"Close Encounter on Walk to Work"

In Keynsham, England, Mr. Albert Prior of Cherwell Road was walking to work early in the morning in January, 1984, when he spotted a pink triangle in the sky overhead! "I was walking along Bridges Lane on the way to my place of employment, Keynsham Paper Mill, and was about to turn right when I saw something out of the corner of my eye. I turned around and at first thought it was a shooting star. The object shot off at tremendous speed in another direction." When pressed for details, Mr. Prior continued, "The object was triangular and had a dull red-pinkish aura around it."

Mr. Prior is 60 years old and is a respected member of the community. He was very curious about his sighting and reported it to the Keynsham police.

Mr. Prior is not alone, for England has been a hotbed of UFO activity (with sightings near Stone Age as well as the famous ongoing Westminster sightings reported so well by Arthur Shuttleworth). In Northavon, England, three residents saw a vivid UFO on Christmas Day! All three were out walking when they spotted a strange light in the sky on Christmas Day. It was a strange yellow color (rather like a sodium street light, they report). It was flying "much faster than the wind" at a very low elevation (about 5 degrees above the horizon). The Royal Air Force had no planes flying on Christmas and could offer no explanation for this sighting. It all seems very appropriate that this sighting, so much like the Star of Bethlehem (a huge yellow light) would occur on Christmas Day!

STRANGE ENCOUNTERS

MYSTERY MOUNTAINS

On October 9, 1946, George Adamski saw his first space ship over his home in Palomar Gardens, California. He reported this sighting as a "dirigible-shaped mothership" which carried smaller scout craft inside. Then in August of 1947, Adamski claims he witnessed 184 saucers flying over the slopes of his mountain home.

The mountains on which Mt. Palomar, the famous observatory, is located are a part of an incredible chain of southern Sierra Mountains. Adamski's home was very close to the famous observatory and it may well have been that these alien space craft were examining the technology and findings at the observatory when Adamski spotted them.

Lemuria is said to have been located in these same mystical mountains which lead down into the Mojave Desert on the east (the scene of many personal space contacts as detailed in last issue's UFO REVIEW). There is no doubt that the space contact desert areas connected to the mystical mountains directly above it to the west.

There are many reports that the southern California Sierras have openings into which a man may walk and never return. Many of these mountains rumble as if high technology was functioning within them...and well it may be! The United States chose to place Norad, its military brain center in case of nuclear attack, in the Rockies. This facility is actually inside a mountain and though it is vast, it is almost hidden from the outside world.

Other advanced cultures—including Lemuria and outer space civilizations—might also select the insides of mountains as their base of operations. It has long been rumored that there are connecting tunnels between various peaks within the range. Is it any wonder, then, that in the San Diego area alone, Mt. Laguna on the "haunted" and UFO history, that Mt. Cuyamaca in the middle abounds in mystical Indian and Lemurian legends...many of which are added to with new encounters daily...and that Mt. Palomar (the north peak of the famous threesome) continues with UFO sightings similar to those Adamski witnessed before his personal contact with Antron, the Space Brother.

One may well envision entire underground networks which run from Mt. Shasta in the northern part of California, through the Sierras, culminating in the southern Sierras mentioned above. These networks may be used by extraterrestrials, the remainder of Lemurian race, and other races which work on planet earth (but which science has not yet discovered...for they keep one step ahead of earth science!). This would seem the only explanation for the sightings which report a "UFO simply flew out of a solid stone mountainside!" It also would explain the high strangenesses which have gone on in California mountains, deserts, and skies for many years.

In 1931, Wishar S. Cerve wrote a book entitled LEMURIA: THE LOST CONTINENT OF THE PACIFIC. This was before the modern UFO era began in 1947! Yet, he details sightings of magnificent looking humans who simply "disappear" into the mountain sides, he mentions the brilliant glowing lights observed by many in and around the High Sierras, and he traces the origin and destiny of the Lemurian people in mystical California.

When viewed in perspective, a pattern forms and we can see the activity which has taken place in the California mountains for centuries! These mystical mountains are a "brain center" for those who seek to help humankind. The mountains will continue to rumble with "no earthly explanation!"

ARIZONA MAN RECALLS THE FRIGHT FILLED NIGHT HE ENCOUNTERED SPACE ALIENS.

On April 1, 1981, Paris David Colorado was abducted by a UFO. But it was no April Fool's joke. For Colorado, it was a very real and very terrifying experience.

It all began when Paris and his wife moved from Phoenix, Arizona to take over some campgrounds in Bend, Oregon. They had been running the campgrounds for six months when a young man in a trailer came to stay. He was involved in mining and got Paris interested in how to go about staking a claim. Mark, the mining claim expert, invited Paris to accompany him to his claim the following week and Paris accepted.

The weekend they decided to go, Paris woke up with a terrible pain in his shoulder. He said he suffered from bursitis and was having one of his attacks. Despite the pain, Paris insisted on going. So a few hours later, Mark and Paris were on their way to the claim. The area where the claim was located, approximately 290 miles from Paris' campground, was so primitive that Mark and Paris were forced to backpack hours in from the place where they had left their jeep.

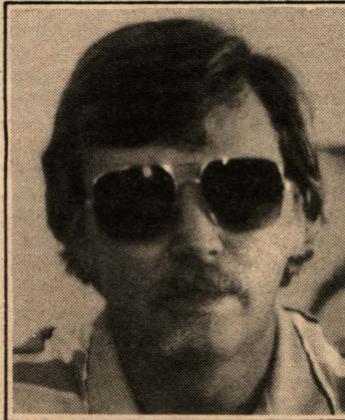

"All the time we were up in the wilderness canyon, I had the feeling someone was watching us," Paris said. "That first night, when we camped, I could see a pair of eyes just outside the perimeter of the light. I would turn my flashlight on object because it was so dark. Paris guessed they were about half way between Mt. Vernon and Mitchell.

"I couldn't take my eyes off the light and neither could Mark," Paris said. "It was like we were hypnotized. We just couldn't look away from the light."

Paris described the light as bowing on both sides of the object like a bowl turned upside down. The light extended off the highway at least 100 yards on both sides.

"The object, whatever it was, was larger than a 747, yet it moved quickly and smoothly reverse and forward," Paris said. "You could see the little white lines on the highway that were going into the light when it moved forward."

At this point, both Mark and Paris became terrified at what they were witnessing. Paris grabbed the gear shift, but was unable to get the car into gear. When Paris made this move, he said the object stopped and darted back to the top of the hill. He said it was a smooth but quick move back. The gear shift continued to bounce back and forth without shifting into place. Paris' attempts to get the jeep back onto the road proved futile.

"At that point I turned to Mark," he said. "I just turned my head without taking my eyes from the light and said, 'Mark, we're not going to get away from this thing.'"

Paris said his heart was pounding so hard he thought he was going to have a heart attack. He could feel his adrenaline pumping and he said he was terrified.

"At that point something said to me, 'Relax, take it easy, don't panic, we're coming to you,'" Paris said. "It wasn't words, it was like mental telepathy—like strong words in my mind. And when it first said, 'Relax, take it easy, don't panic,' I thought, 'I'm telling myself to relax, take it easy and don't panic because I'm about to have a heart attack. But then I realized they were telling me that."

"At that moment, it shot down the road toward us," Paris continued. "Both Mark and I seemed to be pulled slightly toward the windshield. All of this took place in what we thought was three to five minutes at most. When it moved toward us, we went into a trance or whatever you want to call it. And that's the last thing I remember."

The next thing Paris and Mark remember is sitting in the jeep and noticing something moving quickly away from the car. In the next instant, a flash of light streaked away into the sky. They sat there for an unknown amount of time until a them and there was nothing there. And during the daylight, when we were walking up the trail, we would hear something moving along the woods above us. It was like something was following us everywhere we went. This went on the whole three days we were up there."

But nothing came of it, and so having finished their work, they headed for home three days later. They started out in the evening and arrived at Mt. Vernon, Oregon at 7:30 p.m. Paris said he remembers it being 7:30 because he and Mark were hungry and everything had closed at 6:30. So they decided to drive on to Mitchell, which is approximately 40 miles from Mt. Vernon.

The night was exceedingly dark and the sky was filled with clouds. And yet, right above the horizon, Paris said it was clear. At least it was clear enough for both Paris and Mark to make out three bright stars in the distance. In fact, they noticed the stars were directly above the road. One flanked the left side of the road, one flanked the right side of the road and one was in the middle. The one in the middle was slightly higher. They both took note of the stars, but didn't think anything strange until they moved.

"As they moved up I could see a light underneath the stars," Paris said. "I don't know how far away we were at the time. There was a slight rise in the road ahead of us and whatever this was was way back from that."

As they approached the hill, a light was shining from in back of it. Paris explained the light as something like a semi-truck approaching from the other side. But the light kept getting brighter and brighter until it had to be about 20 semi's approaching, he said. When they were about three-quarters of a mile from the top of the hill, the object came over the top and started down the road toward them. It was then that Paris pulled off to the side of the road and waited with the motor running. They were unable to make out a clear description of the car came over the hill. The headlights of the approaching automobile hit both Paris and Mark in the eyes and brought them out of their trance. The jeep motor was still running.

Paris drove off and neither one of them said anything for 15 minutes. Finally they pulled off to the side of the road and got out. They were talking about what they both thought they had seen when Paris asked Mark what time it was. It was eleven o'clock. They had been on the road for more than three hours and were still 15 miles from Mitchell. As they were pondering what had happened back on the road, it was then that Paris noticed a slight ache in his right hip. He said it felt like a needle puncture.

Rather than stopping for food, Paris and Mark decided to drive back home as quickly as possible. When they reached the campgrounds, they were anxious and nervous. Paris' wife thought Paris was playing an April Fool's joke, but seeing that her husband was serious asked for all the details. Not knowing who to contact in such a situation, Paris called the Federal Aviation Administration. The FAA in return gave Paris the phone number of the UFO Reporting Center in Seattle, Washington. He spoke with the Center personnel and was told two investigators would contact he and Mark for further details.

The next morning Paris talked with the investigators, Dan and Aileen Edwards, about his experience. Paris talked with them on the phone and then agreed to meet with them two weeks later. They would at that time hypnotize Paris and try and found out what had happened during the missing three hours.

During that period before Paris met with the Edwards', he said he was a wreck. He went through wild emotional swings that included everything from paranoia to anger.

"I was afraid to go out, and I'm not normally afraid of anything within reason," he said. "But I was afraid to go out in the campgrounds by myself after dark. There was something in the back of my mind that was telling me, 'If you go out there something's going to get you. Not the Boogie Man, but something you can't see.'"

A UFO Contactee Meets Pope John XXIII

A DAMSKI's European friends knew well that between 1959 and 1963 many of his plans and hopes had been thwarted. Even we, living far away, were keenly aware of his difficulties, as well as unexpected complications among those who worked with him. We all knew that Lucy McGinnis' withdrawal from her secretarial work, as well as from his group, might well have been a disaster for him.

Adamski had never made a secret of his dependency on Lucy's great gift for giving expression to his thoughts. "She does it much better than I," he once said to me. But in 1961 she had made the decision to break with Adamski and pull out of the work. I felt deeply sorry for this loss and in a private letter tried to find out the reasons behind her decisions to leave him, since Lucy and I had become great pen-friends through so many years of correspondence.

In my heart I felt that her decision had to do with my own doubts and apprehensions, a feeling which was gone by. This we did to the best of our ability, without believing in a successful outcome. The letter was no avail. Lucy McGinnis never did return, for reasons which may become more apparent later and which had much to do with Adamski himself. Something was going badly wrong.

Already, during the taxi trip to the hotel, I received a most disturbing answer to my question about the 'boys.' I asked if they were still around and working with him. "Oh, no," he said. "There is now a new set of boys here. They came to replace the others, I have been told, and I have not yet been informed what they are up to, but I shall certainly be, sooner or later..."

I felt a sudden chill at this reply, and it confirmed my innermost uneasiness. His voice and manner sounded unnatural as he informed in which he seemed to be at ease. Some of the co-workers, however, were not so pleased with anecdotes about a rosy angel sitting on the lap of some gentleman...and of course he knew this, because while telling them he looked at me like a naughty boy, smiling contentedly, and this was what I liked best.

Sometimes, as in 1959, our conversation took an interesting turn as soon as the more casual visitors left. On such occasions he gave away some inside knowledge without betraying anybody. As before, there were moments when he could have put on a great show by telling exactly what he knew, but he never did. For instance, when asked time and again about the propulsion system of the space ships, and when some insistent questioner pointed out how much his space friends could help by for me here in about an hour's time." He descended the steps swiftly, turning to the left. I had looked to the right because I expected him to be admitted through the well-known gate where the Swiss Guards were posted. Yet, without any hesitation, he walked to the left of the Dome where I now noticed a high wooden entrance gate behind the open doorway, with a small built-in door. This door was partly opened and a man was standing inside it, gesturing discreetly to George. He wore a black suit but not a priest's robe. On his chest I noticed some kind of coloured material in white, green and red; either part of a shiny silk vest or a metal plate of some kind. Owing to the distance I could not make out much detail, not could I see his features. Also, there were groups of people standing in our way.

got a fine texture like a child's. They haven't yet tried to operate on him but I'm sure that's what they will do soon. He is not too old for that: Harry Truman underwent the same operation successfully at eighty." George added that the Pope even had rosy cheeks, and had said that he did not feel so bad. Indeed, in the evening papers I found a notice that the Pope had spent a very good day, and that he even had some colour in his cheeks. I also recall George's statement that he was not the only visitor on this day and that another man was led into the room the moment he left.

Nevertheless, the news on Saturday morning was very bad, and as it transpired George was mistaken. At lunch that day George took out of his breastpocket a small plastic wallet, lilac in colour. It bore the most singular inscription I have ever seen, protected by a transparent cover. The written characters were of a very unusual kind; certainly neither Roman nor Gothic, nor were they Russian, Chinese, confirmed much later, but I was disappointed because at the time she never disclosed her true reasons. I had to be satisfied with a letter to all the co-workers in which she vaguely hinted at studying a kind of 'ancient wisdom teaching,' without giving the name of the group or the books she now seemed to be interested in. She then continued:

"...Please understand that this separation is due only to the strength of the urge within me to practice that which I have preached for so long a time. GA's experiences when I was with him; those reported in 'Flying Saucers have Landed' and 'Inside the Space Ships,' and our innumerable letters I will support so long as I live. I was a witness to his first contact, remember, and I could never denounce that which I know to be true.

Understandably, GA was very upset by my decision. It hasn't been easy on any of us. Yet, the urge within me is so strong that I can no more disregard it than I can stop breathing and continue to live." This was a touching letter, but it did not help much to make things clearer to me.

Adamski arrived in Basle again on 23rd May, 1963, via Antwerp. As soon as he settled down he asked co-workers Dora Bauer, May Morlet and myself to write an urgent letter to Lucy, begging her to return to him, even though two years had me about this important change, as if coming from a defiant child, provocative and stubborn. I could not but remember how triumphantly he had told me in 1959 that they would never leave him and would never let him down.

Later in the evening he was relaxed and friendly, telling us about the outstanding success of his lectures in Copenhagen, and of Hans Petersen's gift for organizing them. But I could not help noticing that he had changed a great deal. I felt that he was playing the part of a contented lecturer, while concealing an inner wariness. This did not manifest itself in reluctance and caution, as I would have expected, but in a somewhat naïve boastfulness. Some friendly newcomers who had joined us received flippant answers to their polite questions, and they soon left our table. George seemed to have lost his remarkable faculty for attentive listening and careful answers, and I felt really uncomfortable on this first evening.

On the following days, however, we again enjoyed some wonderful hours of perfect understanding. Often, when he returned to his sincere and friendly old self, he would again make little jokes with the kind waitress Lydia as he had done in 1959. Now, four years later, he would often begin to tell some risqué little story which sounded rather childish, but I liked them just because I was glad of every moment allowing another person to witness visits to their craft (an idea which was not new) he replied: "You know, they once planned to take on board a young friend of mine" whom I very much wanted to be favoured. But they tested this man in secrecy and found out that he was still too young and too ambitious to keep a secret, because, you see, the pole which runs right through the centre of the craft is transparent—but not empty. Anybody with such technical knowledge could have a good guess, studying it while it worked. I understood it, at any rate. But as you know, the space people have always been very careful not to divulge the secret of propulsion."

The most exciting news on that 1963 visit was Adamski's revelation that he had an appointment with the Pope, John XXIII. "You have to take me to Rome again," he suddenly said. And so I did, together with May Morlet, our Belgian co-worker. Adamski had his flight ticket with him, as well as a small package to be delivered to the Pope, which he explained he had received from a spaceman in Copenhagen.

We started for Rome on May 30th. Having told us that we would be expected in front of St. Peter's on the 31st at 11am, May and I got him there in good time. We walked slowly up the broad central stairway, looking around us. Within a few minutes, George cried out: "There he is—I can see the man! Please wait

Although we knew that admittance to the Vatican did not necessarily mean that George was going to be received by the Pope, both May and I felt excited. We had been rather doubtful in the morning because the papers had referred to Pope John's declining health. I made a mental note that Adamski's being received at a gate other than the usual one where the Swiss Guards checked on every visitor meant that he would not be registered on the daily visitors' list, and that his visit would probably not be recorded officially by the Vatican. This, I realized, was very interesting in itself but would not be helpful if we had to look for proof.

