COSMIC AWARENESS is the Force that expressed itself through Jesus of Nazareth, the Buddha, Krishna, Mohammed, Edgar Cayce and other great avatars who served as 'Channels' for the 'Heavenly Father' and who speaks again today as the world begins to enter the 'New Age' of spiritual consciousness and awareness. Since 1963 Cosmic Awareness has been communicating through carefully-trained channels. The information contained herein was received from deep super-conscious 'trance' levels and 'interpreted' by an entity affiliated with C.A.C. This information is for those who desire to help in bringing in the New Age. Throughout the thousands of 'Readings' given through these various channels, Cosmic Awareness tells us not to believe anything, but to question, explore, doubt, and discover for yourself, through your own channel what is the truth. Cosmic Awareness will only 'indicate' and 'suggest'. Neither C.A.C. or any of the Interpreters is responsible for anything Cosmic Awareness states in any of these readings, nor does C.A.C. or the Interpreters necessarily agree with the statements of Cosmic Awareness. The Interpreters interpret the energies as they see them in trance levels and are not personally responsible for what is said. The Interpreters published herein have no connection with, nor control over the editorial comments and material, including illustrations. This is entirely the responsibility of the editor. Members of C.A.C. are invited to send in questions of general interest to ask Awareness for possible publication in this newsletter.

HOW TO PREVENT PSYCHOLOGICAL WARPS IN CHILDREN

PROBLEMS OF RAISING A DAUGHTER WITHOUT A MALE FIGURE IN THE HOUSE

The Importance of Being a Healthy Role-Model, Particularly After Sexual Overtones from the Father-Figure

QUESTION:

A question from J.J. who asks: "Please comment on the raising of an eight-year-old daughter without a male figure in the house, especially if the child has been sexually psychologically over-stimulated by her real father.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates this depends entirely on the individual case and treatment of the child, particularly in regard to her attitude toward men in general; that a child of that approximate age does begin to have a psychological need for male influence in her life; that where this can be of a healthy nature, this can have profound affect on her well-being during future experiences. However, that wherein this male influence has been of a particular type and the influence tends to color her ideas about men in general, then this also can have its effect and, depending on the type of influence or coloration, will determine the degree of affect and its nature.

This Awareness suggests that it would be beneficial for a mother of a child of this age to have talks with the child, explaining to her what is truly acceptable and normal in male behavior and what is not, so that she begins to understand the ideal male energy, rather than that of a particular situation or a distorted image from her experiences.

This Awareness suggests also that the attitude of the mother toward men will have greater influence on the child than her own childhood experiences with men; that the mother serves as a model for the child, and wherein the mother has particular attitudes toward men in general, this begins to have its influence on the child. If the mother's behavior toward men repulses the child, then she will take on an opposite approach or attitude toward men; that this will cause her certain types of ideals and relationships with her own experiences and attitudes in her personal relationships. However, that wherein the entity accepts as normal the mother's attitude toward men, then she will follow the model relatively closely. That wherein the mother models the values for the child, then changes her attitudes toward men, the child may also have mixed feelings and mixed ideas about men, as the values and as the model changes; that this can lead to certain inconsistencies in her attitude.

The Healthy Role of the Father-Figure

This Awareness suggests that a child does need a father-figure which can be trusted not to violate the child's needs and interests. The child needs to be close to the father in a way whereby the child feels able to communicate her needs in a manner of approaching someone who could provide answers, direction or sustenance for those needs. The father serving as director, provider, wisdom and guidance as well as providing for the security of the family: that this being the healthy role of the father in relation to the attitudes of the children.

This Awareness suggests that the father can be close, loving and affectionate to the child, so long as the father does not portray sexual overtones in the slightest way. That a kiss on the lips, a kiss on the cheek, hugging the child, or holding the child in the lap is not of a sexual nature, but the attitude involved in such action can convey a sexual overtone; that even a look by the father can convey the sexual overtones, and these are those areas which are disturbing. That the attitude, the look, or the thoughts of a father toward a child are conveyed to the child, and this creates certain psychological problems for the child. For she will feel guilty in regards to the mother, competitive in regards to appreciating her father's attention, but also feeling repulsed by the father's attention because of the guilt she feels toward the mother and the inappropriateness of the look or attitude or thought. This child also will feel certain fear of the father. This Awareness suggests that these mixed feelings will create a warp in terms of the child's feelings toward men in general. It creates distrust, not only of older men, but also will lead to her identifying with the mother and feel a distrust for her husband at a later time.

What Makes a Healthy Relationship?

This Awareness indicates this can be healed only by the child recognizing the perverse attitude or the problems as being that of a particular father-figure, rather than of men in general. Once the entity recognizes this, she may be able to throw off her fears and feelings toward other men and associate this as being only that action of the father. That even then, she may still carry suspicions which would not have been there otherwise.

This Awareness indicates that the child without a father will use her mother's attitudes toward men and toward her male friends as examples, and will formulate these attitudes from this. That wherein the child is totally isolated from male experiences or male influences, then the child may develop a strong curiosity as well as a fear and feeling of mystery in regard to men. This Awareness suggests this later can become an intense attraction as well as a kind of adventuresome approach toward relationships. This Awareness suggests that the healthy child is one whose relationship with men is treated as friendly, open, talkative, non-competitive and reasonably gentle, so that courtesy is experienced between them. That a healthy attitude also requires seeing men treating other women,--the mother or other members of the child's association,--with similar respect.

