MINISTRY OF DEFENSE & UFOS

From: London SUNDAY TIMES, 15 Oct. 1995 and Lutton HERALD & POST, 19 Oct. 1995

Dozens of incidents involving unidentified flying objects have been revealed by Ministry of Defense files kept secret for decades. They show the government took such reports seriously and wanted to allay public fears about claims of visiting alien craft.

One document reports that two RAF planes were sent to intercept UFOs over the Strait of Dover in April 1957. Two objects were seen, but the Javelin jets were unable to track them on their radar.

In another case the previous year, an RAF Venom jet was sent to intercept a UFO at very high speed picked up by radar. The pilot saw nothing, but two other aircraft scrambled in pursuit made a "momentary contact."

In 1963, an object that looked like a flying saucer was seen hovering by a hangar at RAF Cosford, near Wolverhampton, by two airmen. A MoD file records that "as they watched they saw a trap door in the upper part slowly open."

The MoD records contained a report of a low-flying hovercraft-shaped object over Luton in 1962. The report says a motorist saw the object flying 30 feet above the road. An unknown force slowed him down to 20 mph and then the object flew off.

ZIG-ZAGGING UFO SPOTTED

From: Skipton, Eng. CRAVEN HERALD, 27 Oct.

A UFO was spotted over Oakworth Moor at 2 a.m. the previous Monday. It was a bright white and blue light, far larger than a star, zig zagging over a large area of the sky faster than the eye could blink. It traveled in vertical, horizontal, and diagonal lines over distances of very many miles and was observed for a period of 15 minutes. It did 20 to 30 zig zags and as a cloud obscured it, the sky lit up.

TAPPING OUR PSYCHIC POWERS

From: San Francisco, CA EXAMINER, 24 Dec 1995

Many newspaper articles have done an injustice to the work of a number of dedicated researchers by doing tongue-in-cheek reports on the subject. In this article, the EXAMINER just reported the facts.

"Everything in the room was painted white. The lights were dimmed. There were no windows. There was no sound.

"Tiburon Psychologist Keith Harary, alone in the white room, had been given an assignment: "Describe the condition of Subject X." Given no other details, he began to concentrate, striving to clear his mind of everything save making "a connection" with this unseen stranger.

"Soon, Harary was describing an "extremely ill person" who had a "physical disease that was affecting his mental state." The subject, he said, may be suffering from multiple sclerosis. In any case, he predicted, the person "would be on a plane in the next two or three days."

"Two days later, in July 1980, American diplomat Richard Queen, one of 53 Americans being held hostage in Iran, was released from captivity. He was flown to a military hospital in West Germany - where he was treated for neurological problems later diagnosed as multiple sclerosis.

"Harary, whose prediction was verified by others, was one of about 100 people who participated in Stargate, a top secret "psychic spies" program that flourished in the 1970s and early 1980s at the Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park and other government-funded facilities.

"Researchers in the Soviet Union claimed they had the ability to stop the hearts of frogs, just by thinking about it. The Russians allegedly did these experiments in hopes of influencing world leaders at a distance.

"We were doing psychokinesis experiments, also called distant perception," said Larissa Vilenakaya, who worked as a psychic researcher in the Soviet Union before coming to the United States. "In Russia, we tested whether, for example, when you're listening to someone speaking over the radio, can you change the person's state of mind?"

"Joe McMoneagle, an Army intelligence officer who was recruited by SRI in 1978, was considered one of the program's most talented psychic researchers. In 1988, while working at SRI, he was shown a black and white photo of an individual he'd never seen. He was asked to describe where that person would be at a specific time. "The image didn't come to me all at once," he said of a drawing that depicts, in remarkable detail, the windmills at Altamont Pass, where the person happened to be. McMoneagle was given a Legion of Merit award in 1984 as proof of the program's value. "I got that for providing over 150 essential elements of information that were of critical value to the defense of the nation and were unavailable from any other source."

"Only 1 percent of the research done on psychic spying has been made public. The still-classified part involves the operation, not the research. For instance, if psychic spies were used to look in on a drug operation, it would still be sensitive to reveal names and locations.