May and I returned an hour later. There was George already, grinning like a monkey. I never saw his face as happy as that: his eyes shining like beautiful topazes, something I shall never forget. "We have done it," he said. "I was received by the Pope. He gave me his blessing and I handed him the message."

When later in the day we lunched with George he told us that the Pope was not lying in the room above St. Peter's Square, as the people had been told, but that his bedroom faced the most beautiful part of the Vatican garden, at which Adamski had been allowed to take a look. And he added confidentially: "If you ask me, the Pope is hardly a dying man. I have seen several people dying of cancer but the Pope's skin has still Japanese, Arabic or Hebrew. But beneath the text was the date of the interview — 31 May 1963 — written in Roman letters.

We sat spellbound when George opened the little wallet. Embedded in white cotton wool was a most beautiful golden coin with the Pope's head in profile on it (Plate 25). As I discovered later it was a new ecumenical coin, ready for sale but not yet on the market, the impending Ecumenical Council having been postponed due to the Pope's illness. Weighing the coin in my hand I felt sure that it was of at least 18 if not 22 carat gold (my father was a goldsmith). Two weeks later the coin was on sale in European banks and I went to have a look at it. Its price was between 300 and 400 Swiss francs. At the time of our visit to Rome, Adamski could not have bought it even if he had had the money which he certainly did not, and, as in Basle, he had never left our hotel without us and he had never entered a shop.

At this lunch, Adamski was ready to tell us a few more details about the meeting. He had been helped on with a kind of cassock over his suit before he entered the bedroom. The Pope gave him a nice smile and said: "I have been expecting you." When George handed him the sealed message from Copenhagen, he said—also in English: "That is what I

An Appreciation
By Timothy Good
Member, House of Lords UFO
Committee

LOU (Louise) ZINSSTAG, the pioneering Swiss UFO researcher and writer, died in Basle on 19 January 1984, ten days after her 79th birthday. She had been struggling courageously with cancer for nearly one year, but typically insisted on looking after herself at home until the last month, when it became necessary to have her taken to the hospital.

Her interest in UFOs began in 1954 after reading "Flying Saucers From Outer Space" by Donald Keyhoe and then "Flying Saucers Have Landed" by Desmond Leslie and George Adamski. She began corresponding with Adamski and in 1957 became his Swiss co-worker. This association led to some fascinating experiences and new friendships, but in 1964 disagreement and uncertainty about his later claims forced her to leave him, although she remained steadfast in her conviction that many, if not all of his claims were essentially true.

In 1958 she wrote a compendium of Swiss sightings, "UFO Sichtungen über der Schweiz 1949-1958" (now out of print). Her association with the British magazine FLYING SAUCER REVIEW began in the same year, quickly adding correspondence with such respected UFOlogists as Gordon Creighton, Brinsley Le Poer Trench, Waveney Girvan and John Lade. During the following years she was a regular visitor to London and had many enjoyable meetings with the FLYING SAUCER REVIEW team, particularly Waveney Girvan for whom she had enormous admiration.

Her articles for FSR included "Monguzzi takes Saucer Photos of the Century" (Vol. 4 No. 5, 1958); "A Voice from Space?" (Vol. 7 No. 1, 1961) describing Basle resident Walter Kunz's tape recording of the anguished cries of an early Soviet cosmonaut in an apparent emergency, and "Conversations with Dr. Jung" (Vol. 9 No. 4, 1963).

Lou, who was related to Jung through her mother, also wrote an informative article on Jung's early physical researchers with some members of his family: "Memoirs of what mother told me about her cousin Carl Gustav Jung" (Journal of the American Society of Psychosomatic Dentistry and Medicine, Vol. 27 No. 2, 1980).

She had two sightings of UFOs in her life: a 'totally black sphere' over central Basle in July 1957, and a zigzagging object high above the Odenwald in Germany in July 1971. In both cases other witnesses were present.

I first met Lou in 1965 at her delightful flat in the centre of Basle. We struck up an instant rapport and the conversation lasted well into the small hours, as did most of our talks in the following years. In 1976 during one of my many visits to Lou, I suggested that we should collaborate on a book about Adamski. Later that year, and in 1978 and 1979, we travelled all over the United States interviewing friends of his, as well as many others famous contactees and abductees. After much hard work "George Adamski - The Untold Story" was finally published by the two of us in January 1983, and Lou came to London for the launch party. Her part of the book contains fascinating reminiscences of Adamski, her visit with him to the Vatican in May 1963 when he was received privately by Pope John XXIII, as well as her discussions with Jung about Adamski, and her own intriguing personal 'contact' in 1961.

A true 'bon viveur,' Lou had a tremendous sense of humour and a healthy appreciation of good food and wine. Her small frame belied her fantastic energy, which astonished everyone. Far from being a fanatic about UFOs she had other absorbing hobbies, including a passion for the theatre, cinema and museums, travelling abroad, walking, and a great love of animals, especially birds.

Deeply concerned about the worldwide political, economical and ecological situation, she attributed official secrecy on UFOs to international financial interests. This was most evident in her own country, she maintained, where there is a virtual blackout on UFO reports. In this connection I feel sure that she would like me to quote a paragraph from her last letter to me: "...The different governments all sit in the same boat, ours as well as yours: they are all indebted to the banks, they are all in the red, they have no power to attack or to put in doubt what the banks want to do with the big money. They put it into our conventional energy forms which bring heaps of interest. I am sure that the governments know this. Of course, they can't tell the truth (about UFOs); they have to invent new lies every year or so...but the forces in the dark, hiding behind and influencing every kind of debunking explanation are stronger than any other agency because they have all the money in the world at their disposal."

Lou will be missed by her friends and correspondents all over the world. She wrote and spoke several languages, including Russian, and over the years amassed a truly impressive international collection of UFO photos, books, articles and newscuttings. Her dearest wish to have these archives deposited in the Basle University Library has been realized, thus bequeathing a unique legacy to students of our tantalizing subject.

THE ASTOUNDING DIMENSIONS WE DO NOT SEE

by Hugh Cochran

There have been enough well-documented reports of UFO encounters and other mysterious events to cast serious doubts on scientific laws of the nature of reality. In fact some of these events have so shredded the curtain of reality as to make it impossible for established science—or self-appointed debunkers—to prevent the light of wisdom from shining through.

Yet it will take more than the first glimmer of wisdom to make scientists and the general public realize that reality is not what we perceive it to be.

Nor is the problem one-sided. Because to say that all UFO phenomena are evidence of benevolent beings come to save the earth is unrealistic. Certainly Betty Cash and Vickie Landrum of Texas, who suffered burns as well as their hair falling out, don't think so. Like others who have suffered physical injury from encounters with these phenomena, Cash and Landrum are convinced UFOs can be dangerous. Their views are shared by the drivers of cars driven into ditches, farmers whose livestock have been killed and mutilated, and commercial pilots whose aircraft have been brought to the edge of disaster by these weird phenomena.

Nevertheless, when all of the pros and cons are properly evaluated it becomes obvious that it is our perception and interpretation of reality that is at the root of the problem. Clear perception and and it provides a means of contact between the material and spiritual planes.

These teachings, while they represent a very ancient approach to an understanding of reality and its role in the spiritual development of mankind, are riddled with ambiguities that the modern mind with all its science fails to fully comprehend.

Nevertheless, over the past few decades researchers have made serious efforts to explore these concepts. Their findings are now beginning to supply new interpretations of these ancient beliefs to provide an astounding view of what we perceive as reality and the world around us.

Almost thirty years ago, for example, Drs. Harold Burr and Leonard Ravitz announced that they had succeeded in measuring the invisible electrodynamic fields existing around the human body. In their view, this field—which they called the Life field or L-field—was not just an exact twin that interpenetrated the material body; it was the master pattern for that particular material form. It controlled the material form in every respect and, more astoundingly, this invisible energy form was said to exist before the actual material form took on matter of many sort.

Viewed this way, the energy form had first to exist as an invisible mould into which the material matter fitted. Therefore any defects existing in the human body would need to exist first in the energy a fingernail, eyeball or mole.

The problem is science has never been able to demonstrate just how the DNA knows whether it is the basis of a human eyelash or an elephant's foot. The explanations offered are more ambiguous than factual.

Even so, Drs. Burr and Ravitz along with a number of highly respected researchers in eastern and western scientific circles now feel that this pattern-field concept offers a more workable approach.

However, it is not exactly a simple concept. Because the picture now being offered presents a view of these pattern-fields as ranging from the most basic form for something on the level of an atom to the more complex and composite arrangements for things such as the human body.

In fact what these researchers are now proposing is that pattern-fields exist for everything that has a material identity, whether it is an element of nature, a rock, an elephant, a planet or even a universe. In each instance, they propose that there is an invisible pattern-field of energy giving each its own identity. The only difference is that above the level of a simple element, the pattern-field becomes a more and more complex arrangement of clusters of these basic pattern-fields.

Something of this nature would be necessary since the human body is basically a specific combination of only those elements found in nature.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Hugh Cochran is a Toronto freelance writer with a background in electronics and geology who for the past sixteen years has been writing for UFO, psychic, and Fortean type publications. His book "Gateway to Oblivion" was published by Doubleday in 1980, and by W.H. Allen in Britain and in paperback by Avon. In this book he revealed the documented history of the Lake Ontario Triangle, its role in the mysterious disappearances of people, ships and planes over a 200 year period; and its links with the legendary "City of Sagana"—the city of light in the Indian lore—their "Birdmen" and the Mormon belief in a highly developed Nephite civilization said to have existed on the south shore of this lake. His latest book "3MT—Third Millennium Technology" (now being considered for publication), explores the basic energies and forces behind unexplained events and miracles; how these may have been used in ancient times; and how their rediscovery can turn the third millennium generation into Merlin's Children.

The answer offered by researchers is that, on the microscopic level, the energy is in the form of resonances of different wavelengths or vibrations. For each element in nature there is a single precise resonance or vibration rate that is altered slightly when two or more different resonances are combined together. When the resonances of a interpretation are foremost requirements for any level of New Age thinking. Without them there can be no true understanding of the miracles in life, the miracles after death, or the miracles awaiting us in the world of the Third Millennium after the year 2000.

With matter little more than vibrating energy it might be asked just how does the pattern-field go about controlling the overall shape and form that these vibrations produce?

ANCIENT CONCEPTS OF REALITY

To better understand our reality and its role in our destiny beyond this material dimension requires that we examine some of the ancient concepts of reality and contemporary ones which science has so far chosen to ignore.

To begin with, a fundamental in Eastern and Theosophical teachings is the belief in the existence of a duality in all things. Everything, it is claimed, is composed of two parts: the material form and the energy form. The first provides a means of existence in the material realm, the second or energy form exists as an expression of what is to be. For humans this energy form is the invisible twin of the material form pattern that controlled everything pertaining to the shape and form of that material body.

Then these researchers went further to propose that this pattern-field of energy had absolute control over the material form from its birth to its death. Any changes or modifications appearing in the material form during that span was the result of changes or modifications that had already occurred in the pattern-field.

As they explain it, any disease or ailment exists first in the energies of the pattern-field. Likewise, any physical healing would also occur first in the pattern-field. The material form was simply a "reflection" or copy of the blueprint of forces existing in the pattern-field.

BLUEPRINT OF LIFE

All of this was absolutely contrary to modern teachings concerning the role of the DNA as the primary control. In today's scientific dogma the DNA is the only blueprint and it is the master of the cell. It decides whether that cell will be the basis of Allowing for quantity, the same is true of an ant. When the human and ant are compared to a tree or other plant life, it can be said that all contain minerals of the earth and a "life force." But the former are far more complex and are mobile. A rock, on the other hand, contains the basic elements found in nature as do planets. But rocks do not have a "life force" as we know it.

What this boils down to is that the pattern-fields become a more complex arrangement of the simplest basic pattern-fields as it moves up the scale of specie.

This concept seems to follow the ancient teachings which propose an interconnectedness between all things. But what we are first of all talking about is the invisible energy pattern-field that holds all of these things together and determines the shape and form. How they know what they represent is something else.

More important, we would need to know just what this energy in the pattern-field is, and what the difference is between the basic types of pattern-fields.

fast and a slow rate are joined they try to maintain their difference but demonstrate an affinity at a rate somewhere between both rates. This forms a third resonance or combination resonance. Multiply this billions of times with the hundreds of other types of resonances and you begin to get an idea of the complexity of these proposed pattern-fields when they exist for something like a human being.

All of this has some similarity with what physicists have been proposing for some time. Their view of material reality is not so much one of bits and pieces as was thought earlier. Instead, they have demonstrated that the bulk of what we perceive as solid matter is 99% nothingness and 1% something. That nothingness is filled with the fields and forces—the "glue"—that holds everything together.

As it turns out the something being held together is simply a given quanta of invisible energy in motion. Each quanta is said to have a well-defined rate of vibration or resonance, and this resonance is different for every type of particle.

more complicated. Because when an event is analyzed there is more than the materials involved. An event involves time and time has now been revealed as something more astounding than the average person perceives it to be.

First of all, relativity theory reveals that time is not a continuous and unbroken flow. Time is made up of microscopic segments that come one after the other. There are so many of these segments occurring during one microsecond that they give the appearance of being a continuous flow.

Actually, each segment of time is something like a single frame or picture on a motion picture film in which all action is "frozen." Yet when the film is run at its normal speed the viewer is unaware of the breaks between the frames or the fact each frame is an unchanging bit of action. The apparent reality experienced in watching the film emerges from the rapid flow of the individual "frozen" frames. Likewise, the reality we experience in the real world emerges from the extremely rapid flow of unchanging time segments.

The astounding part of this is that each segment of time comes into being simultaneously throughout the entire cosmos and is the same for any part of the cosmos.

Again, this is not a new idea. It was a fundamental concept in past ages and can be found in the ancient texts from India, Egypt and Greece. In this early view time was also considered to be minuscule bits of unchanging reality with all changes occurring in the spaces between each bit of time.

This is where the modern mind tends to balk at any such suggestions. Because if reality emerges from the flow of time segments, then the intervals between segments would have no time and therefore no reality! How could anything exist without reality?

The solution now being proposed—and it, too, follows an ancient belief—is that material reality does not exist in these intervals between time segments. Every material thing that exists, ceases to exist with the end of each time segment and is recreated for the next segment of time. This includes your entire body, the ground you stand on, the planet you inhabit, and the entire cosmos around you.

If you think about that for a minute you'll realize that while you've been reading this, you and everything that exists here or on Mars or on any other place has been recreated over and over billions and billions of times.

So how did every infinitesimal bit get back in exactly the right place for each segment of time?

That's where the pattern-fields come in. Because these pattern-fields are not an actual part of reality in the material realm. They exist in a realm or dimension outside the realm that we consciously perceive as reality.

Remember, what we perceive as reality is an effect emerging from the extremely rapid flow of individual time segments. We do not consciously experience the intervals between where the pattern-fields make their microscopic changes. Further, the pattern-fields exist continuously throughout the time segments and the no-time intervals when reality does not exist.

By now you're beginning to see why Eastern mystics spend so much time in contemplation and why the western mind balks at such seemingly impossible concepts.

But there's still more to come. So far nothing has been said about where all the matter goes at the end of each time segment, or where it comes from for the next. This is where our generally accepted concepts of matter get in the way. What we need to do is to view matter as an effect rather than a "something." It is an effect we perceive with our limited senses and we've constructed notions to help to simplify our understanding of things. Actually, the matter effect that physicists view as invisible vibrating quanta of energy is, in this view, the product of the resonances making up the pattern-fields.

But the pattern-fields cannot produce this effect by themselves. They require another component that we haven't discussed yet. And this component is the Cosmic Background Field—or CBF.

This idea of a CBF is another old idea that has been around since ancient times. It has been proposed under a variety of different names, probably the most familiar is the "Etheric Field" or simply the "ether."

SPACE-TIME CONTINUUM

Theories concerning the existence of this fundamental field came to an end around the turn of the century when scientists using the most complicated contrivances failed to detect any such field. Einstein added the final touch when he proposed that if such a field existed it probably could not be detected. As a result, the idea of the "ether" was discarded and in its place scientists erected a space-time continuum and gave it all of the characteristics used to describe the "ether." In short, they were back on square one.

Nevertheless, Werner Heisenberg proposed a view of this new field and described it as an invisible cubic lattice with a spacing between intersections about as wide as a proton. This would mean that an extremely large number of these intersections would fit inside an atom. And, as was originally proposed for the ether, it was said that this lattice would interpenetrate everything everywhere, including areas occupied by the above pattern-fields.

But such a lattice could not be passive. There would have to be regular periods when it would become active if it were to be used in conjunction with the pattern-fields. Also, when it became active it would have to do so simultaneously everywhere in the cosmos to fit with the picture of a continuously recreated reality.

If the active periods or pulsations in this lattice matched those of the time segments and its actions operated to create a single unity throughout, then its unity would be distorted wherever it interpenetrated a pattern-field. If each of the intersections of this lattice contained a resonance that was different from the resonances in the pattern-field, then the two would begin to interact to preserve their own resonance. The result of this interaction would be a third resonance or product vibration and this could be the effect of energy quanta that we perceive as matter.

