BOB BUCK SHARES LINDA MOULTON HOWE INTERVIEW

The lucky people attending the 2 p.m. meeting of the UFO Study Group of Greater Saint Louis, Inc. Sunday, January 13, 2002 at Grone Cafeteria, Yorkshire Plaza, Watson at Laclede Station Road will get new insight into UFOlogy and crop designs. Bob Buck, longtime member of UFOSG and a cinematographer with an international reputation for excellence, will introduce his video interview of Linda Moulton Howe recorded at the 2001 Eureka Springs UFO Conference. Her vast experience investigating UFO evidence correlates with crop designs, parapsychology and even mythology. Miss Howe's books and lectures always stimulate widespread interest.

The Howe interview – about 40 minutes long – deals with several subjects developed on Linda's "Earthfiles" website. She will discuss the Susquatch-Bigfoot controversy and the differences between cattle mutilations and evidence of Chupacabra attacks. In her very informative discussion, she reveals subject matter more deeply than in her usual lecture. Since Bob Buck has helped research Chupacabra attacks in the Caribbean islands, his insight will add a lot to the Study Group discussion.

Bob has had a lifelong interest in the UFO phenomenon. Over a period of time, he witnessed several strange aerial objects, one at close range: all still unidentified! As a researcher into the unexplained and aspects of dimensionality, Bob took part in an expedition to Puerto Rico as videographer for Gryphon Productions, Inc. "Beyond Boundaries", the resulting documentary on the Chupacabra will be aired on The Learning Channel in spring or early summer. Watch for its scheduled time in your TV guide.

Because the UFOSG Board recognizes your interest in Miss Howe and her special efforts to identify and interpret crop designs and analyze animal mutilation theories, Linda's first documentary, "Alien Harvest" will be shown if the interview discussion time allows.

Bring a friend to enjoy the delicious and affordable Grone cuisine and then share in the stimulating UFO Study Group program absolutely free. We have nothing to sell but the concept, "The truth is out there." The writer-producer of the X-files got his theme here! You certainly won't leave without learning something worth sharing publicly.

Report Of Chemtrails Sprayed At Extreme Low Altitude At Night

pointmanusa@yahoo.com
12-6-1

What I am about to say happened once before -at extremely low altitude-a few years ago in broad daylight. I have not seen anything like it until last night. That means they are spraying chem-trails very close to the ground at night so nobody can see them.

I was working out in a shed on the farm late last night. It was a starlit night in a black sky. I was listening to the Rick Wiles 'American Freedom News.com' shortwave radio show about an interview he has on tape with top Russian government economists and Pravda saying secret occult societies are trying to destroy the U.S. economy to rule the world for the NWO European 'power-elite 'super bankers.

All of the sudden heard a low flying jet plane over head. This was highly unusual for out here. I ran out saw, and videotaped, a white streak behind the plane.

The streak came from the northern horizon to almost two thirds across the sky and the streak stopped suddenly. It went directly overhead and straight over Interstate I-77 in north-western West Virginia. It was as wide as two of your fists held up at arms length.

If it were a contrail-instead of a chemical trail-the planes engines would be off and the plane would have crashed. It was only 3000 to 6000 feet in the air. I am at 2000 ft.above sea level-mountains on the other side of the state are up to 5000 ft.

It should have crashed because the trail ended and it stayed at the same altitude as it went over the horizon.

The spray feathered out -fanned out-and spread clean to the east and western horizons in 30 min. or so. Then, it broke up into patches that fell to the ground within an hour.

Today, I am sick with burning lungs, runny nose, fever, flu-like symptoms - I'm shaking all over and it is hard to breathe .

If this stuff is for special HAARP, or Army radio communications techniques, they could do it overseas - besides, they only had one hour to test and it was on the ground.

If this is supposed to be for protecting us from the sun's ultra-violet rays -the ozone problem- then it certainly did not stay up there very long -1 hour - and the sun would not come up for 7 more hours anyhow.

So, this is for one of two things. One, there is some kind of disease killing the trees and they are trying to 'save nature'.

Or, they are trying to 'save nature' by eliminating people-exactly what is on the Masonic Georgia Guide Stones - in Elbert County, GA., spoke of at World Forum meetings and in the UN manuals.

I think this is Part "A" of the Killer Formula. Part "B" is either in present inoculations or will be in your drinking water in the future or in mandatory small pox or flu vaccinations in the future.

There is a possibility they will apprehend 'subversives' - or 'belligerents' as the Army 's new POW manual calls them - to the New World Order by putting them into these Army Civilian Detention Centers and inoculate them there for mass extermination.

The spray itself is dangerous and a killer as it is to some of the elderly and to people with asthma and I think it is also the cause of fibromyalgia.

I have a smell in my nose like being in a house with dirty carpet - like animals have run all over it.

Hence, the deadly spraying is at night and they are using it to kill us all off - PERIOD! Any other excuse is rubbish!

So, go back to your TV shows, and games, fatten yourselves up for the killing fields-like pigs moments before the slaughter. But, just every once and awhile take a brake from your teevee and look around at your kids then wonder if what I said here is just another yelp from some fatalistic alarmist consumed by conspiracy theories.

