humans and cross-breeds for its own purposes. RH- factor in blood seems to have been introduced by the Greys.

There is a good possibility that Draconian reptoids are another superior species who came to our world in the distant past. Our biblical records mention the ANGELS (Nordic humans) and the SERPENT race (Dracs) as ancient enemies.

These early space visitors not only generated us biologically, but influenced our social and cultural pattern which we have inherited today. Those institutions created directly by ET races were intended to control our growth and development. These institutions are mainly in the form of government and religion.

The Beginning of the Modern Era:

The spacecrafts that crashed at Roswell and Aztec, New Mexico and recovered by secret military and scientific teams was the known beginning of the modern ear of ET presence in our world. In fact, they have been with us to one degree or another since ancient times residing in permanent installations underground and underwater. The first contacts of the modern era may have taken place as long ago as 1933.

The ANGELS returned to contact man on a one-on-one basis when the first physical contact was made with George Adamski on November 20th, 1952. Prior contacts made by them were made in private. The contact with Orthon was staged as a public event with witnesses.

The first public revelation of humanoid abduction came after 1961 when the Hill abduction occurred. The demons and jinns of old had also returned.

The Means:

The two principles used in protecting the activities of ETs on Earth are SECRECY and DECEPTION. If the human race have been the victims of manipulation, then that manipulation was carried on under the cloaks of secrecy and deception. It was a game that men in government and religion (including secret occult societies) were to learn well from our hidden masters and controllers. In addition they added the elements of RIDICULE and DENIAL.

The Cover-up:

The cover-up was initiated soon after the Roswell, NM crash. We wanted to know 1) who they were, 2) why they were here, and 3) how their technology worked. The cover-up became a matter of NATIONAL SECURITY (a blanket word covering secrecy and deception). The cover-up involves secret organizations within our government such as MJ-12, PI-40, MAJI, Delta, the Jason Scholars, and known intelligence organizations such as Naval Intelligence, Air Force Office of Special Investigation, The Defense Investigative Service, the CIA, NSA, and more. It involves THINK TANKS such as RAND, the Ford Foundation, the Aspen Institute, and the Brookings Institute. It involves corporations such as Bechtel, GE, ITT, Amoco, Northrop, Lockheed, and many others. It involves SECRET SOCIETIES who may be hidden bosses of the orchestrated events -- the Illuminati, Masons, Knights of Malta, etc. The individual players are too numerous to list. The whole of this conspiracy forms an interlocking nexus. The goal is said to be a ONE WORLD government.

The Underground Nation:

The RAND symposium held in 1959 on Deep Underground Construction indicates that plans were hatched during the fifties to build underground bases, laboratories, and city-complexes linked by a stupendous network of tunnels to preserve and protect the ongoing secret interests of the secret societies. These secret societies made a pact with alien entities in order to further motives of domination.

The underground complexes are not confined to the U.S.A. alone. A large underground complex operated by the U.S. exists at Pine Gap, near Alice Springs, Australia.

Alien Abduction Scenarios:

Unlike the friendly contacts made by some of the human and humanoid aliens, there are those abductors who treat the earth human much as we treat a high form of animal life. The humans are taken without given a choice, examined with specimens taken, sometimes inseminating females, tagged or implanted with monitors, and released with some amnesia. The purpose of these abductions seems to serve the motives of the aliens and serves no beneficial purpose for the abductee. However, not all alien contacts conform to this scenario and there do appear to be alien beings who do want to assist us on some limited scale. There is still much to be learned about the aliens.

Planetary and Environmental Catastrophe:

It appears that the secret societies among us have become aware of coming planetary eco-catastrophe and the possibility of an earth polar shift in the near future. Surveying the earth from space, satellites and shuttles reveal extensive damage to our ecosphere. Our planet is wobbling on its axis and its magnetic field is decaying. Ozone depletion and the greenhouse effect are rapidly endangering life on our planet. Alternatives, which include 1) direct handling of the atmospheric problems, 2) taking shelter in underground domains, and 3) escape to other planetary bodies in the solar system have been devised in secret. However, there is a possible Alternative 4 which mostly depends on a completely different idea on how to save the earth.

We must also bear in mind the possibility of conflict or war over the earth between different clashing groups. If the earth is a prize among all the different power groups, then it might be saved. We must face the insane possibility that a doomsday weapon may be put to use (Cobalt bombs or anti-matter bombs).

The Future - Despair or Hope? (A Call For Unity)

If all races and all groups persist in playing the old covert games, then we can only despair over our future. But if all are willing to transcend their allegiance to a group or life form and form a greater society based on LOVE - UNDERSTANDING - INTEGRITY - OPENNESS - and FREEDOM for all, then we can visualize a flicker of hope. Love is the axis around which life turns and the road the wheel turns on is the road of knowledge and the destination is perfection and truth - THE TRUTH REVEALED. We must free ourselves from the need for governmental and religious institutions for all can govern their own life, keep their own counsel, and all can experience religious freedom and truth for themselves. It is imperative in order to survive that everyone grant total freedom and self-determinism to everyone else. This is the only way out for all of us or we will continue to enslave and entrap one another. Only when we can have understanding among all the people of earth and those not of this earth will peace prevail.

A New World Vision:

In order to build a new world from the ruins of the old world we need to evolve as individuals. The spiritually free person, free of psychological and emotional problems, advanced in intellect, intuition, and wisdom can bring a new harmony to the world. The new person will be healthy and free of lust, greed, and envy. The new person will be able to form new social units of survival that may not resemble the nuclear family of the past age - it will be a new kind of tribe for the welfare of the many. Men and women will enjoy equal status. Children will be shared. A new society of creative workers will evolve. Mankind will build his cities and industries underground and the surface of the earth will revert to natural growth. Our technology will be an eco-tech based on the fundamental forces of the universe. When the people of earth live and love in harmony as one then will we explore the distant stars as well as the depths of the spirit worlds and advance far beyond primitive homo sapiens, the children of the stars.

We need a ONE WORLD COMMUNITY not a ONE WORLD GOVERNMENT!

UFO Repetitions

A Challenge to Scientific Investigations

George D. Fawcett

Aspects of sightings of unidentified flying objects (UFOs) that have been repeated time and time again over the past forty-seven years -- and have proven themselves BOTH PERSISTENT and CONSISTENT on a global basis -- are a challenge to science. Any future solution to the growing worldwide UFO enigma will have to deal directly with these UFO repetitions:

1. Sightings of unknown flying objects that demonstrate superior speeds and intricate maneuvers beyond those of present satellites, aircraft and missiles.
2. Radar trackings of UFOs.
3. Photographs and movies of UFOs.
4. Pursuits of UFOs by planes in the skies, by ships at sea and by cars on open highways.
5. Falls of "fragments" and "angel hair" from UFOs overhead.
6. Increases in background radiation, ground markings, changes in soil samples, and deposits of both metallic and non-metallic residues after UFOs have been reported in the skies or on the ground (ESPECIALLY magnesium, aluminum, silicon, boron and calcium).
7. Near-collisions, pacings and head-on passes by UFOs reported by civilian, military and commercial pilots.
8. Physiological and psychological effects, such as electric shock, radiation burns, dimming of vision, blackouts, temporary paralysis, headaches, blood disorders, nightmares and dreams, reported by observers in close UFO encounters, both in the air and on the ground.
9. Electromagnetic interference reports caused by UFOs on compasses, plane and car motors, headlights, houselights, searchlights, radar beams, radios, TV, power-stations and other instruments and communication devices.
10. Skyquakes, explosions and sonic booms in the skies during UFO appearances.
11. Propulsion sounds and smells attributed to UFOs.
12. Landings and near-landings (hoverings) of UFOs and their occupants.
13. Hostile acts due to UFOs (both towards and from these objects).
14. Reports of so-called "contactees" of space visitors and UFOs.
15. Straight lines of flight related to UFOs, along with their other kinematic, geometric and luminescent characteristics.
16. Reputable sightings by scientists, astronauts, engineers, astronomers and other trained observers of UFOs.
17. Appearances of "little men" (apparently humanoids) and other entities in relation to worldwide UFO landings, who were reported to have taken rocks, vegetation, soil, water, and animals, flowers, etc. Several hundred cases of human kidnappings, abductions, physical examinations, etc.

18. Periodic cycles of increased UFO sightings -- every 26 months, 5 years and 10 years in large numbers.

19. Unique shapes of UFOs, especially nocturnal lights, daylight discs, domed saucers, cigar-shaped or rocket-shaped objects, crescents, half-globes and saturn-shaped.

20. Revolving wheel-like machines in oceans, seas and vast masses of water reported by ship and plane crews and passengers, and other witnesses nearby.

21. Depressions, craters, denuded vegetation, holes, ground markings, burned areas and landing-gear marks on the ground due to UFO landings worldwide.

22. Power-failures due to UFO appearances, both locally and on a widespread basis.

23. Severe animal reactions reported during UFO encounters.

24. Levitations in close proximity with UFOs of persons, cars, helicopters, trucks, garage roofs, fishing bobbers, UFO occupants, horses, etc.

25. The historical evidence of UFOs found in archaeology, cave-wall drawings, Holy Scriptures, legends, mythology, ancient manuscripts, frescoes and folklore throughout the world.

