COSMIC AWARENESS is the Force that expressed itself through Jesus of Nazareth, the Buddha, Krishna, Mohammed, Edgar Cayce and other great avatars who served as 'Channels' for the 'Heavenly Father' and who speaks again today as the world begins to enter the New Age of spiritual consciousness and awareness. Since 1963 Cosmic Awareness has been communicating through certain carefully-trained channels. The information contained herein was received from deep, super-conscious trance states and 'interpreted' by an entity affiliated with C.A.C. This information is for those who desire to help in bringing in the New Age and those who shall inherit the New Age. Throughout the many thousands of 'Readings' given through these channels, Cosmic Awareness repeatedly tells us not to believe anything, but to question, explore, doubt, and discover for yourself, through your own channel, what is the truth. Cosmic Awareness will only indicate and suggest. Members of Cosmic Awareness Communications are invited to send in questions of general interest for possible publication in this Newsletter.

The Love Relationship in Marriage and the Pangs of Unrequited Love

Paul Shockley
Trance-Interpreter

QUESTION:

We have a question from H.B. of Chicago, Illinois, which is a very personal question but it represents probably a situation in marriage and relationship that's very common. So I will read the question:

"This question for Awareness deals with marriage. What is to be done when partners in a marriage do not feel equal attraction and desire for each other, and both are dissatisfied with the relationship?"

A greatly complicating factor for us is that our marriage has produced three children who are now four year two and a half years and ten months. Specifically, my partner in this relationship is extremely attached to me as a sexual partner and as a mate, and seem to feel the feelings which are typical of a husband in a good marriage. He also feels that besides himself, I am the only person he has ever met who is worth knowing. Incidentally, I don't feel that I or anyone else is one of the few people in the world worth knowing. I feel everyone is worth knowing. I also feel that some relationships are more valuable to me than others, and I have learned that it is important for the roles played by partners in a relationship to correspond accurately with the true feelings of those involved in the relationship. In the case of my present marriage relationship, conflict exists because although I do love my partner and don't want to hurt him, I don't feel at home in the role of wife to him. I have never been 'in love' with him. I don't desire him sexually and I really don't feel married to him; nevertheless, I have in the past somewhat foolishly tried to accommodate his feelings for me.

We are both wondering if it is really worthwhile to continue ongoing efforts at reconciling our feelings toward each other, and our expectations for the relationship within the framework of marriage. Since we have begun to communicate about our feelings toward each other and our relationship, my partner said that he will not be satisfied with a marriage in which sex is a 'handout' but rather he wants a marriage in which his partner desires and loves him enough so that she is happy to be his wife, including sexually. This seems to be a legitimate request, yet I don't feel able to fulfill it. I have tried to meet the requirements of this request for five years, but I simply feel unable to do so. Thus, within this marriage my partner has felt and continues to feel much pain rejection, depression, dissatisfaction and confusion because he can't understand why a person could love another so much and yet not have his love returned in the appropriate mode of expression.

And also, I also within this marriage have felt much pain and guilt for being the object of such feelings of adoration and desire on one hand and such feelings of rejection and hurt on the other. And I too, would like to be married to a person with whom I feel sexually and emotionally compatible—someone to whom I feel married in spirit as true marriage is described in the *Aquarian Gospel of Jesus the Christ. In addition to all this, both of us feel much love and responsibility toward our three children which greatly complicates our efforts at deciding whether to separate or remain together. Both of us feel much need to resolve our present situation, yet every solution we contemplate seems painful. Separation is becoming a real possibility. How can this relationship be dealt with in the best interest of all concerned?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this is not at all unique. This Awareness indicates this as basically the situation of marriage. This Awareness indicates that often this alternates wherein one partner loves the other with great adoration, then the other feeling a kind of coolness toward that love, and the first partner eventually withdrawing his or her love, and the withdrawal causes the other partner then to pursue the first partner.

This Awareness indicates that in a general sense wherein entities are thinking in terms of objects of love, objects whereby they can direct their love, pour their love into this object, this is that which relates to the cause or root of the problem.