Also, since the lattice resonances would all be exactly the same to provide a fundamental unity, but the individual resonances in the pattern-fields cover a variety of different resonances, the resultant product would reflect these differences in the different types of matter being produced.

However, the instant the CBF ceased its activity at the end of each pulse, the product resonance or matter effect would immediately vanish and would not come into existence again until the next interaction began. Each interaction would result in a single segment of time everywhere. When it ended there would be an interval when the pattern-field resonances rebounded from the attempt to cause them to change and a part of this rebound might be carried over into the next to provide the constant change that goes on in reality.

WHY OBJECTS VANISH

If your modern mind is beginning to grasp some of the implications of such a system, then you might wonder what would happen if a pattern-field was prevented from interacting with the CBF for a given amount of time segments. Quite simply, the object would cease to exist materially. If the affected object were a human, an aircraft or ship, it would mysteriously vanish as has happened in many astounding UFO incidents. Because the thing preventing the interaction, along with the object's pattern-field, are all operating in the unseen realm outside the material dimension.

However, the instant the pattern-field became free to begin interacting again, the object that it represented would just as mysteriously materialize "out of nowhere."

Such an event would seem absolutely impossible and mind-boggling for those who witnessed it. It would be more so for those involved in the phenomenon. For them time would have ceased abruptly when their pattern-field in a no-time dimension, but lacking any consciousness because consciousness is an effect emerging from the rapid flow of time segments in the material dimension.

Therefore, as in many UFO encounters, the individual involved would have "lost" an amount of time.

And what would happen if the pattern-field were moved to a new location while it was unable to interact?

Nothing materially as long as the interaction was cancelled. In fact the pattern-field could probably be transported to the far end of the cosmos and back again in what might seem like an instant to a witness. Because without the interaction there would be no time and no matter involved in the move. It could be done at the speed of thought and outside the material dimension.

This concept is all the more interesting because relativity theory holds that matter cannot move at the speed of light. But if matter is simply an effect resulting from these interactions, there might be no limit to the speed at which a non-interacting pattern-field can be moved. The speed of light may only represent the maximum speed at which the minimum amount of interaction takes place. Therefore an accelerating pattern-field should produce less and less matter as its speed increases until it reaches the "matter barrier" where it no longer interacts to produce matter of any sort. The dwell time in which the pattern-field resonances and CBF resonances are together and able to interact would be too short to produce the effect called matter.

An observer able to watch an object being accelerated to the speed of light might notice the object becoming less dense and then taking on a tenuous glow just before it crossed the threshold limit of minimum interaction. Then it would vanish completely as it continued to move through the CBF lattice without interacting. At that point it would be beyond matter and time.

ALIEN ENTITIES

If there are alien entities popping in and out of our reality, they would have to have a technology of this sort to allow them to defy time, matter, space and gravity in the ways described in the UFO reports.

As inviting as that sounds for future space travel, there are still some elements in this scheme that need to be examined. First is the method by which the pattern-field knows when its resonances are correct for the material object that it represents. The second is what sort of mechanism triggers the CBF lattice to cause the interactions at regular intervals to match the time segments.

Part of the answers to these questions may already have been provided by Dr. Rupert Sheldrake who proposed a somewhat modified version of the pattern-field theory. He favored morphogenetic fields in place of the pattern-fields and suggested that all of these fields are interconnected through a sort of universal resonance source capable of providing all of the vital information for all species of animate and inanimate matter. This universal source acted as a sort of data bank to provide the correct resonance for any part of any pattern-field.

This opened the way for proposals that every pattern-field had a control mechanism tuned to this universal source and could continuously draw correcting information to keep its resonances properly aligned so

"Deja vu"... the experience that you have "been there before." Everyone who comes in contact with this remarkable AMULET seems to vaguely remember it from some place or from some other time.

Its origin is shrouded in mystery and even its name is secret and unspoken by those who might say. What is this image? Is it of a man, a woman, a cross or a ship or vehicle of some kind. Is it a symbol of the Bermuda triangle? Or is it all these things? Whatever it may be, the image occurs and reoccurs and is rediscovered again and again in different forms in the places of ancient worship and wonder that span a hundred centuries.

Is this SIMILARITY a COINCIDENCE? Great and awesome stone figures and monuments found separated not only by MOUNTAINS and OCEANS, but by centuries are often so much alike that they might have been fashioned by the same RACE OF GIANTS.

The mighty Egyptian pharaohs are gone but the pyramids remain as do the Aztec and Mayan temples and the giant statues of Easter Island. The mysteries of the European stone hedges haunt us as do the incredible African fortresses of Zimbabwe. Echos of the lost Atlantis never cease. What of the strange "landing site" markings in Nazca, Peru that can only be seen from the sky above?

Why do these monumental works appear again and again through ten thousand years of history? ARE THE VISITORS HERE AGAIN? Do the numerous UFO sightings and reports of contacts with aliens and ETs herald the beginning of another period of guidance for earthlings? What is this mystic IMAGE of that power that was left behind? To hold it in your hand is to KNOW its ancient POWER and STRENGTH. Feel within YOURSELF, the currents of force and vibrance that gave POWER OF COMMAND, WEALTH and PERSONAL MAGNETISM to kings, queens and pharaohs.

ARE YOU PREPARED TO MEET NEW VISITORS FROM OUTER SPACE? Will you accept them as teachers and friends or fear them as devils and enemies? Will you stand up and be among the chosen few to accept the realization that they come to help? Will you WEAR THIS PENDANT as a symbol of brotherhood and welcome?

Merely to see this image on a ring or necklace is enough to make you stop cold in your tracks. It is finished in the silver white metal Rhodium, one of the most brilliant and durable materials found yet, on this or other planets. It also comes in beautiful gold plate. NOSTRADAMUS AND THE UFO CONNECTION

by Diane Tessman

Because we are caught in the tick-tock of time as it speeds along in what seems to be a straight line, we assume that amazing prophets such as Nostradamus saw into the future, standing from the same point in time as his contemporaries. We assume that he was of the time in which he lived and from the world on which he stood. However, what if he predicted what would happen in the future because he watched earth's history go by from outside of time? What if he had already experienced all he predicted so accurately? What if he were a Space Brother, a member of the "Higher Realms," who do not have to follow "time" as we know it.

We are familiar with the prophecies of the "End Days" which will happen in the late 1900's unless earth becomes loving and peaceful.

years may seem like a long-range warning, but we must start to do something about it now in the late 20th Century!

There is no other prophet in history who predicted historical events so accurately for hundreds and even thousands of years in advance. This gift puts Nostradamus apart from gifted seers who can predict events in the next week, month, or—at the most—year.

Many of the prophecies which we are now receiving from the Space Brothers and from other more advanced etheric beings are about nuclear and natural disasters which will forever alter life on earth. The short-range seers function in our world, in our time. The greater prophecies are received from those watching us in Space/Time, those who not belong to this world at all! This truth in itself is a strong with the plague is that he had no success in healing his wife and two young sons who all died of the plague.

This tragic occurrence must be viewed from outside time and outside the personal sadness of it all in order to be understood. After their deaths, Nostradamus wandered the countryside and eventually turned all his time and powers to writing prophecies. This was exactly the direction his human mission had to take! If he had settled into a happy family life, even to become a grandfather and family patriarch, he would not have time nor motivation for the many prophecies he was to put down. He would not have been able to warn the human race so effectively if he had not become alienated! Of course, he tried his hardest to heal his wife and small sons, but it was not in his life's

WAS THE MOST FAMOUS SEER OF ALL TIME A MORTAL, EARTHLING, OR WAS HE A SPACE ALIEN STUCK IN OUR WORLD?

The nuclear threat, the danger of extreme pollution and environmental damage, and probable natural upheavals seems to be knocking at our door at this point. We can see the potential for planetary destruction but we are also told of it by the Space Brothers through their channels on earth!

Jeane Dixon is a famous prophet, having predicted John Kennedy's assassination and other recent historical events; there have been other gifted seers as well. However, none of these have been able to project themselves hundreds of years into the future as Nostradamus did. When his works are researched, one sees his perspective surpassed the 16th Century. It is as though he had a television set which clearly showed the march of time and history for hundreds of years to come! In fact, Nostradamus distinctly told us when all life on planet earth would come to an end: 7000, A.D. He warned us that the catastrophes of the late 20th Century would be a mere "dress rehearsal" for the final cataclysm. By that time, earth will have space cities and starships, will inhabit other planets circling other star systems; through Nostradamus' advance warning of thousands of years, we can see clearly that we must go to space in order to survive, for planet earth itself will not be here much longer! 5000 years is a very short time in the history of a planet! Five thousand years ago, Egypt was at its peak civilization. This seems like a long time ago, but earth existed for millions of years before the human race ever appeared on it. So, 5000 indication that Michael de Nostradamus was not at all what he seemed to be! Was he truly a French doctor of the 16th Century? Or was he masquerading as such, living a human life...in order to write down urgent prophecies for the human race? Prophecies are warnings. They can be averted and changed if we heed the warning! This was Nostradamus' mission: to warn so that tragedies might be avoided and so that the human race could survive and flourish.

What other proof is there that Michael de Nostradamus was human in physical form but came from outside our history, in the Space Brothers' realm of higher perspectiveness?

The plague ravaged Nostradamus' home town in France for four years. He had just graduated on October 23, 1529, from University of Avignon as a doctor. Other doctors had no success in healing the victims of this vicious disease and many became plague victims themselves, having been exposed as they attempted to treat others. Nostradamus healed those who had the plague time and time again! He did not use the customary medical practices of the day but rather relied on the power of his presence, the laying on of hands, the prayer and concentration he exerted as he sat beside the suffering person. He never caught the plague! Even those who criticized his prophecies (and there were many who felt they were foolish or the work of the devil), had to admit that he was a miraculous healer!

The irony of Nostradamus' work mission to have a devoted and demanding family, and so his life's path turned toward the greater good which was to warn millions, even billions, of people before it was too late!

Both his extraordinary healing abilities and the loss of loved ones point toward the fact that Nostradamus had unearthly origins! The greatest of earth healers today would find it difficult (if not impossible) to heal even victims of the black plague. The disease ravages its victim in less than 24 hours. In those days, no antibiotics or advanced care techniques were available. The rule was simple: if you got the plague you were doomed to die. And yet, Nostradamus healed hundreds of people of the plague! Obviously, his healing gifts and the power from within his being were most un-earthly! They were truly of Heavenly origin for we know that the "Higher Realms" have healing abilities which are miraculous. We have not only to study Jesus' many healing miracles to know the beauty and force of such abilities!

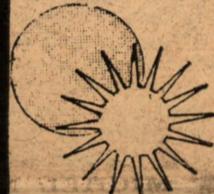

Another fact which point to Nostradamus' outer space origins is that his gift of prophecy was always working, always available. In the case of gifted 20th Century seers (and other prophets throughout history), their abilities are amazing on some subjects, but often they cannot predict trivial details which pop up and they cannot foresee important events, one right after another. They are "hot" on some predictions and receive no insight on

NOSTRADAMUS PREDICTS YOUR FUTURE, REVEALS LUCKY NUMBERS & INTERPRETS YOUR DREAMS

Nostradamus is without a doubt the greatest clairvoyant who has ever lived.

Decades—and in many cases, even centuries—before specific events occurred, the French-born prophet accurately saw them taking place. Prior to his own death in 1566, he foretold of global warfare, aerial battles, space flight, vessels that travel under water, the assassination of world leaders (including the Kennedy brothers), the atomic bomb, Hitler's ruthless rule of Germany, the rise to power of three anti-Christ's, the formation of the thirteen colonies ultimately to become the United States, the rise of Russia and China as worldly powers, and most astounding of all, the exact date on which life on the earth will eventually come to an end.

To date, the works of Nostradamus have been translated into just about every language, and books containing his predictions have sold an estimated twenty million copies worldwide. Most recently, a motion picture concentrating on Nostradamus' greatest psychic feats has been playing regularly on national cable television...the response to this program has been reportedly incredible.

Now, due to an amazing discovery of a batch of Nostradamus' long forgotten personal papers, it has become possible for YOU to know what Nostradamus predicted about YOUR future!

What is not generally realized is the fact that Nostradamus was a trained student of the Kabala, those sacred, ancient occult texts which may have originated with the scientists of Atlantis, or perhaps, some researchers theorize, on some far distant planet. Nostradamus also studied the Holy Bible and the words of Jesus very carefully and apparently unlocked a secret code which enabled him to combine specific teachings from the Kabala with knowledge from the Scriptures. In his private secluded study late at night, he would burn the midnight oil making extensive notes. Those who were close to him, say that Nostradamus had a keen understanding of numbers and knew all about their magical significance. He also was a master of interpreting dreams, which he did skillfully and regularly for the ruling kings and queens of Europe.

It has been stated that Nostradamus had an instinctively uncanny ability to know which numbers were to be lucky and which were not. He supposedly had the powers of Merlin when it came to telling people when they would come into vast fortunes and when they could expect drastic changes to take place in their lives. The seer also had the bizarre knack of analyzing a person's dreams and interrupting their nighttime visions most accurately.

Not long ago, previously unpublished documents believed to have been written in Nostradamus' own hand began to surface among the wealthy upper crust of European society. Among these documents were Nostradamus notes on the meaning of dreams as well as the lucky numbers which coincided with each dream. Also found among his elaborate maze of notes was a key as to how these dream interpretations could be applied to each and every person, regardless of which century they were to live in.

Thanks to the efforts of famed Nostradamus scholar Arthur Crockett, Inner Light Publications has for the first time, been provided with a modern English translation of Nostradamus' dream interpretations as well as his complete chart of lucky numbers.

A CURSE ON AMERICA

Over the decades since the founding of our nation, many powerful curses have been placed upon our leaders.

There is evidence that John Kennedy's death was a result of one such curse, and apparently, other presidents have fallen from power because of America's spiritual enemies.

For instance, there's an old legend which says that Chief Tippecanoe, who fought long and hard and was finally defeated by Zachary—"Old Rough and Ready"—Taylor (the 12th President), placed a curse on the nation as he went to his death. Supposedly, the curse ties in directly with the strange cycle of presidential deaths which takes place every twenty years. Even more recently, the Ayatollah Khomeini is said to have asked Satan to help bring down the U.S. from its position of power.

At this very moment there is a war going on in the etherial places between the forces of good and evil. We are told that if the forces of darkness win the world will be in ruin, but if good triumphs there will be a millennium of peace and prosperity for everyone on earth.

great conflict is on the immediate horizon. Will America survive? Will there be a war with Russia? Will trouble be promoted from within our national boundaries? Will the nation's of the world ever learn to live in eternal peace? Will freedom eventually come to every man and woman on earth?

As we enter the New Age (often referred to as the Age of Aquarius), scholars have come to realize that it was not mere "coincidence" that the likes of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin emerged when they did to help lay the foundation for what eventually became the United States. Indeed, it is more than simple "luck" that the Bill of Rights and the Constitution has stood for generations as the inspiration for free men everywhere.

There is now startling evidence received through inspiration, as well as spiritual and psychic means, which indicates that the destiny of America has long ago been revealed to our highest elected officials, in particular to the Presidents of the United States. And while it has always remained a closely guarded secret, a careful check of historical facts show that the majority of our founding fathers held a strong belief in supernatural forces and in the omnipresent power of a superior being.

George Washington, as an example, wrote a letter late in life to the governor of Connecticut in which he stated that it was "almost possible to trace the finger of Divine Providence through those dark and mysterious days which led the colonists to assemble in convention, thereby laying the foundation and prosperity, when we had too much reason to fear that misery and confusion were coming too rapidly upon us." Many Americans may, in fact, not realize that during one of the worst days of the Revolutionary War, in the midst of the Battle of Valley Forge, Washington asked to be left alone so that he could pray for guidance. While secluded in his private quarters a beautiful woman appeared to him materializing in mid air. Her arms were all aglow, and she pointed her hand toward Heaven and repeated the phrase, "Son of the Republic, look and learn." With these words, a spectacular vision unfolded before the great patriot who was to become our first president. The angel showed Washington the next 250 years in prophecy for America, culminating in a third world war with a foreign adversary.

BELIEF IN THE SUPERNATURAL

It is not generally known that a good number of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were well versed in the mystical side of life. Ben Franklin, historians have it on good authority, frequented a coffee house where he met a young medical student and together they practiced various old alchemical formulas, rites and ceremonies. Many of our statesmen have had the power of prophecy. FDR and Abe Lincoln saw their death, and they, along with James Madison, Woodrow Wilson and Eisenhower could actually see into the future. Many of the crises they warned of have come true—while others are yet to occur!

PROPHECIES OF THE PRESIDENTS by Arthur Crockett and Timothy Green Beckley is the only complete source for these divinely inspired revelations. Many of our great forefathers and leaders have even spoken recently to us from the spirit world, and are continually offering guidance every American may accept or reject.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE SPIRITUAL KIND

Phillel (Philip J. Jacobs) has served on the staff of the Mark-Age spiritual-educational organization since 1974, and works in the editorial and production department of MAIN magazine, published bimonthly.