To investigate any phenomena in or outside of a laboratory requires that they must be repeatable, and such UFO encounters are recurrent in nature regardless of where they occur. Thus, the challenge to future scientific investigations remains.

These repetitions do not encompass a complete list of recurring aspects of activities of unidentified flying objects (UFOs) and their occupants (UFO-nauts), but represent a start in the right direction.

Future science must meet the challenge posed by these UFO repetitions among over 140 world nations in order to solve the growing, global UFO problem -- otherwise, it will become part of the problem itself. THE PEOPLES OF THE WORLD DESERVE BETTER THAN THAT!

Hardly a week goes by without at least one anonymous letter, article or package arriving here at NUFOM. Things have been slipped under our door, mailed without return address, slipped to us by passing strangers, and even wilder! Apparently we are not alone. This article was received anonymously at the UFO Contact Newslines of Los Angeles in an envelope post marked Ontario, Canada. Is it true? A hoax? Wild ravings, or a courageous person coming forward with a truly terrifying truth? Frankly, we haven't a clue, but we found it of sufficient interest that we thought it prudent to share it with you. Can anyone shed any light on this startling tale? Admittedly his sounds too contrived to be much more than a transparent piece of disinformation -- one or two bits of truth, and a lot of wild finger pointing; and yet... We have reprinted it here just as we received it, weird grammar, punctuation and all. Please send us your comments and information!

Canadian and American Security Agencies are engaged in a conspiracy of silence. To withhold from the world the alien vessel seized in the swamps of Corkery Road, Carp, in 1989.

UFO sightings in the Ontario region had intensified in the 1980's, specifically, around nuclear power generating stations. On November 4, 1989 at 20:00 Hrs Canadian Defense Department radars picked up a globe shaped object traveling at a phenomenal speed over Carp, Ontario. The UFO abruptly stopped, and dropped like a stone.

Canadian and American Security Agencies were immediately notified of the landing. Monitoring satellites traced the movements of the aliens to a triangular area, (See Aerial Map) [sorry, no map enclosed in the package we received.] off Old Almonte and Corkery Roads.

The ship had landed in deep swamp near Corkery Road. Two AH-64 Apaches and a UH-60 Blackhawk headed for the area the following night. The helicopters carried full weapon loads. They were part of a covert American unit that specialized in the recovery of alien craft.

Flying low over Ontario pine trees the Apache attack choppers soon spotted a glowing, blue, 20 metre in diameter sphere. As targeting lasers locked-on, both gunships unleashed their full weapon loads of eight missiles each. All sixteen were exploded in proximity bursts ten meters downwind from the ship.

The missiles were carrying VEXXON, -a deadly neuroactive gas which kills on contact. Exposed to air the gas breaks down quickly into inert components. Immediately after having completed their mission the gunships turned around, and headed back across the border.

Now the Blackhawk landed, as men exploded from its open doors. In seconds the six man striketeam had entered the UFO through a seven metre hatchless, oval, portal. No resistance was encountered. At the controls, three dead crewmen were found.

With the ship captured. The United States Airforce, Pentagon, and Office of Naval Intelligence were notified. Through the night a special team of technicians had shut-down and disassembled the sphere. Early the next morning November 6, 1989 construction equipment and trucks were brought into the swamp. The UFO parts were transported to a secret facility in Kanata, Ontario.

As a cover story the local were informed that a road was being built through the swamp. No smokescreen was needed for the military activity as Canadian forces regularly train in the Carp region. Officially nothing unusual was reported in the area. Although someone anonymously turned in a 35mm roll of film. It was received by the National Research Council of Canada, in Ottawa. The film contained several clear shots of an entity holding a light. (See Photograph) [sorry, no photo enclosed either] At this time the photographer is still unidentified.

The humanoid were packed in ice and sent to an isolation chamber at the University of Ottawa. CIA physiologists performed the autopsies. The three reptilian, fetus-headed beings, were listed as CLASS 1 NTE's (Non Terrestrial Entities). Like others recovered in previous operations, they were muscular, grey-white skinned, -humanoids.

The ship was partially reassembled at the underground facility in Kanata. Unlike previous recoveries this one is pure military. Built as a "Starfighter" it is heavily armed and armored. In design no rivets, bolts, or welds were used in fastening, yet when reconstructed there are no seams. The UFO itself is made up of a matrixed dielectric magnesium alloy.

It is driven by pulsed electromagnetic fields generated by a cold fusion reactor. All offensive capabilities utilize independently targeting electronic beam weapons. In the cargo hold were found ordnance racks containing fifty Soviet nuclear warheads. Their purpose was revealed by advanced tactical/combat computers located in the flight deck.

Threatened by recent East-West relations, and the revolutionary movements within itself. Red China is preparing for the final ideological war. The aliens have agreed to defend China from the free world's combined military and nuclear forces.

At this time China is arming the Middle East with their own nuclear arsenals. In order that they can successfully take on Israel. Unifying the Arabs under one Chinese command was simple. Especially with Israel's recent "Iron Fist" attitude towards the occupied Arab territories.

The Soviet warheads found in the UFO were destined for Syria. CIA operatives in the Middle East have noticed huge movements of Chinese "technicians" and "advisors". China is also supplying the Arabs with bacteriological agents, Migs, Hind gunships, tanks, and missile launchers.

The use of "Soviet" instead of "Chinese" nukes is part of a disinformation campaign. To break up East-West relations after the annihilation of Israel. The warheads were hijacked from Soviet submarines in the Dragon's Triangle. A section of alien controlled Pacific once frequented by Russian subs. After losing some -900- high yield warheads and thirteen vessels. Commanders were ordered to steer clear of the area.

The most important alien-technology find were the two millimeter, spheroid, brain implants. Surgically inserted through the nasal orifice the individual can be fully monitored and controlled. The CIA and Canadian Government have actively supported mind-slave experiments for years. Currently the University of Ottawa is involved in Extremely Low Frequency (ELF) wave mind control programs. A continuation of the CIA psychological warfare project known as MKULTRA, started at the Allen Memorial Institute in Montreal.

Using ELF signals transmitted at the same wavelength the human brain uses, the researchers could subliminally control the test subject. The alien implants utilize the same principles except that the whole units is subminiaturized and contained in the brain. Fortunately the implants can be detected by magnetic resolution scanning technology. All individuals implanted by the aliens are classified as ZOMBIES.

The ZOMBIES have been programmed to help overthrow Mankind in the near future. When China finishes with Israel it will invade Europe. At the same time Chinese spacebased bacteriological weapons will be launched at the Arctic. The winds will carry the diseases into Russia and North America. In days hundreds of millions will be dead, -the survivors will have to deal with the Chinese, the aliens, and the ZOMBIES.

The aliens want all out war so that human resistance would be minimal, when they invade. They tried this same tactic once before with Nazi Germany. Most of the scientific advances we have today came from German science which was based on alien technology. Had Hitler won the war, the earth would have become a concentration camp. In order to depopulate the continents for the aliens.

Data aboard the sphere explained why the aliens are so comfortable on our world. They preceded man on the evolutionary scale by millions of years; created with the dinosaurs. Some 65 million years ago an interdimensional war destroyed most of their civilization, and forced them to leave the earth. Now they have chosen to reclaim what was once theirs.

The alien forces with their Chinese and Arab allies will attack within the next five years. Waiting longer than that would make it impossible, even for the aliens, -to reverse the ecological damage inflicted on the Earth by Man.

MYSTERIES OF THE CRYSTAL SKULLS REVEALED

by Sandra Bowen, F. R. 'Nick' Nocerino and Joshua Shapiro

Today, quartz crystals are a very popular subject, with numerous books available on this topic. Yet, very little has been written about one of the most powerful applications of quartz by the ancients— the Crystal Skulls. Scientists and archaeologists have been unable to determine how these human sized and shaped skulls of quartz were created, nor explain the mysterious psychic phenomena which occur in their presence.

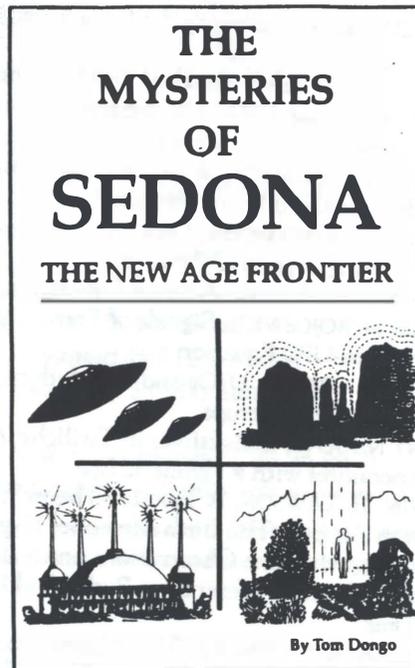

This book presents many theories about the ancient Crystal Skulls. It includes information based upon the personal experiences of several researchers who have worked with one or more of these skulls, as well as those who are able to psychically link into these sacred objects and bring forth information dealing with the skulls' history and purposes. Thus, you will find that this book deals with the subject from a metaphysical perspective, since purely traditional scientific methods of inquiry have yielded inconclusive and insufficient information about the Crystal Skulls. A strong connection between the skulls and extraterrestrials is presented, as well as the incredible holographic images which appear within the Crystal Skulls for all to see.