This Awareness indicates A loves B, B feels unworthy of so much love, B feels a need to express love, but does not feel worthy of the love which A presents, therefore feels a kind of aversion to the love from A. B then seeks to find some object which B can love, therefore searches for C. This Awareness indicates that B may feel obliged to love A, rather than to search for C, but B feeling obliged to love A does not create love for A. This Awareness indicates that A continues to pour love toward B, and B continues to build a feeling of aversion, eventually reaching a feeling of resentment due to a feeling of not being worthy of that much love. This Awareness indicates generally A is not actually pouring love into B, but A is enjoying the activity of pouring energy toward B simply because A loves to love. This Awareness indicates that B resents and rejects the love from A, not because B is unworthy, but because B does not know what to do with that love. This Awareness suggests that B wishes to be loving, but A is so loving that B does not know how to compete with that much love, to return that much love, to repay that much love. This Awareness indicates that B therefore can only feel obliged.

This Awareness indicates this may be seen more clearly in terms of money, wherein A pours money into B, A is investing into B, and pouring all this energy and investment in B, causes B to feel obliged and indebted to A. A, feeling that A has invested so much into B that B cannot possibly leave, cannot possibly escape from the magnitude, service and the great investment which A provides. B, however, is feeling this greater and greater indebtedness to A, and the indebtedness begins to hang heavily over B, and B wishes to have equality in relationship, rather than to continue to be dependent on A for such energies.

This Awareness indicates that occasionally B begins to accept the energies from A, begins to recognize that these need not be repaid, but this kind of recognition only comes about when B actually realizes A is giving that love without expectations, bonds or any form of controls. This Awareness indicates that in most cases A is expecting something in return for the investment, and in most cases B recognizes that A expects something in return, and in most cases B feels obliged either to return that or to escape the indebtedness through bankruptcy of the relationship.

This Awareness indicates that this will clear the slate for B; that wherein A at that point becomes extremely frustrated and upset, B then realizes that A's investment of love or money was not a true gift, but had strings attached, therefore B eventually will need to test the love of A, the investment of A, to discover whether this was true or whether this was simply an investment seeking interest from B. This Awareness indicates this likened unto the pouring of interest into another until the principal has been drained and in the hopes of gathering and bringing back the interest and holding onto that interest and making a claim on that which was the object of interest. This Awareness indicates that this kind of relationship will require an intense pouring and stretching whereby the partners find themselves testing each other's depth of their being, the depth of their motives.

This Awareness indicates that essentially one of the best approaches as far as A is concerned is for A to withdraw the investment of energies and to allow B to have the space to give love to A. This Awareness indicates that in the case where A continues loving after B has indicated it has had enough, then that love becomes a smothering type of energy.

WHAT IS LOVE ? (Bartering for Affection?)

This Awareness indicates It uses the term 'love' in expressing that which is the pouring of attention toward the object of love and the desire to receive mutual return for that attention or interest. This Awareness indicates that this is not the actual meaning of love as far as this Awareness is concerned, but is the commonly believed feeling, the feeling which most entities believe is love. This Awareness indicates that in general entities believe that if they are interested in an obsessive way in the being of another and their welfare, and if they want the other to return that interest in them, most entities consider this to be love. This Awareness indicates this is not necessarily love, but this does have a close relationship to it. However this kind of attention wherein there is a pouring of energy with a definite desire for a reaction, a response, a return for their energy—this is not love, but rather a form of bartering for affection.

This Awareness indicates true love is that wherein one gives attention to another, so long as that attention is needed and wanted, and this attention as being beneficial to the needs of the other. This Awareness indicates that this true love does not drain the one who gives this love to the point of sacrifice or suffering, for if one sacrifices or suffers, this does not help the recipient of the energy to feel happy, but rather puts an obligation, a sense of duty, a feeling of responsibility, a feeling of indebtedness on that object of the attention, forcing that partner to feel a need to return some of that which has been given. This Awareness indicates this is a form of manipulation.

