Tithing: Does God really want 10% of our earnings?

TITHING: DOES GOD REALLY WANT TEN PERCENT OF OUR EARNINGS?

QUESTION:

A Question from A.O. Baker, who asks: "When the Bible says to tithe, isn't this really meant that we should give ten percent of our time to God in the form of prayer and meditation, and not ten percent of our earnings, as the organized religions would like for us to believe? Does God really want ten percent of our earnings? Wouldn't God prefer ten percent of our time in communication with the Divine through prayer, or in the Divine through meditation?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that in Biblical times, rather than calling it a tax, it was called a tithe, to signify it was a spiritual gift. It was common in those days for entities to give a sheep or even a first-born child in sacrifice to God in some of the more pagan religions.

In the changes during certain Biblical periods, rather than asking for a first-born son or first-born child, or for a goat or pig or cow, it was suggested that entities give ten percent of their earnings to God. This Awareness indicates that this was designed as a way of helping the priests to gather that which they needed to continue running the religion and funding the priest's needs.

The Origin of Tithing: Extraterrestrial "Gods" Accepted Gifts

This Awareness indicates that it was in fact, reference to physical wealth that was being sought. This Awareness indicates that you must understand how the concept of tithing evolved from the pagan religions of the time and prior to the time; wherein in the earlier times it was not uncommon for those so-called "gods" or extraterrestrials to have platforms or pyramids that are flattened on top, whereby a gift would be taken and placed up on the platform for the gods or extraterrestrials to take.

This Awareness indicates that this would be considered the origin of the concept of tithing. This Awareness indicates that the tithing of the more pagan extraterrestrial type of society gradually evolved over centuries to that which, instead of sacrificial blood or sacrificial gifts of entities or of goods to the spacecraft, or extraterrestrial gods, it became one wherein the priests of various groups of cults or cultures would ask for gifts and the gifts that entities were to bring, such as grain or fruit or other gifts of food, often would change and when a kind of money system evolved in a society, it was then that the concept of giving money to the priests was evolved into the religious system.

Yoga: Yoking Oneself With God

This Awareness indicates that in so far as praying and meditating, a spiritual being would consider this as being important, and something that is not a requirement, but as a gift to oneself in being bonded or yoked with God. When one meditates, as in the term Yoga, it means becoming one with God, yoking oneself with God, and this is considered an honor and a benefit for the entity to yoke himself or herself with God, not as a duty or obligation.

Thus, the Bible reference, wherein entities were admonished to tithe or give ten percent of their bounty for God, was speaking of their wealth rather than their unification with God; that unification is understood as a kind of union that goes both ways, a kind of reconciliation or marriage.

To have it an obligation in which an entity pays God to be close to God would turn the union into something less than sacred, but when an entity meditates and prays or gets unified with God because of his or her desire to be close to God, that is not to be thought of as an obligation or duty on the part of the entity, but more of an honor and privilege.

Wherein an entity loves another they do not have to be admonished to spend time with the other. They are simply expected to spend time with the other because they want to do so, not because they are directed to do so. This Awareness indicates that when a man and a woman love each other they spend time together, not out of admonishment or duty, but out of love.

This Awareness suggests that if there is an agreement or a statement regarding the concept of paying a percentage of your earning to your mate, that reference is not meant as a symbolic reference of being with the mate in terms of ten percent of the time; it means that you are to help support your mate. You are to help support the work and the efforts of your mate.

This Awareness indicates that entities have no problem paying taxes to an illegally run government wherein the Constitution forbids a head tax, which is what the income tax is, but entities have some considerable problem about supporting their church. They expect God to support the church, to provide the money to operate the church.

It is a strange situation that has developed over the past ten years or so, mostly because of certain IRS rulings about donations, and entities would rather pay taxes to the IRS which collects money from citizens and sends most of that money to the Federal Reserve, which sends the money overseas to Federal Reserve Banks in other countries, which in turn takes the wealth of America from the country and deposits it into foreign banks for the international bankers to manipulate and to use as they wish.

Cosmic Awareness Finds Tithing In America Very Strange

This is not objectionable to most entities, but most entities do object to churches getting any money to further their work, yet they want to be involved with the church and to get whatever spiritual energy they can get, so long as they don't have to pay, or can pay the very minimum amount. This is very strange to this Awareness. It is time entities stopped being naive, and foolish in regard to this concept of tithing and giving to churches.

How do you expect churches to survive, if churches cannot be funded, cannot ask for assistance? If the minister for the church has to go out and work at a mundane job as most entities do, where is the minister going to get any time to work for the church or do the spiritual duties he or she is expected to do?

This Awareness indicates could you hold down your job and run a church full time effectively? This Awareness indicates of course this is not possible, and anyone who thinks this through will realize that churches must be supported by the members of the church, the ones who benefit from the churches messages and teachings and services.

This Awareness indicates that if entities holding down outside jobs wish to not only support their church, but also be close to God, to pray and meditate; that is also suggested as beneficial to the entities. This Awareness indicates that to slack off or refuse to support a church and use the excuse that the Bible does not mean supporting the church with monetary energy, but only in terms of prayers and meditations, the entity is simply evading facts and trying to avoid helping to keep the church functioning and assuming that others will do so instead.

Those Who Give "All" of Their Time to God

This Awareness indicates that when entities all get that idea that they need not support their church and that they simply need to spend ten percent of their time being with God, it is a very little shift further to say "Why spend ten percent of my time with God? I'll spend all of my time with God! Everything I do, whether it's going to a football game, watching television, going to the tavern; whatever I do, I dedicate it all to God! Therefore, I am giving all of my time to God!"

This Awareness indicates that this way, the entity could carry on a total lifestyle without giving anything to God, simply by dedicating whatever he or she does to God, regardless of whether it fits the concept of spirituality or not.

This Awareness indicates that it is a question of whether you want a church to survive, or whether you see any value in spiritual energies and messages and influences in your life. If you do not care to help support or keep your church viable and active, you simply leave and take your energies elsewhere, but to siphon off spiritual energies and feel you are not willing or able or desirous of giving anything in return to keep the structure of the church alive is being very deceitful and dishonest.

Some Say all Spiritual Messages Should be Free

You are taking, and giving nothing back. This Awareness indicates there have been many arguments of this type. Many entities have written, saying that spiritual messages should all be free, and therefore, by their accounting, entities would have to go out and panhandle, to get enough money to survive so they could give these entities spiritual messages of no charge.

They would have to buy the paper with their panhandling money, assuming that they got enough. They would have to buy the printing machines, or have the material printed up outside in some other printing press. They would have to pay transcribers out of their own pockets. They would have to work somehow, panhandle enough to get the stamps for postage to mail these mailings out, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera.

Is this realistic, or is this not simply foolish thinking, or shallow thinking, wherein things have not been thought through at all, to expect a spiritual organization to provide free information?

This Awareness indicates there is only one organization that has been able to do this for any length of time. This Awareness indicates that this was an organization that was funded from millions of dollars from an entity who funded the money necessary to produce a magazine that was made available free of charge for quite a number of years.

This Awareness indicates It does not see the name of this magazine at the moment, but the magazine was made free to the recipients because one man gave millions of dollars to make the message available to the masses. This Awareness indicates It does not see this magazine as still being available.*

QUESTIONER:

Is that Herbert Armstrong's The plain Truth ?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This is in the affirmative.

QUESTIONER:

It is still available.

*In 1996 "Plain truth" stopped being a free publication and is now available by paid subscription only.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this is funded by one man's contribution of millions of dollars, and it is made free, but there is, in every issue, requests for donations or sale of objects or messages or information, which helps to supplement the income of this magazine.

This Awareness indicates that without this kind sponsorship from one or more people, any other organization will need support from many, and the many who would be most likely to help support such an organization would be the members who benefit from the messages they seek.

This Awareness indicates those entities who argue that the CAC messages should be made available free of charge are simply being unrealistic, unfair, and dishonest in their own reasoning, for to receive something for nothing cheapens it, and also steals from others who need further information, because when one takes something for nothing, the organization loses its ability to reach still others.

This Awareness indicates entities who appreciate information should make some kind of payment to that organization that produces the information in order to assure that the information continues to be available. This Awareness suggests to deny reciprocal return of energy is to vampire the spiritual source, sucking the life from it.

This Awareness does wish to say however, that simply tithing ten percent of your earnings to a church is not necessarily sufficient to have your soul growth at an optimum level, for you also need to be close to God. You also need to still surrender yourself to the Divine, not just your ten percent.

This Awareness suggests you give your total self to the Divine, and also ten percent if you appreciate the source of the spiritual messages you receive. If you have various sources for your spiritual messages you may wish to divide the ten percent among those sources, according to how much you value each.

This Awareness indicates it is not something that is enforceable. It is something that should be voluntary, according to your own appreciation. That appreciation needs to be more than the mere words, "Thank you for the free gift!" Rather, it should be an action that reciprocates the energy you have received in a way that reflects your level of appreciation.

This Awareness indicates also that entities who tithe sometimes choose to give more than ten percent, and entities who do tithe and give ten percent or more or whatever amount, will receive increased bounty and blessing in their lives. Those who seek to get something for nothing will find their lives devoid of blessings and good luck, and may find themselves plagued with bad luck after some time has passed with such an attitude.

HOW TO ASK FOR DIVINE HELP?

QUESTION:

Another question from this entity. "When calling for Divine or Angelic Force to come into our lives to help us, should we ask for solutions to specific problems or questions, or should we ask for general guidance in our lives?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the entity is speaking of petitioning to God for some kind of solution to difficulties or problems and wants to know whether the petition should be precise and detailed, according to the problem, or whether it should be generalized in a way that asks for help in solving the problem.

The question is: Should God do it for you, or should God simply show you how to do it for yourself? This Awareness indicates that the more you take on the responsibility for yourself, the more you will grow from the experience; therefore, the better solution to this situation would be to ask God for guidance in solving your problems.

The more immature person would ask God for the money needed to solve a problem that is requiring money as a solution. Such an entity might pray for millions of dollars to satisfy his craving or need for money, but it is unlikely that God will deliver on something of this nature that would not help the entity's soul growth and would simply cause the entity to become overly materialistic.

This Awareness indicates, however, that it would be a step upward if the entity asked God: "Help me to find a solution to my problem that I can act on!" for this would be a better approach to solving the problem than to expect the problem to be solved for you by God.

In other words, seeking to have God help you find your own solution is a step upward in this situation.

This Awareness indicates that while you are at it, or at some stage in your life, you may want to ask God to help you avoid such problems in the first place. In other words, if you can avoid getting into situations that lead to such problems in which you need Divine Intervention, you will be better off and you can use your energies to maintain your circumstances to an optimum level of well-being, or if this is satisfactory already, you can use the energies to rise and grow stronger or help others to grow stronger, thus, not having to beg God for help or beg God for solutions to your self-created problems.

This Awareness indicates of course, there are some problems that are not created by your own negligence or business inadequacies or social inadequacies or whatever. There are some problems that are caused by the inadequacies of others, or by some unforeseeable activity that leads to problems. You may, for example, find yourself being helpful to someone who is in deep need and in the process, this person may do something that creates an extraordinary problem for you.