The Strange New Family Relationships of Today

This Awareness suggests that in recent times, the family structure has come under great stress; this largely due to a total re-evaluation of family relationships. This in part, due to the assertiveness of women to express their feelings, their needs, their creative abilities and in their demand for self-respect, as well as social respect as women.

That likewise, men have been cast previously into roles of providers, wherein their self-esteem has been centered around the attitude of being of little value, except as a producer; that these attributes now becoming changed by demands of entities that they be respected as individuals, regardless of their sex; that this has led to much confusion in terms of the family structure, and particularly because of single-parent family relationships which often are of a semi-permanent duration; this as when a mother lives for several years alone, with her children growing up without a father. This Awareness suggests that these various experiences have led to unusual circumstances in terms of a family structure; so that, for example, the mother raising children without the father, then coming in contact with a male for a partnership in family affairs, begins to attempt to re-establish family relationships and family structure.

Problems of the Subordinate Father-Figure

This Awareness indicates that often the second male in the family is cast into a role of subordinate fatherhood, wherein he is to provide for the family, but does not have equal say in regard to the raising of the children. That this leads to certain frustrations in all of the relationships. This as being necessary, in part, because of today's society; wherein the male may only remain as a member of the family for a few months or a couple of years, and the mother and children are again on their own. That obviously, under such possibilities, the mother does not wish to turn over the children's welfare to the male's direction; and likewise, the children will not wish to accept this male as being their new father, particularly until it is really clear that this is the case. This Awareness suggests that, therefore, the family relationship may be in great stress during such periods.

However, when a family relationship is present and solid, wherein the father is, or the stepfather is committed to stay with the children and the mother, (or reasonably committed), then the ties can be strengthened more by the mother giving her cooperative affection and support to the stepfather or to the father of the children. That wherein the mother gives support toward the father, this allows the children to have greater strength and greater feelings of family unity. That wherein the mother is in competition with the father in terms of directing or leading the family, this leads children to lean closer toward the mother, away from the father, except when the father provides something which the mother denies.

For example, this as when the child, seeking certain sweets, may be denied these sweets by the mother. The father, having been relegated to a secondary position, may subconsciously wish to have some kind of say or some kind of relationship with the children; therefore, the father may, in fact, attempt to appease the children by giving them certain benefits when the mother is not present, or by winning their affection in some other way. This of course, creates a division in the relationship between the father and mother and also among the children. That this also teaches the children to play one parent against the other, to get what they want from the one or the other. This Awareness suggests that children 'pick up' very quickly on these games, and learn how to manipulate the parents into fighting each other.

This Awareness suggests that it is the normal role of the mother to protect the welfare of her children with her entire being. It is the normal role of the father to protect the mother and children with his entire being, and the father's normal role is to provide direction and sustenance for the family unit. That too often, the mother seeks to direct the family in terms of the sustenance and direction, and simply use the father as a servant or slave to her desires, seeing the male as her possession, her husband whom she has acquired to make her living for her. When this occurs, this may be thought of much as the cowboy and his relationship with his horse,--the wife and her relationship with her husband...she loves her husband, the cowboy loves his horse...this as his servant; this horse needing his most careful care and affection, so that he will be served by the horse. That many women look at their husbands in this manner, seeing that this entity is the provider, and keeping him happy, only so that he will continue being the provider.

This Awareness indicates that often these mothers or wives do not recognize the husband's personal needs or do not care much about his personal needs, but care only that he continues in his function of being a provider. Wherein the function fails, the horse should be discharged, or let out to pasture, or sold, or divorced and sent off for whatever fate, and a new provider acquired. That society has arranged this so that when one is discharged, the mother is being given funds from the discharged husband or from society's welfare programs, so that she can be temporarily satisfied financially until she acquires a new provider,--that this as being somewhat of a satirical description of society, yet being accurate in the attitudes which entities often have toward their mate.

The Appropriate Attitude of a Woman Toward her Mate

This Awareness indicates that the appropriate attitude the woman should have for her mate, is that this entity as one who has taken on the role of being a provider, as one who has chosen to care for the women and children, needs her support; and as long as he is not violating her or her children, the entity should have her support in making decisions for the family. (This does not mean that she does not have any rights to give her ideas, for this is an important factor which the male should rightfully consider.)

This Awareness indicates that the male as having a general role of being more closely tied to society; and therefore, the mother of the children being closely tied to the family, this puts the male generally in the position of being a mediator between the family's needs and the society in general. Therefore, the mother in the normal family as being in a position to assist the husband's directions and evaluations.

That when the roles are reversed, such as the wife being the provider and the husband attending to the children,—as is coming into greater frequency,—then the qualities of these roles will need to be reversed. That the male may find himself in a position of trying to support the female's role and her actions, while providing for the tender, loving care of the children; this particularly in families where the mother is involved in a career and the father is attending to the children.

