CONCERNING 'THE SHROUD OF TURIN'

Paul Shockley
France-Interpreter

Question:

W.S. of Auburn, Washington, would like to ask Awareness: Is the shroud of Turin the actual cloth that Christ was buried in?

Cosmic Awareness:

This Awareness indicates this as being the authentic shroud of an entity crucified in the manner of the crucifixion of the Biblical narration, but that this entity was not the entity known as Jesus.

This Awareness indicates this as of little real significance in this age. That those who would prefer to have contact with this cloth and to believe this, may benefit from this belief according to their needs. That those who do believe this need this kind of assurance that the entity, Jesus, was indeed crucified, and this becomes their physical data, the so-called proof.

This Awareness indicates this as likened unto Iago's use of the handkerchief to prove to Othello that Desdemona was unfaithful, wherein Iago tells the story which the audience realizes is not true, and then produces the handkerchief as proof; and Iago, so confused and mystified, accepts the handkerchief as proof.

This Awareness indicates that for entities who need proof of their beliefs, the story of the shroud can give them the feeling that proof has been supplied. This Awareness indicates that in reality this shroud was not that of the entity, Jesus, but was from another.

This Awareness indicates that there were thousands and thousands of entities who were crucified during those times, and that the crucifixion of the entity, Jesus, went unnoticed by most until the Roman empire, 200 and some years later, made the Christian religion its official religion. Thereafter, this religious empire began to accumulate ornaments and things of this nature to justify and prove its authenticity.

This Awareness indicates that a shroud as a security blanket for one's beliefs is of little interest to this Awareness, but for those who need this, let them have this. That there is no reason to dispute or become concerned about the authenticity of this, for there are other issues in this universe, in this world, which are of much greater impact:

This Awareness refers to hunger, to starvation needs, to war and violence, and to the great urgencies which face this planet.

This Awareness refers you to the need for service, the need for sharing the understanding and wisdom which is available with those who wish to know.

This Awareness refers you to the action of tending those who are lonely, those who are afraid, those who desire companionship.

This Awareness refers you to the great urgency of assisting those who are being misled so that they may learn Who, In Fact, They Really Are, and may become One with their creator, rather than simply searching for a piece of cloth to bow to as a mediator between their God who is a mediator between another God.

This Awareness wishes you to assist others in discovering the basic need for relating directly to the Spirit which is within each entity, the Kingdom of Heaven which is within yourself.

This Awareness suggests that those who need the shroud are those who need the crutch. That you may have the crutch so long as you need this:

But this Awareness asks you to put away your crutch, to lift yourself up and to stand in your Divine Body, this as reference to the spiritual needs and the spiritual body.