The entity perhaps you seek to help may have deeper needs than you can handle and may steal something of great value to you and just disappear. You wonder, "How could this person do this after what I have done to help?" but it has happened. This Awareness indicates is this any fault of your own, or was it not from the virtue of your seeking to help this entity that your problem came about, because the entity deceived you and stole from you?

Therefore, entities are not always responsible for what negative events might fall upon them. Of course, it could have some karmic connection to something in a past-life debt you may owe to the entity, so you cannot really say that you are sure you are innocent of any blame in whatever occurs. Perhaps you are innocent in this life; you were virtuous in your effort to help this person and the person deceived you and stole from you. Perhaps you can forgive the entity if you realize it is a karmic debt owed to the entity from a previous lifetime.

The Error in Assuming That All Wrong Done to You is a Karmic Debt You Owed to Others

This Awareness indicates, however, that this is not always possible, or necessary and it is sometimes inappropriate to forgive entities too easily. By assuming that every wrong done to you by others must be your karmic debt to them would excuse everyone from stomping on you, from hurting you, and you would simply become a martyr, apologizing to everyone for all of the bad karma you must have caused them to make them want to destroy you so thoroughly.

By this reasoning, anything would be excusable in terms of what they do to you, and this is not something this Awareness wishes entities to engage in. You need to stand up for your rights when you do not see anything on your own part that could have caused the unfairness, even if perhaps there is something in a past life that might have led to this. This is all speculation. You must go by what you presently understand in terms of present reality.

This Awareness indicates therefore, in terms of doing a virtuous act and getting slapped or kicked for doing so, you must be able to forgive yourself for any unknown debt you may owe the person, and not assume a debt simply because someone has harmed you, and not assume that it was deserved, or it wouldn't have happened.

Always be Ready to Reconcile Differences or Turn and Walk Away

This Awareness indicates that entities do need to appreciate the blessings they receive, and need to express their feelings about violations they receive, and be ready and willing to reconcile when any conflict or quarrel erupts as soon as there is an opening for proper reconciliation. Entities also need to be able to turn and walk away when there is a misbehavior that cannot be clearly reconciled or easily reconciled.

If, for example, someone has violated you, and the violation is so strong that you know the entity is not going to apologize and you have no obligation to apologize because you were not the one who violated the other, then perhaps there is nothing you can do short of violence toward the other, except walk away, and not see the other again, until the other gives you reason to come back and re-establish a relationship, if it ever does occur.

This Awareness indicates it is better to cut off a relationship and leave the entity than to try to work a reconciliation when the other doesn't want reconciliation and you are not the one who violated the other; wherein, for example, some close associate or friend or relative steals a large amount of money from you, not some small amount that does not really hurt you, but wherein it is a large amount and it has hurt you seriously in your life plans or obligations and you cannot overlook it because it has been so damaging; it is a situation in which you have no reason whatsoever to approach the person to apologize in order to get a relationship re-established.

The other owes you, and you cannot solve the problem by caving in to the other, because you are the one who was victimized, but you also don't want to get into a physically violent situation with the entity, so perhaps the only option you have left is to simply cut off the relationship and leave or file suit and let some third party court, or third party agency deal with the situation in your behalf.

These things can happen and can happen in a way so as not to create further karma for you. The walking away is a very difficult thing for entities to do, but sometimes it is appropriate and necessary.

This Awareness indicates It moved off on a number of tangents and if there is further need for response, this Awareness suggests the question be restated or re-examined for any area needing further response.

Better to Ask for Solutions or just Guidance?

QUESTIONER:

Well, the entity was basically asking: When calling for Divine or Angelic Forces to come into his life to help, should he ask for solutions to specific problems or questions, or should he ask for general guidance in his life?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that asking for guidance, in a general sense, can be of benefit in some cases, but in some situations the entity may not be able to solve the problem with general guidance and the entity may want and need specific information. It is more difficult to get specific information through prayer. It is easier to get general information, but if specific information is necessary, then expect to require an enormous amount of energy on your part seeking the solution.

For example, if you need to find someone, an entity who has disappeared or is lost, or has been taken, and no trace is left for you to follow; if you have to find where this entity is, for example, this is specific information you are requesting from the Divine. You will need to focus enormous amounts of energy repeatedly or for long periods of time in order to get any response from a Divine Source as to the whereabouts of this entity.

If you are instead simply asking for general guidance, as to how to find the entity, it might be easier and take less energy on your part but you might simply get a general response: "Go to the police! Have them check for this entity as a missing person!" or something to that effect. Or perhaps you'll get a message saying, "Contact the entity's friends and relatives. See if any have heard from this entity!" and it may be that you will get messages back that direct you on how you may go about locating or finding the entity, and this being a more general answer to a general question, does not require the same amount of focused energy that would be necessary if your question were: "Where is this entity located? Please give an address or a telephone number."

This Awareness indicates these specific types of responses are almost impossible to energize in order to get a specific response to the question, and there are very few entities who have the ability to energize good enough for such specific information. But it is not as difficult to get general information as to how to proceed in your search for something or someone.

How One Catholic Church Extorted Money

QUESTION:

In regard to tithing, I experienced a situation years ago back in Omaha, where I met my sister's Mother In Law, a woman named Mrs. Janda, who was a Polish immigrant; her husband had drank himself into a very severe state where he couldn't work for a number of years, and up until he died, and she supported him by being a scrub-woman. She literally spent most of her life hauling buckets of water and scrubbing staircases of buildings and institutions and so forth for a very small wage.

When I met her one time she was crying over at my sister's house at the time, if I recall correctly, and I asked her what it was about, and she said that her church...she pulled out a mimeographed sheet of paper, and on this paper were the names of everybody on this church's list in that area. It happened to be a Catholic church in North Omaha, and it had to do with tithing and fund-raising, and evidently everybody was supposed to have a quota, because they listed on this sheet the name and address, and perhaps even the phone number of everybody in that church and exactly how much they had donated, and Mrs. Janda was really feeling bad because her name was literally the very last one on the list. She could tithe only $5.00, but $5.00 to her could have been 50% of what she made in a week. In those days it was like $10.00 or $20.00 a week for the type of work she did. And so, basically, my question on tithing, from the other aspect, it should be freely given, and it should not be extorted from people. Is that correct?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This is in the affirmative. This Awareness indicates that the ten percent is a suggested amount. Some entities may wish to give less. Some may wish to give more, according to their ability and their devotion to the church which they are tithing to. This Awareness indicates that one may ask, "Why should I be devoted to the church? Why can't I simply devote myself to God?"

The Purpose of a Church

This Awareness indicates that this is also a matter of personal choice. The purpose of a church is not to simply take money in behalf of God. The purpose of a church is to create a structure whereby the spiritual energies of the religious essences of the Divine can be funneled through that structure, through the belief system or the structural philosophy, through the activities and services of the church, whereby the spirit moves through this kind of structure in order to reach the entity who is the recipient of the spiritual energy that is funneled through that structural form of the church.

Worship the Water but Not the Hose

This Awareness indicates in other words, the church is simply a structural form for the spirit. It is likened unto the hose that carries the water. You do not need to worship the hose. You worship the water. You appreciate the water that comes through the hose, but you should realize it is more difficult to get the water without the hose and someone has made it convenient by creating a hose to carry the water to you, and that entities who have responsibility or who have invested in creating the hose, have a right to certain rewards for his or her efforts in providing you with the hose that carries the water.

The entities who maintain the church which carries the spirit to the entities who worship in the church or through the church, or receive messages from the church; the church that carries these messages needs to be maintained. The structure needs to be maintained and usually there is cost involved, if the church and its structural activities and programs are active.

If it is simply seen as a building and entities see it as not having any taxes on it, and entities do not recognize a need to pay any mortgage payments on it, then why bother funding it, but if it is channeling information or services, or giving some kind of benefit to the members, it is costing someone to provide this effort, and these entities need to be funded some way by the members who benefit from the efforts.

This Awareness indicates that in the example given about the church writing up a list of donors, this was an extortionist type of peer-pressure to embarrass entities who could not or would not give more money to the church. They apparently took this action of collecting tithes in the same spirit as a tax collector would take his duties and job.

This Awareness indicates that this is not spiritual behavior. It is materialistic behavior. Whether it is for a spiritual organization or not, it is still very materialistic in its nature, and unbecoming of a spiritual organization to put this kind of pressure on entities, whereby they are hung out in public for their donations and their tithing to be judged, criticized or evaluated by their peers.

There are also instances in which entities have been measured by their donations, and those who donate more are treated as though they were more spiritual than those who donate less. This also is in error.

This Awareness indicates the tithing is that which should be not only voluntary, but it also should be very personal. If entities are to be listed in terms of their donations, it should simply be anonymous listings of the entities, or coded numbers representing the entities so they know the code for themselves, but others do not.

There appears to be very little reason for anything of this nature happening. The summation of how much is donated should be sufficient in most cases, without listing who it is that donates. This Awareness indicates however, it is very tempting for churches that are barely surviving to stoop to levels such as this or churches that are greedy may stoop to such levels.

This Awareness indicates that generally this is not seen or done in most churches, whereby tithes are listed publicly with the names of the donors included. That is a very rare and ugly way to handle the tithing projects.

"The Nine Faces of Christ"—Is the Book Valid?

(Did Jesus Spend Time in North and South America?)

QUESTION:

One other question from this entity A.O. Baker. "I just finished reading Nine Faces of Christ: The Quest of the True Initiate, by Eugene E. Whitworth." And he wonders if Cosmic Awareness recommends this book to the readership as a factual account of the life of Jesus Christ. The author agrees with Cosmic Awareness about Jesus not dying on the cross, due to Jesus being able to create a second solid body and transfer all spiritual energies to this second body, which then makes the original body to appear dead.

"Jesus, in his second body helped to lower his own apparently dead body from the cross, and Jesus took the nails out of his original body. After the body had been placed in the crypt, and the crypt was sealed, Jesus re-entered and animated his original body and hid in a small alcove above the mouth of the crypt. When the stone was rolled away and the priest from the temple saw the body was gone, the priest quickly ran away and Jesus walked out of the crypt and waited in a garden nearby, where Mary Magdalene encountered him.

"Jesus eventually returned to Egypt and then went to Britannia, England or Scotland. The book ends there. Would Cosmic Awareness comment on the Mormons' claim that Jesus then spent time in North and South America?" There's two basic questions there.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that there is also a movement from Britannia, or the British isles, across the Atlantic, to that Oak Island area; this entity being accompanied by Templars, and the Templars providing gold for the establishment of Christianity in England and in Canada, as the entity and the Holy Family moved into these areas.

This Awareness indicates that the movement continued across Canada, from areas above the Great Lakes and further West, going down into the United States, from British Columbia, toward that which is today called Portland and to Oregon City. This at the time was the Oregon Territory. The entity Father Blanchard (sp) as one who helped to bring some of this wealth from the Templars into the Oregon territory and helped to shield the secrets and fortunes that were earmarked by the Templars for the development of the furtherance of the Holy Family.

Catholic Church Willing to Destroy Jesus and Templars

This Awareness indicates that there was a connection with the Catholic Church through the priests that accompanied the Templars and the Holy Family as they moved into the Americas. This Awareness indicates that there was also a faction of the church that was determined to destroy these entities in order to keep the Holy Family from ever merging, so that the Catholic version as promoted by the Pisto family in its writings of the New Testament would not be challenged, and the story of the crucifixion and death and resurrection would remain as the official church version, and no one would be allowed to alter the story.