Join the co-authors in their journey to unravel the mysteries of the Crystal Skulls. Where do they come from and why are they here? Could these artifacts contain the answers to many of humanity's questions? Do they hold the secrets of the origin of our species? Are they a sign of a Golden Age of Peace that is soon to come to our world, as has been foretold in many ancient prophecies? The desire for Crystal Skull information is great and ever-increasing, yet until now very little has been available.

by Tom Dongo
A Sedona, Arizona, UFO Researcher
Looks at UFO-ET and Paranormal Activity in his Hometown and across the Country

Often public opinion regarding UFOs amounts to outright denial, or a mild to barely believing tolerance—or fear. This is not a fear issue! This is excitement of the highest caliber. That is, if we take the time to research the subject and come to an understanding of what is going on. I believe that there is no more demanding issue today than that of the alien presence here on our planet. This is not a time to take a wait-and-see posture.

"It is truthfully our feeling that Tom Dongo has far more understanding of the energy areas, or vortices if you will, than any other source we have read or heard in the eight months that we have lived in Sedona."

John & MaryBeth Roberts

"Tom Dongo's 'Mysteries of Sedona' contains more of the esoteric truths in my opinion of anything printed to date on Sedona."

Richard Huffer

"The author gives you an intellectual idea of what mankind truly will accomplish, and that we are standing at the threshold of new voyages of discovery."

Kjell Eldendahl

The Mysterious US Base of Pine Gap

Lucien H. Cometta

Soon after the start of the conflict in the Persian Gulf, the Australian media explained the missiles launched by Iraq were spotted by satellite, thanks to the heat they generated when launched. They said the satellite immediately sent the information to the US base of Pine Gap in Australia, that this information was instantly and automatically transmitted to Washington, D.C., and the allied H.Q. in the Near East. The signal sent by the satellite took only 3 or 4 seconds to reach the US High Command in the Gulf, although it transits via Australia.

Even in our times of knowledge and progress, this is a feat quite out of the ordinary, which requires electronic systems of a very advanced technology.

But why, among all the bases Americans have all over the world, Pine Gap is the one to fulfill this task? What is Pine Gap base anyway? Why did the Americans install it in Australia? Many ask themselves those questions, but, for the time being, none have found any satisfactory answers.

Right from the start, during its building, this base was shrouded in the most absolute secrecy. No one knows exactly what it is, nor what its real purpose is. Members of the Federal Australian Government do not even know! Of course various and unexpected tales go around, probably mostly because it is built entirely underground. In fact, the little that is known about the base can be summed up as told in the following lines.

This top secret underground base is located West of Alice Spring, at the foothills of the southern slopes of the McDonnell Range. Only a few scattered buildings can be seen from the surface, and the secret entrances are practically invisible. It lies within 140 miles from the geographical center of Australia. Only a very small number of people have the knowledge of what is going on inside the earth around Pine Gap; the only information source available to the public is some vague statements made in a few US or Australian magazines, and anything strange or unusual the locals may notice. It is said the deepest hole in Australia (5 miles deep), was drilled where the base stands, and that it could be used as an inground antenna, for the transmission of waves able to recharge batteries of submarines cruising in the Pacific or the Indian Ocean. It is also claimed a huge nuclear generator gives the necessary power to a new type of radio transceiver. It is possible a high-voltage plasma accelerator was installed by the Americans, in order to transmit electric current, or maybe to produce a "Death Ray". It might also simply be used to feed a plasma gun. Is it possible that the technology used in the base makes it possible to transmit an electric current powerful enough to recharge submarine's high-voltage batteries?

$3000 REWARD - FOR THE RIGHT UFO EVIDENCE

If you have such hard-core evidence as photos, engineering drawings, metallurgy reports, and avionics analyses about the UFO that crash-landed near Kecksburg, Pa., back in Dec. 1965, here's your chance to come forward and join other witnesses who've been blowing the whistle on the government's coverup of that pivotal incident in the Cosmic Watergate.

Government officials have no right to lie to the public about their retrieval of what may have been an alien spacecraft. If your evidence is deemed important enough for NBC TV's "Unsolved Mysteries" to include in a follow-up on its recent reenactment of the incident, then you would qualify for up to a $3,000 reward from the public-interest group Citizens Against UFO Secrecy.

Send all ltr., documentation, and testimonial leads to CAUS, 3518 Martha Custis Drive, Alexandria, VA 22302. Or call Larry W. Bryant, (703) 931-3341, and let the evidence speak for itself.

Some say that that is the reason why US submarines trail a wire antenna.

While the base was being built, people of the area saw big 30 foot discs bearing the Air Force emblem being unloaded from USAF cargo planes. It is quite possible that they could be used in assembling some sort of flying saucers, since it is known one of the research projects done there concerns Electromagnetic Propulsion (EMP). The frequent and numerous UFO sightings in the area convinced the locals something of the kind was going on there. Another thing is even more surprising: an astronomical quantity of pieces of furniture of all kinds was delivered by plane from the States. The quality of that furniture would put a five-star hotel to shame! The locals also saw an astronomical amount of foodstuffs brought in from the USA, and presumably taken to huge underground warehouse, in could very well be a multi-level underground city.

The official name of the Pine Gap facility is: JOINT DEFENSE SPACE RESEARCH FACILITY. It is entirely financed by the Americans. It is known to be the most important center for the control of spy satellites orbiting around the Earth, and that with its sister-base in Guam, it is also used for the control of photographic missions fulfilled by big American satellites. It is claimed the quality of the photos is such that a 7 1/2" object can be easily seen and identified on the pictures. It is said that in this underground facility a very important number of computers with the latest technical updates can be found. They are reported to be connected to the main computer centers in the US and Australia, storing information not only on finance and modern technology, but also, it is claimed, on most ordinary citizens (like you and me). In addition, the computer network thus created, is connected to identical facilities in Guam, Krugersdorp in South Africa, and the underground US base of Amundsen-Scott in Antarctica.

The most disturbing rumor about Pine Gap, is that most of the people who work there have been brainwashed, and that some have even had intracranial implants put in their brains to ensure their unconditional obedience to the masters!

As you would have it, EBE (Extraterrestrial Biological Entities) are said to live in these underground installations. In that case, we would expect to hear reports of abductions and animal mutilations on a fairly big scale in Australia, and particularly in the Pine Gap region. Yet, no information could be had about the number of abductions or the occurrence of animal mutilations in the area... Around 1986 the Australian police only mentioned a little over a hundred persons disappeared without leaving any trace during the two or three previous years. Perhaps these disappearances have nothing to do with EBEs, for buffaloes, wild camels and horses, as well as dingos, kangaroos, etc. can be found in abundance in the isolated areas of the Northern Territories, and no one would ever know whether EBEs have used any of them for experiments or for the blood they are said to need.

In conclusion, let me tell you that no one knows for sure what goes on in these high security top-secret underground installations, and that, at least for the time being, Pine Gap keeps its secret. It is used for biological research? genetic experiments on humans? Perhaps it is simply used for research on electronics, or electromagnetic propulsion... Or maybe it is used for all of them simultaneously...

Whose Saucers Are They?

by James Keith

There is no question in my mind that there is a 'conspiracy' at the top running things, or at least attempting to run them. As to the nature of the conspiracy; that's another question. I had always assumed that it was big money rubbing shoulders and making secret deals in cabals like the Bilderbergers, the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission, but lately I haven't been so sure. I've begun to take seriously the thought that there really might be a secret centuries-old agenda among the Illuminati, not to mention the Templars, the Freemasons, the Rosicrucians, the Knights of Malta or the Priory of Sion. No, I haven't completely bought into the Lear-Cooper-Hamilton-English-Lazar-et al scenario that the "boys" behind this age-old conspiracy really run things from outer space, or even the inner Earth, but I'm no longer dismissing it out of hand, either...

George Bush knew well the connotations of the term "New World Order" when he used it. As a 33rd degree Mason and a member of Skull and Bones and the CIA and God knows what other groups of cameraden, how could he not? He would also be aware that using that phrase would be calculated to set every right wing conspiritologist in the country spinning. The question is: what was he getting at? Was it a phrase used as a code to alert other members of the Masons or other in-group of something, of some culmination or mobilization or battle-plan? Right about the same time that Bush uttered that phrase, I noticed that CBS started using an abstract geometrical station ID that metamorphosizes from an Eye in a Triangle and, perhaps, with the turning of the pyramidal forms, coalesces into an inverted 5 pointed star. I also notice that now they have replaced it with an immobile version that does not call up the same connotations. Perhaps a coincidence, but I'm certain that the bigwigs at CBS were quite aware of those symbolisms, too.

Jerry Smith made the statement to me, "The United States is a Masonic conspiracy," and that seems like a succinct statement of something that is pretty obyious, yet admitted by few. Many of the founders of the United States were masons and occultists, and the dollar bill looks like one of those hodgepodge Masonic aprons that you see George Washington depicted wearing in Masonic literature; it is crawling with Masonic symbols, slogans and numerology.

Tim O'Neil's "Who Rules Over Earth?" in Apocalypse Culture goes into the existence of a single archetypical world ruler, linking that personage to the symbolism of the Great Seal and the Great Invisible Government and says that, "...the political doctrines of Illuminism, the blueprints for the government of the Ruler, tend toward Universalism, Theocratism, Republicanism, in the original Platonic sense. The "New Secular Order" of the Seal is a pure, theocratic republic. Direct rule by the Monarch implies no necessity for church, state, or even family structure."