SURVEY REPORT: YOUR VIEW OF UFO INFLUENCES, Part 1

by John E. Schroeder

Seven of the 38 people who attended the UFO Study Group of Greater St. Louis meeting Nov. 11, 2001 agreed to submit written survey forms for analysis in this ENIGMA article. Many more who had completed the questionnaire "Has The UFO Experience Changed You?" shared their views openly on Nov. 11. To maintain essential privacy, statements quoted will not be attributed to their authors. We will keep editing of quotes at a minimum, but reserve our right to comment in italics. Have fun looking in this small-sample mirror of Study Group opinion.

How has the UFO Experience Influenced Your World-view? "Enlarged it." "Not really changed it, but expanded it." "Mine is more of a 'Cosmos View.'" "Yes, through a gradual evolution to higher levels of awareness." "It has made me more suspicious of our government and world leadership controlling our media." "I've been made more aware of powerful spiritual forces – good and evil – battling for control of individuals and nations." "I don't trust people. There is more to be known than is known. Lies are taught as real! Personal beliefs matter." Most of these ideas were expressed in other words by those attending the November meeting. The Study of UFOs apparently has made a significant contribution to the views of those willing to join a UFO related organization.

Influenced education? "Masters in counseling." "I'm more interested in science." "Yes, in its direction, but not in employment." "No, usual high school and some college." "Science and good ecological practices to improve the human condition became a major focus for study and action; for example, creation of one of the first clean water campaigns field tested by the U.S. Department of Agriculture." The "save-the-planet" emphasis apparently introduced to many abductees by aliens seems to carry over to their "good guy image" as interpreted by attendees.

Altered perception of reality? "Fluid." "No." "I always knew there was more here." "Yes, to look at my reality in a new light, different from the status quo." "Experiencing cosmic phenomena alters one's perception." "My perception of reality is continually challenged – learning more." Again, abduction experiencers – which some of the respondees may be – often claim that aliens teach lessons which alter humans' concepts of reality.

Has UFO experience changed you internally? "Not sure." "I know better than to talk about some things." "...to increase my interest in them." "It has made me more spiritual, connecting to a higher awareness." "No change." "Yes. I don't like to remember my dreams." "I have greater respect for God as creator and Christ as my redeeming Savior." Often spiritual responses are apparent before questions of religion are asked.

Relationships with family? "Not applicable." "Not if I don't talk about it." "Similar experiences with family members." "Some do not accept my involvement." "Wife and some children accept -- only one other relative overrides the wall of silence." "Relationships strained." Strained relationships with relatives – higher than national divorce rate among abductees – are commonly reported among UFO experiencers. Some see: others don't!

Friends? "I shared with several." "Same – if silent." "Closer to other experiencers." "Some are supportive. Work relationships do not accept involvement." "Friendships strained or broken. With others – difficult." "Distant due to their lack of understanding." "Even one close family admitted, 'If we hadn't known you as an honest, dependable friend for decades, we'd have thought you were crazy.'" Is the public just reacting to the blackout of UFO news reports, the ridicule aspect, disinformation or the fact they simply have not had similar experiences? How many vote, "All of the above"?

Matters of faith and religion? "I've expanded." "It reinforces my faith and religion." "I accept that God created 'aliens' as well as human beings. We're all brothers and sisters." "I'm more spiritual but less religious due to its control of individual thinking." "Some ultra-conservative Christian denominations teach that anyone with a UFO experience is demonic. However, comparing scripture as a basis for faith, the sum of my experiences affirms the reality of God, His almighty power, the blessing in His purposes and the gracious mercy in His forgiveness of sinners like us." "I am more spiritual." "Faith and religion – central in that these circumstances have caused my search." No single sentence in a survey can encapsulate religious faith or experience. Unique to each person!

New 'Super Area 51' Said Being Built In Colorado

Jeff...

Reliable sources have informed me that the technology once quartered at Area 51 was - in part - relocated to Albuquerque, New Mexico. Albuquerque is home to fusion research accelerators and technology developed by the Russians in the 80's called "Psychotronics" (PT).

Psychotronics are a combination of Low Frequency and High Frequency waves beamed into the atmosphere at high power levels. The Russians experimented with these waves during the 80's and found them to be very effective but uncontrollable. Psychotronics is equivalent to "Electronic LSD" in that brain waves are scrambled causing mass hallucinations amongst personnel where the PT is concentrated.

We stole the technology and the US has a ground site antenna array known as HAARP located in the remote reaches of Alaska where they have been conducting experiments for the past 4 years. Mobile airborne devices equipped with PT devices are operating out of the Albuquerque secure site. My source says the PT technology along with other "Black Ops" projects are scheduled to be co-located at a new site under construction at the Colorado - New Mexico border just off the main highway linking Albuquerque to Denver. Denver is the geo location for the Air Force Academy with Colorado Springs being the local version of "Silicon Valley". SAIC and others maintain a well entrenched presence there.

The new site under construction is underground with little or no visible above ground evidence. A PT HAARP-type array now in Alaska is scheduled to be installed in a surrounding wilderness area close to the new site.

By way of proof I was given: consult the <http://www.geo.ed.ac.uk/quakexe/quakes> history of earthquakes occurring in this border region during the months of June - August of this year (The USGS provides a history of earthquakes that will list the following): We see a series of quakes always occurring around 10 AM with an exact depth of 5 Kilometers at exactly the same magnitude (3.4M) at the same precise location. When the World Trade Towers collapsed, a 2.1 tremor was recorded, so a 3.4 is more than 10 times greater.