That wherein both parents are working, that this social action of both being involved in society, may nevertheless form a situation in the home life where the mother and children and father equally communicate, respect each other and support each other. That it becomes more healthy for the children if the mother helps to make decisions with the father, but wherein the father and mother make their decisions together after listening and hearing each other's feelings and attitudes.

The Result of Male or Female Domination

Wherein the male is given too much dominance in the family, such as in certain Eastern and Middle East cultures, the children will grow up having fear of authority. That wherein the mother has too much dominance, the children will grow up having little respect for men, and often little respect for themselves, and may harbor a resentment toward mother and society in general; that the attitudes toward society for an adult often are cultivated by the child's attitude toward his or her mother during times of the formative years.

This Awareness suggests that wherein the mother and father can support each other in giving direction to the child, this can be of great benefit, particularly to avoid the problem areas where children become rebellious and manipulative toward the parental energies. However, that some dispute between mother and father, some arguments and disagreements regarding things, the actions whereby mother and father discuss certain things, pros and cons of a situation before making a decision,—some of this can be quite healthy in assisting the child to mentally evaluate and make decisions. By watching the parents move through these mental maneuvers and discussions to reach their decision, the child learns to go through similar mental actions and evaluations in reaching his or her decision.

However, wherein there is a definite and emotional disagreement between the parents on what should be done about a situation and wherein this is of an extreme nature, wherein it threatens the relationship between mother and father; then this should be worked out between the parents without the children being brought into the situation, unless it cannot be solved otherwise. If it reaches a point where the mother and father cannot solve their differences, then the children should be brought into the discussion, so that the children may influence the situation, may mediate or may assist.

This Awareness suggests however, that when it reaches such a division, that family counseling may be necessary. This Awareness suggests that it would be advisable to seek family counseling or counseling between the parents before it reaches such a state that the family is in this type of crisis.

Dealing with Feelings of Threat

This Awareness suggests that in communicating with one another, that each individual must create the situation whereby the other does not feel threatened in expressing his or her feelings, but also the members of the family must be allowed to express the reasons for their feelings and to counter those feelings which are expressed by others which threaten them. That entities should be allowed to express those feelings, but when those expressions threaten others, they must allow the other to express the feeling that they are being threatened. This Awareness suggests that as these feelings of threat are removed, then the communications can become more clear.

That often an entity does not recognize that his actions are received as a threat to the other. That there are certain expressions the entity may give out of a feeling of urgency or for a particular effect, and the expression of this urgency may be felt by the expressor as an act of desperation because this entity is cornered and threatened by some situation. However, the other entity may see that expression of desperation, not as an expression of desperation, but as an expression of threat to his or her position, and may also feel desperate. This Awareness suggests that when these feelings of threat are felt, if entities can state this clearly: "I feel threatened by what you say," then there is opened the possibility for dialogue to remove those feelings of threat.

That wherein there are complete value disagreements,—wherein one entity wishes to do this and another says, "I will not have it," then if these values cannot be reconciled, understood, or brought together into a kind of arrangement that is satisfactory by the entities involved, then these entities should seek outside assistance,—counseling from professionals. If this fails, then the entities perhaps should not be together; for a marriage that stays together and creates an absolute hell for everyone involved is worse than a separation. That wherein the children suffer more from having parents together than from a divorce, and wherein the parents are simply staying together "for the sake of the children" and hate each other or care nothing for each other, then this is not a healthy relationship for the child.

This Awareness suggests that there come times in some relationships where these various turns of events may occur. When a crisis happens in this way, entities should seek counseling. That often, the problem can be minimized by the individuals involved looking more carefully at their own personal insecurities. This Awareness suggests that quite often these personal insecurities come into clash between the partners and can easily be resolved by those who are trained to look for these personal insecurities in an objective way. That seldom are people who are subjectively involved in a situation, able to evaluate their own personal insecurities in that situation; seldom are entities able to evaluate the relationship which is in a state of crisis. Therefore, an outside opinion, particularly from entities who are trained, can quickly assist in clearing up the problem.

"And whom do you want to shoot when you grow up?"

This Awareness suggests that wherein a mother is in a household where the father is violent or damages the children,--psychologically or through sexual assault or physical assault that is extremely damaging or potentially hazardous to the child, then the mother has the right and obligation to disagree and to take her support from the husband. This Awareness suggests that, however, when a mother and the husband are in conflict with each other about the raising of the children, and the mother is more concerned about keeping the children's affection and pampering them for their needs, and the father is attempting to give the children guidance and direction; if the mother would simply give the father some support in that guidance, then the father's efforts would not require such a heavy hand; and if the father can give the children some affection, then the mother will not feel such a need to pamper the children and spoil them.

That the closer the mother and father can move into personal communication and support of each other, and the closer the mother and father can move in to personal communication and support of the children's needs, and the closer the entities can agree on the direction of behavior and expression for each of themselves and the family unit: the better will be the family and the harmony and the foundation from which the children and all others may grow.