When you think about various other fairly recent innovations like the UPC code and Electronic Fund Transfer, the United States of Europe and the laser tattooing handscan machine tested on 3,000 recruits at Fort Benjamin, it's not hard to start thinking in paranoid lines.

Now, here's where a clear cut connection to UFOlogy emerges. Many, if not most, students of the phenomenon of UFOs have long suspected that there might be a terrestrial origin to the saucers. Conspiratologist John Judge, in his tape "Unidentified Fascist Observatories" makes a strong case for the saucers being a hidden and higher echelon of government research project, utilizing the secrets of disk craft that we inherited from the Nazis at the end of WWII. The time-line certainly fits.

Another possibility is that the saucers are a "suppressed technology", reminiscent of the stories one hears about engines that run on water, light bulbs that last forever, Tesla's secret plans, etc., being bought off or shot off by agents of the government or big business to protect the investment and profits in internal combustion engines and an oil based world economy. I wouldn't doubt it. There is no doubt in my mind that at the more rarefied strata of control and the more concentrated levels of dough that the welfare of everyman is strictly a tertiary consideration. "Evidence" to support this is, of course, nearly impossible to locate (or live through the attempt), and yet...

Futurists, like Robert Anton Wilson and Alvin Toffler point out that there has been a geometrical progression of the doubling of the knowledge of Mankind in shorter and shorter periods of time. Currently, by projections, we should be doubling the total knowledge of the human race every 9 years or so... So where is the technology that should be coming out of this? Look around, nothing much has changed in oil based technology (airplanes, automobiles, etc.) since the late fifties, early sixties. Or, as Claude Steiner put it; "The future sure ain't what it used to be."

Jacques Vallee, in Messengers of Deception, suggests that he does not believe that abductees have actually been taken aboard technological craft. He says, "It is more likely that they have taken a non-physical trip, controlled and guided by a system that acts on human consciousness (the Soviets use the term 'psychotronic' to designate such devices), rather than one that is purely physical. The symbols it uses are engineered to have certain effects."

Granting that it is possible that there is a level of technology, or at least technological experimentation, that our government isn't telling us about -- and perhaps doesn't know about -- it would seem likely that the control of this hypothetical technology would reside at the top, where the money is.

While I don't really expect to see the Beast 666 tromping like Godzilla down Madison Avenue (maybe I should, or maybe the people of Iraq just did), there is a gradual evolution to "One World" themes going on and a worldwide technological control and meshing that is very sinister... even divorced from any occult or 'otherworldly' significance, and even if it isn't ordained from On High by a World Monarch.

Jacques Vallee also says, "I believe there is a very real UFO problem. I have also come to believe that it is being manipulated for political ends. And the data suggest that the manipulators may be human beings with a plan of social control."

John Keel has reported that during the flurry of UFO reports in West Virginia in 1967 there were also reports of unidentified trucks and vans moving around on back roads. If there was 'psychotronic' tomfoolery going on, then this might have been the way that it would have been done. Considering the rampant excesses of the CIA, tossing LSD and disinformation at everything that moved during its MKULTRA phase, it is not in the least difficult to believe that they would have been capable of this kind of populace manipulation.

Who knows? Maybe the U.S. is, at the top, a Masonic or other occult conspiracy after all, and maybe Bush has fired the starting gun for its next evolutionary transformation with his talk about a New World Order. Whatever the case, the logic is inescapable. If the saucers, even some of them, do have a Terrestrial origin, then there is a good chance that they are owned by the group that some have called the Illuminati.

Close Encounter Reports

At approximately 8:00 pm, on or about December 1, 1978, I was traveling east through the Camas Prairie area of Idaho, riding in a log truck (hauling for Brown Bros. Logging of Fairfield, Idaho) toward the sawmill in Fairfield, Idaho. I was looking south, when suddenly a bright light appeared (see illustration), silhouetting the mountains in the foreground. The light was not like any I have ever seen, as it had a definite irregular shape to it. About 5 seconds later, a "ship" appeared in the center of the light, not appearing to be moving. After possibly another 5 seconds, the ship as well as the light started to move to the west (arrow). The shape of the light did not change as it moved, but the ship's attitude changed, as a plane does when making a steep, banked turn. After about 15-20 seconds, the light went out. There were no lights on the ship. Since I knew the size of the mountains, their distance from me, and that they were silhouetted by the light, this ship's distance from us (the log truck driver and I) made it very clear that it was huge! And by that I mean as big as the whole of Sun Valley, not as in the size of a C-5 Galaxy. HUGE!!

Next, as the truck driver also saw it, I wanted to report it (to the Sheriff's Department), but he objected on the grounds that people he knew had seen such things and were arrested. So, we (I) have kept quiet all this time (other than telling friends). About 2 weeks later, I was traveling from Sun Valley, Idaho to Truckee, California, stopped in Battle Mountain, Nevada for breakfast and saw the front page story of the [two men who made a] sighting near Battle Mountain, which was the exact same night and only about 15 minutes from when I saw the ship. The artists drawing was exactly as I had seen it!

UFOs are REAL.

I think the Government (and Armed Services) are covering this up, as in all the other cases.

K.C.

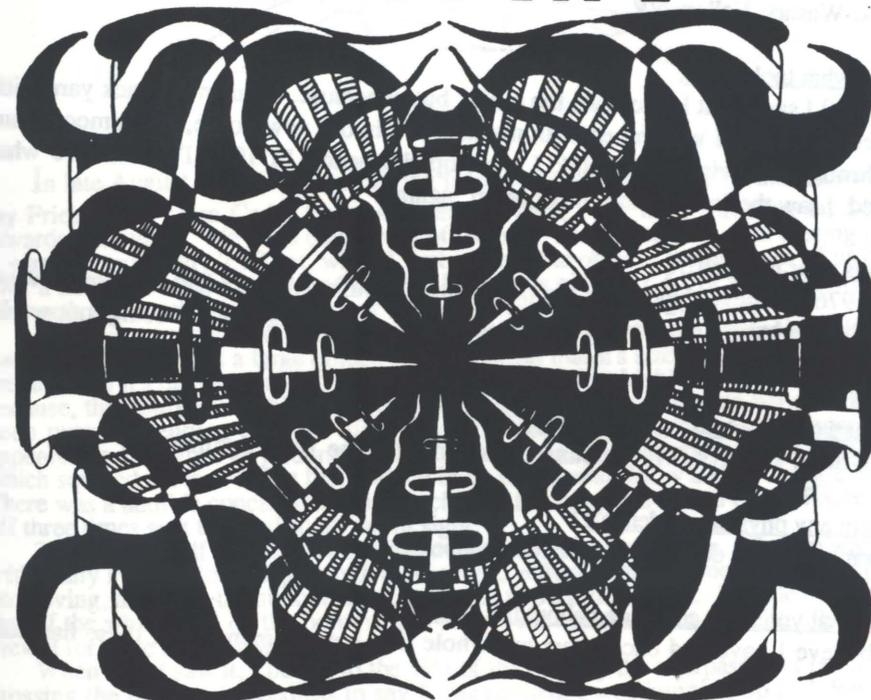

The first of three incidents took place while I was living about eighteen miles northwest of Springfield, in the southwest corner of Missouri, in a rural area. It was just after darkness set in, in the early evening. I believe sometime during May of 1963. I was walking the half-mile of gravelly road that extended from where I was doing volunteer work for a religious evangelist to where I was living at the time, and I was just starting to descend a slight downgrade in the road, going eastward, when I saw "it".

"It" was an orange teardrop shape really close to the eastern horizon and slightly north of due east. It was preceding northward at a leisurely pace, and its length was about half of a moon-diameter as we see it from the Earth. The bulby end of the teardrop shape was its leading end and if it were 100 miles away it would have been sauntering along at a rate of some twelve seconds to cover about 60 degrees of sky from my viewpoint. That would make it going at the not-so-leisurely pace of about 500 miles per minute, or roughly 30,000 m.p.h.!

At first it didn't register on me what I was seeing. Then, a few seconds later it did, so I walked backwards back up the hill until it came in view again, then focused my full attention on it. As soon as I did so, the thing just up and winked out like someone turning off a light switch.

The other two incidents involved just points of light like the landing lights of aircraft. But neither one could have been, because in the first instance there was no airplane buzzing about, and in the other, while there was one, it was in the wrong direction. The first was in the western sky, after dark, while I was watching it from a few miles southwest of Holbrook, Arizona, about late March or so, 1975. The second was in the south sky from where I now live in Angwin, California, again in the early evening just after the last of the daylight faded, about three years ago now, although I forget what part of the year.

In both of those instances, as soon as I focused my attention on them, they just winked out. Neither was moving in any way to suggest a man-made satellite orbiting the Earth. In the Arizona one of these, I had a flashlight with me and got nervy enough to send a brief Morse Code message, but after only a few "dats-and-doshes" the thing winked out, never to be seen (by me) again.

Time, date, and duration of encounters:

1969, 1976, and 1986, exact dates and durations unknown.