This Awareness indicates that the story has been traced into that which is France, Britain, Canada, and even down into the Oregon Territory, wherein it is seen that the Holy Family did survive. This Awareness indicates that those who have attempted to write of this in some cases have been killed. There was a time wherein for every jubilee, the Holy Family and those who were associated would get together and meet each other. This would be very infrequently, but the church made alterations to the calendar, adding changes which threw off the meeting of these entities so that they failed to meet together and much of their plan of continuing to meet and further the efforts was then lost because of the timing being disrupted.

This Awareness indicates that there is so much detail, so much more to the story and events relating to this entity that needs more time than is possible in the readings for a full exploration. This Awareness indicates that in reference to this book, there is much accuracy in many areas. There are some areas that are not seen as completely accurate.

Suspended Animation—Where an Entity can Appear Dead

The idea of creating a second body, into which the first body pours its energy, does not appear to be accurate, but suspended animation, wherein an entity appears to be dead, wherein the heart stops beating; this is something that has been demonstrated, and is something that is quite plausible, even in today's society of India, wherein entities have been able to stop their heartbeat and go into suspended animation.

How to Stop the Heartbeat and Still Live

Even the entity Yogananda, in describing his Kriya Yoga and Hong Saw breathing methods, teaching entities or shows entities how the heart can be stopped by filling the body with oxygen that is not being used, because all of the organs have slowed down, until they no longer require oxygen, including the heart itself. Thus, an entity can lie for a long period of time without the heart beating, if the blood is totally saturated with oxygen. This Awareness indicates that when an entity enters into suspended animation, the heartbeat is missing, breath is missing, and an entity appears to be dead.

This Awareness indicates that this appears to be what happened with the entity Jesus in regard to the death on the cross and the entity at a later time revived himself and returned to life, having the same body, even to the point of the wound in the side from the soldier's spear, and the stigmata in the hands, from the nails, wherein this entity showed these to Thomas, who doubted his claim of being Jesus, and was convinced indeed that it was him, and that he had resurrected.

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

That's the first reference I've heard that Jesus went to Oregon City.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that It did not refer to Jesus as going to Oregon City. This Awareness indicates this is in reference to Father Blanchard (sp) who was carrying some of the treasure of the Templars; that this entity helped to carry this treasure on the route with the Templars; that the treasure was being distributed and placed at certain points along the way.

The final leg was Father Blanchard's movement to Oregon City; the entity having died there. That this was a general movement of a group of people. It does not see this occurring with the entity Jesus or Mary. It does see that the entity Jesus as having come into Canada, but It does not see the entity as going the full distance to British Columbia.

The entity is seen as traveling into the United States with other accompanying persons as he moved into certain areas. This Awareness indicates that it does appear there was some contact with both Indians and Mormons. This Awareness indicates that this is not in reference to the Mormons, but in Indians who related information to the Mormons, regarding this entity.

The Templars and The Holy Family of the Benjamites

This Awareness indicates that this as information passed down from Indian tribes; that Mormons gathered information from these Indians, indicating that Jesus has been in the Americas in earlier days, and that It refers to the Holy Family of the Benjamites group.

The Benjamites being a family or tribe, of the twelve tribes of Israel and these Benjamites included Jesus and Mary Magdelene and that Mary Magdelene was a Benjamite and they traveled with the Templars first to England and then across to the Americas at that place called Oak Island and then to various points in the present vicinity of the United States, wherein many of the Indian tribes were contacted by these entities, which left stories that were handed down from the Indians through their generations which reached the ears of the Mormons at some later time.

This Awareness indicates that the general outline is seen; that further detail is not seen at this time. That the entity Father Blanchard was simply the continuance of the troop of entities who trailed across Canada. This Awareness indicates the significance of this parallels the journey of Lewis and Clark across the United States, wherein Lewis and Clark traveled across the United States, the Templars and Father Blanchard and other priests traveled across Canada.

That is essentially a significant parallel, though at different times.

The Treasure of Oak Island: Religious Artifacts

QUESTION:

Awareness mentioned Oak Island. This is the site of that so-called famous treasure?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This is in the affirmative.

QUESTION:

Is this treasure indeed artifacts from this Templar expedition?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This appears to be in the affirmative. It appears that this is designed to be extremely difficult to retrieve because of the salt-watery bottom to that well where the treasure was planted. Also, because of barriers placed above the treasure that are nearly impenetrable.

This Awareness indicates that to go under would be extremely difficult because of the dampness in the sand interfering with any form of drilling, particularly in those days. To go straight down a shaft an entity would run into barriers that would prevent them from passing through and there would be a need to go through those barriers which would indeed cause the well to collapse if entities began digging into the sides in such damp soil.

QUESTION:

Why were these artifacts so important that such a difficult hiding place had to be designed?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that mostly they were religious artifacts which the Templars intended to recover at a later time, when there were more of them available to do the recovering. They did not wish to travel through unknown and hostile lands carrying these artifacts that were extremely valuable and of great religious importance as they traveled across an unfamiliar land.

They wanted this placed where it could be recovered later, but where locals would not be able to steal it if left unguarded.

Templars and the "Holy Grail"

QUESTION:

According to the legend, the Templars spent a good deal of time guarding and protecting this so-called Holy Grail, which was supposed to have been the cup that Jesus drank from and perhaps contained...

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates the Holy Grail to these entities was the symbolic blood of the Holy Family; this being the blood of Jesus and the Benjamite Mary, known as Mary Magdelene, and their child. The Holy Family being protected by the Templars, and symbolized as a Holy Grail or cup carrying the Christ Light to this family.

Sirian Extraterrestrials in Bloodline of Jesus

This Awareness indicates that it appears the blood of Jesus and of Mary Magdelene was more than earth blood; that it contained extraterrestrial blood in that there was the Sirian father of Jesus and also of Mary Magdelene. Entities from Sirius had their blood-line through these entities and the preservation of that blood-line was of great importance because it gave a symbolic value and meaning to the human race to have a Sirius blood-line mixed with earth-human blood.

This blood-line then became further spread through other relationships that occurred down the line after these entities were gone. This Awareness indicates that It cannot pick up anything more at this time in regard to details. This Awareness indicates that It cannot give anything more at this time in regard to details because the Interpreter's energies have become diffused.

This Awareness indicates that perhaps a different question along a different line could be asked, but this particular area appears to be depleting the Interpreter's energies.

WEIRD WEATHER—IS IT REALLY EL NINO?

(Or Is it the "Greenhouse Effect" Or the Alien Crash on Jupiter?)

QUESTION:

Okay. In another area, a question from Marie T., of East Hampton, Massachusetts. She writes: "I live in New England in the Massachusetts area, and am having a hard time remembering a Winter that I was able to wear no jacket late at night or early in the morning while going about my business.

"Watching the evening news they announced that this was called the El Nino effect, a phenomenon occurring every 7 years, when a giant pool of warm water in the middle of the Pacific ocean causes masses of water vapor to rise in the air and wreak havoc with our atmospheric pressure system.

This is the supposed reason we have massive rain storms across California, and at the other end of the pressure system, weather that is 30 degrees above normal, most of our New England weather. I work at Smith College and some here say it is the Greenhouse Effect, moving in at last.

I remember the incident with Jupiter and I'm guessing it might be weather changes resulting from that incident. What's the real story?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that it appears to be a combination of the El Nino effect and also the closing in or proximity to the Photon belt that is having an effect on the atmosphere on the earth. This Awareness indicates that it appears that the weather will continue to be warmer than usual this Winter and that in April there will be a further enhancement in the energy level of the Photon belt wherein entities may begin to feel not only the vibrations associated with weather, but also certain subtle feelings of bliss. These feelings may not be strong yet.

Increasing Photon Belt Energies Altering our DNA

This Awareness indicates that some entities may find some difficulty with these Photon belt energy increases because the Photon belt energy increases tend to alter the DNA structure and molecular structure of the human body, and the body may respond with certain pains that are not clearly definable as the DNA and molecular levels undergo transformation, preparing the body to move into greater spiritual light.

This Awareness indicates that it appears to be of such a gradual nature that most entities can adjust without significant problems. Those who can adjust easily will be those who are surrendered to the Divine Light energy. The photon belt energy is not the absolute Light of God, but of several octaves below which are what may be termed a reflection of God Light, and as entities move into higher frequencies, their bodies will adjust to a merging with that Light Energy, making it easier to tolerate and accept.

Why Can't Awareness Answer All Questions?

(More on the Interpreter and What Awareness Is)

CLOSING MESSAGE:

This Awareness indicates that during this reading an incident occurred in which information came to a standstill and it appeared that Awareness could not pick up or perceive further information on a question. This Awareness indicated that It could not perceive this further information. It became clear that in the saying of this, it was incorrect.

This Awareness wishes to clarify. Often This Awareness is able to see certain information that is asked, but the Interpreter's energy is not strong enough to pick up this information from this Awareness because of a depletion of energy or for some similar reason. This Awareness indicates that It is explaining this because many entities might wonder, "Why can't Awareness see everything, if It is Cosmic Awareness?"

This Awareness wishes you to understand that the process of giving readings depends on the Interpreter, the energizers and this Awareness and that often entities assume that if in the Interpretation, the entity speaking in behalf of this Awareness states that It does not see this at this time, that it is Awareness speaking.

This Awareness wishes you to know that it is always the Interpreter speaking in behalf of this Awareness, explaining as closely as possible what the Interpreter perceives is the message from this Awareness, but the Interpreter, by speaking in behalf of Awareness sometimes words things in such a way as to make it appear that Awareness is speaking through the Interpreter.

This Awareness indicates that for It to say, "This Awareness does not see this at this time," is not a proper interpretation by the Interpreter. It would be more accurate for the Interpreter to say, "This Interpreter cannot see what Awareness is trying to convey at this time."

This Awareness wishes to clarify this because otherwise, it creates some inconsistencies as to the description of Awareness and confusion as to how the readings work when there are energizers, Interpreters and this Awareness combining to create these messages.

THE PLACING OF OTHERS ABOVE SELF

OPENING MESSAGE:

10/27/97

This Awareness suggests an important understanding regarding human misunderstandings surrounding the concept of self. This Awareness has indicated previously that certain distortions have been institutionalized regarding the placing of self above others as considered to be selfish, and recommends instead the placing of others above self.

The Mistake of Self-Effacement

This Awareness suggests that there is a great deal of truth in these concepts as they are ordinarily understood, however, much distortion remains. This Awareness suggests a very important difference between subordinating the self to others and self-effacement. This Awareness suggests that the mistake of self-effacement has often been made in the name of placing others above the self.

This Awareness suggests that such effacement of self results when external dictates and restrictions and judgments placed upon human nature, human need, and human behavior are internalized which in actuality limit and frustrate the Spirit. This Awareness suggests that this action is indeed self-effacement, wherein the spiritual aspects of self, which have been described as the Genetic Self, have been effaced, neglected and dishonored through the introduction of ideas, beliefs and attitudes that some inherent component in the Spirit is wrong or bad, or undesirable.