This Awareness wishes entities to look at this in terms of valuables such as money. Supposing two entities have these coins which are called 'love'—these coins are available to either entity in a proper amount and these entities come together on the path of life; and in their coming together, one says, "I wish to share my love coins with you," the other says, "Thank you very much." That entity may either take that coin and move on, or the entity may say in return, "I wish to share my coin with you," and these entities exchange with each other. This Awareness indicates that in some cases entities manage to keep this love which each contains balanced, and they make sure that each of the partnership has enough in return whereby one is not overloaded with coins, and the other is not empty-handed.

This Awareness indicates that in other situations, one may wish to be liked and loved in return, therefore that entity enjoying the action of sharing may begin putting one coin after another into the arms of the other person until the entity is empty, and has nothing more to give. The other entity may have arms full of love, but may not wish to return to that first entity, and having received all this love, the entity may look at this beggar and turn and go toward another in order to give away some of the love which has been gathered.

This Awareness indicates there are many entities who spend their life gathering love, and who do not know what to do with this when they have an abundance; and many entities look upon those who have given their love to them with a contempt and a disrespect because they do not feel they were worthy of all this love—yet they are inherently too greedy to give back the love, and they feel that the entity who gave them the love must have been a fool—therefore, why give it back?

This Awareness indicates that there are other entities who will take the love of others and turn and give this to still another. This Awareness indicates many entities are over-loved, and others are under-loved, and those entities who are capable of giving their love without feeling deprived when their love is empty, these entities may turn and pick up more love to give to others—for love is everywhere, as long as there is life there is love, but some entities have the feeling that love is a rare commodity and they have only so much which they can give, therefore they must give this sparingly and in a manner which buys something in return.

This Awareness indicates the majority of entities believe that in giving love, they are giving this in order to get something back of a similar nature. The majority of entities do not recognize that love can come from any source, that they themselves generate love—that they can love themselves, that the universe is filled with love, —the majority of entities believe that love must come through objects, through others, and therefore seek to be loved by others.

This Awareness indicates that many entities seek attention from others, beneficial attention being that which they call love, and these entities are willing to barter and give energies in order to receive that beneficial attention in return. This Awareness indicates that some entities give their attention with hooks in that attention in order to grab that love, that beneficial attention which the other holds, and draws this back to them. In this manner, many entities seek to possess the other with their love.

This Awareness indicates that wherein entities have this kind of hook in their love, or wherein entities feel that the hook is there and their partner in giving love is seeking to control them and hold them, these entities may feel the relationship is strained and not clear. This Awareness suggests that wherein entities simply love in the same manner whereby a tree bears fruit, whereby a rose gives fragrance regardless of whether the rose is rewarded for its fragrance, whether the tree receives anything in return for its fruit—these entities are the entities who are truly expressing love. This Awareness indicates these entities are those who hold closely with the heart, but allow the arms to open to set others free. This Awareness indicates when entities hold closely with open arms, whereby others are free to go, whereby you can express your love to another, making yourself vulnerable to being hurt, but not being hurt in such a manner that you would be devastated, not being hurt in such a manner that you express a kind of masochism, but simply being rejected and loving the other even though rejected, for you are strong enough that you can continue even without that other—such an entity becomes very hard to resist, and it is such an entity who draws others to them, for they are lovable.

This Awareness indicates that when one is able to love in this manner, they are lovable and can basically have the choice of almost anyone they choose. This Awareness suggests that such entities seldom choose to love only one person, but generally love everyone who comes before them—this not necessarily in terms of sexual relationships but in terms of the heart. This Awareness indicates that wherein an entity seeks to be close to another who does not respond and appreciate that closeness, the entity is simply allowing himself to be placed in an inferior position. This Awareness suggests that wherein an entity begins to feel unappreciated by a loved one, it is time for that entity to start reeling in his or her investments of love, or to stop the energy loss, for this is likend unto casting pearls before swine.

This Awareness suggests that you not give your love in this manner to those who spit upon your love. This Awareness suggests that you have enough self-respect that you place your love because you love, or if you must place your love on an object, that you choose that object which welcomes your love. This Awareness suggests that wherein you have enough respect for the other who does not wish your love, you will also avoid that kind of violation of putting your love on that entity who has indicated a desire to be free from your love.