His special area of research and expertise is extraterrestrial contacts, especially spiritual or psychic encounters with the space brothers.

Phillel brings a fresh perspective to "close encounters of the spiritual kind" because of his in-depth training for many years with one of today's foremost spiritual contactees of the space visitors, Nada-Yolanda, Executive Director of Mark-Age. Yolanda's first-person account of her contacts, Visitors From Other Planets (see book coupon), is treasured worldwide by light workers, New Age channels and contactees.

In addition to his training and close association with Yolanda, Phillel has many interdimensional space contacts of his own, and has been trained as a unique channel for the Federation's space-beam energies to assist mankind's transmutation in these Latter Days. These experiences qualify him to help others learn proper discernment and interpretation of spiritual and psychic exchanges with our space brothers.

The following article originally was broadcast on the Mark-Age Meditations network. For more information and free introductory catalog of publications, write: Mark-Age, P.O. Box 290368, Ft. Lauderdale, FL 33329, USA.

MORE AND MORE MANY OF US ARE HAVING DREAMS OF FAR OFF WORLDS AND OF MEETING BENEVOLENT SPACE BEINGS. ARE THESE EXPERIENCES BEING "IMPLANTED" INTO OUR HEADS TO AWAKEN US FROM A COSMIC COMA AND HELP USHER US INTO A NEW AGE OF UNIVERSAL ENLIGHTENMENT?

By Phillel of Mark-Age

Light workers, let's get set for close encounters of the—not third kind—but spiritual kind! That's right: close encounters of the spiritual kind.

Many of you know that in the early 1970s the eminent astronomer and UFO investigator Dr. J. Allen Hynek coined the term "close encounters," which refers to contact experiences with extraterrestrials. Hynek spoke of three kinds of encounters, the third kind being actual contact with UFO occupants. How well we remember the box-office smash film, "Close Encounters Of The Third Kind," which immortalized these terms a few years ago!

But now, let's take this one step further by sharing with one another some of the spiritual encounters we are having with our space brothers and sisters.

Those of you who have studied UFOs for awhile, of course, know that the Federation of Planets of our solar system for years has inspired a planetary program to educate the masses about the reality of life in our universe. This mass educational program has taken on many forms in order to spread the New Age teachings of spiritual brotherhood. For example, I'm sure you're aware that in the past decade or two, hundreds of new films, books, television and radio shows—all touching on New Age ideas one way or another—have appeared; not to mention thousands of ongoing physical sightings of UFOs. All this has been a concerted effort by the spiritual Hierarchy to stimulate man's spiritual awakening; also, to systematically prepare man's receptivity to close encounters.

But there's another aspect of the mass educational program that equally has affected each and every one of us. That is the spiritual or inner-plane experiences by which

We can openly speculate upon the various possibilities for hours, but it probably won't do us very much good for, as we have seen many times, Uncle Sam isn't about to come clean and let us have the inside scoop which would once and for all clear up the mystery of the UFOs and show that we are on the verge of some startling cosmic changes which will affect each and everyone of us alive today.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER MEETS WITH ALIENS

This story would be hard to believe except for the fact that it has been confirmed by many unimpeachable sources. One of those sources, the Earl of Clancarty, who is a member of the British Parliament, stated that President Dwight D. Eisenhower met with beings from outer space in 1954, and world famous language expert, Charles Berlitz, confirms the story.

The date was February 20, 1954. Eisenhower was vacationing at Palm Springs when he was summoned to Muroc Airfield by high military officials. Muroc is now known as Edwards Air Force Base, recently popularized as the landing field for the space shuttle.

The President had a press conference scheduled for that day but never showed up for it. There were rumors that he was ill. The official explanation was that he went to a dentist. Newsmen, however, were never able to learn which dentist treated him.

Actually, Eisenhower was driven to the California air base to meet with space aliens. According to Lord Clancarty, the incident was reported to him by a former top U.S. test pilot. Says the Earl: "The pilot was one of six people at Eisenhower's meeting with the beings. He had been called in as a technical adviser because of his reputation and abilities as a test pilot."

WHAT EISENHOWER AND THE SIX WITNESSES SAW

The test pilot told Lord Clancarty: "Five different alien craft landed at the base. Three were saucer-shaped and two were cigar-shaped...and as Eisenhower and his small group watched, the aliens disembarked and approached them.

"They looked something like humans, but not exactly."

The test pilot described the beings as having human-like features, but that by our standards they were misshapen. They were the same height and weight as the average man and were able to breathe air without the use of a helmet or mask.

The test pilot reported that the aliens spoke English and wanted Eisenhower to start an education program for the people of the United States, and eventually the earth.

Eisenhower allegedly replied he didn't think the world was ready for that. The president said that his concern was that a world-wide announcement that aliens had landed would likely cause panic.

The aliens agreed with that opinion, saying that they would continue to contact isolated individuals until the people of the earth got used to the idea of their presence.

THE PRESIDENT WATCHES AN INCREDIBLE DEMONSTRATION

According to the test pilot: "They demonstrated their spacecraft for the president. They showed him their ability to make themselves invisible.

"This really caused the president a lot of discomfort because none of us could see them even though we knew they were still there. The aliens then boarded their ships and departed." The pilot told Lord Clancarty that he never told another soul about this unique meeting, and that now all the others in the encounter are dead.

important of all perhaps is his firm commitment that UFOs play an important role in the ways of the Lord.

While he was in college he discovered that many learned men such as military personnel as well as pilots and police officers had been engaged by these whirling, twirling discs that have been seen overhead since the late 1940s.

In December, 1959, an event took place which was to change Dr. Stranges' life forever. Through what he says were "circumstances," he was invited to speak with a man from another world inside the Pentagon. The meeting took place which was an evangelistic crusade which he was conducting in Washington. "The invitation was given to me by a person who, for obvious reasons, cannot be named in writing. However, suffice it to say that person is a born-again Christian with a sound mind and a good position at the Pentagon building."

Dr. Stranges' meeting with Val Thor is a matter of record as written up by Dr. Stranges in two books, MY FRIEND FROM BEYOND EARTH and STRANGER AT THE PENTAGON. After the conference, Frank left the government building feeling totally elated; so emotionally uplifted was he by his visit with a man of supreme intelligence whose only thoughts were for the betterment of mankind. Since that day many years ago, Dr. Stranges has had further "eye opening" meetings with this man who looks as human as any of us, but who has a love of the Creator and of life that cannot be found that readily on our planet. According to Stranges, Val Thor and other aliens are here—and have been here since Biblical times—to help with our spiritual progression.

PRESIDENTIAL ENCOUNTERS

Recently, I had the opportunity to visit with Dr. Stranges at the church he presides over which is located at 7970 Woodman Avenue, Van Nuys, Calif. The subject from the pulpit for the evening was UFOs and the Bible, and during the course of the discussion, I was even invited up to the rostrum to say a few words. Later, after a brief recess, Dr. Stranges decided to fill his congregation in on some highly confidential information. Dr. Stranges, through his relationship with Val Thor and the Space Brothers, and his high level government contacts, had decided to reveal a series of revolutionary disclosures pertaining to extraterrestrials and how they have influenced many of our presidents from George Washington on down to the most current Chief of State. The following is a transcript of what Dr. Stranges had to say to his church followers:

• "George Washington had a spiritual experience at Valley Forge. According to the records, he experienced a space visitation regarding his own destiny as president of our country. He didn't discuss it with his troops. He discussed it with his chaplain, with his wife, and with close friends, who were also high in military power.

• "Abraham Lincoln in the period from 1861 to 1865 was contacted by who the press of that time called, "space people who accompanied him in his darkest time during the Civil War." He was also warned in a dream by a space entity or an angelic being, not to go to Ford's Theatre. But he felt obligated to those who made plans, and he went to Ford's Theatre, and lost his life.

• "In 1941 Franklin Roosevelt had his first encounter on the third of December. He was warned about United States involvement in a European war. He did not heed the warning. He was afraid of upsetting those around him. He shot himself in 1943. Not even individuals in the U.S. high command, knew what happened that day. To this day, scholars are still confused. They never saw the open coffin.

• "Harry S. Truman, the 33rd President, had his close encounter on July 4th of 1945, just prior to August 6th of 1945, when the bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. He was visually witnessed more than twelve UFO sightings during his term of office. According to two retired Secret Service agents, he met with space people on several occasions and did not deem it expedient to relate his conversation, because he did not want to rub anyone in the National Security Council.

• "In 1953 Dwight Eisenhower was the 34th President of the United States. In 1955 he was flown to Palm Springs where he dropped his wife off. His press secretary told the world he was on a golf vacation. Instead, he was flown by helicopter to Edwards Air Force Base. The truth is that three UFOs landed on the runway at Edwards Air Force Base. The pilot of the first UFO got into the second UFO. Then UFO number two and number three left, leaving one saucer-shaped craft on the runway.

"Military individuals dragged the UFO into the hangar and placed a heavy curtain of security over the whole place." It has been one of the closest kept secrets in history. The president was brought in, along with several members of the joint chiefs of staff, several members of the National Security Council, and a representative from Rockefeller's office, and a representative from the Rothschilds. Why were these key people invited to see a UFO that landed at Edwards?

"When President Eisenhower viewed the UFO two individuals were able to tip it upside down. The UFO was about thirty feet in diameter. Everyone stood back and the strangest phenomenon on record at the base occurred. The UFO dematerialized in front of their eyes. I understand they have pictures of this, moving pictures. Then it materialized again. They say that it was the direct cause of Mr. Eisenhower's first heart attack.

"To this day, that UFO has remained at Edwards'. It's still there. They have brought in scientists from all over the world to try to figure out how to crack into that UFO. They gave it every test that they gave Valent Thors' garment, including the acid test and the laser. The laser was put on that ship and it didn't even warm up the surface. It's defying the best scientific minds in the world. To this day, they are still playing with it.

"Mr. Eisenhower had to clue Mr. Nixon on this. All he could say was, "My God, my God, my God." At first Mr. Nixon had doubts. It was disclosed that his reason for doubting was that he had not seen it himself. But Richard Nixon also flew to that place and saw it for himself. Every president since Eisenhower has been to that sight and seen that ship.

"Other countries have pleaded to be allowed to take it to their country for tests, including West Germany. But so far no good."

GREAT SOCIAL CHANGE AVOIDED

"John F. Kennedy, the 35th president, had met many opportunities to help change the course of the United States. During the last three months of his life, in 1963, he produced a list of changes that he was about to introduce to the Congress. The list was shared with L.B. Johnson, Bobby Kennedy, and the man whose name sprung 22 times in the released CIA records, Henry Kissinger. From that day to this the list has disappeared, just as mysteriously as Mr. Kennedy's brain disappeared. When they performed the autopsy, they couldn't find his brain. The intelligence report says that his brain is in the Soviet Union.

"Jimmy Carter was very fearful of intelligence forces in Washington, D.C. He was also fearful of certain foreign powers, who had a powerful influence in the American government. Following news reports about his UFO sighting, the White House was deluged with letters and phone calls from so many people, that he absolutely refused to discuss his UFO sighting any further.

"Every president, for the past ten presidents, has promised that as soon as they become president, all UFO information would be freely given to the public."

RONALD REAGAN — MYSTERY MAN

"Ronald Reagan is a puzzle. He holds membership card number one to our organization, The National Investigation Committee on UFOs. He has had opportunities to meet with people from other worlds, who are far more advanced than we are. Because of his idea, similar to Nixon's, 'I must do it myself or if I depart from the normal way of doing things, I may incur the wrath of some of my biggest supporters,' he did not keep his promise.

"When he was running for governor of the state of California, Mr. Reagan promised that if he became governor he would start a state investigations office. This was during the last five days of the filming of my documentary Phenomenon 777. He was making commercials for the Boraxal company at the time. Fifteen days after he became governor, I wrote to him and he didn't know me from Adam's housecat. He didn't want to know me either, when it came to UFOs. He said, 'There are certain things that we can't get into right now. Wait until next year.'

"Next year became four years later and there was nothing. Then he became president of the United States and still there was nothing. He agreed to do something, then he disagreed. At one time he wanted to start the most powerful non-governmental UFO investigatory body in the United States. Seven days later, nothing.

"President Reagan's life was spared recently by a certain Secret Service man who, to this day, cannot be located. During the attempted assassination, one Secret Service agent was so excited that he aimed his gun right at the president. Another Secret Service agent grabbed his wrist and pushed it up. That Secret Service man is gone. They have no Secret Service man that fits that description that was on the scene at that time.

"Not long before that, Mr. Ford was in a certain city in the state of California and someone aimed a gun at him. An invisible hand clamped down on that gun and caused it to misfire. I don't believe in accidents. I believe that all things are under divine control and everything is under divine power.

"There is still hope that President Reagan will condescend to meet with Val Thor or anyone else to help this nation find a proper balance. We need to pray for the leaders of our nation. We need to encourage as many clear thinking people as possible to investigate, to prove all things. We must determine in our hearts to separate fact from fiction and hold fast to that which is true. We are living in a generation when anything good for the human family could happen.

ROBERT KENNEDY'S DEVOTION TO THE CAUSE OF THE SPACE BROTHERS

Even though he never got to be president, Robert Kennedy had great leadership qualities. Sometime before he was shot down in a Los Angeles hotel, Bobby expressed a definite belief in UFOs. In a personal letter to publisher Gray Barker, Kennedy noted that he was a card-carrying member of the Amalgamated Flying Saucers Clubs of America (directed by Gabriel Green, a Yucca Valley, Calif. contactee) and indicated that he accepted the stories of those who said they had encountered aliens from other planets.

Kennedy wrote: "Like many other people in the UFO phenomenon, I watch with great interest all reports of unidentified flying objects, and I hope some day we will know more about this intriguing subject. Dr. Harlow Shapely, the prominent astronomer, has stated that there is a probability that there is life in the universe. I favor more research regarding this matter, and I hope that once and for all we can determine the true facts about flying saucers."

While it is certainly difficult to prove, there are those who theorize that Robert Kennedy might have been killed because he was too "New Age," and because he had expressed an intense interest, not only in UFOs, but in many matters that would bring about great social change in our planet. As a footnote it should be brought out that Kennedy's assassin had ample knowledge of the negative aspects of psychic patterns, and later, while in jail, he stated that he did not remember shooting Kennedy; but that he might have been hypnotized by someone into committing such a foul deed.

Doesn't it always seem like those who wish to bring about important social change usually meet with an untimely death? Maybe Robert Kennedy rubbed someone the wrong way—and perhaps that someone was a member of a group that has long tried to halt America's spiritual growth and keep this country and the rest of the world in virtual enslavement.

Furthermore, on the subject of Robert Kennedy, we have Dr. Stranges' solemn word that Bobby met toward his final days with the Space Brother known as Val Thor. According to Stranges' testimony, Kennedy once showed up at his Van Nuys home shortly after the dinner hour insisting upon having Stranges set up a conference between him and Val Thor.

"I told Kennedy I could not do that, that Val met with only those he wished to meet with. But I did recommend that Kennedy go into the next room and type out any questions he might have of Val Thor and promised that I would personally deliver Kennedy's message to my alien friend. Later, Val stated that he had gotten together with Mr. Kennedy and that Robert had wanted to know what his chances were of becoming president. To this question Val replied, 'Mr. Kennedy, four years from now you would stand an excellent chance of winning. But, I beg you to remain far away from the political race this year.' History tells us that Kennedy did not heed Val Thor's advice and ended up perishing at the hands of a mad man whose devotion was to the "dark side" of the "force."

SUPPRESSION OF THE TRUTH

Messages received through telepathy from highly advanced space people who have been watching over the United States since the days of the Revolution have indicated that many of our founding fathers received inspiration from "higher sources," though it was always left to their free will to take the right course.

During one recent transmission received from extraterrestrial sources the following was stated: "The foundation of our country was originally laid on our guidance. We find it disheartening that your government officials would so easily turn from the light that has been given so freely to them..." This transmission, broadcast via telepathy to a New York City businessman who has been experiencing such mental encounters for several years, included this information about the suppression of beneficial discoveries by those in power who would not care to see a change in the status quo:

"There are many on your planet now who have had at their disposal much knowledge. Yet, your governments and your scientists refuse to acknowledge their great discoveries. Many times, these individuals have come forward and tried to release their discoveries, that which they have locked onto, only to find that society is not willing to accept what they are willing to freely give out.

Such an attitude in medicine, in the sciences, and in other fields, has prevented your earth from developing faster than it has." Could it be that there are those that conspire to hold mankind back in the "dark ages?" It may well be that a New Age of light, beauty, and truth could exist around the next corner if mankind were permitted to develop along the path to spiritual perfection, without being thrown off course by those who find it to their advantage to hold us back.

in "positions of power" who make great financial gain every time a new nuclear power plant is constructed, who profit from every stream that is polluted, and get Russia every time either the U.S. or Russia announce that they are going to strengthen their defenses with more missiles and atomic warheads. These powerful men are not anxious to hear what the space people have to say regarding any new form of technology that might put them "out of business," or a plan that would satisfy all political factors and allow humankind to live in total peace forever. There is no money to be made off of peace and tranquility, but vast fortunes to be reaped from turmoil and confusion in a world whose leaders have seemingly gone crazy.