Place of encounters:

1969-Carson City, NV
1976-San Jose, CA
1986-Washoe Valley, NV

Describe what took place:

In 1969 I saw what looked like the moon, but very close. I was in the back yard with my parents. In 1976 I was in bed with my husband in our new house, and a moonbeam came through the window. I think I went up the beam. In 1986 I'm not sure what happened. I saw the "moon" and "moonbeam" again.

What was your reaction?:

In 1976 I believe they made me pregnant. My husband and I had tried for several years to have a baby. One month after my encounter, I was diagnosed as being four weeks pregnant.

Were there other witnesses to the events?:

Not that I know of. My parents will not admit to the 1969 sighting.

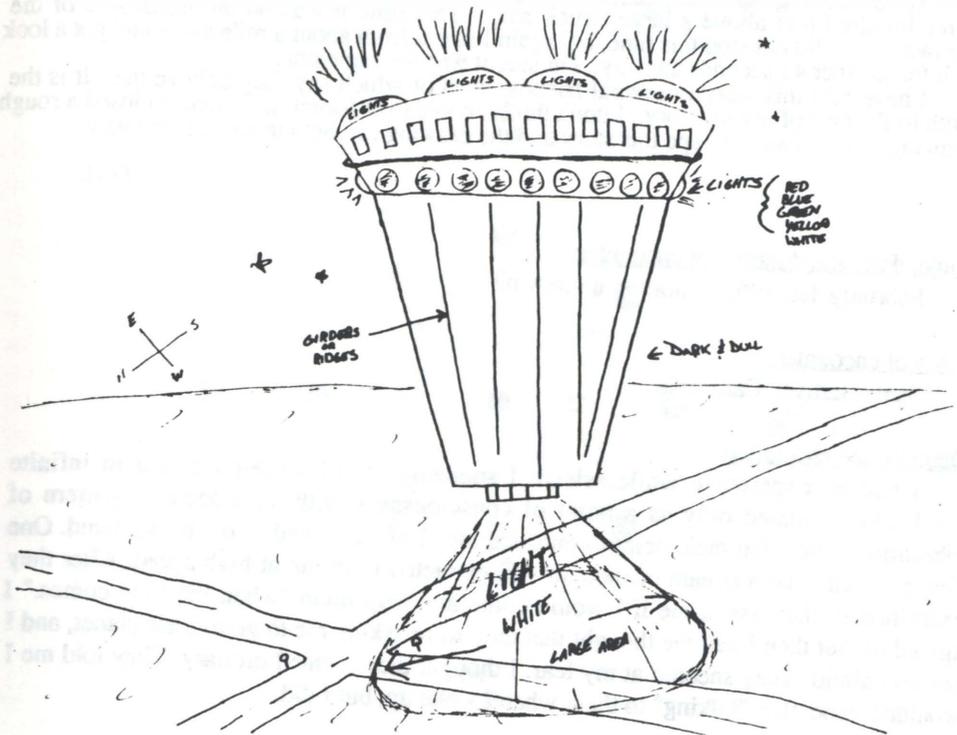

Was there any physical evidence?:

Strange scars. I don't know how they happened.

Tell us what you have concluded about the incident:

I believe I have had encounters my whole life, but my memory of these has been erased.

S. B.

In late August of 1978, I was driving from Sandusky, Ohio, to Toronto, Canada, with my friend M--, from Cedar Point Amusement Park. We were traveling on I-90 East, towards Cleveland. We were employees of the park, and had to wait until closing to leave. It was approximately 2:00 am, when I first spotted the object. It was south of us hovering over a field and a secondary road which I believe as either Rt. 61 or Rt. 60, both of which run north and south. Which ever one it was, it crossed over the thruway.

The object appeared to be about 150 feet above the ground and approximately 1/3 mile away from me. It was a large object, by this I mean that it's size was equal to if not slightly greater than it's distance from the ground (150 to 175 feet high). It was difficult to judge because, the bottom two-thirds was a dark color, seeming to fluctuate between black and deep purple, blending into the night sky. Occasionally, there was a glimpse of what appeared to be ridges or girders running from the base of the upper lights to the bottom which squared off to a bright light, which lit up the ground below and covering a large area. There was a audible concussion sound each time the light was turned on. It flashed on and off three times as it traveled south out of sight.

The object itself was shaped similar to a cone, with a flat bottom. The top was rounded with many multi-colored lights (red, blue, green, yellow, white I remember). It appeared to be moving, although the silhouette of the lower two thirds did not. It made no sound save that of the white light on the bottom, and slowly moved south out of sight, allowing me to view it for three to five minutes.

When I first saw it, I pulled to the side of the road by the overpass, and ran to the road crossing the thruway. Needless to say I was excited, I was jumping up and down on the overpass screaming at the top of my lungs to M--, "Do you see it!" Apparently she did, for it frightened her to the point of tears, begging me to be quiet and get back in the car before it spotted me. The fear in her voice about it spotting me did the trick, I shup-up. As it faded from sight, the thrill returned, I ran back to the car to talk to M-- about this wondrous event, but she was in tears, and did not want to discuss it.

We traveled about twenty minutes without a word, when I spotted the same object about three hundred feet above a large struck stop. This time it was on the north side of the thruway. We did not stop this time, but again I saw it from about a mile away and got a look at it for another 45 seconds anyway. I'm sure it was the same one.

I have told this story to several friends, most of which say they believe me. It is the truth to the best of my memory. I don't think I could ever forget it. I have enclosed a rough drawing of the object. I hope this story and the drawing can help in some small way.

D.H.

Time, date, and duration of encounter:

February 1st, 1967, duration unknown.

Place of encounter:

Santa Barbara, California

Describe the encounter:

I had an experience while asleep. I suddenly found myself floating in infinite blackness. I existed only as a point of consciousness with an associated pattern of vibrations. Five alien male beings contacted me. Two remained in the background. One "interviewed" me: a stream of thought was extracted from me at high speed. After they examined it, they asked me if I would come and help them "when the time comes." I agreed to, but then I had the thought that they were asking me to go to their planet, and I became afraid. They sneered at my fear. I thought they seemed military. They told me I wouldn't remember "talking" to them when I woke up, but I did.

Were there other witnesses to the encounter?:

When I woke up, I awakened my husband and described my experience. He had seen nothing.

Was there any physical evidence?:

The space people contacted me by psychic means. There would naturally be no physical evidence. They have very advanced control over psychic powers.

Was the encounter previously reported? Was there any follow-up?:

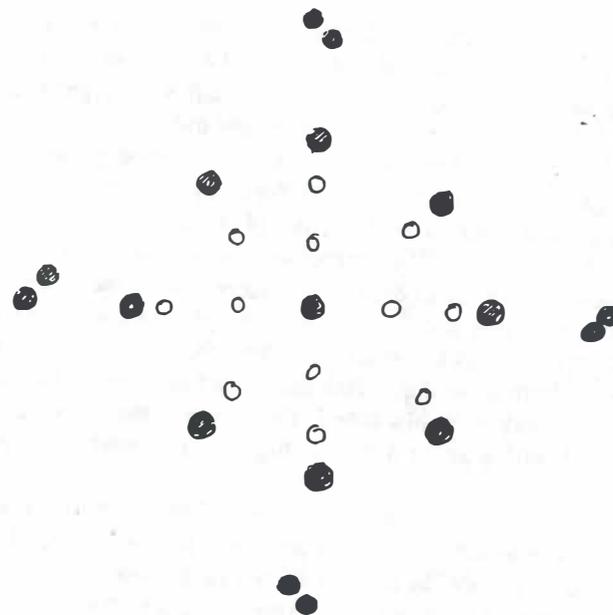

Two years later I visited a medium for a reading. She told me with much excitement, "...why you will talk with the space people!" I think I already had.

Tell us what you have concluded about the incident:

The space people have a civilization that uses highly developed psychic powers in a technological way. They visit us by use of psychokinesis. That's how they move their "saucers" around so quickly. The saucers aren't vehicles; they're protective enclosures. They are recruiting people with psychic aptitude to have their next incarnation on the space people's planet, where their psychic ability will be exploited. I no longer intend to help them. I don't want to be reincarnated on their planet. I don't like them. They lack sympathy.

LIGHT CONFIGURATIONS ON UFO

● CREAM COLORED LIGHTS - ALL SAME SIZE
○ AMBER COLORED LIGHTS - ALL SAME SIZE -
AMBER LIGHTS MUCH SMALLER THAN OTHERS.

In the Spring of 1984 my wife and I were standing in our driveway at home in Arroyo Grande, California. We just arrived home with our friends from having dinner. It was approximately 9 P.M. and we "the four of us" were talking when I noticed an aircraft coming towards us from the south with an enormous amount of lights. The craft had more lights than a large commercial airliner. As the craft was nearing us I could see that it had no regular aircraft lights. All visible lights were cream colored and the outside lights formed a diamond pattern with a large circle of lights on the inside of the diamond. As the craft went over us it made no noise and I estimated its speed at approximately 200 MPH and an altitude of approximately 5000 feet AGL. By the time the craft was over us I put my Navy field glasses on it and saw that there were numerous smaller amber lights not visible from the ground with the naked eye. There was no visible shape to the craft other than the light configurations. This was my first and last sighting of a UFO so I am fully convinced that they exist. I reported this event to the Vandenburg A.F.B. officer of the day. Enclosed is a drawing showing approximately what I saw fly over us that night.