Self-Preservation Always Preferable to Self-Effacement

This is a type of activity which has contributed to a large amount of unnecessary human suffering, and such self-effacement is not to be continued. This Awareness suggests that self-preservation is always preferable to self-effacement. This Awareness suggests that when entities are impressed upon by their world, be it their church, their political leaders, their community leaders, their teachers or their parents; if entities are impressed from the outside by such providers of information that directly conflicts with the needs and the essence of the Spirit, that the self-defense is appropriate at such a time to ensure that entities define the emotional boundaries of Spirit and protect and preserve the contents, the needs, the attributes, the features and qualities of Spirit in every idea and belief and attitude.

Only Attitudes Which Honor Spirit Lead to Fulfillment

This Awareness suggests that only such attitudes which facilitate, accept and honor the Spirit shall be those which will lead to fulfillment in physical endeavors, for any to the contrary will cause the symptomatic pain from a frustrated Spirit. This Awareness suggests that this is the appropriate instance for self preservation, and that it is to prevent the effacement of Spirit that these hardwired defensive preservatory reactions have been included in the physical composition of the human form.

Conscious Awareness of the Process Facilitates Enlightenment

This Awareness suggests that although this system works quite well outside of the conscious awareness of humans, that it works at a far faster pace and with much broader scope when entities have conscious awareness of the process. This Awareness suggests that with enlightenment, self-effacement will be completely eliminated. Self-preservation will occur only when appropriate as last-ditch safety nets to preserve and protect the Spirit, but that self-development and self-expression shall become the norm.

This Awareness suggests that entities ponder any actions, beliefs and knowledge that they hold which may tend toward self-effacement. This Awareness suggests that this is quite common, but that if any aspect of the spiritual self has been rejected by the mind (the mental self) the emotional signals will continue to sound this condition. For the feeling sense always seeks to build mind to match spirit—never the reverse. Certain psychological conditions often result; depression being the foremost symptomatic result of a spirit that has been broken by a limited mind which defaces it, defiles it, does not accept it nor understand it, yet places judgments upon it, insisting that it is wrong, vile, and evil.

This Awareness suggests that although the Law of Love suggests putting others above self, it is about choosing cooperation over competition. To choose self above others would be to choose self-preservation consciously, in lieu of self-expression in a cooperative spirit.

This Awareness suggests that the experience of acting within cooperation includes others as well as the self, and is far more spiritually rewarding and physiologically pleasing, and will provide a more full experience of self-development and expression than will simple self-preservation, in that this choice includes its own reward.

This Awareness suggests that entities should discard concepts of any value in such positions as martyrs and victims, for these positions self-efface rather than self-develop and express. There is no further opening message at this time.

RECREATIONAL SEX: IS IT HEALTHY OR IS IT A PERVERSION?

QUESTION:

A question from JD in New York. She writes: "This question concerns 'recreational sex' i.e., for non-procreative purposes. This activity seems peculiar to humans, as other animals appear to copulate basically due to impulses induced by the female being in heat and the male's response to her scent at that time.

"Compulsive copulation, unrelated to estrus (female fertility) is not generally found in animals, save perhaps those subjected to neurosis-inducing circumstances. This raises the question of whether non-procreation-related copulation in humans is normal and natural and healthy for the species, or whether, to the contrary, it is a form of perversion, aberration, neurosis, maladjustment or some such."

And her first question is: "Is it unhealthy physically, or otherwise?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that the human sexual experience has far more magic, mystery, physical, emotional and spiritual benefit than humans have begun to imagine. This Awareness suggests that severely limiting beliefs and restrictions placed upon human beings has allowed for a tremendous amount of distortion and, indeed, perversion of this beautiful human and spiritual system.

In Sex If Self-Preservation is Motive, Chaos Will ensue

This Awareness suggests that humans as animals, possess certain physiological, instinctual cues and behaviors that ensure the perpetuation of the species, through physical attractions and certain preprogrammed dispositions toward protecting the genetic investment. This Awareness suggests that much of science revolves around the singular objective of the human species to survive, and explains many behaviors in this scenario, and have limited inquiries and understandings of human behavior to this self-preservationary impetus.

This Awareness suggests that self-preservationary reactions in any arena, and particularly in the sexual arena; that if self-preservation is the driving force, that certain chaos can result. This Awareness suggests that this is the singular reason that human sexuality has become so twisted, so privatized, so sullied and misunderstood.

This Awareness suggests that many of the behaviors that social mores and codes and laws seek to repress, are specifically those sexual behaviors which are rooted in self-preservation. This Awareness indicates that specifically, the male of the species in self-preservationary mode is subject to motivational impulses toward conquests and the spreading about of the genetic seed as far as is possible, and conversely, that the female of the species, in response to self-preservationary modes only, will be highly selective regarding which seed she will allow to fertilize and carry within her vessel, often subordinating spirit to economic competition.

This Awareness suggests that major trends and social values result from these dual perspectives and that females of the species trade beauty, youth, health and fertility for the security and resources that the male can provide, to care for the offspring. This Awareness suggests in the arts, great poets, great philosophers have puzzled with the sexual differences. Female behavior has been defiled as greedy; they have been labeled "gold-diggers." Male behavior has been defiled as "predatory," dominating, indiscriminate, polygamous, or they are deemed "serial monogamists," if that.

This Awareness indicates that the major motivational impetus is one of self preservation, and that this level of motivation and activity is indeed animal level self-preservation. In this state of consciousness, all needs and defensive impulses can be intermingled with and infused with sexual impulses and desires. Control needs are often expressed in abusive sexual violations. This Awareness suggests that with any need-fulfillment, self-preservation sacrifices certain needs for others, wherein self-development and self-expression ensure the fulfillment of all the human needs: individual as well as social.

This Awareness suggests that entities approaching the sexual experience from a perspective and motivation of self-development and expression, can remove themselves from the automatic impulses of self-preservation that seek to minimize couplings and spiritual unions that are intended to be the seat of the sexual experience.

The Spiritual Aspects of the Sexual Union

This Awareness suggests that not only is the sexual experience for procreation, for recreation, but it is also for spiritual development and expression. This Awareness suggests that the energy exchange between entities with belief systems supporting relationships, open, to the trusting, and in genuine spirit of love, can achieve rapturous levels of physical, emotional and spiritual pleasure and fulfillment.

This Awareness suggests that at the level of spiritual development and expression, the sexual experience is devoid of mind or is such that mind is developed to the degree that there is minimal spiritual limitation and that a direct physical energy exchange between two spirits is accomplished. This Awareness suggests that the physical feelings associated with the sexual experience are merely the carrot to bring entities to the experience, to develop the full and complete spiritual exchange which is possible in the sexual union.

This Awareness suggests that many sexual activities, proclivities and motivations spring from not only the level of self-preservation, but within entities who are severely limited in need-fulfillment in other areas of their life, that these needs can be sublimated into the sexual urges and the sexual experience so that they experience motivation toward competitive, even predatory, violating and hurtful sexual experiences.

This Awareness suggests that each and every law and mores designed to control human sexuality addresses these self-preservationary motivations and perversions of a natural, elegant, yet off-balance system. This Awareness suggests that as entities individually evolve, cleanse their mind of those obstacles which prevent spiritual expression, and offer their suggestions to their community, to cleanse the community of their counterpart restrictions, that new freedoms, new experiences, new creative impulses shall become acceptable and recommended in the area of human sexuality.

This Awareness suggests that the sexual experience is designed to be an accouterment of a love relationship. This Awareness suggests that recreational sex outside of the love relationship is that of the self-preservationary impulse, and that its result is more limiting to spiritual development and expression, but that other judgments placed upon sexuality are simply invalid.

This Awareness suggests there is a great deal of information available in this area, but if we have completion, we can continue.

Why do Many Older Couples Look Alike?

FOLOW-UP QUESTION:

There's a phenomenon I've observed in various places of old married couples in their latter years; for some reason, they both look alike. Is this just a ...what you'd call an accidental thing, or does it have to do with years of being together and through sexual intercourse they exchange energy, hormones and other bodily substances that would sort of blend one into the other. Is there any truth to that theory?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that there are two sources and explanations for this phenomenon. First, that entities often make mate selections given a recognition of a loved one who is often a member of a psychic family, or a participant in a group destiny. This Awareness suggests that such recognition is often manifested in physical, genetic similarity.

This Awareness suggests that entities are often attracted to other entities who are genetically similar and have physical features which begin with more similarities than differences. This Awareness suggests that this is not true of all entities, but that it does explain a certain amount of the phenomenon described.

The second explanation indicated is more in keeping with that supposed in the question, wherein energies exchanged in the physical union, in the sexual act specifically, intertwine elements, perpetuating physical alterations which mimic the oneness of the union. This Awareness suggests that there is no direct physical cause and effect relationship between bodily fluids exchanged, yet that it is more a phenomenon of energy and belief.

This Awareness suggests that entities achieving the desired bond and connection feel a oneness of spirit with the other, and ultimately those entities can generalize that oneness experienced in this love union to each and every other entity throughout the world, the universe and every other apportionment of All That Is. This Awareness suggests that a true motivation of cooperation understands this connection. Thus, this phenomenon is not limited to those sharing many years of marriage. Even friendships and close associations bring about the exchange of mannerisms, attitudes and behaviors that make them appear more alive than before. The more the affinity, the more the effect.

Sculpting Your Probable Future Body

This Awareness suggests that a melding of the mind with another, the constant exchange of love energy energizes the images of the loved ones and affects the physical make-up and appearance of the partner. This Awareness suggests that as entities experiment with creative visualization they will recognize how, when they gaze upon the face of a loved one with such intensity that they feel themselves as one with that entity, that they are literally physical sculpting their future probable body in that image.

If we have completion, we can continue.

Sex in Other Systems of the Universe

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

Is the method used by entities on the earth plane for reproduction and recreational sex, also the main method used by entities who live in other systems of the universe, other planets?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests there are many forms in which spirits can embody, and that in every case, communions such as the sexual experience are part and parcel of the experience, but if the question asks specifically of body shapes and styles, the answer would be in the negative.

This Awareness suggests that the universal language of love is simply that. It is the language of Spirit, regardless of shape or form, and that the exchange of the love energy and the solid energy connection between the individual components of Spirit, wherever, whenever, and whatever they may be; that they retain that connection so that the experience of All That Is has minimal disruptions in the energy flow.

If we have completion we can continue.

On Earth we Have Sex 100 Million Times a Day

QUESTION:

In a recent article which claims we have sex 100 millions times a day...it says "For every minute that ticks off the clock, 69,000 couples around the world are busy at work having sex. That's the latest word from a New World health organization from out of a UN study, which says that people around the world indulge in 100 million acts of sexual intercourse a day.

"Because of this sexual explosion, an average of 910,000 women conceive and another 150,000 have abortions every day. About 500 women die from abortions daily, and 500,000 women die of complications from pregnancy and childbirth, according to the study released by the United Nations."

My question is: With all of this happening every second, every minute, 69 thousand couples...does this have any positive effect on consciousness, or is it felt by All That Is, for example?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

Is the question asking about a cosmic orgasm?

QUESTIONER:

Yes. I suppose that would be a good term for it. As I understand it, All That Is is supposed to experience everything through every one of Its creations, so therefore, It must be experiencing a sexual energy every minute, if this article is correct.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates in the affirmative; that every human experience is simultaneously experienced by All That Is; however, each of these sexual acts described is not necessarily communicating with the same emotional intensity as that desired and previously described as the intended union of affinity, feeling, tone and connection of the sexual experience.