WHEN CHILDREN ARE INVOLVED

This Awareness indicates that wherein there are children involved, and both parties love the children, and one party loves the other party, and the other party does not return that love for the first party but still loves the children—this Awareness suggests that both parties may become interested and pour their attention to the children, and in this manner become mutually aligned so that they have a common purpose, and from this common purpose wherein their energies are being given to the children, mutually working out any problems or differences in how these energies can be given to the children, whereby these partners can relate on verbal and mental and emotional levels to one another, discovering each other's deeper feelings, and whereby these partners can begin again to acquaint themselves with each other, but without expecting a total relationship—these partners can restore and begin to recreate a deeper feeling of respect for one another.

This Awareness indicates that when an entity pours love into another, and the other does not have the equal opportunity to return that love, there is a loss of respect in the relationship. This Awareness indicates that when one entity begins to lose respect for the other, this creates a strained relationship and the parties involved begin to suffer.

This Awareness suggests the roots of a tree equate to the respect when one party pours its energies toward another, to the point where the party is becoming uprooted, and the one receiving all these energies does not recognize and offer the respect for that party who is giving himself or herself totally—the first party is becoming unstable, even though giving great love, and the second party is becoming overloaded with love and is beginning to suffer from a feeling of a burden. This Awareness indicates that this first party needs to retract and begin to have self-respect. Would any self-respecting entity uproot oneself to give affection to another who does not wish to have that affection.

THE BASIS OF LOVE -- MUTUAL RESPECT

This Awareness indicates that love is the transfer of energies between entities, in a manner that attends to the welfare of the other; the attending to the welfare of another implies that there is something lacking which needs attention, therefore love satisfies needs and weaknesses. Wherein love satisfies needs and weaknesses, this allows entities to share each other's problems and to solve each other's problems. This Awareness indicates that when entities are concerned for the weakness of another, they express love.

This Awareness indicates a relationship cannot live on love alone, that the relationship also needs respect—mutual respect. This Awareness suggests that respect is built upon strengths—the strengths that entities have are recognized by others with respect. This Awareness indicates wherein one entity is loving, and another does not respect that entity, does not recognize the strength of that entity, that entity which is receiving the love from the disrespected person will consider that love as a weakness and will not appreciate that love. This Awareness indicates that wherein the entity sees the strength of the other person, they will appreciate the love which is given, feeling that the entity giving the love does not really need to give that love, but is simply capable of giving that love. This Awareness indicates that when an entity feels another needs to give love and is weak, that entity generally believes that the love is tainted and is seeking to be rewarded and therefore not only is the entity weak, but that you must prop that entity up and allow the entity to have your strength.

This Awareness suggests that wherein entities feel a need to prop up their partner and the partner is eternally grateful likened unto a dog whose tail wags feverishly at your presence, you find it difficult to love that entity in any way except that of a kind of condescending and affection with a tinge of sympathy. This Awareness indicates that wherein the partner has his or her own strength and you know that the entity could stand alone without you, and therefore doesn't really need you, there is a tendency to respect that entity more greatly; and when love is given by that entity you will appreciate that love and recognize that love as a genuine and valuable gift.

This Awareness indicates that when you give your love to another, not because you are simply loving and wish to express this love, but because you want something in return, that love is likened unto a hook that goes out to catch a fish, to catch a reward, and those recognizing this will reject your efforts.

This Awareness asks entities not to give their love in order to get love, but to give their love because they have so much which can be given freely without strings attached. This Awareness suggests that wherein you have given your love and it is not appreciated and wherein entities believe you have strings attached to your love, and refuse to love, this Awareness suggests that you are wasting your energies and casting your love before swine and those who do not accept that. This Awareness suggests that wherein you find yourself pouring love toward one who does not respect your love, this is likened unto giving valuable gifts—a painting to one who simply tosses your painting into the garbage can. This Awareness suggests it is a waste of energy, that you must let them know that your love is valuable, and you do not give it simply to be thrown away. This Awareness indicates this will lead these entities to look more carefully at the love which you are giving.