GB

Dear Mr. Fawcett:

I saw a show on Inside Edition yesterday that mentioned your organization and it's efforts to expose the role of the U.S. Military in the UFO situation. I thought you might like to hear my experience with this subject when I was a Navy Officer stationed at Moffett Field, California.

In November 1964 I went into Hangar No. 1, the old zeppelin hangar, and saw a flying saucer. It was about 20 feet in diameter and 4 or 5 feet thick. It had no vertical control surfaces such as rudders. It stood on small steel legs, about 3/4 inches in diameter, about 2 feet off of the ground. The legs did not appear to retract. It had a cockpit, covered by a hemispherical plexiglass cover, for only the pilot. I could see a couple of dozen gages and various controls in the cockpit. It had an air intake, which was about 5 feet in diameter, located in the center of the top surface. Turbine blades were visible inside of the air intake. The cockpit was on one side of the aircraft between the edge of the air intake and the outer edge of the saucer. Under the saucer, around the entire outer edge, there were flaps about 4 inches high and 2 feet wide that could be moved independently from horizontal to vertical, through a 90 degree arc. Exhaust outlets were located just inboard from these flaps. Exhaust gases had been directed by the flaps. The flaps and the exhaust ports were blackened. On the top of the saucer, around the edge, in black block capital letters about 4 inches high, was printed "U S AIRFORCE-U S NAVY".

There were armed Marine guards in the hangar all the time. It would be interesting to see how many would remember the saucer and come forward. When I saw the saucer in '64 it had been in storage since '58 so quite a few guards must have seen it.

In early '65 I managed to get a tour of Ames Research Center, which was located at Moffett Field at that time. I was talking to two men there and asked if they knew about the saucer in Hangar No. 1. They both said yes and that the saucer that I had seen flew from 1955 to 1958 and was subsonic. They said that supersonic saucers were being flown at that time ('65).

I have kept quite all these years because I have been afraid of retaliation by the Navy. Your program last night just goes to show that the Military covers up a lot of things and that is why so much money is wasted on defense. Maybe if more people who were in the Military would talk-up some of this waste can be stopped. If the Navy does retaliate against me it will be an excellent indication that they do know about flying saucers and have something to hide.

Yours Truly,
D.Z.

Close Encounter at an Alien Base?

I have been reading recently about all the alleged underground Alien labs and facilities and took particular interest in a rumor purporting an underground base of this kind to be located in the Lancaster/Palmdale area near the Tehachapi Mountains [of Southern California, USA]. There may be some truth to this as my friend Annemarie and I had something very weird happen to us there.

Annemarie had, some years ago, purchased some undeveloped land in that area and had not done anything with it nor had she been to see it. In the early 1980's (not really sure of the year, sorry!) she took an interest in the property as the Lancaster/Palmdale area was "coming into it's own". Homes were being built, businesses were moving there, etc. Since this was the case, she felt sure that the value of the property would increase and she was thinking of selling it. However, since she had not seen it (her ex-husband, Ken, had bought it with her; he had seen it and declared that it was in a "great" location. He deeded it over to her after the divorce). He had given her a rather crude map with some landmarks by which we would be able to identify the property.

We drove the nearly 2 hours to Lancaster/Palmdale and began our search. The map was not much help, however, because it had been made when the area was still undeveloped and most of the natural landmarks were gone--removed to make room for houses. Every time we found what looked like a road which would take us somewhere, it turned into a dead-end. The area we were in was now full of cul-de-sacs for the housing development which would soon be built on it. After about 2 1/2 hours of driving, we stopped for a cool drink.

By now, neither of us was really that interested in finding Annemarie's property but we figured that the day was still young so we'd press on. We got back on the main highway and decided to look for dirt roads in the hopes that the land was still undeveloped and that we had missed it in looking in the developed areas. At last, a broad, well-kept dirt road appeared. At first we thought it might be the entrance to someone's farm or ranch but, since there wasn't a mailbox, we decided to proceed.

After about a half-mile, something odd happened. The dirt road became a wide, beautifully paved asphalt road, with a single white dividing line. We were astounded at this but were glad as the dirt road was taking it's toll on Annemarie's car. We had driven about 2 miles when, up ahead, we saw what looked like a dust storm coming out of the mountains. Annemarie slowed down and we watched. It was not a storm but a vehicle, a car, coming towards us at full speed.

"Let's get out of here!", I said.

"I don't think what would be a good idea," said Annemarie. She came to a complete stop, right in the middle of the road.

"Are you crazy?" I said.

"Stay calm and let me do the talking," she said.

The car, a drab olive green, late-model sedan, was, by now, up on the road, still driving full speed. They were heading directly for us. I was afraid that they would not stop in time and they would hit us.

The car stopped, breaks screeching, within inches of us and two men got out. A third man remained in the car. They were young men, in their mid-thirties, dressed in pale blue coveralls (no name plates or insignias) and "baseball" caps. One had sandy colored hair, the other was white-blond. The third man was in the front seat of the car, talking on the radio microphone. All wore wrap-around sunglasses.

Somehow, I knew that we might be in terrible trouble and that we were somewhere we didn't belong!

The sandy-haired man came up to the driver's side of the car; the blonde was on my side, the passenger side. He kept his right hand in his pocket at all times. I wondered if he was carrying a gun. "Good afternoon, Ladies!" said sandy-hair. "Where are you going?"

Annemarie showed him the map. "We're trying to find my property," she said, "Can you help us?"

He studied the map. "You haven't been her for a while, have you?" he said. "All of these places on the map have been removed or destroyed." He looked at the map again. "This place looks like it might be on the other side of town. Why don't you look there?" He was extremely polite, smiling all the while he spoke, yet he terrified me and Annemarie. The blonde man never spoke nor did he smile or look at me. The third man remained on the radio. (Running a "make" on Annemarie's car??)

"We'll be happy to escort you ladies back to the main road." Though it sounded like a polite suggestion it was actually an ORDER to LEAVE NOW! Annemarie said nothing, merely backed up slowly and drove back, still slowly, to our place of entrance into this "forbidden" area. The men and their car stayed close behind us and followed us for several miles. Annemarie and I did not speak during this time, I think we were too scared. Then, instead of going back to the main part of the city, she took the next freeway on-ramp and headed back home. I noticed that she kept looking in her rear-view mirror. "What's wrong?" I said.

"Someone is following us," she said.

I was too frightened to turn around so I lowered my sun-visor and looked in the vanity mirror. There, a few car lengths behind us, was another late-model sedan, medium blue in color, being driven by a man in a green overall, wearing a cap and wrap-around sunglasses. His two companions were dressed the same way.

"What do they want from us?" I asked.

"They probably want to make sure that we go back home and don't try to come back," said Annemarie. "Ken told me that he had heard about the Government using parts of that area for secret experiments," she said. "Maybe we were about to break in on one of them." Then she laughed and I joined her. It broke the tension.

They stayed with us until we were about halfway home. Then they began to back off, getting further and further away. After a while, we didn't see them anymore.

When we arrived home Annemarie dropped me off and we agreed to meet later (after we had showered and freshened up) for dinner.

At about 7:30pm she and I met at a local restaurant and we talked about our adventure. We were now curious about what had happened and wondered if we should go back or if we would be able to find the road again (we lived in the San Fernando Valley and were not at all familiar with the Antelope Valley area). We then got further into our mutual interest in UFOs. We jokingly considered the possibility that the "men" we had seen were really aliens.

We left the restaurant at about 10:30 pm. The restaurant is situated in a very busy traffic area and is also near a freeway and a very well-known and very busy motor hotel. There is constant noise and traffic at ALL HOURS. It is never quiet there.

However, this night, things were to be different! When we came out of the restaurant, the street was DESERTED! This was on a Saturday night, one of the busiest nights of the week for this restaurant! There were no cars going by, no people, no sounds of traffic. In fact, there was no sound of any kind! When Annemarie and I spoke to each other, our voices sounded hollow, far away. "I've never seen it so quiet." I said.

"Neither have I," said Annemarie.

Then, as if on command, we both looked up. There, at a level just over our heads, across the street, was a SPACECRAFT! We could not see the craft itself very clearly but it was outlined by white lights which ran all around it. It was the shape of an elongated triangle. It remained in its position for what seemed a few minutes. Then it moved away. Suddenly, as if someone had turned up the volume on a TV set, all the normal sounds returned.

We walked to our cars and Annemarie checked her watch. "Oh, my God!" she said.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"What time do you have?" she asked.

I looked at my watch and was stunned. It was 12:35 am. We had been looking at the spacecraft for 2 hours and 5 minutes?!

This was the final straw and all the fright we wanted to have for one day. We agreed never to go out to look for that "forbidden" area and Annemarie sold her property soon after this incident.

There may be more than just rumors about what is going on in the Tehachapi Mountains! We were chased away and given a good scare! Keep looking for the truth but use caution!