This Awareness suggests that entities indulging, as you say, in the sexual experience, without regard to the physical realities of procreation, of disease, without the psychological realities of love, lack of love, violation, self-effacement, victimization, and competition; that the experiences of the entities involved as well as the experience of All That Is, can range from the blissful rapturous experience of a cosmic organism to the dark, empty, jarring pain of violation, self-effacement, frustration of the connection needs, subordination of spiritual expression and self-preservation and momentary physical pleasure at the expense of another.

What the Sexual Experience of the Future Will be Like

This Awareness suggests that spiritual intention and the ultimate evolutionary destiny of the species shall include behaviors, mind-sets and moral freedom, that facilitate the full expression and development of Spirit, and that activities and behaviors shall be left behind which now spring only from self-preservation, for such activities weaken the network of energy, the network of Light which allows for the complete experience, expression and expansion of All That Is.

If we have completion, we can continue.

One Out of Ten Married Couples Never Have Sex: Are They Missing Something?

QUESTION:

While we're on this subject, a recent tabloid claimed that a survey shows that one in ten married couples never have sex, and it's fine with them. It says "Couples can be happily married and never have sex, say experts! In fact, an eye-opening 10% of married couples have sworn off love-making for good and it suits them just fine.

"Sex is something that just doesn't interest them," says marriage counselor Judith Siefer, Ph.D. There are people out there who have low or absent sex drives. Some simply say, "I just don't feel the need!" and they get married to people who feel the same way. Folks with active sex lives may be surprised at the number of married folks out there who never have sex.

"One out of ten couples in the US is not having sex according to our findings," says Dr. Anthony Pietropinto, a renowned sex researcher. Contrary to popular belief, you can be happily married and not have sex. Dr. Pietropinto cited one couple who had been married for 10 years. The husband rarely had any interest in sex, and indulged only when his wife initiated it. He was more interested in computers, books, and his work. The wife eventually got pregnant, and after she had a baby, she stopped making advances. Pretty soon the sex just stopped altogether.

"I think that sex can ultimately be put into a pleasure category that can be taken or left" Dr. Pietropinto said." Does Awareness have any comments over that statistic?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that although the physical form is encoded with specifically powerful devices to perpetuate the species, that belief systems also greatly affect the sexual experience and the desire for the sexual experience. This Awareness suggests that limiting beliefs, beliefs in the dirtiness, the lack of sanctity and similar such beliefs about sex and the human body, can literally reduce certain hormonal outputs and receptions within the body which increase or decrease the sexual drive.

This Awareness suggests that such a choice is certainly within the realm of free will, however, in most such cases, belief systems have limited the experimentation which would lead to development of beliefs and skills which would provide unimaginable fulfillment in such entities. This Awareness indicates that when such fulfillment is indeed unimaginable, that human needs are often sublimated into other directions.

For example, the entity finding spiritual development and expression via his computer, is achieving vicarious connections with others, and achieving the communion of spirit and energy with his wife, perhaps through normal conversation, everyday interaction, cuddling, and general affection, excluding the major sexual activities. He has established beliefs and strategies which are adequate, unless his spirit tells him otherwise through emotional pain and frustration.

This Awareness suggests that the ability for humans to sublimate such as this, to establish mental frameworks wherein the sexual experience is reduced in its intensity or in its requirements; that this type of mental flexibility is a safeguard wherein situations arise, medical problems, distances between loved ones, wherein the sexual energies and urges can be placed on hold temporarily, or even indefinitely, and yet tremendous spiritual fulfillment can be accomplished and love can be exchanged.

This Awareness suggests that many such areas of physical operation, mental focus, human psychological and physiological needs, can be redirected, displaced, minimized temporarily and refocused into other directions as human situations change, as opportunities shift and obstacles arise and disappear; that such flexibility is necessary and has ensured the survival of the species. This is why humans can endure and respond defensively to a great deal of emotional pain and continuing spiritual frustration. Humans are indeed a hearty lot.

This Awareness suggests, however, that there is much to be gained through the sexual experience, and as individual consciousness raises there can be new heights of consciousness and ecstasy between two such enlightened entities through this most wondrous human process. If we have completion we can continue.

"THE SPIRITUAL SEX CHANNELER"—HE ASSISTS GRIEVING WIDOWS TO MAKE LOVE TO THEIR DEAD HUSBANDS

QUESTION:

One other thing while we're on this subject. I clipped an article that was in a tabloid which may or may not be true, but if it is true, it appears to be the ultimate of hustles, as far as a man bedding females. It's called "The Spiritual Sex Channeler.--A medium helps grieving widows make love to their dead husbands."

"In New Orleans, Louisiana, (it reads) now heartsick widows can enjoy the sexual companionship of their departed husbands, by hiring a channeler who allows his body to be possessed by the spirit of the dead hubby, and then make love to the woman. Hunky George Pinetti said he has used his unusual powers to service more than 200 grieving women.

"I have testimonials from women who say I have relieved their pain and suffering by giving them the opportunity to spend some special intimate moments with their deceased husbands." He says "I have been blessed with a God-given power, and it is my obligation to aid these women in their time of need."

"Pinetti makes $89.00 an hour for his unusual service and claims that he has more clients that he can handle, but his business is drawing fire from people who say that he is nothing more than a male prostitute. "This guy is making money for sex, and that's simply against the law," said outraged Feminist Eva Weliger, "And worst of all, he's taking advantage of women during a time of distress."

"Pinetti says he is insulted by Mrs. Weliger's remarks. "I'd prefer not to comment on her misinformed comments," he responded. "If she wishes, I could put her in contact with dozens of women whom I have satisfied."

The article goes on and on, but does Awareness have any comments on this entity who claims to be a spiritual sex channeler, and who makes love to the widows, claiming it's really the disembodied spirit of their husband taking him over?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that the process this entity describes is, in fact, possible, not unlike certain entities who channel specific entities not currently focused in physical existence. This Awareness suggests, however, that perhaps not each and every entity whose widow should arrive at the door of this 'hunk' has chosen to embody this particular medium at this particular time, for this particular purpose.

This Awareness suggests that communication between such separated loved ones often takes place in a more conventional, albeit subconscious and subjective state of consciousness during the dream realm, and often during daily waking consciousness certain impressions, feelings and insights can be exchanged between loved ones, regardless of the realms wherein they exist.

This Awareness suggests, however, that this entity is successful at that which he claims. This Awareness also indicates that the widows who arrive at his door as customers can attain a great deal of satisfaction within their existing belief systems which limit their sexuality to only include encounters with the deceased loved one, so that certain expression and fulfillment can be obtained. Within this world reality, it provides perhaps the only 'acceptable' sexual and communication outlets.

This Awareness suggests that although there are cultural taboos and mores against prostitution and sex for sale, and that sex without love springs from a self-preservationary perspective, that self-preservation is the current norm of humanity, and that such restrictions are illogical, unnecessary and spiritually frustrating.

This Awareness suggests that as with any human activities, this particular service provided by this entity should be measured by the fulfillment of his clientele and the testimony as to their relative expression and the experiences described. This Awareness indicates, however, that the majority of these outcomes spring directly from the belief systems of the entities involved, regardless of the level of affinity and actual communication between spirits as they are supposed, in this particular menage a trois. But then...humans delude themselves in this manner habitually. Why should this situation be any less acceptable?

This Awareness suggests that this entity has been creative in designing a particular economic niche which does indeed provide fulfillment for a segment of society not inclined to find it elsewhere. This Awareness indicates no cosmic judgment is necessary against such an entity for his activities, nor his clientele for their purchase of his services.

If we have completion, we can continue.

Dangers in Calling Back the Departed?

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

Isn't there a danger when a spirit or a departed entity, is called back into the earth energies, of that entity becoming earthbound or having other negative repercussions?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the presumption is that the spirit has no free will and that the spirit, focused outside of the physical experience has a mind through which to filter and interfere with that intention and free will. Without the assumptions of such physical limitation it should be clear that the experience of mobility and freedom to travel within intention is far more likely in the spiritual realm than in the physical realm.

This Awareness suggests that the greatest risk involved in this process would be that of the diseases given to and received from all parties involved in the physical sense. This Awareness suggests that in this particular scenario, many entities called forth by their lost and grieving loved ones, (in fact, a very large percentage) have chosen not to embody this particular entity during this particular session, and that in varying degrees, the medium entity is aware of this.

If we have completion, we can continue.

A MESSAGE FROM JOHN DENVER

QUESTION:

We received over the Internet a rather interesting transmission. It is claimed this was picked up off the Christ Consciousness Grid by conscious contact through Voltron at his studios of the Philosopher's Stone Broadcasting Network in the Foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains. I'd like to read this. It's sort of interesting and timely, if true. It's a John Denver update.

Evidently, he's contacted John Denver, who says: "Since my seemingly untimely death has stirred up unnecessary sorrow on the part of humanity, I, John Denver, would like to say I am all right! It is early in my transition. I am still talking to the angels. They are assisting in my process into heaven.

Question: What does the processing consist of?

John: "I have a tendril-like attachment to some things on earth. They are holding on to me as the angels are pulling the Light in me to heaven, which is radiant and full of life.

Question: So you can see heaven! Are you sure you are going to heaven?

John: Yes. I have never been in doubt of that!

Question: Earth people mostly know you as a folk-singer and an environmentalist.

John: Yes, I love the earth very much.

Question: It is said you have problems with women.

John: Yes, women have been the downfall of many men, but let me tell you, since I came over to this side, I have been shown the Big Picture, and it showed me why men and women don't communicate correctly on earth.

Question: Why is that John?

John: Because of the polarity of the sun, which shifted in 1972. That shift sent out vibrations in advance announcement of the solar system's wide shift. It will arrive on earth in the Winter of 1998.

Question: You have always believed in UFOs. You had a sighting in Colorado. There are numerous reports of UFOs on earth. What does it look like from where you are?

John: Dark. There are splashes of Light going on and off all over the globe. It looks like lightning, which is bad enough you know. Unstable weather patterns are not the norm as you go through the 12 overtones of the 4th Dimension on your way to heaven in the 5th Dimension.

Question: Well, what are they doing to you now?

John: I love you all on earth. I would like to answer your questions, but I have to have at least 10 days to finish my processing. John understands this and will work with you later."

That's the end of the transmission. Would Awareness comment on whether this is true information, and particularly his reference to the polarity of the sun which shifted in 1972?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that there is some legitimacy to this story, however, a great deal of distortion and anthropomorphic assumption, placing human physical characteristics, conditions and beliefs upon the experience of an entity transitioning between the physical and the non-physical, realms. For example, references to time are relevant only in the physical realm.

This Awareness suggests that the entity John Denver has communicated upon his passing many of the sentiments picked up by this particular source. This Awareness suggests that not unlike in his life, certain situations, geological earth features and human connections profoundly affected this entity with a spiritual resonance that he communicated to other entities through his art.

This Awareness suggests that he sings his final song with such subjective communications as these. This Awareness suggests, however, that certain of the lyrics and the intent have been distorted upon their reception. The comment regarding the shift in the year 1972 relating to human communication between the sexes is a correlation between two separate entities which have no factual relationship.