This Awareness indicates this likened unto a tree who bears fruit, and that there are those who walk to the tree, picking the fruit and throwing this fruit without recognizing its value. This Awareness suggests this likened unto those who toss the fruit away as though it were meaningless and having no purpose or value in their lives.

This Awareness suggests that the tree has the right to state to those who would waste its fruit, "I have worked hard, I have put forth much energy to bring this fruit of my love, and you treat it as though it were trash; therefore I will not give you that fruit again until you recognize its value."

THE VULNERABILITY OF LOVE

This Awareness suggests that in this manner, the entity can have some control over the wastefulness or the value of one's love; in this manner the love is produced, but carries with it a kind of demand for respect. This Awareness indicates that entities who love as the rose, who love as the fragrance of the rose, giving forth to beggar-king alike, giving their fruit without requirements in return, giving their being totally—these entities are truly loving—but these entities are very vulnerable and can be sacrificed by those who have no respect for their being: these entities are putting themselves in a vulnerable position whereby they can be destroyed.

This Awareness indicates that wherein an entity can give forth this kind of essence, this as that which is a wonderful quality, but the entity may end up being crucified or sacrificed by those who have no appreciation—the fruit tree may be chopped down and burnt for wood, or chopped down simply to test the axe. This Awareness indicates that wherein the tree demands its own respect for what it is, for what it can do, for what it can produce, for what it can be—this creates a new consciousness in the one who approaches that tree.

This Awareness indicates wherein an entity gives love, but has enough self-respect for one's own capabilities and demands that that love be recognized and respected, then the entity can expect that respect to be given in return.

This Awareness suggests that when this occurs, the entity will be more able to give freely of love, without fear of being rejected, without fear of being violated—that love must be given carefully, not as an organ that chooses and simply picks some object to pour forth love, but rather as an organ that loves in all directions, but recognizes that that love be respected.

This Awareness indicates this has to do with one's own attitude toward themselves. This Awareness suggests that wherein an entity does not demand a respect for one's own love, but simply pours love into another in hopes that the love which is being sent will catch that other, will fulfill the other's needs so that you you yourself can tap that entity in returning, that you may devour their love—this is that which is the error which causes great pain in relationships. And entities who have experienced this kind of love, who have received love with hooks in it, whereby the love comes out not with its own demand for self-respect, but rather comes with hooks to catch you, to catch your love, to entangle you—this is that which has caused many entities to fear love, to become cold, to become frightened when they see love approaching, to withhold themselves and to run from love. This Awareness indicates that entities may visualize love as an energy which can flow freely, but which does need to be looked at carefully, for it has many faces, and reflects itself in different ways—Love is that which is likened unto pure clear water that flows through the universe, but which in flowing through different entities may emerge murky, twisted or filled with poisonous energies to trap, to seduce, to harm or to destroy another.

This Awareness indicates pure love must be filled with the clarity of relationship, communication, self-respect, which demands that others recognize the purity of that love; and wherein this is seen and recognized, others will value this as a pearl of great price.

WHEN ONE PARTNER IS SEXUALLY REPELLED BY THE OTHER -- SHOULD A THIRD PARTNER BE SOUGHT ?

QUESTION:

Awareness, one question in relation to a situation described in the letter just read: if one of the partners becomes aware that he or she is sexually incompatible with the other, or the other is feeling guilt feelings for that type of relationship, and the one withdraws, figuring that he or she loves the partner and soon this will pass and they have a period of abstinence.

Then time passes and the situation doesn't clear up, and one of the partners feels this abstinence is affecting the body or mind or something, and might suggest to the other that if he or she can't provide a sexual relationship and feel comfortable about it, then allow the other to find this in a casual relationship outside of the marriage. I know this happens and I was wondering if this does help cement the relationship ultimately or does this almost surely open the door for a permanent break?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates this depends on the entities and their tolerance toward each other and how far their relationships can be stretched and strained. This Awareness indicates that generally the female as having a more difficult time in terms of having sexual relationships with others without feeling a desire to be permanently with that sexual partner; that the male tends to be more capable of having sexual relationships and still being emotionally, mentally and socially tied with the mate or family.