The Technical Division of the National UFO Museum is looking for submissions of technical papers and experiments for "The UFO Project". The UFO Project is both a publishing and research venture of the National UFO Museum to study theories and technologies of propulsion and design of craft with an eye to the possible construction of an actual working model. Papers will be considered for publication in Notes from the Hangar as well as possible future symposia. Experiments conducted in our own labs are subject to the approval of the research director. ## UFOs, The New Age, and NUFOM

by Jerry Elwood Smith

Executive Director, NUFOM

In this article I plan to outline some of the major theories of what UFOs might be, and to show a few of the interconnections between these theories and the ideas and beliefs evolving in the New Age movement, as well as discuss what NUFOM plans to do about it.

Let us start with a few definitions.

UFOlogy is the study of the UFO phenomenon with the intent to discover the true nature of what are commonly referred to as Unidentified Flying Objects.

The National UFO Museum is an effort by UFOlogists to show the general public what has been discovered to date towards the goal of unraveling the UFO mystery and to aid UFOlogy and UFOlogists in making additional discoveries.

The New Age could be described as an occult religious movement.

Religion is an English word that comes from a Latin word that could be translated as "the bond between man and god".

During the Dark Ages of Europe, religion suffered from being controlled by powerful interests that intended to keep 'the faithful' by keeping them ignorant. Part of maintaining the general ignorance of the population was the systemic murder of any person not keeping to the official line.

Yet inquiry could not be stopped, and with the Renaissance and the so-called Ages of Reason and Enlightenment the Church's ability to stifle thought began to wane.

Like the mythological creation of Eve from Adam's rib, metaphysics (as we know it today) was born from the thorn in official religion's side. Metaphysics is an investigation into natural phenomena to determine the ultimate nature of reality. Unfortunately, during the Industrial Revolution, and the birth of Science (metaphysics' kid brother), metaphysics got a bad reputation, which as persisted to this day.

Because of the brutality of the Church's suppression of heretical ideas during the Dark Ages, thinkers were forced to go underground with their thoughts. Secret Societies were formed and ideas were circulated clandestinely. Galileo, Copernicus and DeVinci are well known examples of thinkers who were forced to conceal their inquiries. The word occult comes from a Latin word meaning "to conceal". The Occult then embodies both a search for truth from hiding, and an inquiry into that which is hidden. It is simply an attempt to understand things beyond the ken of mortal man, beyond the scope of the self-limiting physical sciences. Naturally, as such, it would embrace spirits, the supernatural and things that go bump in the night, and is definitely not limited to the popular misconception of it as the province of Satanists, psychos, and charlatans. The occult also involves 'arts' and 'sciences'. Astrology is an 'occult science'.

Science comes from a Greek word meaning 'to know'. The purpose of science is the same as metaphysics, to understand the primal causes behind perceptual reality by inquiry and investigation of natural phenomena. Unfortunately, science has gone a bit off the rails and now is mostly involved in measurement and manipulation of the physical universe, leaving understanding of primal causes to a few small and rather esoteric branches, such as cosmology and quantum physics. This could well 'explain' science's inability to understand UFOs. Astronomy is the 'scientific' half-brother of astrology.

In UFOlogy we have a blending of the occult and the physical sciences. Both approaches are based on inquiry into natural phenomena to discover fundamental truth: The occult, or metaphysical, approach uses techniques radically different from those of the physical sciences, yet the goal is the same, and sometimes, the results are the same.

Truly, UFOs stand on the borderland between science and religion, between the esoteric and the exoteric, between the occult and the empiric.

So, what is a UFO?

UFOs are most commonly seen in the air, and as such can be described as Anomalous Aerial Phenomena (AAPs, which they are called in many parts of the world). UFOs are something that cannot be identified, at least by the percipient, and are usually seen, and sometimes heard and felt. They are usually sighted visually, sometimes electronically (as on radar screens) and sometimes both.

UFOs can be more than just unusual objects and lights in the sky. Witnesses have seen them land, disappear underwater and into mountains or caverns. They have been reported in the vicinity of cattle mutilations. In the early post-World War II years the occupants of UFOs were reported to be making friendly contacts with humans, even inviting them to go 'joy riding' with them around the Solar System. In recent years the contacts have turned ugly and a growing number of Earth humans report being kidnaped and 'examined' by terrifying aliens.

In 1978 a Gallup Poll discovered that some 15 million Americans had seen UFOs. That was over a decade ago, how many millions of sightings more there have been since, we can only guess. Worldwide, perhaps as many as hundreds of millions of sightings and close encounters have occurred in this century alone. And if you study the evidence from before the term 'flying saucer' was coined in 1947, it would seem that contact with beings from space goes back in time as far as one cares to look. Indeed, Zecharia Sitchin claims the phenomena to go back at least 300,000 years!

Clearly, if you have seen a UFO you are not alone! But are they real?

One thought provoking question I like to ask is: "How real is Mickey Mouse?" Everyone knows Mickey Mouse isn't real, and yet the Disney Corporation is making millions, if not billions of dollars off of 'him', and children around the world recognize Mickey Mouse in an instant. So, how real is real? Is it possible that our fundamental understanding of reality, of lack of it, might be at the very heart of discovering the 'reality' of UFOs?

All these millions of people (and sometimes their instruments) who have seen UFOs are seeing, detecting, perceiving something, and that something makes UFOs real, in at least some sense. But real what, is of course the question that UFOlogy is trying to answer.

In part, it is the attempt to answer that question, to make a guess, a theory or hypotheses as to what UFOs are, and to gather evidence to prove or disprove those guesses that makes UFOlogy what it is today. To be sure UFOlogy as other parts; personalities and cults, thrill-seekers, nut-cases and get-rich-quicksters, but I'll try to mention them as little as possible in this article.

The most commonly held theory, in North America, is that UFOs are spaceships from some other planet, some other star. This is called the Extraterrestrial Hypothesis, or ETH, and is by no means the only theory, nor necessarily even the best, just the most widely held; and the one most often seen on TV. I should point out that the ETH is not the most commonly held theory in Europe currently.

So, what are these other theories?

Since the question of "Where do UFOs come from?" seems to be a universally asked one, let us break UFO theories down on the basis of possible origin. This gives us two broad categories; Terrestrial, and Extraterrestrial.

The Terrestrial Hypotheses

Let us start by examining the theories that suggest that UFOs come from this Earth, the Terrestrial Hypotheses. A list of the basic theories in this category might read:

- Misidentification
- Hoaxes
- Natural Phenomena
- Machines
- Psychic Phenomena, Hysteria, and Hallucination
- Living Creatures
- God, Angels and Demons, and Spiritual Beings.

Even if we give Earth as the answer to "where?" we still have two other possibilities:

Which? UFOs might originate on Earth, but on a different Earth in a parallel dimension, or another universe, or one that vibrates, or resonates, at a different frequency or harmonic than this one;

When? UFOs could be time travelers, visitors from our future, or even our past.

And even the question of "where?" is not complete... Do the UFOs come from the surface of the Earth... from the USA? the USSR? from hidden underground bases? Who's bases? Nazis? joint alien/human? Atlanteans? Or even, do they come from even further below the surface, from inside the Hollow Earth?

Let us tackle these in that order...

Misidentification. This theory is, or has been, very popular with the UFO debunkers, the news media, and the government. According to some debunkers, the planet Venus is the most commonly spotted 'UFO'. The famous Roswell, New Mexico saucer crash case was dismissed by the government as being a weather balloon. I am sure many of us have seen satellites and wondered what they were... Unfortunately for the debunkers, while this explanation can certainly rule out many sightings, it cannot by any stretch of the imagination rule them all out. A very great number of UFO sightings have been made by trained, professional observers, such as pilots, radarmen, weathermen, military spotters, etc., whose jobs, and even their lives, depend on correct analysis of aerial phenomena.

Hoaxes. The sheer number of sightings makes it ridiculous to suppose that more than a very small percentage of total UFO sightings could have been deliberate hoaxes. Still, it must be admitted that hoaxes, like misidentification, does, in fact, account some UFO sightings.

Natural Phenomena, Hysteria and Hallucination. This too is a category much beloved by the debunkers. We have all heard the stories of 'ball lightning' and 'swamp gas' as explanations. And yet, recently top UFOlogists have come forward with some very interesting, and appealing, natural phenomena explanations as well. One such theory is called the Tectonic Strain Theory (TST). It was first formulated from the work of Canadian psychologist, Michael Persinger, who found that when he compared the times and locations of UFO sightings with those of active fault lines/seismic areas he discovered a greater than 70% correlation. This suggested that the Earth gives off some kind of energy, possibly electromagnetic in nature, at certain locations and at certain times, caused by geological or geophysical processes, and can be detected at the Earth's surface as visible or radar-active phenomena. Paul Devereux, of England, expanded on this theory, calling it the Earth-Lights Theory (ELT). In his book Earth Lights he examines several types of Earth Lights, such as 'earthquake lights' (EQL) and 'mountain peak discharge' (MPD). Persinger has gone on to experiment with the effects of electromagnetic radiation (EMR) on the brain/consciousness with startling results.