Considering the exact depth, magnitude and frequency of these quakes, we conclude they are definitely manmade. No known mining occurs at this depth, at least nothing that would require such extensive blastings. My sources are attached to the project and will update as work progresses.

Here is the updated USGS data for earthquakes in this region as per the above story. It appears to be centered in the Reston, Colorado area off Highway 25.

The Link for this data is:

New Super Area 51: Under Construction - Update

USGS Site Update

Jeff - For some reason the link to the USGS no longer works. Your readers can type USGS in the explorer bar and the site will come up (Keyword USGS). They must do a "Circular Search" in a 200 mile radius of latitude 37 and Longitude 104. The list of quakes will be displayed.

NORWAY FALLING STAR UFO?

INDERØY, NORD-TRØNDELAGE – On September 17, 2001, the witness was watching TV, and decided to take a smoke outdoors at 12:20 AM, when suddenly a falling-star-like thing fell to the ground or passed by. I don't know how far away, but I didn't seem like it was a falling star, it was too fast for that. I also heard a high-frequency sound. I wonder if it could be a little meteor? Thanks to Peter B. Davenport, Director National UFO Reporting Center

BYELORUSSIA LIGHT SPHERE UFO

MOGILEV -- This last summer was rich for UFO sightings in Byelorussia. On August 24, 2001, between 11 and 12:00 PM many people saw something very strange in Mogilev, the third biggest Byelorussian City. A strange object the size of the Moon was seen at two kilometers altitude. The shape was like a mushroom lying on its side. It gave out a bright yellow light, sparkling and shining. Later moving red and green lights appeared inside the object and very soon it turned into real fireworks. Many light spots were moving into and out of the object as it changed shape for about six minutes. Finally it turned "orange," but green and red lights remained. The "orange" disappeared, then appeared again in another place, and moved slowly to the west. It vanished again and appeared as a bright star several times.

BULDUK LAKE -- Pavel Zayats, a well-known Byelorussian musician, and his girlfriend Ira Zapolskaya, saw a strange shining sphere over Bulduk Lake on September 1, 2001. This is one of the systems of the Blue Lakes -- a unique natural reservation, with untouched woods and deep clean lakes north of Belarus. Pavel says, "About 4:00 AM, I woke up because of a strange terror inside of me and knew something was wrong. Through the window I saw a light that turned into two rays as if someone moved to the cabin with handy electric lights. I was scared. I went outside and stood awestruck by image of a two meters across, light sphere hanging above the ground in the trees. Many small light balls were flying around the sphere. I shouted and woke up Ira and we watched for twenty minutes. Then the sphere slowly merged into the two rays of light again and disappeared. A neighbor woman told me that she had seen a similar phenomenon and it is dangerous and will drive you mad. I noticed later in the day there was sparkling lights in our cabin." Note: Bulduk Lake is well-known for strange fish or animals with six meter humps. NEW JERSEY 2ND CYLINDER SIGHTING

SEA BRIGHT – Peter Tarlton reports he was on the coast about four miles as the crow flies to New York City. He writes, "I witnessed an illuminated/energized silver/mercury 300'+ cylinder at about 1850 feet in altitude, on September 15, 2001, at 3:30 PM, the second in two weeks. The cylinder appeared and disappeared in the exact location in the sky as the first one on August 21. I watched for an additional 3 minutes to insure it was a NOT a commercial craft nor a silver reflection in the sun. There is little or no air traffic in this area, sadly, making ideal viewing. May we be further guided by our wisdom to enlightened actions; perhaps they will then let their presence be truly known. Thanks to Peter Tarlton. banastre2000@yahoo.com

ORANGE -- On September 13, 2001, the witness saw a craft rising at a fast speed and saw a light being emitted from its base. I am in North New Jersey and on Thursday evening, September 13, 2001, at about 9:00 PM, I was at a party for a retiring colleague. I was outside using my cell phone when I heard something overhead. All three-area airports were closed and no planes were supposed to be in the air. I looked up and saw a circular light ascending to the heavens then disappear. Did any other members in the NY area see this too?

GARDEN CITY PARK – After a long and very tragic week here in the NYC area, I feel compelled to watch our skies more vigilant. With commercial air traffic stopped for 3 days, the skies were sadly quite. I do not wish to add to the current state of confusion, but feel I must note any strangeness in the skies around New York City.

On Sunday, September 16, 2001, I saw what I thought could be a Mylar balloon or satellite at high altitude at 3:30 PM. The size of the object was 1/3 the size of a marble held at arm's length. It was rock steady showing no movement and no discernible shape. It was highly reflective of bright sunlight at about 20,000 feet. A full size commercial jet appeared as large as a marble at arm's length, but at only 1/2 the objects altitude. I was at the Garden City Long Island railroad station, facing east and walked my children home. During our 15 minute walk the object did not move so I got my binoculars and saw the object was over Mitchell Field in Uniondale, 22 miles from New York City. My friend and I both used the binoculars, and feel this object did not look and more importantly did not act like a balloon. I ran into the house and went online for an AOL weather report. I next ran to the local grocery store and brought 3 chrome look Mylar balloons. The object was east of us but held steady. When we released the Mylar balloons they followed the winds to the south, 45 degrees away from the object. I should also note the balloons had nowhere near the same reflectivity as they twisted and turned on their accent, with an occasional flash of sunlight, similar to a camera's flashbulb. In addition, the balloons I released stayed low in the horizon, and went no higher than 25 degrees. I feel confident this was no balloon or satellite and will be even more vigilant of our great cities skies. Thanks to Peter Davenport

ENGLAND UFO SIGHTINGS

BRIDGEWATER, SOMERSET – On or about August 19, 2001, a flying triangle shape object pointing towards earth and circle shape on top with alternating red, blue and green lights was seen at 11:45 PM. It was silent and rotated in front of my car, then flew off and hovered for roughly an hour above a small village called Brent Knowle. It is here that 3 witnesses including myself, observed the UFO with binoculars. Broken clouds started to form in the distance and gradually our vision was limited until after the last bit of cloud passed we looked back to see that it wasn't there.

