Professor Stephen Hawking Warns

Aliens almost certainly exist but humans should avoid making contact, Professor Stephen Hawking has warned. The renowned astrophysicist said it was "perfectly rational" to assume intelligent life exists elsewhere.

But he warned that aliens might simply raid Earth for resources, then move on.

"If aliens visit us, the outcome would be much as when Columbus landed in America, which didn't turn out well for the Native Americans," he said.

Prof Hawking thinks that, rather than actively trying to communicate with extra-terrestrials, humans should do everything possible to avoid contact.

He explained: "We only have to look at ourselves to see how intelligent life might develop into something we wouldn't want to meet."

In the past, probes have been sent into space with engravings of human beings on board and diagrams showing the location of our planet.

Radio beams have been fired into space in the hope of reaching alien civilizations.

Prof. Hawking said: "To my mathematical brain, the numbers alone make thinking about aliens perfectly rational. "The real challenge is to work out what aliens might actually be like."

There are envisions of numerous alien species including two-legged herbivores and yellow, lizard-like predators. But Prof Hawking conceded most life elsewhere in the universe is likely to consist of simple microbes.

I believe that it is inevitable that different forms of life exist within our universe.

UFO's OVER NUCLEAR PLANT IN PA

SEA MONSTER?

One of the first to identify the monster was Dr. Shane Boylan of the South Carolina Aquarium. Two big clues allowed Boylan to identify the fish more or less immediately: the animal's shape and distinctive bony plates.

The marine monster was in fact an Atlantic sturgeon. Part of the reason the giant fish's identity was difficult to determine is that sturgeon are not normally the strange brownish tan color but instead lighter colored and silvery. The South Carolina monster's flesh color had changed as it baked in the sun.

“LIGHTNING”

DO NOT ALLOW THIS ATMOSPHERIC PHENOMENA CONFUSE YOUR INVESTIGATION OF A SIGHTING

LIGHTNING is an atmospheric discharge of electricity usually accompanied by thunder, which typically occurs during thunderstorms, and sometimes during volcanic eruptions or dust storms. In the atmospheric electrical discharge, a leader of a bolt of lightning can travel at speeds of 60,000 m/s and can reach temperatures approaching 54,000 degrees F. There are some 16 million lightning storms in the world every year. How lightning initially forms is still a matter of debate. Scientists have studied root causes ranging from atmospheric perturbations (wind, humidity, friction, and atmospheric pressure) to the impact of solar wind and accumulation of charged solar particles. Ice inside a cloud is thought to be a key element in lightning development, and may cause a forcible separation of positive and negative charges within the cloud, thus assisting in the formation of lightning.

“TYPES OF LIGHTNING”

CLOUD TO GROUND LIGHTNING: The better-known and second most common type of lightning. Of all the different types of lightning, it poses the greatest threat to life and property. Cloud to ground lightning is a lightning discharge between a cumulonimbus cloud and the ground.

BEAD LIGHTNING: This lightning is a type of cloud to ground lightning which appears to break up into a string of short, bright sections, which last longer than the usual discharge channel. It is relatively rare.

STACCATO LIGHTNING: This is lightning from cloud to ground and is a short duration stroke that appears as a single very bright flash and often has considerable branching.

FORK LIGHTNING: Another name for cloud to ground lightning. It normally refers to multiple branching of the bolt.

GROUND TO CLOUD LIGHTNING: Ground to cloud lightning is a lightning discharge between the ground and a cumulonimbus cloud, initiated by an upward moving leader stroke. This type of lightning is rare.

CLOUD-TO-CLOUD LIGHTNING: Lightning discharges may occur between areas of cloud without contacting the ground. When it occurs between two separate clouds it is known as inter-cloud lightning. This phenomenon is the most frequent occurring type of lightning.

HEAT LIGHTNING: Cloud-to-Cloud lightning that occurs too far away for the thunder to be heard. This occurs because the lightning occurs very far away and the sound waves dissipate before they reach the observer.

BALL LIGHTNING: Ball lightning may be an atmospheric electrical phenomenon, the physical nature of which is still controversial. The term refers to reports of luminous, usually spherical objects can vary from pea sized to several meters in diameter. Ball lightning has been reported to last many seconds.

NOTE: THE PRESUMPTION OF ITS EXISTENCE IS BASED ON REPORTED PUBLIC SIGHTINGS, AND HAS THEREFORE PRODUCED SOMEWHAT INCONSISTENT FINDINGS.

SPRITES: Sprites are large-scale electrical discharges, which occur high above a thunderstorm cloud, or cumulonimbus, giving rise to a quite varied range of visual shapes. They normally are colored reddish orange or greenish blue, with hanging tendrils below, and arcing branches above their location and can also produce a reddish halo.

LIGHTNING INDUCED MAGNETISM: The movement of electrical charges produces a magnetic field (electromagnetism). The intense currents of lightning discharge create a fleeting but very strong magnetic field.

Where the lightning current path passes through rock, soil, or metal and most man-made product, the materials can become permanently magnetized. This effect is known as lightning-induced remnant magnetism.

Over the centuries lightning in cultures were viewed as part of a deity or a deity in of itself. One of the most classic portrayals of this is of the Greek God Zeus. An ancient story is when Zeus was at war. He released lightning bolts, as a weapon.

In Norse mythology, Thor is the god of thunder and the sound of thunder comes from the chariot he rides across the sky and the lightning from his hammer.

The professional study of a UFO landing report should consider both the physical evidence for the event and the psychological impact of the event on each witness. This impact is often so strong that the natural landscape is easily misinterpreted to support an exotic UFO encounter. Investigators should thus be familiar with natural "UFO-LIKE" features of the landscape.

YOUR INVESTIGATION SHOULD INCLUDE THE STUDY OF NATURAL PHENOMENA AND THE EFFECTS ON THE SURROUNDING TOPAGRAPHICAL AND BIOLOGICAL DESTRUCTION AND THE PROFESSIONAL EVALUATION OF EVIDENCE LEFT BEHIND PRIOR TO CONCLUDING YOUR OPINION OF THE EVENT.

BLACK EYED KIDS

A Threat or Urban Legend in the Making?

The stories of the BEK phenomenon have been out there for about 10 years now. They are reported being seen around the globe. They want to come into your home. They knock on doors and look into windows. They are pale and most reports put them at age 10 or 12 years old. Some tales are truly frightening while others are laughable. For all the reports taken not one has been captured, photographed or seen by authorities.

NEW UFORCOP PATCH

NOTABLE UFO QUOTES

"The evidence is overwhelming that Planet Earth is being visited by intelligently controlled extraterrestrial spacecraft. In other words, some UFOs are alien spacecraft. Most are not. It's clear from the opinion polls and my own experience, that indeed most people accept the notion that some UFOs are alien spacecraft. The greater the education, the more likely to accept this proposition"

-- Stanton Friedman Defense Contractor Nuclear Physicist

"The UFO phenomenon being reported is something real and not visionary or fictitious"

--General Nathan Twining Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, 1955-1958

"When the long awaited solution to the UFO problem comes, I believe that it will prove to be not merely the next small step in the march of science, but a mighty and totally unexpected quantum leap." "We had a job to do, whether right or wrong, to keep the public from getting excited"

--Dr. J. Allen Hynek, Director US Air Force Project Blue Book as a Scientific Consultant, Astronomer, Investigator.