This Awareness indicates that wherein the individuality comes into the situation, this can alter according to the qualities of the individuals. This Awareness suggests that wherein both partners are compatible and agreeable with such types of extra-marital relationships, this is a possible way of helping to fulfill needs of individuals, but that this is not a permanent solution to the problem—this may fulfill certain individual needs for a period of time, but that if this does not bring about the personal needs of an entity within a reasonable length of time the partnership or marriage will suffer. This Awareness indicates that generally speaking, once this begins, most relationships deteriorate, and most relationships—in fact nearly all relationships—will never again be the same; that in some cases they become more cemented and back together with greater harmony and understanding, in other relationships they may simply break apart and end in separation.

This Awareness indicates that what is important in terms of the outcome of such activities is whether there is in fact a deeper commitment and a deeper love and respect which holds the entities together, and goes deeper than personal pride or values in terms of sexual relationships—that many entities feeling that sexual relationships are the most intimate and ultimate contacts between persons will feel that this kind of extra-marital relationship is impossible to accept in terms of their mate and another, the pride, the personal involvement and their own self-esteem suffering too greatly to be acceptable. This Awareness suggests that others can look at this and love the partner for other purposes and other reasons besides the sexual contacts, and will remain with the partner even though the partner has had extra-marital relationships because they love the person, rather than the personal pride being important to them, and feeling that they have sexually been insulted by allowing the partner to have relationships with someone else.

This Awareness indicates that still there is the other situation, whereby an entity can allow this up to a point, but when the partner continues and continues and continues having various relationships with others, the one who is allowing this and who awaits the partner's escapades and hopes for the partner to get through these needs, and begins to feel that this will never end, this first partner may decide that it is not worth the effort to continue living with one who continues such escapades.

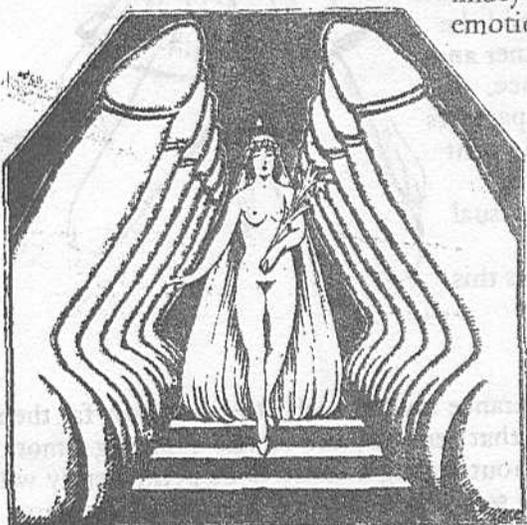

This Awareness indicates that still another may be concerned about the effects of these activities on the consciousness of the children, wherein one partner is always out with someone else, and the children become aware of this. This Awareness indicates that many many entities do not care about what their children think. This Awareness indicates that in any case, these are dangerous areas in terms of the relationship.

SEXUAL FANTASIES
(Not all of them Need to be Fulfilled)

This Awareness suggests it appears that there is a common misconception among most entities in believing that they must have all of their sexual fantasies fulfilled, that they must be completely satisfied on that level, even if it hurts the children, hurts other entities. Even if it upsets the strength of the family, even if it upsets and bothers their friends and parents and other loved ones, many entities are willing to risk this in order to have that biological feeling satisfied.

This Awareness indicates that many entities think that the love which they desire will come about through the sexual relationship simply because this is the most intimate level of relationship available to humans. This Awareness indicates that this belief that if you obtain the plum you receive the entire meal—this is an error. This Awareness indicates that many entities believe that if they have sex with another, they have love—this is not so. This Awareness indicates they have had a sample of love. This Awareness indicates that many entities seeking love, go straight for the ultimate experience and ignore the communication, the relationship, the intimacy, the sharing of feelings, of inner desires, inner experiences and the actual emotional exchanges, and go straight for the genitals.

This Awareness indicates that these entities often believe this is the trap, whereby if they can grab for the genitals of the other, they can then reel in all of the love which they wish that other to give to them.