When Many Men Enter Mother's House and Life

That wherein a mother is alone, with many men entering and leaving her life, the child will tend to feel a confusion about the father-figure; and as the child, (this being particularly for girls), grows older, she may seek out her own father-figure from elsewhere. This may lead to the child marrying an older man or finding someone who plays the role of a strong protector for her. That the young boy who sees many men moving in and out of the mother's life, may develop a feeling that he is the true mate of the mother, but all of these other men keep competing with him; and this can develop an attitude by the entity that his mother is fickle and the role of women is to be fickle, and therefore he cannot have a close attachment to women in general.

Prevention of Psychological Warps in Children

This Awareness indicates that the resilience of children to bounce back from these psychological warps depends on the individual, and there is no pat formula. For environment creates only a portion of the influence on a child, and there is also the hereditary, astrological and moral influences, and the sense of justice,--much of this coming through previous incarnations. This also being influenced by the intelligence of the child, the ability of the child to evaluate situations, and also the diet can have certain effects. Whereas the child is overly emotional from a diet of high sweets, the child will develop different attitudes toward the environmental situations than the child who is not overly emotional but whose diet provides the proper minerals, vitamins and proteins, so that the child's mind is sharp and emotions are not drugged or overly influenced. That all of these factors are potentially important.

That there also are particular genetic factors and chemical factors which can cause different reactions in the individual child. There also can be particular memories, such as one action of a particular significance to the child, which may be brought up again and again in the child's memory each time a similar circumstance enters into his environment. That all of these various influences,--social, hereditary, internal, spiritual, moral, and the general attitude the child has toward himself,--will be averaged out into the child's expression as he grows and passes through the various situations of life.

Whatever happened to saving one's virginity...?

HOW IMPORTANT ARE MARRIAGE VOWS ?

( More on Commitment )

QUESTION:

In a somewhat related question from D. G., of Salem, Oregon, he asks: "What is the importance of marriage? Aren't the vows that persons make within themselves just as important without the necessity of someone to minister to them? I know you have lots of questions and that heavier things have more import, but if you can, I hope you will ask this of Awareness."

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates this relates unto the nature of magic: that wherein an agreement is made without words, the agreement is as real as the feelings; that wherein the feelings remain steadfast, then the agreement remains steadfast. However, that when an agreement is made without words, on a psychic level, entities often may question, "Are we in fact agreed as I think we are? Or is that entity simply thinking something else, and I assuming something which is not so? Therefore, the entity may look into the eyes of the other, and may see harmony and love, but may not be satisfied with unspoken harmony and love and may wish to find more deeper assurance reflected from the other through words attesting to these feelings which are assumed. Therefore, the entities begin conversing with one another in an effort to eventually lead around to the question: "Are you in love with me as I am in love with you?" This Awareness indicates this may take moments, or may take years before the question is satisfactorily answered or asked, this period generally referred to as the courtship period. That once this has been established on the verbal level, then it may also be put into writing, or into some other symbolic action. It may move through certain physical expressions.

This Awareness indicates that the sexual expressions of old, at one time were the culmination or consummation of the rapport felt, and were saved until the marriage occurred; whereas now entities prefer to save marriage vows until all has been sampled and experienced, and if they feel it is beneficial for some unknown reason, they may later get around to the act of marriage. But essentially, for some entities, this as a very special act which should not be hindered or included simply in a relationship between entities, because it requires commitment which they do not wish to present.

This Awareness indicates that having made the statement in words, the entity is more deeply committed than were no statements made to another; the rapport of love-at-first-sight not being sufficient to convey the feelings and to pin down these feelings, leads to efforts by entities to put these feelings into words. Those who are satisfied with leaving these feelings in the verbal level, never putting this into writing, are also reserving the right not to be committed totally.

This Awareness indicates that others may decide to put this into writing or into the action; therefore move in together and set up housekeeping with a contract, but also, refusing to be committed to each other in terms of a lifetime commitment, and therefore the contract is simply an arrangement between entities to have their personal conveniences with each other as long as the benefits are satisfactory. In many cases, the entities do not even write down these contracts, but make verbal agreements in terms of the living situations, and wherein these do not satisfy, the entities will either move on, or argue and discuss their differences until some form of agreement is made.

What is a True Act of Love?

Still others want something which is more realistic and meaningful in their lives; that not only is this often an action wherein an entity wants the other to be committed, but even more often an entity wants to commit his or her own energies to another and ask permission of that other by proposing marriage or by offering marriage. This Awareness indicates in its proper form, this is a true act of love if offered in levels of integrity, for it holds back nothing of self. However, even this act of marriage has been perverted, distorted, and caused to become entrapment arrangements, whereby entities grab the energies of another and consider that entity as a possession or servant thereafter.

This Awareness indicates the concept of marriage in its ideal state is that which is a ceremony announcing to society and to each other, to one's emotions, to one's physical, to one's feelings, to one's mental, and to one's spiritual energies, that you are committed totally to each other's welfare. Obviously, this kind of commitment is unpopular among many entities today, who prefer not to be committed to much of anything because there are so many things to sample in the world of fast foods, fast trains, fast vacations, fast occupations and fast relationships.

The Soul Grows when a Marriage is Good

This Awareness indicates that for those who are ready to have deep and meaningful soul growth and find a partner that is also ready and willing to enter into such deep meaningful soul growth, marriage can become a most powerful form of spiritual, physical, and social ritual and can become the basis for very rapid and beneficial growth experiences. However, it is not designed for those who are seeking thrills without the commitment and responsibility capacity for dealing with energies of high level.