PITCASTLE, PERTSHIRE -- Gordon Mac Gregor reports, "We had just finished entertaining guests at Pitcastle House on August 24, 2001, and were set to leave when David's phone rang. During his conversation, I scanned the sky, and saw two star-like objects moving at speed towards the south at 11:30 PM. I showed then to David while he was still on the phone. As we watched, he noticed another farther to the north traveling in an up and down manner and glowing brighter. It also seemed to be spinning, went up and down and often moved across. It sometimes moved in a 'jerky' fashion. To our surprise, it would seem to flash and was 'answered' by flashes from others star like objects at differing points in the sky. Suddenly, after around 30 minutes, immediately below the main object there was a sudden streak of light into which one of these star-like objects moved at immense speed. The light was extremely similar to the 'worm hole' depicted in the program Deep Space Nine. The light had almost a tunneling effect and came from know where, immediately closing when the object had passed through. We were astounded at this. Two minutes later the main object rose higher and higher and shot off upwards. Thanks to Gordon MacGregor

GRIMSBY – On September 8, 2001, a telephone call alerted me to the strange sighting of a ball bearing shaped silver ball traveling in the skies over the East Coast of the United Kingdom. Mr. H. D., who lives near Grimsby on the East coast of the United Kingdom, telephoned on Monday evening to discuss this unusual sighting. Mr. H. D. who is ex R.A.F. said the silver object was as big as a 5 pence coin held at arm's length, as it traveled from a WNW direction. The object passed directly over him; "It was perfectly round with what looked like extremely small stubby wings just protruding from its circular body." He continued, "The object sped past me at least four times faster than a Jumbo Jet. It crossed from horizon to horizon in a matter of seven seconds. I was a complete skeptic until I saw this, but now am convinced of the existence of UFO's. As the local radio, weather watcher I am constantly checking the skies and I know what I saw was something strange." Thanks to Chris Evers www.hufos1.karoo.net Faster Than Light Web Site

Woman's ET Missing Time Yields 20 Years Of Paranormal Activity

From Karen Lyster
zblue@ihug.co.nz
8-9-1

Since this piece below appeared in the latest 'Filers Files', I have been inundated with people wishing to know the full story. I've now put it up on the site for those interested to read. It contains my own personal encounter which details a large amount of Missing Time, direct Encounters with ET/Alien Beings, Object Manipulation, Paranormal Activity, etc.

MISSING TIME - ON BOARD A UFO (Part Two)

I remember sitting there with my eyes wide open and all that came out was a very breathy "WOW". I quickly explained to the girls what had happened at the Hotel on the Friday night - how I'd seen this very bright light in the sky coming closer and closer to me and then how the next memory I had was or waking up in bed to the cleaner coming through the door on the Sunday morning!!

By now everyone was just as wide-eyed as I was and wanted to know everything that I had remembered about what happened. So without hesitation I started to blurt out the series of events at such a speed that it was almost like I felt that if I didn't get it "out" it just might disappear from my mind again! The very first thing I remembered was that one second I had been sitting in the chair watching the light and the next moment I was aboard something that looked like a spacecraft. Immediately ahead of me where a bunch of people... Remember this happened in an instant so I was in a state of utter shock to find myself in this position, I was terrified, disorientated and like a cornered rabbit as I found myself standing there facing these people ... I had no idea how got there, no idea who these people were.

There were two men and three women - the men were the closest to me, and the women were just a few feet behind them, standing more or less side by side. In hindsight they didn't look menacing at all, in fact they were the most beautiful people I'd ever seen. They all had yet black hair, and the most pearl/blue piecing eyes I'd ever seen, their skin was extremely pale and their complexions flawless... But just because they were good looking didn't mean they weren't out to "get me", so when I realised that I had my bag with me I dived into it and grabbed hold of a large pair of scissors that I always carried around with me. I dropped the bag to the floor and held the scissors in both hands straight out in front of me ... this was the only weapon I had and by god I was going to use it if they came any closer to me. I then said in the most authoritative manner that I could muster "don't come near me, don't come any closer" "I'll use this, I swear I will", "don't come any closer". But instead of getting the desired result in having them take me as a serious threat to their well being as I was hoping to relay.