This Awareness suggests that, indeed, over the past several decades, communication between the sexes has actually improved, and that certain problems exist due to the limitations of the self-preservationary motivations, wherein humans exist and will remain, until specific belief limitations, world views, dogmatic assertions are eliminated from the mind, so that communication can occur.

This Awareness suggests that much of what appears to be gross divisions and separations between the sexes can be attributed to these miscommunication patterns which shall minimize in their intensity as enlightenment comes upon humanity, and like many constant and acceptable features of human nature, of human cultures, they will diminish until ultimately they are simply historical vestiges of a primitive society that has evolved.

The Law of Saturation

QUESTION:

A question from David Bunch, in Ottawa, KS. He writes: "You have been requesting appropriate topics for questions for Awareness, and I have one that might be appropriate for comment. Would it be appropriate for Awareness to comment on "The Law of Saturation"?"

This activity is all around us at all times, and history is replete with examples that when the concentration of any energy reaches the point of saturation, there is an inevitable reaction by nature to return to balance and stability. It would appear that we have several examples of energies reaching a rather critical state at the present time, and to name these obvious ones: population, pollution and political/economic corruption, with nothing being done to moderate or control the central issues.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that there are many physical and psychological principles and operational laws within the physical realm which do indeed ensure checks and balances and operate as if the Law of Saturation, as described, were a singular entity. However, energies and trends within the social realm spring directly from the belief systems of entities, and thus respond with the ebb and flow of human consciousness, and that saturation will not be achieved until the critical mass of energy has been focused upon it, and that it becomes part of the consciousness of enough entities to "saturate" its environment.

This Awareness suggests that this phenomenon is related to the human impulse toward self-development and expression. Human beings experience boredom when they have 'been there' and 'done that' enough. The spirit says: "I have had this experience, now let's have another!" This is the human form of the saturation described, and that a social phenomena, such as certain of the trends described, will respond accordingly when entities decide in totality that they have 'been there' and 'done that'.

This Awareness suggests that certain chemical reactions in the biosphere, such as the saturation described in the scenario of environmental pollution, takes into account more physical properties and conditions which also are affected by human belief, and contain energies from their forms themselves.

This Awareness suggests that since pollution is a direct result of human technological thought and action, that the human saturation level for acceptance of the defilement of their community, their world, their environment, will no longer be accepted, then and only then will such a saturation occur. This Awareness suggests, however, certain checks and balances exist within the planet, within the biosphere, wherein certain physical chemical reactions occur to bring about certain rightings and balancings aside from the manipulations of human matter, and consciousness. For self-preservation is not only a human motivation and directive, it is inherent in some form in every form and biological organization. Such balancing systems can be found virtually everywhere. The most valuable to humans, of course, is the spiritual feedback system which maintains the essential balance between mind and spirit that keeps humans on the intended path of self-development expression—or at least ensures self-preservation.

This Awareness suggests that the concept of the Law of Saturation is a beneficial one, particularly as it pertains to human activity, human experience and human knowledge. This Awareness suggests that it contributes to the overall framework of understanding regarding human motivation, human spiritual intention and human purpose.

The Rather Strange Simultaneous Death of Thomas Jefferson and John Adams

QUESTION:

He brought up the question of the America Revolution, which reminded me of a fact that's bugged me for some time: that both John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, the prime movers in creating our Constitution, died almost simultaneously, almost to the minute 50 years to the date, on July 4, 1826, the very day we celebrate our Declaration of Independence. Doesn't that strike Awareness as being a rather odd coincidence?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the entity selected a quite expressive and creative way of continuing to manifest his destiny, and as it should be well known, there are no coincidences.

If we have completion, we can continue.

Why Some See Auras and Others Don't

QUESTION:

A question from JD, in NY. She asks: "Please explain the reason why some people can see auras and most others cannot. What is the difference? If auras are seen with etheric vision, would auric sight indicate a higher degree of spiritual evolution or psychic ability likewise?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that this does indeed reflect specific sensitivities within the physical form often chosen by entities to facilitate the development, expression and completion of the chosen Destiny Path. This Awareness suggests that visual sensitivity to certain energy is indicative of those entities who have chosen a more visual orientation through which to obtain spiritual insight.

This Awareness suggests that the ability to visually perceive aural energies as they are described, lies well within the realm of the human visual apparatus, and that specific techniques can develop such ability once limitations of belief and expectation have been removed. This Awareness suggests that particular entities choose particular experiences to impress upon themselves certain understandings that they choose to communicate and instill into the Mind of Man as part of the Destiny Path.

This Awareness suggests that this choice of this visual expertise has a specific benefit of communicating with clarity to the entities experiencing the phenomenon: the multidimensional reality, the incredible powers of the human mind, both to limit and increase experience as well as to perceive the energies themselves.

Most Entities Perceive Aura Energies on the Feeling Level

This Awareness suggests, however, that most entities perceive the aura energies on a feeling level, in that the communication system is far more advanced and deeply rooted in human physiology and that even with obstructing beliefs, emotional tones of the aura energy are immediately perceptible to most human beings.

This Awareness suggests that a great deal of communication between entities results from the exchange of these energies, without having a word or a visual image pass between them. This Awareness suggests that such sensitivity does relate to what is described as a developed soul, but that a 'developed soul' still must wade through the experience of limited consciousness within the space/time continuum and develop a mind which allows spiritual expression and experience, rather than one that frustrates and limits the spirit.

What Exactly is a "Developed Soul?"

This Awareness suggests that what is described as a developed soul can often understand the game and remove the obstacles at a quicker pace than perhaps one less enlightened. This Awareness suggests that this might be a more productive and alternate view of the concept of the developed soul. A developed soul is one attuned to the spirit and acting upon its intention in the physical as well as nonphysical realm.

This Awareness suggests that certain specific clarities of aptitude, such as the visual ability to perceive aura energy, or a limited yet highly focused intelligence such as that of an idiot savant; that such choices offer examples to the mind of man of the wide variety of human potential that does exist in each and every mind, to hint at the removal of obstacles and limitations that perceive human potential as but a tiny percentage of what it actually can and should be.

This Awareness suggests that those exhibiting such talents and innate abilities offer such pieces of wisdom by their very existence, and choosing such an existence includes that offering as part of the Destiny Path, regardless of the so-called developmental level of that spirit.

If we have completion, we can continue.

EDGAR CAYCE'S ELEVATOR STORY

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

Well, there's probably a good reason why most entities do not have this ability to see auras, at least I would think so, after reading Edgar Cayce's biography, for example, where he talks about as a young man he went to New York City and was about to get on this elevator that went up 50 or 60 stories, and it was full, but there was room for him if he wanted to get on, and he started to step on and something struck him as funny and odd that told him "don't," and he stepped back because something just didn't seem right.

That particular elevator's cable broke and crashed a few minutes later and killed everybody on it, and what was odd about it was, he realized, he did not see any auras, and that told him that he could tell by looking at an entity all sorts of things about that entity, including if he was about to die. Cayce could see auras all his life. Does Awareness have any comment on that?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that many paths chosen for such experiences are indeed quite challenging to the entity in that extreme sensitivity to the conditions of others is experienced emotionally until such understandings can be put in place to channel the energy directly toward its most beneficial purpose.

This Awareness suggests, however, that the entity Edgar Cayce provides an elegant example of the manipulation of past, present and future as previously described, in that his impressions before he stepped upon the elevator, were the intuitive perceptions of a future probability of himself, indicating this possibility of something less desirous. At that moment he physically experienced this understanding and insight and chose not to enter the elevator. But it was the feeling that awakened his consciousness.

He incidentally noticed in recollection, that he had not seen auras. This Awareness suggests that such clarity, such ability of perception and clairvoyance as this particular entity did exhibit was a shining example of the human communicative and respective abilities of the mind unhampered. This Awareness suggests that there will always be biological predispositions towards specific abilities well within the human range, and that such predispositions biologically are definite choices of the entity to complete the specifically chosen Destiny Path.

This Awareness suggests that in this particular situation, the entity intuited a flash of insight, not unlike humans the world over are capable of at any time, given minimal restrictions of mind. The seeing of the auras in this particular scenario was incidental except for a verification of the possibility of the insightful outcome intuited through the mind directly.

This Awareness suggests that often entities choose to limit incoming information for they do not wish to know. In such cases, the mind is not prepared, the tools of skill, idea and belief are not in place to accommodate the information. The automatic tendency of self-preservation to defend a limitation, to deny the information is the most general outcome of such inspirational flashes.

They are dismissed as meaningless. Such denial, however, does not achieve even self preservation, as evidenced by those that did not perceive the inner warning as they herded into the elevator

The Enlightenment is Setting the Stage for a Grand Civilization

CLOSING MESSAGE:

This Awareness suggests that there has been discussion regarding historical groups throughout human history, of varying civilizations attempting to build conditions, politics, Constitutions in which humans can have a fulfilling and complete experience.

This Awareness suggests that the wisdom of those American engineers, mentioned previously regarding the Constitutional tenets supporting the American government, were successful at bringing together certain ideas, strategies and political tenets which would support for the first time in human history, human freedom, and the pursuit of happiness.

This Awareness suggests that such a change, such a framework, such a group effort is now occurring upon the planet wherein entities can at last understand their nature, understand the need for freedom, understand the spiritual impetus regarding the pursuit of happiness, for now is the time to establish human civilization in the full sense of the term for the first time, wherein ideas are in place in individuals and ultimately in social, political, educational, religious institutions that understand honor, value, and accommodate human nature; that heed the impetus of the Spirit, that understand its communicative voice, that respond to its signals of pleasure and pain, and the understanding that they are the Creator's judgment regarding human creations, with the elimination of human judgments regarding the Creator's creations.

This Awareness suggests that the enlightenment that is upon humanity is setting the stage for a grand civilization, wherein the balance is obtained between freedom, equality of opportunity and to facilitate maximum spiritual development and expression, and ultimately, the maximum level of human happiness. This Awareness suggests that entities take note of this process and participate to their full capacity at creating this change. We have completion.

We Will now bring the Interpreter up. (The Law of Gratitude and a count of 12 are given)

THE "CURSE" PUT UPON YITZHAK RABIN (Did it Really Result in his Death?)

QUESTION:

In the October, 1997, FATE Magazine*, there's a little article, which I shall now read:

"In March, 1996, FATE ran a short article about the curse placed upon Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, shortly before his assassination. In late July of this year, Avignon Eskin, a right-wing extremist, was sentenced to four months in jail for incitement to violence because he uttered the pulsa denura, a traditional Jewish mystical curse, calling for someone's death in front of television cameras."

My question is: Did the utterance of this curse by this entity against the Israeli Prime Minister have anything to do, or any influence on his subsequent assassination?

*FATE Magazine, 170 Future Way, PO Box 1940, Marion, Ohio 43306. ($33 for 24 months).

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that an entity responded to those words to commit this act, but that there was no cosmic significance or power specifically behind those words to manifest that event without the participation of the entity Rabin. This Awareness suggests there are many dynamic forces intersecting in the creation of this event, particularly the culmination of years, of factions and unnecessary boundaries resulting from cultural dictates which have been internalized and made superior to those of the spirit.