WILL THE STIGMA OF "BASTARD" FOLLOW A CHILD THRU LIFE ANYMORE? (WHY MANY MEN TODAY SHUN MARRIAGE)

(FOLLOW-UP QUESTION):

Awareness, it seems to me one of the better benefits of a legal marriage relationship is in the event of children appearing, they will not be marked with the stigma of being "bastards" as they go through life. I'd like to ask: Does Awareness see, in the forthcoming times where this stigma of being born in a situation where a legal marriage has not occurred, will this stigma be less and less or non-existent, or will it still remain as far as the children are concerned?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that essentially, the problems which have developed in this regard have certain implications on many levels. That essentially the laws which have been biased against the male, and which have favored the female, in terms of separation and the child custody systems have encouraged welfare to support the female, and have encouraged the male to avoid occupations, because if the male is working, his money will be taken for child support, which he receives very little benefits from, and this has created a kind of division among many people in this society, wherein entities have become frightened of the responsibility of marriage, and also have been encouraged to avoid marriage with those who are already on welfare and have children, for the man who would normally accept a wife who had been divorced and having children, now is in a position often of having his own children and ex-wife to support, and therefore it is more convenient to have his new spouse living off of welfare programs and receiving child support from some other source. Therefore, the entity prefers not to marry, as this would require that he take on another responsibility for another man's ex-wife and children, along with his own ex-wife and children. Therefore, the entity is more satisfied to avoid the marriage and simply live together as separate entities in the same house, enjoying the benefits of marriage without the responsibilities that usually occur with the marriage.

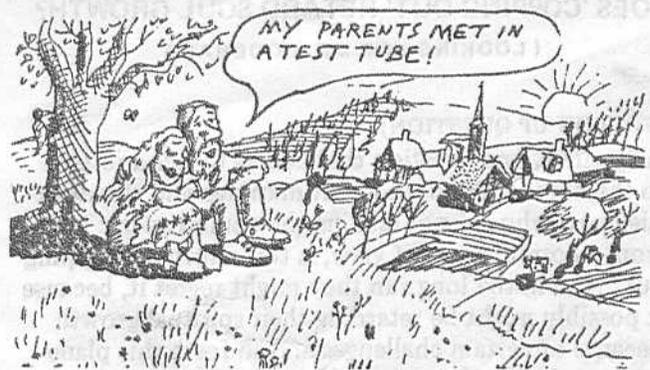

This Awareness indicates that for the woman in such a situation, she has reserved for herself the right to continue her lifestyle without being committed to a particular man, and may receive welfare and child-support for her children; and in this way, the entity is free to shop around, try one man or another, or if finding one suitable, may begin to wish to have greater control over that man and may seek marriage. That often she may discover that the entity does not want marriage because of the increased problems in terms of the economic situation, which would be changed if they married.

Therefore, these entities do have different problems today because of the offer of welfare, because of easy divorces, and because of closer living in cities, wherein selection of mates has increased to allow entities greater opportunity for shopping around, and because of birth control, which has allowed entities greater freedom of relationship with one another. This has brought about many changes which are quite different from those experienced 50 years ago and before. That also, along with these changes, are the number of unwanted children, accidental children, or children who do not know who their father is or was. That this has become quite common among many entities, and the entities may grow up never really knowing who their father was, and maybe never meeting their father, for in some cases, the father was only with the entity once, at the time of conception, and then disappeared. That often in some cases the mother has no idea of who the actual father of her child might be.

This Awareness indicates that wherein at one time the concept of being a bastard was a shocking term, a shocking concept, and a disgrace to one's being; presently, entities hardly even understand what it means, and if understanding, they simply would say, "Oh, yeah,--I don't know who my father was. So what?" for it has little significance among many entities today. This Awareness indicates that this as how it should be for such entities, that they not take this seriously; for it is not important who sired the entity so much as how the entity lives the life which was given and how that life benefits society, and others.

This Awareness indicates however, in terms of the social implications, there is a concern which should be acknowledged and understood. That wherein in a society an entity has a strong father figure, that father figure, as the entity matures, is often transferred into the entity's concepts of the god or deity, and that transference or extension of the father-figure concept into a god or deity of their religion often colors and influences their attitude toward the god of their religion.

Therefore, an entity whose father was one of violence may recognize and extend that energy into the religious levels and recognize a god of violence and may wish to avoid that type of deity and seek something else; therefore deserting a childhood religion which fostered a god of violence and taking on a different religion. Or the entity, after having a father of violence, may believe that this is the proper way for a follower of God to behave, and therefore the entity accepts the god of violence and tries to portray that energy in his own life.

This Awareness indicates that therefore, the entity in projecting the concept of the entity's father into the concept of one's religion, either follows that religion or rejects that religion, depending on the entity's attitudes toward his own father or toward her father, and this has a strong influence on the child's attitude toward religion.