As General Omar Bradley so eloquently stated before his death: "We have grasped the mystery of the atom and rejected the Sermon on the Mount...the world has achieved brilliance without wisdom, power without conscience. Ours is a world of nuclear giants and ethical infants. We know more about killing than we do about living. This is our twentieth century's claim to distinction and progress." ●

The other emotional phases Paris went through were much like those explained by Elisabeth Kubler-Ross in her stages of dying. Paris cried for days. His emotions ran so high that he just cried for no apparent reason. Then he went through a period of acceptance where he resigned himself to the fact that this has happened to him and there was nothing he could do about it. Then he went through a period of depression. Then he got angry. He thought about someone taking three hours out of his life and it made him mad—really mad. He was useless at the campgrounds. Running the cash register or concentrating on anything for any length of time was too much for him to handle.

Paris finally met with Dan and Aileen Edwards to be hypnotized. Once under hypnosis, Paris was able to vividly recall most of the details of that April first night, although some parts still remain a mystery. According to Paris, as soon as he and Mark went into a trance, the UFO hovered over the car and engulfed it in white light. Suddenly, beings came around to the car doors and took Mark and Paris out of the jeep and around to the front. Paris said he was not sure how many beings there were, but he did say they were in no way hostile.

Paris described the beings as being about 5'2". He remembers having to look down into their eyes. They had large heads, but no hair. Their skin was kind of gray-white. They had thin arms and their bodies weren't muscular either. Their shoulders were small. They had two slits for a nose and one slit for a mouth. But the thing that Paris most remembers about them were their eyes. He said they had very large eyes that were almond-shaped and went slightly back on the sides of their faces.

"They were beautiful, beautiful eyes," Paris said. "I didn't see any pupils. All I could see was large black eyes. When I looked into their eyes, I felt at that point what love is. It was a total, all engulfing love. It was like they were loving parents. You almost had that protective, loving feeling. It was that that made me realize they are part of us in some way, shape or form."

The beings asked Mark and Paris if they wanted to go aboard the aircraft and they agreed. Paris is convinced that if they had said no, the beings would have left them alone. They were taken through a triangle-shaped doorway and onto the spacecraft. Paris was led down a hall on the left and Mark down a hall on the right. They would not see each other again until they were back in the jeep.

Paris remembers being in seven different rooms, although he cannot describe all the rooms because his memory will not allow it. He was examined in one room. He was placed on a table that was actually a thick light. Paris said he received a slight shock from the table. A being started examining him thoroughly. It was here that Paris believes he got the needle puncture, although he doesn't specifically remember. It should be noted that since he received the needle puncture, he has never again suffered from bursts.

While being examined, Paris watched a smaller being peering into the room. "I had the feeling it was a child because it was smaller than the others," Paris said. "I had the feeling he wasn't allowed in the room, but he was curious, so he looked in from the hallway. But he never came through the door because he wasn't allowed in there."

After the examination, Paris was taken to other rooms and then allowed to roam freely about the spacecraft. He said the craft had windows about 18 inches tall and 36 inches wide. The walls also curved. At one point they placed Paris up against the wall and he had to bend down because he was too tall.

He was aware of at least five beings in the craft. He remembers three of them standing behind him and communicating telepathically. He also remembers one sitting at a consol with a screen. Paris walked over to see what was on the screen, and what he saw still amazes him. The space shuttle Columbia was orbiting the Earth. The beings had taken him out in space, out beyond Earth, so they could show him the orbiting space shuttle. The thing that Paris was to realize later was that he was abducted on April first, but the space shuttle didn't go up until April 12th. The beings had taken Mark and Paris forward in time and then brought them back.

When they were finished, they placed Mark and Paris back in their jeep, but purposely left a three hour lag time so that they would be aware that something had happened.

Since that time, Paris said he has been visited numerous times by beings in his home. He said he goes through a kind of school. They come into his home late at night, and while he is sleeping they teach him. He wakes up next morning, after having a full night's sleep, just exhausted. He said going through school all night makes him exceedingly tired the next morning.

While he is not exactly sure why they are teaching him, Paris is convinced that he has something that he must accomplish for the beings. And he takes that obligation very seriously. He thinks eventually they will reveal themselves and their plan to him.

Paris believes the beings have the ability to abduct people and bring them back without the individual ever realizing he was abducted.

"They can take you and bring you back within a minute of the time they abduct you or three or four hours," he said. "In my case, they wanted me to be aware of the missing time. This is what they call a conscious awareness. Many people have been abducted and never known they've been abducted because they are brought back so close to the time they were taken. They are not even aware that they have been taken."

Since that time, Paris said he has been visited numerous times by beings in his home. He said he goes through a kind of school. They come into his home late at night, and while he is sleeping they teach him telepathically. He wakes up the next morning, after having a full night's sleep, just exhausted. He said going through school all night makes him exceedingly tired the next morning.

But the lessons are for a reason, he said. Having not been the kind of person he wants to be, Paris said the beings are helping him to be more understanding and compassionate.

"I've done a lot of things in my life that I am ashamed of," he said. "I could have been a better human. And right now there's this white spot on this dark human thing that's inside me, and it's eating all that black away. I have the feeling that the type of person I want to be and should be I will be in time. And it's only through them helping me that I'm growing and changing. Whatever is happening is good and I realize that."

The visitors to his home have now become almost common-place for Paris. Now that he is over the initial shock, his curiosity has gotten the better of him. He wants to find out who the beings are and just exactly what they want from him. He has set a camera up in his bedroom in hopes of at least getting a photograph of them in his home. When the beings enter his home and he tries to get up, he loses consciousness. The next thing he knows, he is in bed awake—the beings long gone. Although he has not yet been successful in getting photographs, he said he is going to keep trying.

Whether or not he is able to get pictures of the beings is not of monumental importance to Paris. He believes he has something which he must accomplish for the beings, and he takes that obligation very seriously. He thinks eventually they will reveal their plans to him.

"It's been told to me several times by different psychics around the country that I'm being communicated with on a very high level for some particular reason," he said. "I'm not sure what it is yet. The experiences I'm going through in the bedroom are unique experiences. I don't know too many contacts who are going through that and are totally aware of what they are going through. I'm aware of it. And it's like they're letting me get a little bit more each time I do it." ● have been waiting for." He then spoke to his visitor in a very low and soft voice for a few minutes. Adamski had to bend his head down close to the Pope's, whose last words were: "My son, don't worry, we will make it." After receiving the Papal blessing, Adamski was ushered out.

Two days later, on Whit Monday, the Pope died, a few hours before we had to fly back—Adamski to London, May to Brussels and I to Zurich. When I left him at Rome airport he was still in a happy mood, the bad news not yet having reached us. But I felt unusually sad and depressed, knowing all of a sudden that I would not see him again. The fact that I had been of some help in fulfilling his heart's desire, though, made the parting easier.

I was by now fully convinced that Adamski was indeed a man with a mission to fulfill, and I suddenly remembered his 'private tuition' as a young boy. I knew for certain that he was expected and received by Pope John XXIII, which also made me inclined to believe him when he told us of other secret meetings in other

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

ANGELIC, GOD-LOVING, BEINGS FROM ANOTHER DIMENSION HAVE INSTRUCTED ME TO HELP EARTH BOUND SOULS RECEIVE ALL THEY DESIRE BY DRAWING UPON THE SPIRITUAL AND HEALING POWERS OF THE POWERFUL...

Cross enlarged to show detail

'CROSS OF CRYSTAL'

Dear Reader:

My name is Diane Tessman. You might have seen me on TV or heard me on the radio telling my incredible story. I am an ordained minister and pastor of San Diego's Starlight Mystic Church. Up until just recently my life was pretty much a shambles. Because of the poor economy, I had lost my job as a teacher and found it impossible to get work. Things rapidly turned real sour — my car payments were overdue, my rent was behind, and I even had to get food stamps to feed my daughter.

But now — THANK GOD! — conditions have vastly improved. My luck has turned from bad to good. Suddenly my cup has runneth over and all because of a strange artifact I came across in my garden, which, I believe, was put there by beneficial beings who have helped guide my life and who have only positive thoughts for every peace loving person on this planet.

But let me start at the beginning...

All my life, I have felt a closeness with God's universe. My experience is no lie! It has been verified by a University Professor who subjected me to a grueling two hour hypnotic session. He wanted to see if I was telling the truth. He is convinced I am, for I relived events that happened many years ago as if they had only transpired recently.

CHILDHOOD EXPERIENCES

It was a warm summer's night and I was playing with my dog outside. It was after dark and a certain stillness filled the air that I shall never forget. As I fooled around with my pet, I noticed a bizarre light a short distance away from where we were.

Without warning, my familiar surroundings were gone and I was in a completely different environment. All around me were these strange beings, some of them human-like, others radically different than any life form I was familiar with.

But there was one particular being who I found myself more attracted to than the others. I especially was not scared of him. The one I conversed with was human and I loved him. I could feel that there was something — a certain bond — between us and to me he has always been my "Special One." Due to the nature of subsequent contacts with these angelic, God-loving beings from another dimension, I feel almost certain that I am only half human, and the other part of me is extraterrestrial. Somehow — and I can't begin to explain this in scientific terms — I believe that the soul of the "Special One" was implanted into me or duplicated into me electronically, and that the "Special One" has been a part of my consciousness ever since I was seven.

SHOCKING REVELATIONS

In recent times my contact with THEM has increased to the point where I have become an accomplished psychic, able to forecast major events before they happen. I have also helped many individuals who feel that they are "different," and that they do not "belong" on this planet. My mission to assist these "Star children" walking amongst us has been a huge success. In addition, I have been doing my best to alert all those who will listen to the coming changes that are slated to take place here on earth culminating in a collapse of civilization and the end of the world as we know it. Mostradamus, Edgar Cayce and other attuned minds have told of catastrophic events which are to take place during our lives, and my friends from another dimension have added to our knowledge of such a monumental transition that is said to be only years away.

Since that night back in Iowa, I have experienced many things that cannot possibly be explained. I have seen and heard what others cannot see or hear. I have had "flashbacks," of previous incarnations. I have heard strange beeps inside and outside my home which emanate from toasters, radios and stereos. Mysterious voices have come over my CB set. I've encountered ghosts, and had a variety of invisible playmates. One of my most frightening experiences has to do with the time I was levitated off my bed and some invisible entities actually tried to pull me through the wall.

HOW THE CRYSTAL CROSS CAME TO ME

Several months ago, I had a series of very frightening prophetic dreams about the "Last Days," which the Bible refers to as "Armageddon." In these nighttime visions, I witnessed entire cities being destroyed and people looking for places to hide. Mother Nature had turned against humankind. There were floods everywhere, and tidal waves swept across the West Coast, while thunder and lightning lit the likes of which we have never witnessed flashed everywhere. Wars had broken out in many lands, and from my dreams it looked like there was no way out. That is, until fleets of glittering spaceships filled the sky and started taking deserving souls off this planet in a mass evacuation which was being directed by the mighty hands of Jesus Himself.

These "dreams" were so vivid that I would wake up in a cold sweat. And while these prophetic visions always differed slightly, the one element they all contained was the materialization of a huge crystal cross over the heads of the suffering multitudes.

Upon rising one morning, a voice inside my head directed me to walk outside to my garden. There glittering in the early rays of sunlight was a beautiful cross made of crystal, and though it was much smaller, it was very similar in design to the one I had repeatedly seen in my dreams.

Later that day, my "Special One," who often speaks to me, told me that there was great significance in the cross that I had found in my yard. He reminded me that crystals have always been known for their healing and spiritual powers and that eons ago, on the continent of Atlantis, scientists had harnessed the forces of the crystal and a great technology existed because of the positive use of these crystals.

My "Special One," recommended to me that everyone should own a cross for themselves and promised that those who carry such a crystal will experience many positive benefits throughout their life.

ARE YOU IN NEED?

Does your spirit cry out for relief from worldly tensions? If so I believe I can promise you...

- Financial security.
- A loved one to comfort you.
- A decent job.
- A means to lift all curses that have been placed on your soul, thus improving your karma.
- A way to own a new home.
- A means to win the lottery.
- To drive around in a beautiful new car.
- To have plenty of money in the bank.

And, above all else, would you eventually like to be taken from this planet to either some Heavenly realm, or a more peaceful dimension in space populated by advanced beings like the ones I've met? According to what I have learned, this is also no problem for those who respond to my unusual request.

My contacts with angelic entities from another dimension have indicated all this — and more — is within the realm of possibility, but that your chances of succeeding at WHATEVER you wish to achieve will be tenfold if you carry this powerful crystal cross with you at all times.

NOT FOR SALE

In another dream, I was warned that I must never sell the cross, but that it should be given to those who seek eternal comfort and spiritual awakening. Since the crosses are costly, there is no way that I can send them to the tens of thousands of individuals who are likely to ask for one through this article. Therefore, I believe I have come upon a very fair and just manner in which to put these crosses into circulation as was intended and cover at least part of my expense.

Therefore, anyone who orders a copy of my book THE TRANSFORMATION will receive both a copy of my autobiography (which I think you will agree makes for fascinating reading and will tell you a great deal more about the coming tribulations to strike this planet and how to personally avoid them as much as possible), and a FREE crystal cross.

TAKE PART IN AN EXPERIMENT

I am v. y. anxious to know what effect wearing the cross will have on you, so after carrying it on your person for thirty days won't you please drop me a line and let me know how your life has changed for the better?

I realize in distributing these crystal crosses that I am entering upon a totally new threshold in human understanding. I definitely KNOW from personal experience, that there are advanced beings out there who, with God's help, wish to assist those who will open their hearts and their minds to other realms and realities.

ADDITIONAL FREE GIFT

If you write to me without delay, I will put you on my mailing list to receive a free trial subscription to INNER LIGHT of which I am managing editor. This publication deals with prophecy, miracles, apparitions of the Virgin Mary and Jesus, experiences in unknown realms, and much, much, more.

A VOICE FROM SPACE OFFERS SALVATION

CHANNELED PROPHECIES CONCERNING THE FUTURE OF HUMANKIND FROM THE SPACE BROTHERS

Across the vastness of space, a superior intelligence speaks out—offering a practical solution to earthly problems and warning that humans MUST "mend their ways, or suffer the consequences," possible destruction of our planet.

Two years ago, a New York businessman went into a light trance. His facial expressions became more intense and his voice changed substantially. Suddenly, an entity identifying himself as "Ashtar—Commander in Chief of the Free Federation of Planets," started to speak. During the course of the next few minutes this alien being spoke about a wonderful NEW AGE he said earth should ready itself for. This highly advanced spiritual entity expressed concern for our way of life and said that there were thousands of extraterrestrials just like him, who are willing to show us that a better way can be found to co-exist with one another and eventually come to live in total peace and harmony. These beings wish to be known as our SPACE BROTHERS.

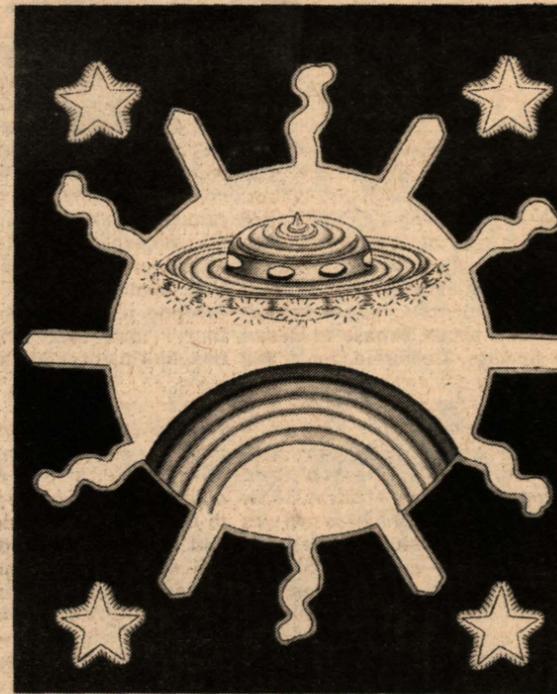

The NEW WORLD ORDER is destined to become the most important book of our times, a commentary on humanity and what can be done to end the pain and suffering that has long engulfed our globe. Some of those who have already read the twenty-seven messages broadcast to our civilization by Ashtar and those peaceful beings under his direct command, have stated that the contents of this book are "highly evolved," while at the same time, being "most simplistic," just like the Ten Commandments given to Moses thousands of years ago.

Sharing a strong belief in the same God, and in the principles laid down by the Bible, these beings are able to see us as we REALLY are. Ashtar's philosophy will lift the hearts of all New Age people, and is the only book able to offer a POSITIVE means by which we eventually will be able to join our friends among the stars in a bond of universal brotherhood.

ADAMSKI MEETS POPE

important buildings, such as the White House, into which he had also been admitted through a side door.

I still remember his White House story. He told me that he had been entrusted with a written invitation for President Kennedy to visit one of the space people's huge mother-ships at a secret airbase in Desert Hot Springs, California, for a few days. In order to keep this visit absolutely secret, Adamski was to take the invitation direct to the White House through a side door. Still glowing with excitement and smiling happily, he explained how the row of cars in which his taxi was travelling had to stop because of a red light just in front of this particular door where a man he knew—a spaceman, he said—was standing ready to let him in. Adamski later learned that Kennedy had spent several hours at the airbase after having cancelled an important trip to New York, and that he had had a long talk with the ship's crew, but that he had not been invited for a flight.