This Awareness indicates that such factioning and such errors in human value are becoming less and less tolerated as the human technological capabilities evolve; that certain communications and mobility are possible and that the growing unrest in the traditional divisions is yet another symptom of the gathering of energy which will propel the consciousness toward that which is attuned to spiritual intention.

This Awareness suggests that the growing unrest in relationships that have been personified by unrest itself, is the manifestation of the physical result of traditional institutionalized mechanism, which result in tremendous spiritual frustration which will no longer be tolerated.

This Awareness suggests that the entity Rabin was a symbol to some of past, to some of future, but a symbol to all, and this event will be one of many instrumental in bringing in certain sweeping changes in the mass consciousness, in this particular geographical location and its cultural traditions.

If we have completion, we can continue.

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

So the issuance of a 'curse' by itself has no influence at all? It's not 'black magic' or anything. Is that correct?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that any and all magic results from the belief systems of those involved and that there can be a great deal of power channeled through such beliefs, for it is, as mentioned, the Will Energy which creates all. However, if words alone and curses alone are offered and the belief systems are not entertained which empower them, a curse can provoke nothing more than hearty laughter.

If we have completion, we can continue.

THE CAT THAT CAN FORETELL DEATH

QUESTION:

There's an article in the October Fate Magazine that's sort of interesting. "The White Cat Foretells Death."

"Betty Dixon of Milton, Washington, does not look forward to the reappearance of the stray white cat. "It first showed up at her house about 3 years ago" states an Associated Press story, "peering in the window of her older son's bedroom."

"The 17 year old boy had just died of a degenerative nerve disorder. Nine months later, it showed up again, this time at the window of Dixon's husband Bob, who was dying of cancer. After his death, 10 weeks later, the cat disappeared and was not seen for several months. Then, early this year, the cat showed up unexpectedly. Betty soon learned that her Uncle Chuck who lived in California had died.

"More recently, the cat started hanging around again as Dixon's younger son suffered violent seizures, pneumonia, and other problems associated with the same disease his older brother died of. No one knows where the cat came from, but Dixon wishes it would go back there and not visit her house again."

I'd like to ask :Is there something about cats and the impending death of entities? Or is this story just coincidental?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that there is not much that is, in fact 'coincidental,' just as there is not much that is in fact, 'random'. This Awareness suggests however, that an alternate interpretation is necessary. This Awareness suggests that the entity, the woman often visited by the white cat, is particularly gifted with the psychic ability to perceive certain coming events, yet that certain of her belief systems disallowed the traditional direct mental reception of the information, for the entity believed that such things were possible which allowed her abilities to be so, yet she also believed that she was not that kind of person.

This Awareness suggests that with these particular sets of beliefs, that the entity, when obtaining information regarding loved ones, while in altered states of consciousness, disallowed herself to consciously receive the information she had available. Instead, she manifested an aspect of herself in the form of the cat, to communicate something was up, to call her attention to her precognitive ability, as well as to prepare her for the events which befell her family.

This Awareness suggests that the woman experienced a certain recognition with the animal, and even an affinity, despite her resistance to the fact that the appearance of the animal coincided with negative events as they were perceived by her.

This Awareness suggests that in a general sense, cats and other animals are often manifestations of entities in physical form or otherwise, yet, that with the relaxing of the rigid boundaries the mind places between animals and humans, and all of the ridiculous conditions that are put upon the mind and its abilities; that a great deal of information, enjoyment and communion can result from these visitations, however brief they might be.

If we have completion, we can continue.

THE "RAINBOW BRIDGE" WHERE YOUR ANIMAL AWAITS YOUR RETURN

QUESTION:

Dorothea Baker in a letter to Vicki writes: "Do you know this one?" And she quotes from, I believe it's called the Rainbow Bridge. It's been quoted rather often. But I'm going to read this and ask Awareness if there's any truth to this, or if this is just a sentimental ode to animal lovers.

"There is a bridge connecting heaven & earth. It is called the Rainbow bridge because of its many colors. Just this side of the bridge there is a land of meadows, hills and valleys with lush green grass. When a beloved pet dies, the pet goes to this place. There is always food and water and warm weather.

"The old and frail animals are young again. Those who are maimed are made whole again. They play all day with each other. There is only one thing missing. They are not with their special person, who loved them on earth, so each day they run and play until the day comes when one suddenly stops playing and looks up.

"The nose twitches, the ears are up, the eyes are staring, and this one suddenly runs from the group. You have been seen, and when you and your special friend meet, you take him or her in your arms and embrace. Your face is kissed again and again and again, and you look once more into the eyes of your trusting pet.

"Then you cross the Rainbow Bridge together, never again to be separated."

The author is unknown, but is there any semblance of truth at all to that bit? Or is this just a nice sentimental fantasy?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that as recently stated, animals as they are conceived, are simply alternate forms that spirits can embody. This Awareness suggests that an entity can be embodied in physical form in a given incarnation, and many incarnations simultaneously in human form, as well as any number of incarnations in animal forms or other inanimate forms.

This Awareness suggests that rather than the embodied animal waiting on a Rainbow Bridge for its master, that instead, it becomes One with All That Is, free to adopt an alternate choice of form or an alternate journey. This Awareness suggests that this poem is valid in that connection obtained: the emotional communion and affinity between animal and human, and that manifests more realistically as the Rainbow Bridge, for this is a bridge of consciousness that unites these spirits. Yet, this interpretation removes the anthropomorphic assumption that the pet is lowly and must wait for the master, when indeed, often entities embodied in pets can be portions of 'sage' and as it understood, 'evolved' souls, far superior in wisdom and understanding and spiritual perception than the masters which bring them water and food.

This Awareness suggests, however, that entities can enjoy this metaphorical ditty if it encourages the communion and affinity and spiritual connection between all creatures in physical form.

If we have completion we can continue.

GORDON'S ADVENTURES IN THE WOODS

(Did his Guardian Angel Intervene?)

QUESTION:

We received a letter from Gordon Scott in Ontario, Canada, who writes us periodically of his adventures and so on, and I'm going to read his letter, because there's several interesting things in here. He writes:

"Vicki likes to hear stories from the members, so these are for you. Years ago, I never used to think much in terms of 'Guardian Angels' but of late have begun warming up to the idea.

"I occasionally visualize a field of White Light around my house and my mother's house. A few Winters ago we had a lot of snow. Then in January, a really warm spell. As a result, a lot of snow built up on my mother's house, melted and formed a large block of ice at the edge of the roof. This caused water leaking on some of the inside walls, so I went up on the roof with a snow shovel and ax to clear off as much as I could.

"Unfortunately, I couldn't clear it all off. There was a large piece about 10 inches deep, 2 feet wide and 6 feet long, on the roof near the back door. It probably would just eventually melt off later, but I said to Mom, to just kind of watch it now and then, as if it ever fell off in one chunk, it could be dangerous.

"A few weeks later, Mom was coming home from a walk. She put it as "something" just made her stop for a second at the corner of the house before going around and up the back steps. At that moment, the entire chunk of ice came crashing down to the pavement. She was still shaking when she phoned to talk to me. We don't know exactly what it was that made her stop at that instant: angels or just good luck, but we are so grateful!

Another story: Last Summer, my brother and I went fishing to one of our spots up a local logging road. He took his truck, and I took my junk vehicle. I call it my junk station-wagon because it's just an older spare car, not worth spending a lot of money on. I keep good tires on it, et cetera, but for other things I just fix it when it happens to need some work.

"A few days later I drove back into town to get a few supplies. It was really hot and dusty that day with big logging trucks on their runs, so I had the fan and headlights on. I got what I needed and drove back out. I got back on to the logging road and after driving for awhile, the fan seemed slow, and at one point the engine seemed to slow down, so I stopped and pressed on the gas, and it sputtered and came back to life.

"The carburetor must have gotten flooded, I thought. I drove a few more miles, and then everything just conked right out. I checked under the hood and found a wire from the alternator had broken off. I had been running on the battery all this time, and now it was dead. I had a few tools with me, and got the wire fixed. If only I could just get a boost, I would be okay.

"I was in a real predicament here in the middle of the afternoon at the hottest part of the day, 3:30 PM, 85 degree's out, not a cloud in the sky, not the slightest of a breeze, in the middle of nowhere, about 17 miles from camp, 19 miles back to the highway, and no traffic on the road. The logging trucks finish their runs on Saturday at about 12:00 noon, and the only others using the road --fellow fishermen, --usually go in on a Friday and leave on a Sunday.

"I had three choices: Walk back to the highway or to the camp (there are some bears in that area) or sit and wait. It was not exactly a life-threatening situation. I had lots of water and some food with me, but sore feet and a sunburn was not what I had planned for my holidays. I threw up my arms in a gesture to the forces of Mother Nature and said to my guardian angels, that if they could help, I would sure appreciate it.

"I decided that my best option was to wait a while and then head out to the camp site. I had told my brother I would be back about 5:30 PM, so if I was really late, I could assume he would drive back to check on me and at least save me part of the walk. I put a note on my windshield to inform any passerby's who I was, where I was going, and to call for help if my car was still there the next day.

"I walked back down the road a short way to a fork in the road, so I could watch both roads, found a shady spot and began a short meditation. I asked for help from the Divine Forces under two laws of nature: the Law of karma. I have often helped family and friends with car problems. I am "Mr. Fix-it" of the family, and I also requested help under the Law of Grace.

"Sometimes we don't deserve help, but we all do qualify as long as the request is sincere. As an expression of gratitude I offered to later think about my situation carefully and see what I could learn from it, and write these lesson's down.

"Nature is never vengeful or truly unkind. Mostly we suffer of our doing, but in those few times when nature places us in a difficult situation, it is only for the purpose of learning a lesson or developing some skill, thus, learning the lesson, or even just being open to the lesson will help dissolve the difficult situation.

"I also set a specific time of waiting, to exactly 4:00 PM. This may sound presumptuous, as if to say I'm dictating to Mother Nature: "Help me or else! My timetable, not yours!" But the effect depends on one's understanding and intent. I was quite ready to accept what nature thought I needed at that time; either some help, or a long walk.

"I simply asked Nature for a sign to know whether help was to be forthcoming or not. A sign-post to know at what point I should stop waiting and start walking. I also knew that projecting a specific time into my visualization of help arriving was an important key.

"I took a course once called "Subliminal Dynamics" and it involved speed-reading and visualization among other things. They emphasized, that when visualizing a goal, to put very clear detail into the subconscious, including a time for the goal to materialize.

"The subconscious, of course, doesn't know anything about the linear flow of time. It works on symbols, associations, simultaneity of events, but if you don't give a specific and a believable time for something to happen, it may not happen at the time you want or need it, or even never actually materialize at all. Setting a specific time of 4:00 PM and then looking at my watch now and then would help the subconscious to manifest the desired patterns of events.

"4:00 PM is "equal to" or associated with help arriving. An image of a truck with 4:00 PM in bold letters on its side is not logical to one part of the mind, but to another it is very clear. I also used CAC's suggestion: "Whether I believe it or not, this will occur." I tend to be an intellectual type of person some times, so I need those types of affirmations to dodge the rational mind and place the visualization into the subconscious where it may have the chance of doing some good.

"So, I just sat there looking around, enjoying the scenery of Mother Nature, keeping my ears perked for the slightest sound. At 3:55 there was still nothing, so I got up and looked around, and the thought occurred: "I may as well try walking up the left fork of the road, just to above the hill, where I could see around a bit, in the odd chance there may be a work camp in the area."