The man nearest me merely smiled... it was the kind of smile you give to a child when it's being naughty and you know it's trying to understand a situation that is beyond it... Still smiling that warm, gentle smile, he then very slowly began to raise his arm until it was straight out in front of him.... then he simply raised his hand so that his palm was straight out in front of me... I couldn't believe my eyes... the scissors which I was holding out were only a few feet away from the palm of his hand and as if they were melting, I watched in amazement as each part of the scissor ends started to roll back in a curling motion... I could not believe what I was witnessing! They kept on curling until they were both wound up in the tightest curl you could imagine... my "weapon" no longer existed... they had made their strength obvious to me and I realised it was pointless to continue holding up the now completely malformed scissors... I remember the thought "well I'm going to keep these!!" flashing through my mind so I quickly bend down and shoved them into my bag... "they would be safe there I thought" ... boy I wanted to keep them! With that safely tucked away I stood up and again faced the man who had totally annihilated my "weapon".

They all looked rather amused really, which made me slightly pissed off... I mean chuck them in a strange place with strange people and see how they'd react. The man closest to me was the only one to speak. He said "don't worry we're not here to hurt you... we only need to look at something" "there is no need to worry, you will be alright, I promise". At that moment I resigned myself to the situation.... besides there was absolutely nothing that I could do about it anyway - so I thought I might as well try to calm down and just deal with it. After all, they looked harmless enough I blurted out all kinds of questions to which I got very few answers "who are you?" "how did I get here" "what do you want with me" "WHO ARE YOU?"

The only one who spoke to me was the same guy who was the nearest to me. He said "don't worry about it, you won't be here long, you don't need to worry about all of that". Ummm well pardon me for asking!! I was quite annoyed at being brushed off so quickly but I could see that he had no intention of explaining anything to me so I asked "you said you need to look at something, what is it, what do YOU WANT?". With that he said "we just need to look at your hands"... well I really thought that was stupid... what on earth could they possibly want to look at my hands for. Sounds absurd to me! With the puzzled look on my face his smile seemed to deepen (well I'm glad he finds it amusing because I sure as hell don't). He then gestured for me to follow him as he moved up past me along what I can only describe as a corridor that had a slight elevation upside... he only went about 10 feet and stopped pointing to the left where there was an alcove. It wasn't a room, just an indentation off from the corridor. There was a little machine there that had what looked like a mirrored surface - it was about 2 foot by 2 foot. He asked me to place my hands on top of the machine as he needed to get a record. This time it was me who was amused.... I come all this way, am on some kind of spaceship and all they want to do is photocopy my hands LOL!. But I did as he asked and placed my palms on the mirrored surface.. as expected it felt just like a mirror, quite cold to the touch and very smooth. He didn't need to press anything as the machine breathed life the moment I'd got both hands pressed down onto it. After only a few seconds he said they had what they needed and for me to take my hands off and please wait there.

He then walked back down the corridor and I stepped back out also but stayed where I was, not walking the few feet to where the others were. He had something in his hands I gathered was the image of my palms and they gathered round as they showed them all. They seemed to get extremely excited about something, and kept pointing to the small flat dark image he had in his hand. I wondered what on earth was causing so much fuss and had a quick look at my palms... no nothing weird there! Years later when I first visited a palmist I found out that I indeed did have a very unusual marking in the centre of my right hand. It is a point that has six lines that interceded all in the centre, creating a perfect cross in the dead centre of my palm. It is like the Star of David. After looking at it for a few moments the man looked back at me and again gestured for me to follow him. This time we went further along the corridor, probably about 50 feet or so, and as it was in a spiral we soon left the other people behind as we walking onwards, up and around. He stopped beside a room that was off to the right and told me please wait there, they would be sending me home soon. So I entered the room and he left me completely alone.

The room was the oddest shape I've ever seen, the best I can describe it is that it was like half a diamond, with slanting walls and ceiling. To one side of the curved room there was a place to sit down which I did. There was nothing much to look at there, no windows, and the entire room was a very odd red/rust colour which I found quite irritating after awhile which was the reason I decided I'd do a little exploring of my own since they'd left me here on my own for quite some time now. I got up and moved to the doorway... to my left was where I'd come from and that slanted downwards... to my right was the corridor which kept winding upwards. I looked to my left and made the mental note that "they were in that direction... so I'd go the other way". So I quickly snuck out and headed off up the right. I didn't pass any doors or exists or anything....the corridor just kept on going up and up and up. I wondered where on earth this was leading me and I had a pang of fear start to creep over me "what happens if I'm going off to another ship... what if I run into others like them"... I nearly turned back at that point but decided to press on just a few more yards. And boy was I glad I did!! The corridor came to an abrupt end as opened up to a very large room... it was nearly pitch black in there and the only thing in the entire room was a very comfortable looking recliner chair!

There was no one around so I walked straight in and up to the side of the chair. As I got near I slide my fingertips along the left side of the armrest and got the shock of my life when the room seemed to "change" as I'd touched the chair. I couldn't quite tell what had happened as I'd only just brushed my fingers over it... but I was certain that something happened to the ceiling and walls....So I put my hand on the arm of the chair and this time I left it there... instantly the walls and the ceiling seemed to become totally invisible... Shocked at what was happening I removed my hand in more of a "reaction" kind of movement. The moment my hand was removed from the chair the walls and ceiling went back to normal. Right I'd cottoned on now... so after a few more try's at placing my hand on the chair and removing it I understand that the two were intricately connected with each other. I decided I was going sit in the chair and see what happened. So I delicately climbed into it and lay back with both hands resting on either arm of the chair. This is where I find it so incredibly difficult to explain... No matter how many times I try and explain this I can never do the awesome spectacle of it justice... I was alone in the Universe... there were no walls, no ceiling, just the myself on the chair surrounded by the beauty of space.