Pope John's death was a strong blow to George. On June 18th 1963 he wrote to me:

"...Even space people could not do much when they, the doctors, kept pumping morphine into his body. They did not intend him to live or they would have taken the chance of an operation, and their excuse of old age does not mean a thing..."

I do not think that he was alone in his suspicion at that time. In several papers reporters had expressed their astonishment that no operation had been performed.

Before we had come to Rome and were still in Basle, Desmond Leslie telephoned and asked us to go and visit his brother Jack Leslie who lived near Rome in a 17th-century palazzo in a secluded piazza near the River Tiber. Jack Leslie seemed to be pleased when we rang him up, and invited us for tea. He was a very nice host and delighted to have George Adamski as his guest, although Desmond had told me that Jack was not too keen on flying saucers and that it might be better to stick to other topics of conversation.

For a while our conversation kept to politics and to the Pope's illness, but very soon the two men found a common interest in philosophy. Jack Leslie, a devoted Catholic, was quick in guessing that Adamski's preference, at the moment anyway, was not in religion but rather in the evolution of man and nature. I noticed that it was of particular interest to our host when Adamski said: "Evolution is not only the greatest possibility for mankind, but also for plants. Take wood, for instance: trees cut in the mountains, coming down a stream, most of it going to be used for building purposes, for paper mills, or just for combustion. But once in a while there is a specific piece of wood with an opportunity and a destiny quite apart, because this one piece is going to be worked into a beautiful violin, a beautiful-sounding instrument for an artist. This piece of wood goes—with the help of man, through him and with him—through his own evolution, and by doing this it helps man forward in his. This is true evolution: Man and Nature evolving together." I must confess that I took this example for a beautiful parable of almost biblical impact.

Jack Leslie's palazzo was situated in a picturesque old square with a few trees and some tiny old houses in which the servants and livestock of the noblemen of the palazzo used to live in earlier centuries. A small and somewhat dilapidated chapel still stands in the middle of the square, remaining part of the property. Mr. Leslie told us that the building was looked after by two old nuns who lived on its first floor, and that the chapel contained a holy cell, hewn out of the rock, where some early Christian saint was supposed to have found shelter. He thought this worth seeing and so we all went in.

I had known for some time that George had a peculiar idiosyncrasy against entering any church, old or new, Catholic or Protestant. He had politely refused to go into Basle cathedral (which is well worth seeing) and he had not gone inside St. Peter's Dome either. Now, on Whit Sunday, 1963, he had to enter this insignificant little chapel in order to please his host. I could feel and see his hesitancy. He looked quite pale as soon as we were inside and our host asked him if he felt cold. He answered that indeed he did, but to be polite he walked with us toward the monk's cell, not even glancing at the attractively decorated altar and not making the sign of the cross, as May Morlet and Jack Leslie did. As soon as possible he left the chapel.

This episode reminded me of certain events in 1959. Again, I felt that I was dealing with a kind of mystery man. He seemed to have a special faculty for picking up certain 'vibrations' in buildings of historical significance as, for example, in some old castles in England, where horrific deeds had occurred, which he had tried to explain to me, but I took it as a figure of speech. Now that I had seen the effect in his face I realized that George Adamski was a true psychic.

The previous evening I had been witness to another manifestation. We were sitting in a private house with about a dozen of George's Italian friends. A mother had brought along her son who suffered from a terrible deformity of one eye, which looked simply monstrous. Adamski felt very sorry for the boy and spoke kindly to him and his mother, asking the latter how this deformity had come about, and she willingly told him. I scarcely listened to her words because I noticed that the colour of Adamski's face had become slowly deeper and that there was a kind of vibration around his head as he leaned forward and looked at the boy intently.

After a while he turned away from the boy and started explaining to the boy's mother—in great detail—what was wrong with a certain eye muscle and the ligaments attached to it, adding that there was a real chance of saving the eye with an operation because he clearly saw a hollow just behind the eye socket in which it could be put back. The woman took note of everything he said, while tears ran down her face. A doctor who was present joined in the conversation and seemed to be impressed with what George said. What was more, he promised the lady to take her son to an excellent specialist on the following day.

In the taxi on the way to our hotel I asked George how he could have known about everything he had said. "You talked like an anatomist!" I said. He smiled and answered: "It was difficult, but I was able to raise my 'vibration' which helped me see right through the head." I asked him if he did this often. "Oh no. This was the first time that I got such a distinct picture," he said. "Usually it is somewhat blurred or too dark."

It was a great pity that no-one had been present who was aware of the lady's identity: nobody knew her name. I therefore never learned if the operation had been a success.

Prior to leaving Rome, Adamski started telling me about the many ways of opposition used to hinder his work, and even to get rid of him. Once, after having given a lecture in Chicago, he was invited to fly in a twin-engined private plane to another town on Lake Michigan. Suddenly, in mid-air over the lake one of the engines failed completely and the pilot 'had a hell of a time' landing his plane in the nearest field. Also the other engine had shown signs of falling. The pilot examined the engines on the spot and discovered that some liquid—probably water—had been put into the fuel supply. He said it was a miracle that the second engine had lasted long enough, and that the liquid had been put there deliberately while he was on his way to the owner. "I was quite ready to believe him," Adamski said, "but my host was not. He put the blame on the pilot, and they had a big argument about it."

It was the last conversation we had. In my heart I knew that we would not meet again. Something in me was faltering, and it turned out to be due to the Saturn Report and the Glendale Letter. ● as to produce the correct matter during each interaction.

Others had already proposed something like this as the means by which the body could self-correct physical ailments as occurs in miraculous healings or so-called spontaneous remissions. In these instances there had to be a source that "knew" the difference between correct and incorrect resonances causing the ailment.

In these instances it was proposed that an ailing pattern-field through its own control receives the correcting information that can suddenly restore the ailing resonances back to normal. Since the change would take place during the no-time intervals, neither time nor matter would be involved and the "healing" would appear instantaneous.

This still leaves the lattice triggering mechanism to be explained. But allowing Nature's propensity for simplicity it might be that the universal resonance source provides a single fundamental vibration whose pulses trigger the lattice into action while contained within each pulse are the signals carrying the information to keep the resonances of the pattern-fields correctly aligned.

THE ULTIMATE POWER

This would make the universal source the ultimate power behind all things in this material dimension and the dimension shared by the CBF lattice and the pattern-fields. All things everywhere would draw their being and existence from this single source.

So where does the human mind fit into all of this?

In this scheme the human brain would be a material mechanism for interfacing the mind with the reality created by the matter effects. The microscopic changes taking place from segment to segment of time would provide the mind with a conscious experience of reality. The subconscious mind, on the other hand, would function as a monitor passing on instructions from the mind and those coming from the universal resonance source. It could provide the pattern-field control for directing needed changes such as normal healing processes. But it could also be the trigger for the almost instantaneous miraculous healings. It would simply send corrective signals to change the resonances creating the ailing component.

The mind, therefore, would exist outside the material realm and share the same dimension as the pattern-fields, universal resonance source, and the CBF lattice.

ROGUE FORCE

With this view of reality all mysterious events, whether UFO, psychic or miraculous phenomena, can be examined on a more explainable basis. But there would also have to be a "rogue force" component operating within the non-material dimension to provide the unintentional and accidental events. This would allow that while some mysterious phenomena are products of the human mind or "outside" intelligences, other lacking any intelligent intent are due to this natural and spontaneous rogue force.

As an example: a human accidentally trapped within the perimeter radiated by such a rogue might see a brilliant core where the rogue's strong energies are altering the pattern-fields of the molecules forming the atmosphere causing them to emit energy in the form of light. If the field became stronger it could begin to affect the person's pattern-field—and the pattern-fields of their clothing and personal items—to the point where they ceased to interact with the CBF lattice. They would then vanish.

To match the reports of UFO encounters, these rogue phenomena would need to be mobile and able to transport the pattern-fields of anything caught in its field. If it was that of a human, they would be invisible, unconscious and unable to escape. If they were carried this way to a distant location before the rogue force became depleted, they would materialize and have their mass and gravity restored but would be stunned to find themselves in an unfamiliar location. Trying to explain their plight to local authorities would brand them as insane. Far worse would be the plight of those released over a remote jungle or the middle of the ocean. Their last futile cries for help would be lost in the remote vastness and they would be termed missing persons.

CASE STUDIES

Such cases are not exactly rare. In 1974 a Brazilian was inducted by just such a rogue field while driving his car along the highway. Five days later he found himself sitting on top of a mountain 460 mile to the northwest of where he had seen a bright light over the highway.

In April 1981 another Brazilian was taken from his car the same way and five days later found himself standing on the street of a city 600 miles west of where he had been.

In 1976 a man was taken from a street in Brazil and transported 1200 miles to a town in the northwest. It took him a month to regain his senses and contact the police who had been looking for him.

Also in 1981 an English coal miner vanished from a street in a small town. Five days later his body turned up perched on top of a coal pile in a town 30 miles further west.

Strangest of all is a 1975 report of a woman who vanished from the Lincoln Tunnel in New York while helping her husband clear the snow off their car's windshield. They never find her.

So what about those who claim to have been abducted by aliens in flying saucers?

Well, if what we've reviewed here is the correct interpretation of matter and reality, then other intelligences "elsewhere" could have developed an advanced technology along these lines. They could have been travelling to our planet for thousands of years without our knowing it. They could be familiar with the realms beyond the material dimension and have a capacity to travel through it freely. If they encountered a human who had been caught up in one of these rogue fields and dematerialized, then it might be their nature to rescue and restore the victim. As a test of the restoration process they might materialize their craft, bring the victim back to consciousness, then show him or her around their vessel to determine if the victim is functioning properly.

If such a victim misinterpreted the rescue as an abduction it probably would make no difference. The alien visitors would be well aware of the barbarian nature of humans and might not want them to discover the truth about reality and begin developing methods for invading other dimensions.

NOSTRADAMUS & THE UFO CONNECTION

come true (and we will take a look at these in a moment), it is also true that he had the ability to foresee small, irrelevant events as well as to see many historical events in places which had not even been discovered yet! He often refers to American cities as "the New Cities," for instance. Keep in mind that the "New Cities" he refers to had not yet been founded (Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, New York, etc.).

First, let's take a look at his uncanny and constant ability to foresee trivial situations:

There is a well-known anecdote about Nostradamus being asked to foretell the future of two pigs. The owner was a skeptic and did not believe Nostradamus had the ability to see into the future.

After Nostradamus had said, "You will eat the black one; a wolf will kill the white one," the disbeliever secretly told his cook to kill and serve the white pig for supper that night so as the prophecy could not be fulfilled. While the cook was out of the kitchen, a wolf cub, which some of the man's servants were trying to tame, got into the kitchen and ate the white pig.

Since all pig meat is the same color, the frightened cook killed the black pig and served it instead to the disbeliever and Nostradamus. Nostradamus insisted that the black pig was indeed the meat upon the table but the disbeliever marched out to the kitchen to bring the cook out, proving Nostradamus wrong. At that point, the cook confessed.

This is certainly an example of Nostradamus' short-range, trivial prophetic ability. It is almost as if he had seen the entire situation on a viewing screen before it happened; he was that sure of his facts. Perhaps he had foreseen the night's dinner on a literal viewing screen such as starships have! We all know that when one travels space, one leaves time (as we know it on earth) far behind. Just as in the case of plague-healing, the very best psychic in this day and age would be hard-put to equal this display of detailed, trivial future-sight. Nostradamus was not at all general in his prophecies but descriptive down to the last detail, the finest situation, the greatest specifications. He was truly uncanny and magical, or his abilities were distinctly not human!

Nostradamus' presence stands out in history; he lingers as an almost ominous, haunting ghost. Yet, he was a man of great goodness. He worked with the dying with no thought of catching their horrible affliction. His love for the human race was evident in his many warnings and "alerts" to what might happen if humankind did not follow God's path.

For instance, he predicted that a mob would return to the Tuleries, 500 strong, after their first invasion on June 20, 1792 (this was during the French Revolution which he mapped out so wondrously over 200 years before it happened!). It is a matter of record that the mob of 500 did indeed march again on the Tuleries. However, at the time this prediction was published (early 1500s), the French royal residence was at Fountainbleau. The Tuleries palace did not exist! Catherine de Medicis begin to build it in 1564 on the site of a tileworks (the Tuleries, in the French language). Can you imagine even an exceptionally gifted psychic seeing so accurately, in detail, over 200 years into the future? It is as if Nostradamus had flown over the Tuleries on June 20, 1792, cast his view scope on the happenings there, then flown back to the 16th Century to report the news as a warning!

What if Catherine de Medici had paid attention to Nostradamus' warning and not built the royal palace on the tilework (Tuleries) site? She would likely have saved the royalty of France! Of course, this is perhaps not a preferable alternate historical timeline but the point is, those familiar with space channelings are aware of their "alternate timeline" messages and transmissions. The Space Brothers tell us that we can choose not to blow this planet to nuclear bits, that we can choose to become residents of a brave new higher dimension, that we can join them in their explorations of other worlds and realms, that we need not kill or be killed. Nostradamus dealt with exactly the same alternatives for this planet and the human race!

Those who are short-sighted and doggedly skeptical might say that the predictions of Nostradamus which did not come true were because he "guessed wrong." Instead, his predictions which were not acted out in earth's history were because his warnings were heeded! When wars were averted someone listened to Jesus' words of "love your brother as you do yourself." When battles were avoided and an alternate timeline was taken, someone heeded the warnings of Nostradamus and other extraterrestrials of "Higher Realms!" There have been other great guides throughout humankind's history from outside the timeline, such as Jesus Christ Himself. They tell us we can change our collision course with doomsday if we but love one another!

And so, when prophecies are not fulfilled, it is because we have chosen the better timeline; it is not because the gifted prophet "missed the mark!" No one could see as accurately as Nostradamus on details such as the black and white pigs, the Tuleries conquest, and hundreds of other specifics which were utterly accurate.

In some cases, his warnings were consciously heeded; in other cases, those who changed history were not aware that Nostradamus had warned them of what could happen. They were merely people of goodness and love who chose not to kill, not to fight, not to conquer, torture others, nor to march off to war for some political cause or leader.

Let's look at two other examples of Nostradamus' amazing prophecies: He was an "expert" on both Napoleon and Hitler hundreds of years before either evil leader was born. He called them "anti-Christ."

His detailed description of both these infamous men send chills down the spine. How could Nostradamus have known so much, in such detail? We defy any current highly gifted human prophet of today to give such absolute description and detail of events and people who will not be born for hundreds of years. Nostradamus' perspective was not the narrow perspective which humans have to have in order to be "human" (a resident of earth). His perspective was obviously a global, universal one...one which transcends any "psychic gift" which many humans do have. He had already "been there," already seen history as it unfolds in the future. This seems the only logical explanation of his gifts! He was truly a space being!

Of Napoleon, Nostradamus tells the human race to beware of a short man with short hair. He tells us where Napoleon was to be born, when he was to be born...and many other specifics about this evil man. Nostradamus tells Napoleon would reign for fourteen years (indeed, his power extended from 1799 to 1814); he tells us that he would be Emperor of France (the first and only Emperor of France), that he would be more of a butcher than a prince, that he would be exiled to Elba after defeat by the Russians (the terrible winter's march made by Napoleon's faltering troops is detailed graphically by Nostradamus). And, finally, Nostradamus tells us of this evil little man's final defeat at Waterloo by Wellington.

Of Hitler, Nostradamus tells us the "King of Terror" would reign 27 years, would torture and murder all who oppose him, would seduce the Germans through the lies of nationalism, would rule in a pool of blood through the murdered corpses of his victims, would provide hell on earth for millions. Nostradamus tells us of Hitler's conquest of Paris, of the Japanese and Italian allies, of the aerial attack of England before this anti-Christ is finally defeated. Nostradamus even tells us his name: "Hister."! These clues should have been enough to stop Hitler; they are certainly broad enough! But the human race did not listen, until it was too late!

It must have been very unnerving for Nostradamus to accurately report the details of his own death and also his exhumation 50 years later by the Catholic officials (they wished to move him to a more honored spot since they had been very scornful of his powers when he was alive; it took them 50 years to begin to realize the importance of his gift!) Nostradamus did accurately predict both his death and his exhumation (his corpse had a plaque around its neck which told the Catholic officials, as they dug it up, the exactly month and year in which they would carry out this feat). However, Nostradamus did not seem to mind traveling ahead in time to see his own death and exhumation because, obviously, he knew that his life-force would not end when his physical human body was laid to rest! His knowledge of the continuance of the soul also reflects his Space Brother origins.

In the 20th Century, we have been told that Star People live among humans on earth, trying to guide earth toward the alternate, peaceful timeline which Nostradamus indicated did exist, if only we would heed his warnings and prophecies! His predictions are not the only warnings, for Jesus Christ and other great seers also told us to love one another before it becomes too late. Certainly, we can clearly see the overall mission of Star People and their Space Brothers at this crucial point in earth's history! Nostradamus warned us of the "nuclear fire" to come, he told us of the "New Cities" (American cities) to be bombed, of the length of the nuclear confrontation, of the effects on the environment. He also told us that life will spring forth again—but after much death and at great cost. How much better to heed his warning and avert catastrophe altogether!