How the Father-Figure Becomes a Deity (Why there are so many gurus around)

This Awareness indicates that there is a tendency from the past whereby entities have promoted the father-complex into their deities, and created gods which were reflections of the prototype of a father. That wherein entities in present time are being raised with a multiplicity of 'fathers' coming and going,--uncles, cousins, brothers, friends,--different ones playing the father figure for an hour, day, week, or a month, then being changed and leaving, and another moving in to play the father figure for a time, that this is creating in the child a kind of psyche which, when transferred into religious concepts and attitudes, will create the tendency of the child to accept a multiplicity of deities, different types of deities, gods and so forth.

This Awareness indicates this is what accounts for many of the successes of the various types of modern-day gurus, teachers, and father figures which are springing up everywhere. This also accounts for many of the different types of spiritual organizations which offer a multiplicity of divine beings, to allow the child to choose which of the divine beings, or how many, it desires to serve as a kind of father figure, or set of father figures.

Likewise, there are also similar psychological effects relating to the child's experience with mother. However, these tend to be more influential in terms of the child's attitude toward society than toward religion. This as a topic different from that in question.

DOES 'COPPING OUT' RETARD SOUL GROWTH?

(LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR)

(FOLLOW-UP QUESTION):

Awareness, one question that comes to mind relative to the original question about marriage and these entities now who are not making the commitment: Now, from a cosmic point of view, is this a form of copping out? And in the long run they might regret it, because it possibly might be retarding their spiritual growth because of certain challenges and so forth this plane presented, that they were circumventing, and allowing others,--for example, the welfare people,-- to provide their substance, when in fact they could have been out earning it themselves, and so forth...?

"They say you can't take it with you, so I'm not bothering to get any."

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that essentially, what is occurring is a total change in value. This Awareness can give an analogy which is very helpful in understanding this. Imagine yourself as a child. You live in a remote area wherein there are few things available for gratification. It is Christmas time and you are taken by your parents into a small town, and there you have a choice of one tricycle. There are four tricycles from which to choose. You look at these various tricycles and make your choice. You are happy with your choice. You take this tricycle home, and you ride this tricycle until you are too big to ride it any more, until you have totally outgrown the tricycle, or until it falls apart under you. This tricycle was one which you were committed to because it was so deep and meaningful and valuable to you.

This Awareness indicates that you then raise a child, and the child watches television and sees all types of advertisements, and you tell the child, "I am going to buy you a Christmas present and I want you to help pick it out." You take the child to the department store, and the child has an opportunity of choosing from 50 different tricycles, or the child turns his head and sees all kinds of electronic games or other things, and the child finds it much more difficult to choose, because instead of four things to choose from, the child has hundreds of things to choose from. You finally tell the child, "It's getting late, you must make your choice." The child chooses, but then leaves with apprehension, wondering whether it was the right choice or not.

The child takes the tricycle home, rides it around, enjoys it, then begins looking again at television and all the goodies for sale, and begins wanting to have something different,--one of those electronic games like he saw at the department store. The child now is dissatisfied with his gift, with his purchase, with his valuable present, and the child wants something different. After some time, you decide, "Yes, I can afford to get that for you," and you take the child down again. Again the child moves through the same process, finally makes a choice, but is uncertain as to whether it was the best choice, or if perhaps one of the other stores might have an even more intriguing game. Again the entity tries out the game to see how satisfactory it is, and after awhile, loses interest.

This Awareness indicates that so it is with modern-day youth in terms of each other. They have been raised on a diet of advertisement, of discards, and of replacements, of shopping, of being given gratifications available through multiplicities of choices. Therefore they will try one mate that looks pretty good compared to the others, and if it doesn't work out, they'll discard that mate and go down and shop for another. And in this manner, the entity never really needs to become totally acquainted with the mate, never needs to understand it, never needs to devote attention to it, to love it, to value it, or to hold it in high esteem and respect. The entity sees the mate simply as a plaything, a commodity to be used, enjoyed as long as it is enjoyable, and to be discarded if it is not satisfactory and entertaining enough.

This Awareness indicates however, some entities find themselves being the tricycle, the plaything for another, and find the other discarding them. And when this occurs, it becomes more painful and the entity prefers not to be discarded, but rather to discard. Therefore entities are becoming wary of the potential of being a discard to someone else, and will quickly move into a kind of mentality which offers to "dump the bum" if the bum doesn't behave right.

Therefore, entities become paranoid of each other, because of the changing values of today's systems; and in this paranoia, fail to give themselves totally to one another, for fear of being dumped. Therefore, entities speak of true love, sing of true love, talk of true love, dream of true love, ask for true love, but never want to commit themselves to give true love.

"BIG EVENTS" EXPLAINED (More or Less)

( FIGURING OUT THE "BRIDGE OF SAN LOUIS REY" SYNDROME )

QUESTION:

Vicki had a couple of questions in relation to previous information. First one: "In relation to the vibratory frequency rates of those involved in "big events", such as the Titanic going down, or the 747 crash; how would this analogy work? Imagine a straight rainbow of colors arranged in parallel horizontal lines,--red on the bottom, and so on upwards. Each of these colors is of a slightly different vibratory rate, and each carries its own lifestream of probable experiences. As consciousness flows down through this rainbow as a waterfall, portions of each are attached to the color they are most closely attuned to, and cluster on or around their color. Once the portions are drawn to their color, the material manifestation of the appropriate experience for that vibratory frequency follows in whatever form, event, or current that is most necessary for their needs or levels."