STRANGE OBJECT OVER ALBANY

From: Albany, OR DEMOCRAT-HERALD, 16 Feb
John and Marjorie Friedrichsen were out walking their dog at 10:20 p.m. on Tuesday, 9 February, when they noticed lights in the eastern sky over Lebanon.

"I saw this v-shaped contraption, perfectly still, motionless," Marjorie said. "It was mostly white and blue, with a little red and green towards the ends."

The Friedrichsens counted at least 17 of the strange lights. One especially bright one was more northeast than the others. The major portion made a large circle. Every one of them was an identical shape, like a wide open V.

The objects may have been of astronomical origin.

ANOTHER ROSWELL UFO?

From: Roswell, NM DAILY RECORD, 5 Feb.

Between 5:15 a.m. and 5:45 a.m. on Wednesday, 31 January, a number of witnesses traveling north into Roswell near the Midway area from Artesia, Hagerman and Dexter sighted what can only be classified as an unidentifiable object.

"I was coming into work and there was this blue light flashing," said Kay Lykins, a shipping clerk at Nova BUS. "At first I thought it was the airport, but then I realized it was coming toward me. All of a sudden it was right beside me. I looked at it to see what it was, but then I had to turn from it because it was so bright. When I looked back it was gone." Lykins described the object as a bright crystal blue, but could not say what shape or size it was.

Tom Gomez said he saw the object at around 5:40 a.m. as he was going into Nova BUS as well. "I was going past the old Coors Co. building and I saw a blue light flashing," Gomez said. "I couldn't tell what it was. Every time it blinked it was moving by about 2,000 yards per blink or better. It was pretty fast." Gomez said that as it moved, the light didn't appear to grow, even as the distance between he and the light diminished.

Another Nova BUS employee said he experienced the same phenomena. "It wasn't like an airplane that you can follow its path. It would blink and then suddenly be somewhere else," Chavez said. "I don't know what it was, it was traveling too fast for a jet and it was flying too low."

More than ten people, all traveling separately, reported the object. All of the witnesses said the object was silent and it moved so quickly that some of them were unable to get a look at it.

The sighting could not be confirmed by the Roswell airport personnel because they have no radar equipment and it happened so early in the day that it was before their normal operations.

VIDEO OF UFO OVER COLORADO

From: Center, CO POST-DISPATCH, 14 Feb.

James Armijo captured UFOs on videotape just after sunset on 25 January. The three silvery, disk-shaped objects were moving up and down and sideways just above the horizon of Greenie Mountain.

"I saw one right over Greenie. It was sitting right on top of the mountain. When I zoomed in on it, I couldn't find it, but I saw another one."

The tape showed as one object disappeared, another appeared. A third craft appears from the right side of the screen and slowly moves across it.

UFO OVER PENSACOLA

From: Pensacola, FL ISLANDER, 31 January

Michele Dupre spotted a UFO over West Pensacola at 12:15 a.m. on Sunday, 28 January. She said a car was coming at her with its bright lights on. The lights bothered her eyes, causing her to look up in the sky for relief. What she saw in the sky to the north-east was a large, red-amber light. Thinking it was just an image from the car's bright headlights, she looked away and back again. The light was still there. It was approximately one inch across at arm's length and was pulsating. She said it pulsed five times. Each time was for about ten seconds.

She said: "I slowed the car down and turned the radio off. I had rolled the window down and there was no noise coming from it at all." She told how she could see that the ball of orange-red light was on one end of an oblong shaped object.

IOWA CROP CIRCLE EXPLAINED

From: INDIANA AGRICULTURE, 1 March

Tim Burrack, who rents and farms property owned by Ray Kamper said the circle found on the farm could not have been manmade because there were no tracks and no evidence of anyone being there.

Dr. W.C. Levensgood collected soil and plant samples where a circle of bent corn stalks was found last August. Levensgood believes the circle was made by ion plasma vortices - collections of electronically charged particles coming down in a whirling mass of air. When the vortices strike crops, the intense energy weakens the stalks, causing them to lie in the circular direction of the vortex. Parts of the plants are browned by the energy.