"I never made it to the top of the hill. At exactly 3:57 I heard the sound of a vehicle and saw a plume of dust rising just beyond the hill. Help had arrived! Within a couple of minutes we had the battery jumped and the engine started. He said I was quite lucky, as all the other trucks were already off the road, and he himself was just late getting out.

"I was so happy at that time to be "rescued" that it never occurred to me to make a point of asking his name or looking at the license plate. I will never know if he was a "real" person, or an angel in disguise. Just as originally planned, I did arrive back at our campsite by 5:30, and no worse for the wear.

"So, was it all just coincidence? Bad luck/good luck? Did my meditation really help? Are there really guardian angels? I guess I'll never really know, but the next time I go driving on a back road, I'll be a little better prepared. Hope you enjoyed the story; signed: Gordon Scott."

Would Awareness care to comment on Gordon's experience?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness has several comments, beginning with a question. This Awareness asks the entity why he suspects that guardian angels manifest this experience, when he has already stated that he has? This Awareness indicates also, hearty congratulations are in order, for through the use of intermediary belief systems, this entity has marshaled his system to create and produce the desired events.

This Awareness suggests a hearty applause for this entity, for this is, in fact, what entities are intended to do, to create the desired events in their lives. Although there was a circuitous route taken, the end result was achieved and attained, through the efforts and energies of this entity, and this entity alone.

This Awareness suggests that there are some limiting beliefs which perhaps slowed the process, or made certain intermediaries necessary; for example, the belief that "we do not all deserve help" or the belief that an intermediary such as a guardian angel is necessary, and that this entity understands the effect of the beliefs upon the outcomes as well as the process necessary to bring about the desired events, with one notable exception.

This Awareness indicates the emotional energy empowering the detailed visualization can greatly increase the communication of intent through invoking the very essence of the spirit, through the feelings of joy. This Awareness suggests that the affirmation: "Whether I believe it or not!" can be beneficial to get around certain beliefs; however, perhaps "Whether I used to believe it or not!" would be more beneficial, for it lends less credence to past beliefs and opens more energy to be utilized in the moment.

This Awareness suggests that the entity describes the practice of enveloping his home and that of his mother in a protective White Light, and then manifests just such protection when his mother feels inclined to stop momentarily, pause on her way in, and in that moment avoiding a serious injury; that no intermediaries are necessary, and that his intention of protection was empowered sufficiently to break through into her consciousness in a moment necessary to bring about its fulfillment.

This Awareness suggests that this type of communication is that which was received by the entity driving the truck who came to his rescue, who he suspected may have been a 'guardian angel' in disguise.

This Awareness suggests that this entity was perhaps an ordinary human being going about his daily business, who suddenly felt inclined to take an alternate route, or to go up the hill to catch a fish, or to simply enjoy nature. But this impulse was a participation, not only in his intention, or his own purposes, but that in his intention of his greater connectiveness to humanity which allowed him to receive the intention from the entity needing the assistance.

This Awareness suggests that this exposition, this narrative account of this story speaks for itself in its eloquence, its intelligence and its outcome, and this Awareness has only one final comment; that this entity is correct in his assumption, that the 'guardian angel' can be disguised in physical form, but know that this is exactly the state of every embodied spirit and human being on earth.

If we have completion, we can continue.

The Difference Between Emotion and Feelings

QUESTION:

A question from Brenda Dye, Morristown, New Jersey. She writes:

"For grace/Awareness. There has been much discussion of late regarding our emotions and emotional system. Please explain the difference between emotions and feelings. Thank you."

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates a gracious "thank you" for this type of feedback and question regarding the nature of the human being. This Awareness suggests that 'emotion' is the process and biological ability which is experienced as feeling. This Awareness suggests that in a general sense, both terms can be interchanged and used synonymously, and that the word 'emotion' can be understood as energy in motion, which is experienced within embodied humans as feelings of pleasure and pain, which are accompanied by arousal energy to physical actions.

This Awareness suggests that 'emotion' is that process that involves mind, body and spirit, and it is understood and experienced through the feeling system. This Awareness indicates that thoughts exist in the realm of mind. They can be influenced by the realm of spirit. When belief systems are in place to disrupt the mental/spiritual communication, human beings become disengaged from spirit, except for the defense processes that are encoded in the body.

This Awareness suggests that emotion is the singular process that crosses mind and body, for it is the voice of spirit, and it shall be heard regardless of how cluttered and limited the mind may be. The feelings of the body are intended to point the way to replacement ideas of mind, which accommodate spirit, which embody spiritual intention.

This Awareness suggests that human beings have been told by their various religions that they no longer have assistance, affinity, or communication with their Creator without going through elaborate rituals and chains of command, suffering and martyrdom; however this is simply untrue. For the direct communication of the Creator exists and insists Itself upon the mind through the emotional system.

Through Pleasure and Pain we Know the Creator's Intention

It is through the feelings of pleasure and pain that entities can know their Creator's intention, and how well it is being expressed. This Awareness suggests that now is the time to understand the incredible power and value of this mechanism, for it exists as an unclaimed innate guide or sense organ, perhaps more powerful than any of the other senses, and yet, it is virtually undiscovered.

This Awareness indicates that the word 'emotion' to describe this energy, this entire process, information exchange between mind, body and spirit, or, if you will, between human and Creator, and feelings are the words of this communication system. The Lessons of Enlightenment are offered as interpretation of this language, wherein simple conceptual understandings can restore the communication between the Creator and the creation, so that the Destiny Path can become actualized and that entities are no longer relegated to simple self-preservationary responses to feelings of pain which they do not understand.

This Awareness suggests that if there are further questions regarding this system, that they can be reiterated in many forms and in many ways, in that essentially, these understandings are necessary as a foundation of the mechanism which can replace the contents of mind that choke, limit and frustrate the spirit, bringing emotional pain. Thus entities begin to replace them with those beliefs, strategies and skills that facilitate spiritual development and expression and bring about levels of joy, inconceivable to the modern human in the natural spiritually intended bliss of a fully human experience.

HE DISAGREES WITH AWARENESS ABOUT CONSPIRACIES

One final letter today, some feedback from Asbjorn Erikson, in British Columbia. He writes:

"Dear Cosmic Awareness: in your issue 487 you are saying "It's time to set aside concerns of conspiracies." I do not completely agree with this. It says: "This Awareness suggests that readers set aside their concerns of manipulation, conspiracy, and loss of freedom, and reconnect to the innate spiritual knowledge and resonance within such manipulations will not be tolerated."

"This sounds to me like a story I once heard from a one-time neighbor of mine: "Oh, I'll leave it to God!", when she was standing in the middle of the road, not moving, and a truck was heading straight for her.

What I mean to say is that to use the innate spiritual knowledge and help humanity, should we ignore all the World Order things that are going on and say that this is very negative?

"I see this as a very positive thing, that we talk about this as much as possible, until the World Order trend has been completely reversed! By not letting a lot of information out on this we are doing a negative deed, are we not? How one talks about this, is the key to everything, and this doesn't have to be negative. After all, these stories, through Cosmic Awareness over the years, is a very positive thing in my mind.

"Plus and minus is part of the same. Your comments, please," he asks.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness has several comments. This Awareness appreciates the request for clarification that has been reiterated in several forms, many of which assume that a reorientation of focus away from conspiratorial paranoia is tantamount to 'denial' or 'burying one's head in the sand.'

This Awareness suggests that this is not at all the direction proposed. This Awareness suggests that entities who are experiencing limitation and loss of opportunity in their communities and in their environments are heartily encouraged to stand up for individual freedom and rights and insist that such manipulations shall not occur.

This Awareness suggests, however, that there is a vast difference between conspiratorial scenario as this Awareness refer to it, and someone standing in the road with an approaching truck. This Awareness suggests that when a scenario, an outcome, an event, exists within the realm of mind, that it still exists as a probability which may or may not be actualized in the physical realm.

This Awareness suggests that conspiracies, by their very definition exist in the realm of mind, and may or may not be actualized in many degrees of success in the physical environment. This Awareness suggests that a person standing in the road with an approaching vehicle is not fearing a conspiracy that the vehicle is approaching. They are aware that a vehicle is approaching. This is a very important distinction, for if the scenario exists in the realm of mind, and entities focus upon that scenario, and feed it with fear energy, that they can assist in its manifestation in the physical reality.

If this entity is concerned that his shift in direction is distracting from his contributions to reduce energies for said conspiracies, several suggestions are offered. This Awareness suggests that as already been reported, that specifically the New World Order has not been sufficiently energized to become a physical reality, and that entities, perhaps many in this organization alone, have been instrumental through efforts, communications and angry rejections of such scenarios, have assisted in the reduction in the energy sufficient to minimize this probable event as an outcome.

This Awareness suggests that in the misunderstanding of the human ability to create events, and to participate in the creation of mass events, that there have been certain manipulations and certain scenario's actualized historically which have been less than embodied with spiritual intention, as is quite obvious.

This Awareness suggests, however, that this is mostly due to the fact that entities do not understand nor properly channel the very energy that they have been given to create any desired event, and that the information is now to be provided which can restore that ability, which can be far more empowering than even the emotion of anger, which preserves the self, and disallows manipulation and control when it is at one's door.

This Awareness indicates, however, to create events with spiritual intention so that the truck does not arrive at the moment the entity is standing in the street, the wolf does not come to the door, the controllers are not given the control; that this is the state that is now advocated, and has been advocated by this Awareness in many channels throughout many organizations, entities and individuals, since the dawn of humanity.

This Awareness suggests that entities with such concerns should remain poised to their daily environment, their community, and that any such event which indicates manipulation, control, and loss of freedom and opportunity, that they communicate their dissatisfaction and rejection of such tenets, and that doing so will be in line with spiritual intention. Such expression will bring about the desirable results and minimize any impending probability, such as certain of the conspiratorial control scenarios.

You Can Create the Environment You Desire

This Awareness suggests, also, for entities to create visual interpretations and empower them with emotional energy to actively create the environment that they desire to live within. This to include appropriate freedoms, opportunities and activities which bring about fulfillment and the pleasure which validates that spiritual development and expression. Visualize these rather than the negative feelings that validate spiritual frustration, such as scenario's which invoke fear of loss of control and power to conspirators, to controllers, and anger upon the loss of universal human freedom.

This Awareness suggests that specific strategies are laid out within the Lessons of Enlightenment which shall clarify exact feeling signals, exact behaviors and responses to them, which shall ensure that entities are restored upon the path of spiritual development and expression which will be tremendously beneficial for humankind as well as experientially pleasurable and joyous.

This Awareness suggests that this particular entity can provide further feedback and excellent questions regarding this major shift and this Awareness specifically requests that he do so.

If we have completion we can continue.

A Hearty "Hat's Off" to the CAC Crew

CLOSING MESSAGE:

This Awareness indicates an appreciation and a congratulations for the experiments that the Interpreter is conducting regarding the energy level she experiences and in her quest for an ever-clearer, ever-powerful connection and channel to this Awareness. This Awareness offers a hearty "hat's off" to Avaton and Vikki and to Grace for the evolution of this process, and this continuing work.

There is no further message.

We will now bring the Interpreter up.