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this as an accurate analogy, with further information being appropriate. This Awareness indicates that upon this planet, entities may also visualize certain rainbow-like colors emanating from various points of the planet, moving out in space,--these being likened unto conical shaped colors of varying frequencies, whereby each color or cone, upon touching the surface of the earth, may be of a slightly different color or frequency than its neighbor; also, the closer to the surface of the earth, the more intense the color, and the further out, the more diffused the color. That in seeing this analogy of an earth with all of these radiances of varying colors emanating from various points, and visualizing entities of certain frequency, each having its own color, it becomes easier to understand how entities may be attracted to similar frequency color areas. That also, these color areas are not necessarily always stationary or exactly the same from time to time, for they may be affected by astrological colorations or energies which change the patterns and frequency rates.

This Awareness indicates that now imagining these entities of a particular frequency rate, such as a shade of red, being influenced by certain astrological frequency rates which correspond to that energy frequency which influence the entity to move to a particular direction or place upon the surface of the earth at a particular time, thus promoting a movement of travel by those various entities who are of that same frequency flux. This analogy can perhaps be helpful in understanding how certain energies or frequencies may be used to move entities to share a similar experience at a particular time or place; that this is not a perfect analogy, but may be helpful in assisting entities to better grasp the complexity of these energies.

This Awareness reminds entity also, that there are group guardians who assist certain group energies, and guide and direct these groups into various directions of expression; these being under a particular vibration of that guardian.

ED's Note: the question that prompted this analogy concerns major disasters, accidents involving hundreds of people, such as an airliner crash or the sinking of a ship such as the Titanic. Awareness has explained that it is almost impossible to convey in English words how and why all these particular entities come together and experience such disasters and consequent death. If you will refer to 'Revelations of Awareness' No. 78-5 (The 747 Collision and Big Disasters in General); $1.00; and No. 85-14 (The Sinking of the Titanic); $3.00 from CAC, the analogy just explained by Awareness may put new light on such experiences.

HAS TIME REALLY SPEEDED UP ?

QUESTION:

J.K. in Detroit, has a question: He writes: "Cosmic Awareness, some Light groups say that we are now in the year 2000, 2010, because God has moved time forward. Cosmic Awareness has also indicated that time has been moved forward, to prevent the destruction prophesied by Edgar Cayce. Please tell us if the earth third dimensional planet is now in the year 2000 (or whatever), and if so, what does this mean in practical every-day terms for us entities now trapped on this earth plane?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this is a confusion of man-made time, and Cosmic Duration, or that which may be called Time in a Cosmic sense; that wherein it has been said that time is speeding up, this is not in relation to the clock, the calendar, the cycles of the earth around the sun, or the speed of the earth in its movement around the sun, rather, this speeding up of time is in reference to the vibrations which make up atomic particles and sub-particles, and which in fact make up matter itself; that the duration of anything that is in existence is a measurement of time.

Man measures time by fixed movement of objects such as the regular movement of clock hands, or sand falling through a small hole in an hourglass, or the regular movement of the sun, and its casting of a shadow on a sun dial. Man measures time by those things which are regular in their movement. That cosmic time however, may be measured by the vibrations of the materiality, the material universe, the vibrations of the atoms, the speed of thought, the speed of consciousness, the duration of concepts, the duration of ideas, the speed at which things change, the speed at which things evolve.

This Awareness indicates that as certain vibrations are speeded up, so that matter evolves more toward the spiritual, as the radioactivity is released upon the physical plane, as in the early '40s, and has its effect upon the atomic structure of matter, increasing the speed of vibration within those sub-atomic particles, increasing the speed of consciousness; as this occurs, the calendar, the clock, the earth turning on its axis, the earth orbiting the sun still remains at its previously constant pace, yet these vibrations are still speeding up, and as these speed up, events which would otherwise occur at certain times are put off or are speeded up so as to occur prematurely.

This Awareness indicates that when events occur prematurely, they are often not fully ripe, are not fully developed in the sense that they would otherwise have been developed, and in this manner predictions are modified so as not to occur in the same degree or with the same intensity as they otherwise would have occurred, had the atomic vibrations not speeded up, forcing an earlier occurrence.

That there is no clear indication that the year 2010 can be seen as equated to the present vibratory rate of matter, for some portions of matter speed up at one pace, while others move at other speeds, and what would have occurred for some portions in the year 2010, for other portions would not have occurred so soon, or for other portions would occur sooner. This depending on the density of the matter which is being altered by the atomic vibration speed-up.

ARE DAYS GETTING LONGER ?

( Why People are Getting More Psychic )

(FOLLOW-UP QUESTION):

Does this have to do with the subjective level of experience? That it seems like there's more and more in each day; by the time you come to the end of the day, it seems like, on some level, it's been a whole lot more than a day.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates this in the affirmative. That this is likened unto individuals being compared to a computer, wherein the computer individual of one century ago would have a certain amount of input, whereas at this time, the input is perhaps 10 or 20 times as great, and the individual as a computer must process more information than ever before in history upon this plane. That this as enhancing and increasing the speed of consciousness at which it processes such information. This enhancement of consciousness, the increasing speed of consciousness, trains the consciousness to operate at higher vibrations, and also leads to intuitive and telepathic qualities.