It was the most magical moment whoever designed something like that surely can't be all bad! I emerged myself in the experience and hardly noticed that someone had now walked into the room with me... It wasn't till spoke that I realised that same man who I had been dealing with was now telling me to get up off the chair and come back to the room where I was supposed to be waiting. His voice wasn't harsh... he was merely being firm with me to do as he asked. I reluctantly got out of the chair and watched the room revert back to normal as I slowly lost physical contact with it. I would never forget that room... never! He gestured for me to leave the room and go back down the corridor from where I came.... I exited the room and as I did so looked into his eyes... I was much closer now that I had been before when I had first seen those pools of pale blue... there seemed something very familiar about those eyes.. something very familiar about him also.... I just couldn't place it... I turned to walk down the corridor and just as suddenly as I had been plucked from my chair in the hotel I was now on the bed, laying flat out and being woken up by the cleaning lady who was unlocking the door.

So we have come full circle now... after telling all of this to the girls, they looked at each other and almost simultaneously said "where are the scissors?". I got up so fast I almost knocked the table on its side.. I ran up the hall to where I'd dropped my bag and dived into the compartment where I'd placed them after they'd been "dealt to"... as I pulled them out I could hardly believe my eyes... the twisted metal was exactly how I'd remembered it... both sharp points had completely curled back on each other and wound themselves into the tightest metal curl I've ever seen. I stood up and walked back into the living room... Their eyes went straight to the scissors.. and the only words that were uttered were "OH MY GOD". We all stayed up that night discussing everything that had happened... they wanted to know everything... to hear it over and over again... That was over 20 years ago now and I still rate it high on my experience list. Although it was just the start of many to come....

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE SCISSORS

Since posting the article on my own personal ET experience people have asked me for 64 million dollar question "what happened to the scissors?". I didn't make it very clear so am going to explain in detail what actually transpired.

Some time soon after the experience I decided to take a holiday and visit my family back in New Zealand. I knew how important the scissors were and hardly ever left them out of my sight. Feeling the way I did about them, I decided the safest way was to simply take them with me so I could keep an eye on them. I didn't really feel right about having them in one country while I was visiting another!

Now just a few days before I was due to leave the country, Sydney was rocked by a bomb blast that was situated right outside the Hilton Hotel. The bomb was planted in a garbage dumpster and had gone off when the garbage men had tried to empty it - it detonated killing at least one of the garbage men and seriously wounding another (I'm unable to remember just how many were killed, it may have been 3). The guy who had been so terribly wounded was actually a New Zealander and someone I had met the previous year while still living in New Zealand.

Because of this terrorist action, and because a high ranking Australian Government Official was travelling on the same flight I was, security was heightened to a level way beyond normal. When I arrived for checkin we were searched 5 separate times, I have never experienced such tight security before - each security check took place in a separate room, we were herded from one room to the next. I had concealed the scissors at the bottom of my suitcase never dreaming that they would be searching so diligently on a routine flight from Sydney to Wellington. After my bag had been thoroughly searched the first time, we were ushered into yet another "make shift" area where we were subjected to yet another bag search. The security had stickers that they were placing on suitcases to say they had been checked... if I remember correctly they were red and white and said something to the effect of "security checked". I asked the officer who had just finished searching my luggage for the third time to PLEASE place these stickers over the actual key holes of my bag so that the "next" check would not have to bother opening the bag as the sticker would let them know it had NOT been tampered with, as to open it would have meant inserting the key and punching the "security checked" sticker. He agreed to do this and placed two stickers over the key holes after we have locked them.

I thought I was "home and hosed" as we say here in New Zealand.

The bag managed to get past the next security checkin, but on the fifth and final checkin, as I walked through the metal detector it went off shrieking for all the world to hear and totally embarrassing me! What had triggered it was that I had a safety pin on my bra and that was what had caused the shrill beeping. Even though I explained the situation, they still took me aside and had a female officer check this out. On my return into the room I went back to my bag to find the security stickers had been pierced and my bag had once again been presumably searched. I was absolutely livid! But there wasn't a thing I could do about it... all I wanted to do was get on that damn plane and get away from this "over kill" security area.

New "security checked" red and white stickers were placed on my luggage and we now parted company... my bag going its way and I boarded the plane.

The luggage was checked once again by New Zealand customs on my arrival into the country.

I was picked up by a family member and we drove up the coast to where my parents lived. It wasn't till the early hours of the morning that I opened the suitcase for the first time and found that the scissors were nowhere to be found. I don't know if they were removed by Australian Security or New Zealand Security. The only thing I am sure of is that THEY WERE REMOVED!

So I hope that answers some of your questions about "what happened to the scissors".