Just as Nostradamus could travel ahead in time and see his own death, he also knew that his soul would never die. He exists today on a different level, a higher dimension. He still warns us, channels to us...of impending catastrophes and how we can avert it! In all his works, both during his human life and since...he wants the best for the human race. He has echoed Jesus' words of "love thy neighbor as thyself" long before the warnings become reality! ●

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS

we are taught, guided and conditioned subconsciously to assimilate the higher concepts and vibrations of the New Age. These contact experiences come in the form of dreams, visions, meditations, inspirations and the like. My term for them is close encounters of the spiritual kind.

Through these experiences we not only are being prepared for greater spiritual demonstrations but we also are helping to seed and to condition mass consciousness for greater acceptance of the spiritual plan for Earth.

Because we light workers are the avant-garde, because we are testing units to see what the masses can assimilate and work with, we have to consider that our inner-plane experiences can have meaning outside our own personal applications and developments. For they can symbolize and correlate to planetary events, plans and cycles. Moreover, we can influence segments of mass consciousness—that is, groupings of individual souls—whom we represent, and for whom we are the leading edge to help steer mankind into the fourth dimension.

But here's something else to think about: we have now entered the demonstration cycle of the spiritual program, from 1984 through 1995, and we have begun to manifest greater light-body demonstrations of our Christ Self.

Now tell me this, friends, have you considered that one important demonstration of light is the communicating and sharing of spiritual experiences with one another? Yes, we can demonstrate the light by sharing with one another the light of our experiences. Sharing helps create a more fluid energy exchange amongst us. And isn't this a big part of what this spiritual evolutionary program is all about?

So, I'd like to share with you a small sampling of the close encounters of the spiritual kind that some of you have reported recently. The examples here involve dreams, which are just one type of contact experience. But the lessons are universal; and they should give us food for thought in working with our space-contact experiences, whether they come in dream, as here, or in meditation.

Our first close encounter comes from a dear friend and co-worker in Canada, who reported the following dream. She writes: "A craft landed and the occupants came out into a group of us. I stood very eagerly at the front row of the group of people I was with. As the space brothers walked toward us they had some goggles which they passed out to selected persons in the group. They walked past me and gave out these goggles."

She went on to say that in her excitement she felt she must be missing out on some special privilege or assistance, and so out of insecurity asked one of the space visitors to give her a pair of goggles, too. But when she put them on, she found out they were merely like swimming masks with clear glass for protection over the eyes. Later the group was taken aboard ship, and the spacecraft left.

Here's how our fellow lightworker interpreted her dream: "My reactions and thoughts in the dream gave me valuable personal insight, but even more importantly I felt this new level of contact was significant. I've seen spacecraft in dreams before, but never have they landed, nor has there been direct contact. All of this was personal evidence to me of the stepping up of this part of the program."

She went on to analyze that her reaction about the goggles showed lack of faith and confidence in her own I Am Self; which she said was a timely lesson for her. She further writes: "The space brothers knew that I did not need the goggles, but due to mortal thoughts I didn't realize that. Stronger identity in the I Am is the answer, and is what I am working on these days."

She also interpreted that the other people in the crowd, who received goggles, represented areas of her consciousness that were not totally prepared for or fully aligned with (perhaps not seeing clearly, as it were) the higher spiritual energies symbolized by the space landing.

Now, what can we see in this dream? First of all, these inner-plane space contacts can symbolize the landing of greater spiritual light into our consciousness. After all, this type of subconscious conditioning is one way the space brothers work with us to prepare us to receive higher energies from them. We have covered some of these types of exchanges in past MAM tapes and MAIN articles, available through Mark-Age.

Secondly, we can also look at these dreams, as our friend has here, as being personal progress reports, showing us how we are reacting to higher spiritual overshadowing and development, and showing us what areas we need to work on in our consciousness. So, they can be more than just phenomenal events; they can be important teaching tools. This is what we have to look for.

It is important to note that in spite of the lesson she was being given, her dream notes a positive step forward in working with the light. Remember, this was the first dream she had had where the space visitors had actually landed. That shows greater externalization of light, greater connection and alignment with higher forces. This is good.

Our next space encounter of the spiritual kind comes from another close friend and broadcaster, also from Canada. She relays two dreams. Here's her first one:

"Small spacecraft were flying down low over the ground. Each spaceship had one, two or three beings only. I lay flat on the ground with my arms outstretched, and as each spaceship flew over me it ejected and injected my system with a high-frequency energy, and each time my aura lit up for awhile."

Now, isn't this a beautiful, universal image of welcoming visitors from other planets with outstretched arms? Truly an example of receptivity and cooperation all of us can follow!

This dream again shows the symbolism of landing light into one's consciousness. It demonstrates how the space brothers are working with us to charge us with new energies. And how does our friend react subconsciously to this implantation of light? By being totally receptive to contact and upliftment.

Her second dream came a few months later, and was more involved. She writes: "My husband and I were riding in a vehicle down a very heavily treed, narrow country road. It was dark. All of a sudden, a spacecraft lifted our vehicle up into the sky above all the treetops. I was very excited and it seemed that my faith helped keep us up there. My whole body was tingling with the power going through me and my right hand was very painful. In my mind, I thought that since it was too painful, I may not be able to stand the pain of this energy acceleration, but I will hold on for the best of the whole."

"Then I heard a space being say in a reverberating, penetrating tone: 'They have been prepared...They are complete...Just a few more tasks (tests) and they are ready.'"

"After that, our vehicle was set down on the road. My husband seemed in a daze and unable to move, so I steered while he accelerated. I kept trying to put the headlights on to see ahead. The lights would come on and then dim out. Then suddenly, I saw a light ahead and we went from total darkness into total bright, vibrating light."

This dream is rich and full of detail. In a letter, I relayed the following thoughts to our fellow broadcaster: "Your dream is full of classic symbology: being lifted up, helping sustain the levitation through faith, feeling power surge through you, experiencing clair-audience, moving into the light. And the message from the space being, which could represent your own high Self, is succinct, direct and to the point. I would apply that to yourself first, as a form of spiritual progress report."

"Your husband also may represent your own conscious aspect, where the higher energy still needs to be anchored more fully in order to properly drive the vehicle of the mortal self. Or, another way to put it is that the energy first is experienced and anchored into the subconscious aspect (which you symbolize) by the high Self (which is represented by the space contact), and then is brought into further externalization in the conscious aspect (portrayed in the dream by your husband)."

Friends and co-workers, these are just a few of many examples we could share with you. I'm sure you know of many others. Why don't you write us and tell us about them?

For now, let's take these thoughts into our meditations: How can I

THE FLIGHT OF THE WOMBAT

It is not unusual for bad weather to interrupt TV reception at my home in a rural West Virginia, where three households share a "home-made" cable system, involving a hilltop antenna. Winds or snow-laden tree branches can twist our wiring and knock out signals from distant stations, the nearest one 40 miles away.

But genuinely unsettling is "skipping," or erratic reception of channels far outside our reception area. I say "unsettling," for this usually signals a radical change in weather and severe storms.

On that unusual January day of this year I was tempted to believe that the Flight of the Wombat had something to do with the "skipping" signals and resulting chaos on TV. But the erratic reception predicted the most severe blizzard I have ever witnessed.

Of course it is also strange how "Professor" Gresham could have scheduled a public demonstration in synchronization with the storm. I put "Professor" in quotes because George Gresham never claimed any academic accreditations in his wild stories about building a "Flying Saucer," told in Letters to the Editors in a small weekly shopping newsletter. And I don't believe his contraption would have worked without a deep snow. The Wombat was more like a snowmobile than a UFO!

In his letters, published during the fall of 1983, (date unknown because I did not believe the clippings were worth saving), Gresham claimed to have invented a device which had "conquered gravity," and which would "revolutionize warfare and the air transportation industry."

Flying Saucer Inventors

There had been far more better known "inventors" of Flying Saucers in the past, and many people believed that "Earth-made" Saucers were actually flying, secretly piloted by the military, or, even more fantastic, by Hitler's henchmen who had escaped to South America after World War II.

One of the more credible "inventors" had been Otis T. Carr who formed OTC Enterprises, Inc., in Baltimore, Maryland, to develop and manufacture a circular vehicle capable of travelling to the Moon and back. Starting the company with his own very limited funds and some help from friends, Carr eventually was able to attract capital from the private sector.

When I talked with Carr in April, 1958, he gave me some generalities of how his principle worked when I reminded him I couldn't understand technical language:

He said the operation of his invention was simple, and involved taking electrical power from the air. The same "free energy" which caused the earth to rotate on its axis and orbit around the sun would turn a machine he described as two cones joined at their circular basis. When the rotation of such a machine reached a certain velocity relative to the earth's orbital velocity, Carr said it would take off. From what I could learn, the machine, in essence, involved a kind of central core which was chemical in nature and functioned like a storage battery; however it tapped atmospheric electrici-

The inventor offered a proposition which the U.S. Government apparently did not accept: OTC Enterprises would build a working craft approximately 45 feet in diameter by 15 feet in height, with a crew compartment that would accommodate at least three persons in comfort under conditions encountered to within 1,000 miles from the earth. The craft would depart from any specified location in the continental United States, orbit one or more times outside the earth's atmosphere, and land its crew safely within the inner rotunda courtyard of the Pentagon Building in Washington, DC; or at any other location best suited for public observations. The craft would be powered "from natural environmental sources acting in motion-concert with self-contained chemical components of the Utron Power Package and needing no additive, servicing, nor replacement prior to at least one year of operation in or out of the atmosphere."

Although it was rumored that Carr, rebuffed by his own government, had sold his secrets to the Russians or some other foreign power, such is most unlikely because of the inventor's avowed patriotic stance.

The Bluebird

Perhaps I am not qualified to ty. The machine would function both in our atmosphere and in space.

doubt "Professor" Gresham's "Wombat," when I relate the exploits of Otis T. Carr with such enthusiasm. But Carr and his alleged inventions never failed to fascinate me. And I am the same person who a few years ago actually invested $10 in two shares of a Flying Saucer scheme developed in England by John Searle.

And I was always impressed by the enthusiasm of my friend, the late David Stuppel, a Michigan State University sociologist who was interested in UFOs. Certainly no "stuffed shirt," Dr. Stuppel apparently had been the only "outsider" (accompanied on one occasion by photographer Douglas Curran), entrusted by a minor religious sect of Detour Village, Michigan, to attend their meetings and view the Flying Saucer they were constructing in accordance with telepathic instructions given them to by extraterrestrials.

Begun in 1969 and named "The Bluebird," the machine was constructed slowly and patiently, bit by bit by its loyal builders, as they received their piece-meal instructions from the Ufonauts. I don't know the date of Stuppel's last visit to the building site, for he died in 1983 and had not reported completion of the machine at that time. When finished, the craft was to carry members of the sect to Heaven, believed to exist on some other planet.

The Raging Storm

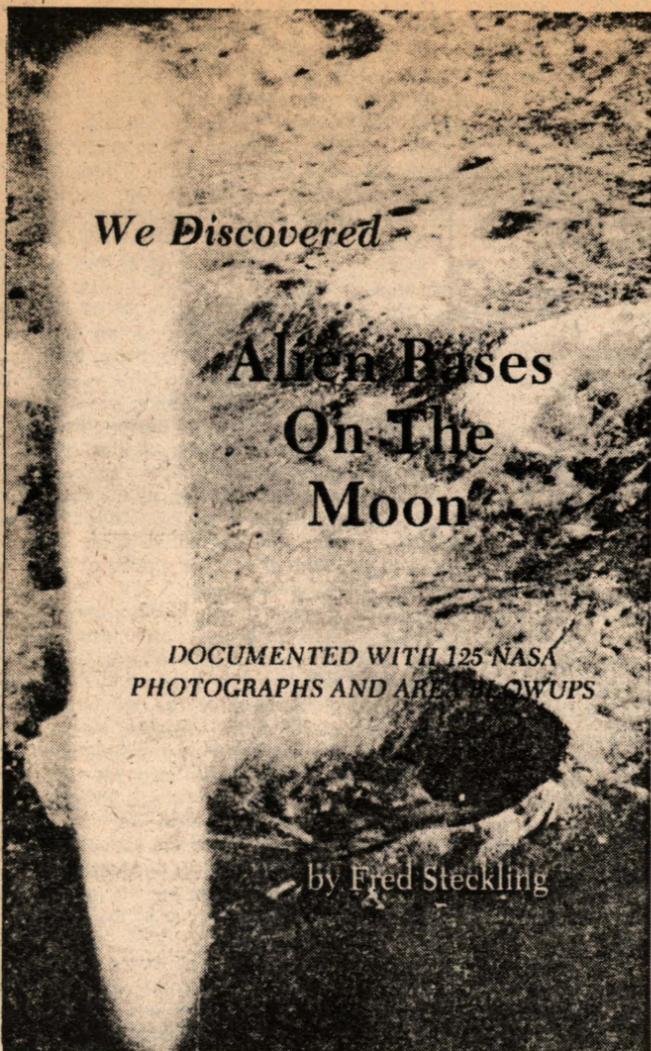

It began about 3:30. Huge flakes larger than any I had ever seen soon added depth to the snow cover. Although their size soon lessened, increased intensity and a howling of winds which shook the house accompanied the change.

Despite the blizzard outside, I found myself enjoying my smug comfort from inside my office facing the road. I opened the curtains wide so that I could better witness the plummeting snow rapidly erasing outlines of familiar things, such as the rural mail box. Then I remembered that in my childlike enthusiasm I had forgotten that the school bus was overdue. I wondered about the safety of Christopher, my grand nephew. Then his father, Donnie, telephoned me.

"No, the school bus hasn't run," I told him. Christopher sometimes stopped at my house to play for a few minutes before climbing the hill to his new eyrie-like house on a hilltop at the rear of my home.

But just as the worried father was napping up, the wind suddenly lulled, and the snow shower abruptly changed to flurries, then completely

- CONSERVE YOUR ENERGY
- REDUCE STRESS AND HELP COPE WITH FRUSTRATION.
- CORRECT AND AMPLIFY YOUR BODY'S AURA AND POLARITY.

PULSOR is a modern solid state electronic microcrystal composite transceiver with ultra wide wave bands which corrects and amplifies the body's natural aura and polarity.

Living in the modern world means being exposed to continual electromagnetic bombardment. All metallic objects such as electrical circuits, telephone wiring, water and gas pipes as well as metal objects we carry on our body act as antennas which collect and radiate disorienting energy waves and can alter the natural polarities of our biophysical body. The typical American gets electromagnetic radiation up to 200 million times more intense than what his ancestors took in from the Sun, stars and other natural sources. Altered body polarity may cause physiological effects such as tension, frustration, apprehension and invites disease and bacteria attacks, psychic problems and poor mental and physical health. Laboratory tests on animals have shown hormone, blood sugar and enzyme changes.

PULSOR, designed by Dr. George Yao, N.D. and Chemical Engineer, creates a protective force shield. PULSOR removes the charge from electrons, converting them to neutrinos which have no further effects on the biophysical energy systems of the human body.

PULSOR is used for protection from environmental contamination, to help maintain normal blood chemistry, and to promote stress reduction thru deep neuromuscular relaxation.

PULSOR aura amplifiers are available in pendants, pins, buckles, rings and 2" x 2" box type generators. Send $3.00 for complete illustrated information packet to:

Miraculous Talisman Of The Ancients

New age awakening to age old secret

The ancient astronauts lived extraordinary lives, blessed by serenity, longevity and prosperity. These mysterious people built magnificent structures, such as the Pyramids, which are only now beginning to be faintly understood. They were, without doubt, the master stone masons of all time, and the stone they treasured above all others was the natural clear quartz crystal. These people's phenomenal love of crystal for thousands of years shows up over and over in archeological digs and legends. The great crystal of Atlantis, the crystal skull of the Incas, the crystal ball used since the dawn of mankind, as well as the use of crystal as the ancient's most treasured talisman cause us to wonder—what is the secret of crystal? Can it help us today?

Our research has found—

- Crystal emits negative ions and absorbs positive ions, clearing the energy field of the wearer.
- Quartz crystal has a refractory index of 1.55. When worn next to the heart chakra, crystal reflects lesser vibrations, causing evil thoughts to be reflected back to sender.
- Crystal stimulates adrenal function.
- Crystal protects the Vagus nerve.
- Crystal takes in only light, protecting your body from dark forces.
- Crystal elevates the level of consciousness of the wearer.
- Crystal intensifies the mind powers of the wearer.

- Crystal balances the magnetic field of the wearer.
- The crystal is the most perfect geometric structure known to man.

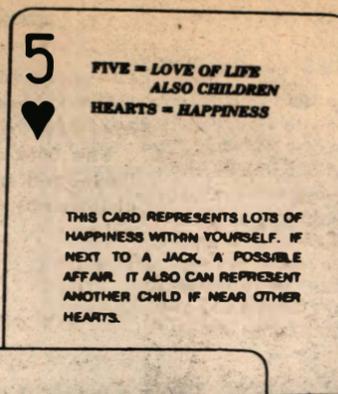

We stand on the dawn of a new age. The secrets of ages past are being unearthed to help those whose awareness is developed enough to understand.