This Awareness indicates that an entity living today, put back into life one century ago, would be considered by those entities of that time to be somewhat psychic, if they understood the term, because such an entity as living today, cast into a much slower moving society could see ahead much quicker, could read faces much more easily, could grasp impressions from situations and forecast what is about to occur, simply because these events can be more easily telegraphed by the expression on entities faces, the words they say, the activities that are building.

This Awareness indicates that in the present time, an entity seeing so many movies, so many stories, so many people, so many situations, is becoming relatively alert so that the entity grasps the meaning of a situation in a flash, and seeing so many stories, knows their direction before they ever reach the end of the program; that this, if experienced 100 years ago, would seem like magic. That in this sense, entities are, whether they realize it or not, becoming more and more psychic as the input into their consciousness and the processing of that information increases and speeds up in their lives, in their experiences.

IS THE SOUL SELF-CORRECTING IF ONE GETS OFF HIS COURSE ?

QUESTION:

A question from M.G., Jacksonville, Florida, who would like to know: "What self-correcting measure will a soul usually take during a lifetime if the pre-planned mission gets behind, or ahead of schedule, or off course?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that often the entity runs into obstacles which prevent him or her from following the path or course which he or she is on; that often the guiding forces of an entity's life will deliberately cause blocks and difficulties so that the entity must turn into another path, another direction. Those who stubbornly persist in going their own way in spite of all of the efforts of these guiding forces may be allowed to move into those directions.

This Awareness indicates however, that generally the inner forces of an individual are those which are guided by these forces and the entity will recognize a need to change directions. The intuitive energies may lead the entity on the path which is best suited for his or her expression. That wherein an entity can miss the mark and enter into actions which are not the chosen path, this occurs generally from the heavy influence of outside forces acting upon an entity.

For example, a parent or authority figure which demands that the entity take up a certain profession, and the entity, in order to please that demanding authority figure does so in spite of his or her own wishes to do otherwise. There are many entities who enter into a profession in order to please someone else and who fail to do that which they wanted to do when entering the physical plane.

ARE BABIES LOOKING MORE MATURE ?

(MORE CARRY-OVER OF FEATURES FROM LAST LIFETIME)

QUESTION:

A question from J.W. in Ohio. "Small babies look much more mature to me now than they did ten years ago. Is this because of vibrations received in the womb, or a different kind of soul reincarnating?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this in part as being subjective, whereby you now look at small babies as reincarnated adults,--adults in the body of a child. This Awareness indicates however, that it appears there also are certain physical alterations that have occurred during the past ten years, whereby these entities who are returning are in fact returning more quickly from the other side, still carrying with them certain features of their previous lifetimes. That this more rapid turn-over as that which does not allow the physical features to fade so completely from the previous lifetime, as was happening prior to this last decade. This of course not in every case, but in many of the examples which you have witnessed and which others may witness during this and future times.

VISUALIZE WORLD PEACE

WHY THE WHEELS OF THE GODS GRIND SLOWLY

This Awareness indicates that the energies which move, bringing about change, bringing about awakening, bringing about the unfolding of one's own's consciousness, often appear to move slowly. This Awareness indicates however, there is world enough and time. There is energy enough, and there is the continued possibility of waiting, waiting, waiting, until entities alter and change on their own.

This Awareness indicates that often entities are anxious for new thrills, new experiences, new ideas, yet they have hardly looked at what they already have, and the light examination of that which is presently given may be tossed aside as they hope for something even more exciting, more thrilling, more enlightening.

This Awareness indicates that for this reason, the wheels of the gods grind slowly, and entities wait and wait for delivery, for that enlightenment, for that moment wherein they can say, "Aha! I have found something!" This Awareness indicates that the "ahas" last very briefly, and the search continues, for entities find an ever-increasing dissatisfaction in having anything, and enjoy the search, and the waiting for whatever is next.

This Awareness indicates that entities in searching for something new, are in reality only searching for the Divine, for the God, for the higher aspects of their own being, and it is this sorrow and hunger which must always remain with entities, for the grief of being apart from the Highest is that which leads entities toward the Highest, toward the best, toward the Divine.

The Law of Expansion or Inclusion

This Awareness indicates that the Law of Expansion is that inclusion which results when the definition and description of a part or situation is expanded to include something else.

The Law of Expansion is that which is never-ending as long as there is more which may be included by redescribing.

Those who understand the Law of Expansion will understand that they are more than a body, more than a name, more than a social being, more than a life of action, more than a center of a society, more than an observer and an observed, more than the symbol for humanity, more than the awareness of the earth and solar system, more than the confines of the form:

They are what is and what they may include in describing themselves.

Those who move from the Law of Expansion into the Law of Exclusion or Contraction would describe themselves as being something less than all that is. This being an exclusive Law which describes them as being this, but not that; this but not that; and this but not that until they are almost nothing at all in a universe of overwhelming forces.

Beware the Law of Exclusion, lest you exclude yourself from all else into the oblivion of the bottomless pit.