ARLINGTON ALIEN ACCOUNT – A college student worked in a paint store frequented by a painter who claimed to have alien encounters. He was a peculiar kind of guy who lived, alone, in a small house outside the city limits. "He often talked about being visited by beings from other planets and strange futuristic technology that they had showed him and space ships and the like. The painter and college student became friendly as the painter began to talk about his leaving this earth to go to live on another planet. They showed him all their strange machines. The painter told the college student that he had no family and that before he left this earth to go and live on another planet, he wanted to deed his house and land to him. The student told him (with tongue in cheek) that, "sure," before he left for outer space, he could deed his house to him. The painter transferred his house, and land and all his assets to my business associate. In addition, within a matter of days from doing so, the painter called him and told him to come to a certain field on his property at a certain time that very evening. He told him that he would be leaving this earth with the men from outer space tonight, never to return, and that the student would be able to see him leave on the space ship if he would be at the field at the appointed time. The student drove up to the man's property, parked his car, and walked to the particular field that the painter had specified. As he approached, he could see a strange kind of green mist-like light coming from behind the rise of earth ahead of him. When he reached the edge of a berm he saw a saucer shaped craft hovering just a couple of feet or so above the ground and glowing green. The painter appeared and looked over at him, and acknowledged his presence with a wave. An opening appeared in the saucer and the painter entered.

The craft shot straight up in the air and in a matter of only seconds was a bright dot that just disappeared. After a while, when he realized the painter was really not coming back, he and his wife and children moved into the house that the painter had deeded to him. They did not stay very long. He said, "You wouldn't believe all the strange, cool things that went on in that house." He added that some of the technology (having to do with computers and nanotechnology) that exists today are things that the painter had told them about that seemed so far-fetched at that time. He is a very no-nonsense kind of person, which makes me believe his story even more. Talk at you later, ufopi@aol.com (name removed) Mike_Harman@rocketmail.com

Ancient City - Big Structures, Symbols Found Submerged Off Cuba

By Michael Posner
Boston Globe and Mail
12-7-1

A team of Canadian and Cuban researchers have discovered the remains of what may be a 6,000-year-old city submerged in deep sea waters off the western coast of Cuba.

Using sophisticated sonar and videotape equipment, offshore engineer Paulina Zelitsky, her husband, Paul Weinzweig, and her son, Ernesto Tapanes, have found megaliths "of a kind you'd find at Stonehenge or Easter Island," Mr. Weinzweig said in an interview yesterday.

"Some structures within the complex may be as long as 400 metres wide and as high as 40 metres," he said. "Some are sitting on top of each other. They show very distinct shapes and symmetrical designs of a non-natural kind. We've shown them to scientists in Cuba, the U.S. and elsewhere, and nobody has suggested they are natural."

Moreover, an anthropologist affiliated with the Cuban Academy of Sciences has said that still photos taken from the videotape clearly show "symbols and inscriptions," Mr. Weinzweig said. It is not yet known in what language the inscriptions are written.

The sonar images, he added, bear a remarkable resemblance to the pyramidal design of Mayan and Aztec temples in Mexico.

Mr. Weinzweig said it is too early to draw firm conclusions from the evidence collected so far.

The research team plans another foray to the site " off the Guanahacabibes Peninsula on Cuba's western tip " next month. Next summer, it hopes to return again, this time with the first deep-water mobile excavator, equipped with functions needed for on-site archeological evaluation, including the ability to blow sand off stone.

Geologists have recently hypothesized that a land bridge once connected Cuba to Mexico's Yucatan peninsula. And portions of the Cuban island are believed to have been submerged in the sea on three separate occasions in the distant past.

The couple's Havana-based company, Advanced Digital Communications, discovered the site in July of 2000, using side-scan sonar equipment to view what resembled an underwater city, complete with roads, buildings and pyramids.

The team returned this past summer with a 1.3-tonne, unmanned Remotely Operated Vehicle, controlled from the mother ship via fibre-optic cable. Its cameras confirmed the earlier findings, showing vast granite-like blocks, between two and five metres in length, that were cut in perpendicular and circular designs.

But because of technical problems, Mr. Weinzweig said, "we were only able to survey the perimeter of the site. Based on initial explorations, we think it's much larger than even our sonar projections show. It may extend for several kilometres."

In addition to the archeological site, ADC has been exploring what Mr. Weinzweig calls "the richest underwater cemetery in the world" for sunken Spanish galleons.

Hundreds of treasure-bearing ships are said to lie around the island, several hundred to several thousand metres deep.

Last year, off Havana Bay, it found the remains of USS Maine, the battleship that blew up in 1898. That incident, never entirely explained, killed 260 sailors and precipitated the Spanish-American War.

The structures are on a plateau that forms the bottom of what is thought to be a mud volcano, 650 to 700 metres beneath the surface of the ocean and along what is clearly a geological fault line. "It's well known that ancient civilizations liked to build at the base of volcanoes, because the land is fertile. So that's suggestive," Mr. Weinzweig said.

One tantalizing possibility, entirely speculative for now, is that if the legendary sunken continent of Atlantis is ever proven to have existed, these structures may have been submerged during the same cataclysm.

Mr. Weinzweig simply says that more information is needed. "We'd prefer to stay away from that subject. This is something of great potential scientific interest, but it must involve serious authorities on ancient civilizations."

The precise age of the underwater site is also unknown, although Cuban archeologists in 1966 excavated a land-based megalithic structure on the western coast, close to the new underwater discovery, said to date from 4000 BC. "Based on that and other geological information, we're speculating that these are 6,000 years old," he explained.

"It's not exact, but they're very ancient."

If that dating estimate proves accurate, it would mean that an ancient civilization had designed and erected these vast stone structures in the Americas only 500 years after human settlements first became organized in cities and states.

They would also have been built long before the wheel was invented in Sumeria (3500 BC), or the sundial in Egypt (3000 BC). The three pyramids on Egypt's Giza plateau are thought to have been constructed between 2900 and 2200 BC.