Crystal is used today to power watches and computers. Yesterday it was used to make crystal set radios. Tomorrow, in the golden new age, crystal will take it's true place to once again bestow upon mankind a powerful, protective aura of the ancients.

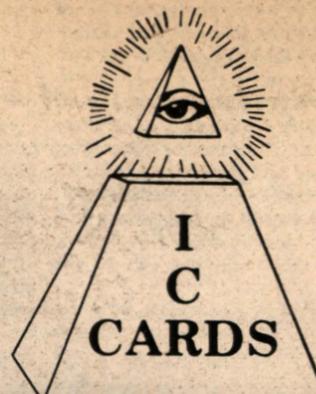

As part of a research program we are offering you a chance to discover the miraculous power of crystal for your life and lives of your loved ones. Each crystal is capped with 24K gold electroplate and will be sent to you at the low price of $12.95 plus postage and handling. We ask you report to us any extraordinary blessings you receive for our research. Each crystal is natural and unpolished. You may specify if you wish a smaller or larger size stone. When our supply is exhausted, orders will be returned unopened.

FLIGHT OF WOMBAT

abated as shafts of sunlight pierced the departing cloud cover.

The Television crackled and came to life, as I realized it had been left turned on; though now it was demonstrating anomalous behavior of a different sort. It was picking up local "CB's," all of whom were discussing the freak storm.

"Big Sam to Charlie! Tell Donny that Christopher's coming home on the Wombat!"

I realized this was a message intended for a neighbor, who was to pass along the information that Christopher was safe. Yet, in my relief to know that the child was OK I didn't immediately connect the odd name with the situation. The Wombat! Then it struck me! It must be a joke. Christopher couldn't be coming home in a Flying Saucer!

Then a terrible racket from the next house up the road distracted me and led me onto the porch to investigate. I couldn't see what was happening, but the noise continued, it sounded like something between that of an airplane and a steam engine!

As the noise grew louder I discovered its origin: a cloud of blowing, swirling snow, like a small whirlwind approaching. At that distance I couldn't discern the amazing vehicle it enshrouded and it created an almost diabolic impression!

As the machine, which had floated about three feet above the road surface, halted for the discharging of Christopher, I heard a loud hiss, as if steam were escaping, and then it had settled to the ground.

Now, with the propeller and what appeared to be jets pointing downward from its base turned off and ceasing to clothe the machine in a white mist of disturbed snow, I could marvel at its appearance. A door opened and Christopher, all smiles, jumped out and landed in a drift. He retrieved his lunch pail as the driver, breathing vapor as his ruddy face broke into a grin, waved at me. He was Bill Gresham, the son of the inventor!

Christopher explained why he had arrived in such a spectacular fashion. When the school bus schedule was cancelled his principal, who lived near his home, agreed to bring him home. Although he had a vehicle with four-wheel drive, the blinding blizzard and deep snow put them into a ditch as they ascended the Sam Cutlip Mountain. When the strange contraption arrived and offered a ride, the principal, his two sons and Christopher were so frightened by the blizzard that they accept the alternate transportation without question of safety. Other stranded and rescued motorists made up the passenger list of The Wombat, according to Christopher, who told his tale to all who would listen with an excitement and ease of communication unlike that of the usually reticent child.

Not until the excitement had settled and a snowplow reached our stretch of rural road did I clearly connect what I had witnessed with the "Flying Saucer" announced in the paper by the Australian inventor. And only then did I mentally compare the original claims with the actual product, which, no doubt was a weird mixture of the much-touted British "hovercraft" of the 1960's, a snowmobile and hot air or gas balloon. No action of the contraption demonstrated that it had, as claimed, "conquered" gravity, other than by blowing jets at the ground and providing lift with a balloon. If some secret device indeed even helped with its levitation and propulsion it was not visually evident. I suspected that the "Professor" had not previously "demonstrated" the device because it needed a particularly deep snow in order to function. The device probably had been towed or trucked in the opposite direction secretly at night, for nobody had seen it travel from its inventor's house to the starting part of its spectacular "flight." (Though how he may have predicted the deep snow is not known).

But my misgivings were like putting down the owner of a talking dog because of the animal's faulty grammar: The Wombat had demonstrated great skill, perhaps even genius, in its inventor who had managed to put together such a device by bastardizing various parts of vans, airplanes, balloons and other elements. Even in the select weather conditions needed for its navigation, its very existence was a marvel. And like the laughing two-year-old next door, I had momentarily experienced a sense of wonder, not often felt after the barrage of 'Star Wars' media, and years of recognizing feet of clay.

Elusive Answers

Closely following the snow plow crept a State Police car, likely in pursuit of The Wombat. After all, it is doubtful if such a device were properly licensed or registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles. Since it carried passengers it probably violated various safety statutes, along with noise abatement and emission regulations. I suspected that both the "Professor" and his handsome son were in considerable trouble with the law.

It has been rumored that Otis T. Carr, the Baltimore Saucer inventor, also had a run-in with the law, but not because of licensing or regulating his UFO. For despite a announcement of a public demonstration to be held in Oklahoma City, Carr failed to carry out the event. The inventor had been stricken by a heart attack a day previous to the announced test flight. But illness alone should not have prevented the demonstration, for Carr had a staff of technical people who carried out the actual mechanical work connected with the craft. There were other possibilities. Carr could have been lying, and simply was unable to produce the demonstration model. Or some government agency could have got in on the act at the last moment.

Although Carr survived the heart attack, he immediately dropped out of sight, and the latter part of his life is unclearly documented. Perhaps a book about Carr, promised for this summer, will prove enlightening.

Throughout his promotion of his devices, Carr gave the impression of complete sincerity. I suspect that it was an associate, who utilized high pressure promotional methods, who may have been responsible for alleged irregularities in stock transactions, or doubt that may exist about Carr's character or the workability of his invention.

Unfortunately, incomplete endings and other doubts plague most accounts of terrestrial Flying Saucer construction. Carr drops out of sight. The death of the Michigan professor breaks our narrative about the "Bluebird" and its projected trip to "heaven."

NIKOLA TESLA

MANY HAVE CALLED HIM A GENIUS BORN AHEAD OF HIS TIME. WAS HE:

- WIZARD OR ALCHEMIST?
- SUPER PSYCHIC?
- EXTRATERRESTRIAL BEING?

Though chosen to share the 1912 Nobel Prize in Physics with Edison, Nikola Tesla refused the award and during his life tore up royalty contracts which would have earned him millions of dollars. Tesla held more than 1200 patents and yet he is one of the most mysterious men who ever lived. Though he is not mentioned in most text books and is virtually unknown to most Americans, Tesla actually discovered Alternating Current, produced the first electric motor, the radio (he preceded Marconi by several years), the arc light, broadcasted the first television waves, and even created an earthquake that virtually rocked Manhattan in 1896. The device which shook buildings and shattered windows for miles was an apparatus so small it could be placed in a person's pocket. Later before his passing, Tesla stated that this device was so powerful it could prevent a Third World War.

Not very much is known about this "strangelone," as Tesla spent most of his life in total seclusion. However, those who did know him even slightly say he was not a normal human, but a real SUPERMAN, either a reincarnated master—or a spaceman—with superior mental powers placed here to assist in earth's technological development. The following books are hard to come by, have been privately published, and are meant only for the sincere truth seeker.

RETURN OF THE DOVE by Margaret Storm
A personal, non technical view of Tesla written by a close friend with whom he dared to share his great metaphysical knowledge. Discusses in passionate detail where Tesla thought this "time bomb" called earth was headed, and how we can still prevent our planet from exploding. Revealed Cosmic link with UFOs and Alien Intelligence. Seven Rays of Light, Christ Forces, Spiritual Hierarchy, Masters of Ageless Wisdom, Tesla's Anti-War Machine, The Elemental Kingdom, Venusian Space Brothers. 294 5x7 pages, spiral binding, $16.95.

THE WALL OF LIGHT — NIKOLA TESLA AND THE VENUSIAN SPACE SHIP by A.H. Matthews
Today, the author of this book carries on Tesla's work near his home in Quebec, Canada. Before passing, the great genius gave Matthews a personally written account of his own life which began on a distant planet. Tesla's early life reads like a fairy tale. He was no common mortal. He led a charmed life—given up by doctors at least three times as dead. He was a young man at seventy with a brain that was super keen. Tesla said that he believed he came from Venus, and during the landing of a UFO on the author's property, the members of the ship said Tesla was a child from Venus. As hard as it may be to believe, Matthews also says he was taken on a trip to Mars and given gold rocks by his alien friends. 138 8 1/2 x 11 pages, stiff binding, $11.95.

ENIGMA FANTASTIQUE by W. Gordon Allen
Why was only a small portion of Dr. Tesla's work permitted to be used by world industry? What were the incredible secrets of mind control he demonstrated? Do mystics of science and religion use some of the same secrets of mental development? Can you train yourself and your children to use them also? Who are the world "groups in control" who have fettered the mind of man for many hundreds of years? Is their control in jeopardy today? Is the space race the key to the opening of man's minds? 197 8 1/2 x 11 pages, spiral binding, $12.95.

OVERLORDS AND OLYMPIANS by W. Gordon Allen
The wife of the president of Mexico, First Lady Carmen Romand de Lopez Portillo, recently visited New York and purchased a video tape version of this book which has been aired widely on television as "Overlords of the UFO." This book ties in Tesla's work with many of the author's "New Age" discoveries. Sections included on: The Super People, Psychic Detectives, Uri Geller, Invisibles and Alien Intelligences, Demonic Possession, The Stendek Encounters, Four Bodies of Man, Rudolph Steiner, Nutrition, Organ Energy, Tesla Spheroid—a Levitation Device, Gravitic Anamolies, Secret Brotherhoods. This volume is a bit more technical and far reaching than the others and must be studied for hours for full grasp. It is suggested you purchase this book after reading all the others. 184 8 1/2 x 11 pages, spiral binding, $12.95.

tarnish as we read accounts by a doubting press which claimed to have discovered pipes which could have carried compressed air to power the devices (although these accounts in themselves are suspect of fabrication).

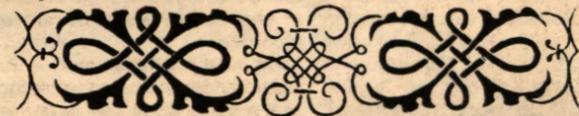

And I have yet to receive a dividend on my Searle stock.

As to "Professor" Gresham, his story, also, ends with "no proof" beyond the accounts of a few rural Braxton County residents who witnessed the event. After her maiden flight, The Wombat was never seen again, and a few days later her inventor and his son moved from the area, loading several large truckloads with unknown cargo and departing by night, destination unknown. Perhaps the State Police had threatened them with prosecution if they continued testing their machine, but that is probably one of the simplest reasons.

Today, at the end of April, as this is written, summer-like weather has suddenly to burst through the cold and gloomy spring days, and I open my windows to keep cool. Within hours trees green perceptively, bees surround early blossoms and beeping frogs take over the night music. As I look through the same windows at the same road where The Wombat flew, it is now populated by frequent drivers, children on bicycles, motorcycles and equestrians. Within the context of today's normalcy of seasonal change, it is difficult to believe that the Flight of the Wombat ever took place. ●

SPECIAL BONUS EXCERPT FROM THE BOOK "PROPHECIES OF THE PRESIDENTS"

Within recent times within the hushed halls of Congress, retired Admiral Hyman Rickover made a startling statement. "We can go to church every Sunday and pray," noted the gutsy Navy man, "but the Lord has many demands made on Him from many other worlds, and in the eyes of the Lord we are not the most important thing in the universe."

Admiral Rickover made this pungent comment during the course of airing his views on nuclear proliferation, which he feels is getting dreadfully out of hand as more and more nations hop on the atomic bandwagon. Obviously, the hero of many a battle at sea let it be known that he felt certain that we are not the only "civilized" form of life in the cosmos. No doubt, this observation was based on the fact that he knows better because in Viet Nam where he was in charge of our sea to land efforts, UFOs were seen flying overhead as a matter of course.

Every president in office since the end of World War II has realized the significance of our aerial visitors who have streaked across our nation's sky like they have carte blanche to come and go as they so please. Recently, under the Freedom of Information Act, it was discovered that all the branches of the government from the CIA, to the FBI, to the State Department, have

"I don't laugh at people anymore when they say they've seen UFOs, because I've seen one myself."

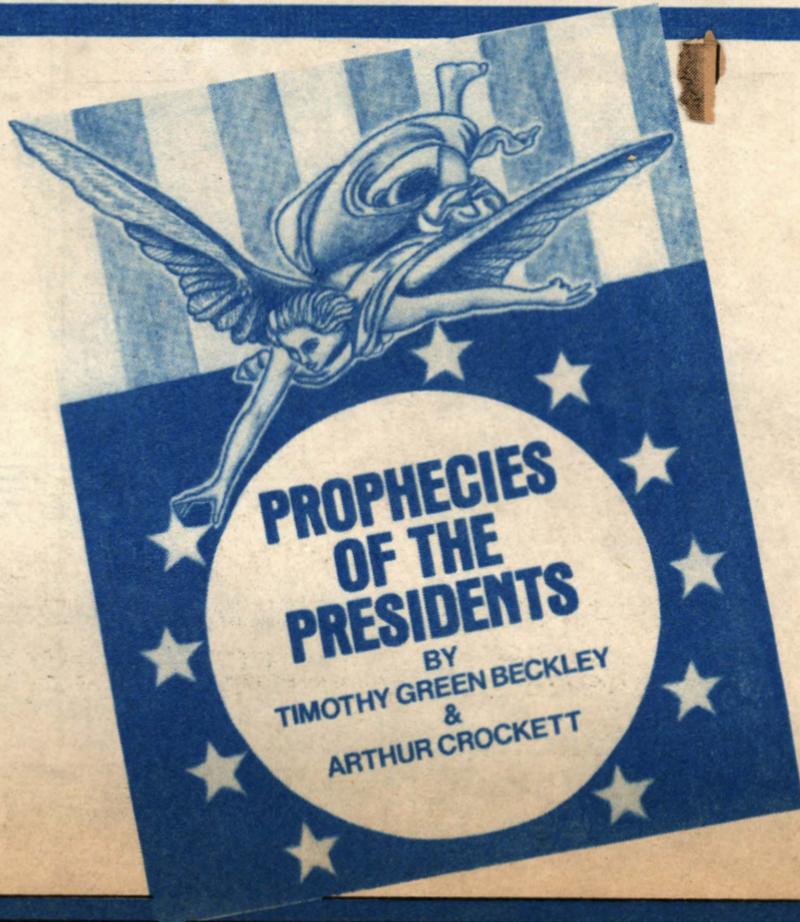

President Jimmy Carter made that statement on September 14, 1973 while at a speaking engagement in Dublin, Georgia. Reporters immediately pressed him to elaborate, which he did. He said that when he was campaigning for governor in the small southern Georgia town of Leary, he was standing outside the hall where he was to make a speech to members of the local Lions Club and saw a blue disc-shaped object in the sky.

Several members of the organization were with the president when the object appeared. Carter ran for a tape recorder so that his description of what he saw would be accurately recorded.

He told the newsmen, "It was about 30 degrees above the horizon and looked about as large as the moon. It got smaller and changed to a reddish color and then got larger again."

Newsmen asked him for an explanation. He said: "It was a very sober occasion. It was obviously there and obviously unidentified."

Carter was quite emphatic about what he saw. His press secretary, Jody Powell, told reporters: "I remember Jimmy saying that he did in fact see a strange light, or object, at one time or another been confronted with this intriguing puzzle that remains in the eyes of many completely unsolved. Frequent sightings have been made by highly technical equipment and by trained personnel directly over our top-secret missile silos and near our most classified military bases. It is furthermore an established historical fact that for several weeks in July and August of 1952 UFOs played a cat and mouse game over Washington, D.C., out-manoeuvring our fastest military planes which were sent into the sky to chase the unknowns from their perch over the White House and Capitol Building.

JIMMY CARTER SEES A UFO

Before Jimmy Carter became president, he promised to unlock the secret files of the Pentagon and release all the information in the government's possession on UFOs. He went back on his word some time after being elected. Nobody knows the reasons for sure why he did a double-take, but as might be expected, theories abound concerning what has become known in certain circles as the "Cosmic Watergate."

at night in the sky which did not appear to be a star or a plane, or anything he could explain. If that's your definition of an unidentified flying object, then I suppose that's correct."

Powell added: "I don't think it's had any great impact on him one way or the other. I would venture to say that he probably has seen stranger and more unexplainable things than that during his time in government."

Indeed, this is a curious statement Jody Powell has made, for we do know that Jimmy must have thought the sighting important enough, as he took the time and trouble to fill out a detailed three page sighting report form and turn it over to a private UFO group which investigated his account. Furthermore, exactly what did Powell have in mind when he said that Carter had "probably seen stranger and more unexplainable things" during his time in office? Could it be, that the president has personally experienced something along the lines of a close encounter? Or perhaps he had even been taken to see the actual remains of a crashed UFO and its occupants which the government has said to be in possession of since the late 1940s?