This Awareness indicates this is the fallacy and error which entities in this present culture appear to live by, and which causes the heavy emphasis on sex, and which causes the heavy emphasis on divorce and separation, because they discover that they are incompatible with each other on other levels, and the sex was only a temporary hook and the other levels are now driving them apart.

100% SEXUAL COMPATIBILITY NOT NECESSARY

This Awareness suggests that entities do not need to be 100% compatible sexually to respect the other, to love one another, and to carry on a happy relationship with their children and family. This Awareness indicates that too much emphasis has been placed on sexual compatibility and many happy families are broken up because of wanting more and more, and more and more, from the partner in terms of sexual response, this simply caused by a desire of the person to have greater love than is humanly possible to receive from the partner.

Confusing Gratification with Love

This Awareness indicates that they confuse gratification with love and they often overlook love, devotion, compatibility, the efforts and hard labors which are based and motivated on love for the partner—they often overlook the fact that the partner has worked for hours in order to satisfy a need for their loved one, and base their judgement on the relationship from a very brief sexual encounter.

This Awareness indicates that there are many schools, many books which have been written and are available to assist entities in having more pleasure and greater gratification through the sexual encounter, that these may be introduced for entities if there is a problem.*

Sexual Incompatibility Not Grounds for Divorce

This Awareness indicates that such perfect sexual compatibility is not something which is grounds for divorce if it is not always satisfactory, that many entities have discovered that when their relationship has been severed because of a lack of total gratification, their lives suddenly took a turn for the worst, and their belief that they could find ultimate happiness with another suddenly turned into a nightmare, and many entities would, will and have wished that they had never begun that separation, for they have stepped out of that which was not total, not completely satisfactory into that which was awful and terrible, and very unsatisfactory to them.

*CAC does not stock this type book, but these are plentifully available in bookstores.

ALL ATTEMPTS SHOULD BE MADE TO RECONCILE MARRIAGE
Law Should Require Counseling Before Divorce

This Awareness indicates that it is very important for entities to attempt to do all that is possible to reconcile their marriage, their relationship, to find out how to solve any problems.

This Awareness suggests it should be a requirement of law that no entity is allowed to be divorced without first going to a marriage counselor and having several sessions to attempt to patch up the relationship—this in particular wherein there are children involved in the marriage.

(Closing Message)

This Awareness indicates that relationships are of such complicated concerns that most entities are not given the tools in their educational schoolings to deal with the problems of relationship: the majority of entities are simply given expectations; and as children grow up in families, they look forward to those ideal situations which they are sure will come their way when they leave their mother and father to marry and live happily ever after. This Awareness indicates that snaring the mate becomes an end result for many entities but few recognize that this is only the beginning.

This Awareness indicates that many single entities who feel lonely and frustrated, look at marriage partners and feel envious, and wish that they too could be living happily ever after in a marriage of such ideal appearance.

This Awareness indicates that few entities realize what actually goes on in the bedroom—that there is more conflict, more competitiveness, more confusion and feelings of separateness and often much loneliness, even though this entity is sleeping with them, and they are married and appear to be stable. This Awareness indicates that it matters not whether entities are married or single—each entity is still alone, and each entity is always seeking to be closer to someone else, and each entity always will feel a feeling of unfulfillment, and this can never be satisfied.

This Awareness indicates one illusion which causes much pain and suffering is that fairy tale belief that if you have the right person, if you have the proper situation, you will be eternally satisfied to live happily ever after. This Awareness indicates that this is simply fantasy—that you will be given that which you need to develop and to grow, and that which you need to develop and grow includes an eternal dissatisfaction along with the satisfaction; that there is a balance of Yin and Yang in the universe, that all things have their opposites, and for every fulfillment you receive, you are also given an area which is unfulfilled.*

This Awareness indicates that when entities can accept that emptiness as part of their eternal being, and they do not resent or reject or resist that emptiness, they can turn their attention to that which is present, which they have, which they can value, which they can love, which they can appreciate, which is theirs—and they can enjoy that which is available.

This Awareness indicates this is likened unto the entity who looks at the pitcher of milk, and laments that it is only half full, whereby another entity looks at the pitcher of milk and is overjoyed that it is half full.