CONNECTICUT UFO DISTORTION

Joe Trainor reports that Karen and her husband were sitting in their hot tub on October 20, 2001, on a beautiful, clear, starry, cloudless night. Karen said, "We watched a plane go overhead and a few minutes later at 10:30 PM I noticed a distortion appear coming out of the west. You could tell there was an object there because the distortion made a circular shape. There was a ring of small lights on what I will call the front, the portion moving towards the east." I immediately said to my husband, "What is that?" As it passed over our heads he noticed the distortion as it headed away. I lost it trying to turn around. He did not see any ring of lights above the distortion the way I did. It moved quickly almost gliding through the sky. It was completely silent. If it hadn't been for the distortion you would not have noticed it at all because it seemed to be camouflaged with the night sky. I hate to use this analogy but in the movie Predator you can tell the creature is there by the distortion, but you can't see any other type of identifying marks. That's the best way I know how to describe it. We are still asking ourselves, what was that. There were small lights in a row on the "top" front only. The 'Distortion' was just like the night sky. Our best guess is that it was 500 feet high and going roughly 500 miles per hour. It was faster than a plane and glided in total silence. Thanks to Joe Trainor FIFO Masinaigan@aol.com

LOUISIANA TRANSPARENT DISTORTION BLOB

Billie Brinkley reports I had a weird sighting October 21, 2001, about 11:30 PM when I went outside to smoke and look at the expected meteor shower. Instead I saw a transparent blob like 'Distortion'. It looked like the "Predator" did in the movie. You could see the stars through it, but it definitely had edges. It lasted for just a few seconds and then just disappeared. It looked fairly close and pretty low in the sky. I've seen these things before, but not usually so close. My son works late hours and came in late. This morning he got up and told me that he also saw something weird about 3:30 AM, when he went out to smoke. He said, "It was like a big ball of light that dimmed out and became transparent, but looked like the "Predator"...his words. He said he watched it for several minutes and then it disappeared. I had not told him about my earlier sighting until this morning. There was weird stuff going on in the skies of Louisiana last night. Thanks to Louise A. Lowry SHnSASSY1 and Billie bbrink@startelco.net (discuss@yahoo.com). Editor's Note: A Connecticut couple had a similar sighting on October 20, 2001.

MICHIGAN SIGHTING COMPLETE WITH "LASERS."

STANTON -- Becky reports that on October 15, 2001, a lighted object appeared to be standing still in the northeastern sky as she drove on the country roads a mile out of town at 12:30 AM. Becky noticed a few planes in the sky, but this was much larger and much lower than a star. The light was not a brilliant light but it appeared to be bright, however, it had a misty haze to it. It just stood still; it did not blink like a plane. It was about the size of a dime, or at least five times the size of either a plane or star. When I had looked up again at the object all of the sudden flashes of what looked like red laser beam lines appeared. Red laser beams did not shoot across the sky, but they were contained within an area surrounding this object. The only way I can describe it is to say a circle within a circle. The hazed light was the center of this circular area. Several red laser lines - extended out away from this object in all directions and abruptly came to a halt!

All the red lines halted, and gave the appearance of a jagged circular pattern surrounding a white hazed object. These red lines were all straight lines, some of which crossed over each other, creating some triangles within this area. The size of this circular area in comparison to the object would be like putting a dime in the center of a silver dollar. I was frightened and turned around and immediately headed back to town. Once in town I gathered my senses. I stopped and watched this object for at least another five minutes before I went home. The object slowly ascended vertically and the light became less hazy and clearer. I watched the object for a while, because if any more red lines were to appear I was definitely not going to go any further. Once home I looked in the mirror and noticed that I had a red circular patch on my throat. Thanks to Becky and Jim Hickman thehickmanreport@prodigy.net.

MISSOURI THREE LIGHTS SHAPED LIKE A PYRAMID

KENNETT -- The witness reports, "We didn't see it close up, but it had three lights on it on October 7, 2001. One was at the top and two were on the bottom. The right bottom light and the top light disappeared first, and finally the left bottom one at 1:30 AM. We were outside talking when one of my friends said, "Ooh look, and pointed." One of my friends thought that it was a missile and ran away, my other friend started to run. He saw I couldn't move and came back. We both watched it for a while and then the object disappeared. Loud music was blasting so we didn't hear it. We were only able to discern its lights. It was low, seemed to hover in one spot for a while, and then went away. I believe it was something strange. Thanks to Peter Davenport NUFORC www.ufocenter.com

IOWA RECTANGLE

OTTUMWA -- The witnesses reported seeing a square shaped object on October 10, 2001, at 9:15 PM that had two blue corners to the left as you look at it and two red lights on the two corners on the right. There was a white or yellow light in the center. The sky was pitch black so you only saw the lights on the formation of the square. I slowed the car down to a stop, but it was too far away to see details, just the shape, and the lights. It didn't appear to be moving and we couldn't take our eyes off of it. When my passenger rolled the window down to see even better, it took off heading west for a split second and was completely gone from the sky. It wasn't a helicopter; there wasn't any noise. It was square and planes don't hover in one spot above the trees. The witnesses contacted the local law enforcement offices about the sighting. The case has been forwarded to Beverly Trout, MUFON SD of IA, for investigation. Thanks to Peter Davenport NUFORC