Machines. Another popular theory in both the press and among skeptical UFOlogists, is the Advanced Aircraft Hypotheses (AAH). UFOs could well be advanced secret military aircraft being put through their paces. Of course that opens us up to the question, "Us, or theirs?". And if the objects seen in our skies are not the latest in our government's secret research, who's are they? Some speculate that some sightings were of Nazi disk shaped aircraft. Many authorities have stated that the Nazis did have operational flying disks at the end of the war and that some of them may have continued in operation after the war's end, either controlled by us, the Russians, or even escaped Nazis! Perhaps an even 'further out' theory was expressed by David Hatcher Childress in his book Vimana Aircraft of Ancient India & Atlantis. In it he speculates that some of the modern UFO sightings might actually be aircraft from the ancient Rama (of India) and Atlantean civilizations! Could it be that these ancient vehicles could have survived thousands of years in secret 'hangars' inside hollowed out mountains and under monasteries in the Orient, or inside desert and jungle hideaways? And if you think that is a wild idea... Many within the New Age movement believe that the Earth is actually hollow and that there is a civilization residing within the Earth that is far more advanced than ours, and who are watching us through their 'UFOs'.

Psychic Phenomena. We know that the mind can act like a radio or television and transmit electromagnetic radiation (EMR). Recent research seems to confirm that the mind receives EMR as well. A moment spent leafing through any New Age magazine or catalog with reveal dozens of 'instant meditation' and 'brain boost' devices that effect the mind/brain/consciousness of the individual by transmitting various types of EMR to the brain. Dr. Persinger, mentioned above, has discovered that when test subjects have their brains irradiated with EMR they experience what they believe to be real events, including abduction and examination by aliens--events that only occurred in their own minds! It has been amply demonstrated that electromagnetic disturbances are a common part of UFO experiences; car engines stop, radar is disrupted, and so on. Something in these encounters certainly appears to be emitting a lot of EMR. What does all the EMR do to the human brain? How much of the event is actual, and how much hallucination? If any is hallucination then we are going to need more than just eye witness accounts to crack the UFO mystery! Or another angle... is telepathy a reality? Could it be that we are 'reading the minds' of beings elsewhere and reinterpreting the experience as a visual sighting? And what about the theories of mass hallucination that debunkers have proposed over the years? Could it really be 'all in our heads'? Carl Jung, the eminent psychologist, was fascinated by UFOs at the end of his life. He proposed that the UFO phenomenon came about as a 'control system' of the collective unconscious, a safety valve, as it were for the shared 'subconscious' of the whole human race. The other day I had a lady drop into the NUFOM office and insist that, while she believed that some UFOs were 'real', she insisted that most sightings were from people doing too much drugs!

Living Creatures. James Trevor Constable has put forth a most remarkable theory, complete with photographic evidence, that there are giant, ameba-shaped 'critters' (as he calls them) alive, in a plasma state, in the atmosphere! Another variation on the explanation of 'Aliens' is that they are not alien at all. The reptoid 'greys', it is told, are natives of this planet, descendants of the dinosaurs, long-lived creatures who have watched us from places of hiding as we, homo sapiens, stole this planet from them. Some say that they were forced to leave this planet millennia ago and have now come back to reclaim what was once theirs. And perhaps wildest of all, it has been suggested that it is we, homo sap, that is the alien! Zecharia Sitchin, et all, have stated that mankind was genetically engineered by another species hundreds of thousands of years ago, and only by their mischance have we escaped from bondage to our original creators. This would explain the 'missing link' between man and the other primates, for there could be no evolutionary link if we were grown from vats!

God, Angels and Demons, and Spiritual Beings. Many among us have seen the UFO phenomenon in a Biblical light. Even Billy Graham as written on UFOs, describing them as being Angels and Devils in clever modern disguises. Other believe that Jesus will return in a UFO! Among the New Agers there are many who have channeled entities who claim to be aboard spaceships, orbiting observatories, and the like, and who are part of a spiritual guiding force here to aid mankind into evolving into a higher state, or dimension, or vibratory plain. Some of these entities claim they were once Earth humans who evolved to the higher state that they are transmitting from. Others say they came here from other planets, or other universes or dimensions, to help with this stage of Mankind's evolution. It is said that the Earth, currently in the third dimension, is about to shift into the fourth dimension and these beings are our 'spiritual mid-wives'.

Which? There are many people, particular those of a 'psychedelic' bent, who have noticed that the universe seems full of cycles, frequencies, harmonics... and have suggested that there might be other worlds, other universes, other plains of existence where the inhabitants 'vibrate' at lesser or greater 'densities', whose frequencies do not quite match ours. If so, it is possible that they achieved a technology, either of mind or spirit or machine, whereby they can 'retune' themselves to perceive or be perceived on this plain. Crystals, it is said in New Age circles, operate on many frequencies and when activated properly allow one to view, or receive data or messages, from these other realms. Quantum Physics, the science that deals with events below the atomic level, has several similar theories. One is the Many Worlds Theory (MWT). The MWT, as I understand it, postulates that new universes are constantly being created. Each time an event occurs that could go one way or the other, they go both, creating infinite parallel worlds. It has been said that pyramids tap this theory, that they are doorways or energy devices, between the many worlds. Theories about such places as the Devil's Triangle suggest that displacements can occur, that rips might appear in the fabric of the universe as it were, and transport objects from one world, one reality, to another.

When? Some UFO researchers, such as Whitley Strieber in his book Communion, have speculated that the 'visitors', as Strieber calls them, might be time travelers. Is it possible that a culture in our future is coming back as research scientists, or tourists, to check us out? Strieber goes on to envision a possibility of combining space travel with time travel. A ship arrives at the Earth from some distant star, to learn as much about this new world is the shortest possible time they break out their time ships and begin visiting many different eras and epochs of this world all at once. This, he wrote, would explain why it is that they seem to have been flitting about the skies of Earth since the earliest of times and yet today seem to know nothing about us.

So you see, there is a lot more to UFO theories than just little green men from Mars! Which brings us to...

The Extraterrestrial Hypotheses

We have already touched on some of the possibilities above. It would seem that these objects, if they truly originate from another world could be expressed as:

- 1) Solid 'nuts and bolts' spacecraft; fully physically 'there'.
- 2) Psychic projections; the mind of the alien has arrived at Earth only, but there is nothing physically 'there'.
- 3) A combination of the above; projections, or 'beams', that are both 'there' and 'not there' at the same time; a technology that we can only vaguely imagine.

Or, of course, the truth might be a combination of one or more of the terrestrial with one or more of the extraterrestrial theories; e.g. Strieber's space and time ship. That certainly gives us a lot of room for conjecture!

THE SHAMAN PAPERS

HC 89 Box 451, WILLOW, AK 99688-9705

As I stated at the beginning of this article, 'nuts and bolts spacecraft' is the theory best know, and easiest understood, by the general public in America today. And yes, there is indeed a considerable body of 'evidence' to support it, in spite of the debunkers best efforts. Anyone who has followed UFOlogy to any degree in America has at least heard stories of flying saucer landings and crashes around the country, not to mention abductions or Close Encounters of the Third Kind. A closer examination reveals a tremendous body of evidence to support that some kind of physical contact is taking place. And yet... As Jacques Vallee points out, the sheer volume of sightings, tens, if not hundreds, of millions of 'events' makes it quite impossible for a nuts and bolts theory to answer for the whole of the UFO phenomena. Let's face it, if alien spacecraft had set down on this planet a billion time in this century, we would be up to our armpits in the little buggers!

And so... we have seen that there are quite a few theories that attempt to explain the UFO phenomenon. For nearly every theory there is evidence to support it, and equally, there is logic, and/or evidence to refute it. So where does this leave us? Perhaps no one theory answers all the evidence because several different and disrelated 'things' are going on here! Maybe there are a few nuts and bolts craft sneaking in under cover of a smoke screen of secret government aircraft testing. Perhaps there are giant single-cell animals living in the air, and too, perhaps the Earth does emit brain effecting doses of EMR on occasion. Could it be that all these different things are going on at once, mixing and muddling the evidence? Perhaps only time, and careful research, will tell...

What role will NUFOM take in resolving the UFO mystery? We plan to construct exhibits detailing and explaining the above theories, as well as spotlighting some of the top 'stories' and personalities in UFOlogy, past and present. We are planning exhibits that will help the general public realize that there is more to UFOs that meets the eye or is covered on tabloid television. We intend that our exhibits will help people to actually think about the UFO problem, not just react. I think you agree that that would be a pretty good start. We will also continue to publish unbiased coverage of the full spectrum of UFOlogy in hopes of greater discussion and idea exchange within the UFO community. Our book store and gift shop catalog will cover the broadest possible spectrum of UFO, New Age and alternative technology publications possible to promote thinking and consideration. We will engage in our own original research and networking with other researchers. And on and on and on...

What can you do? NUFOM needs your help in realizing our goals. We need volunteers both here in the Reno area and across the nation and around the world. We need people who will help us in research, investigation, compilation, construction, design, distribution, and acquisitions. And as much as we loath mentioning it, we need money. I am sure you are aware that rent and paint and postage need to be paid for. NUFOM does not receive a penny from the government or from big business. That's why we need you financial help as well. If you have any spare time, or cash, speak up; yours could be the deciding voice. Your actions do have an effect, what you do in this quest to discover the secrets of UFOs will have an impact on the field, and possibly on the future for generations to come. Many of you have already rolled up you sleeves and gotten to work, either through supporting NUFOM or participating in other UFO groups or research, and for that our hats are off to you! If you can do more we deeply appreciate it, and if not, we do understand. For those of you to whom UFOlogy is new, and for those of you who have just discovered NUFOM, "Hello!", and "here's your shovel, start diggin'!" Need I say more?
