WHY ARE CERTAIN ANIMALS SO FASCINATING TO ENTITIES

(Why do We Collect Certain Things?)

QUESTION:

A question: from Robert B. of Phoenix, Arizona. (Actually there are a number of question in his question, so I'll read his statement and then re-ask any questions if Awareness requires.)

Can Awareness please explain the fascination some people have with certain animals? People I know collect objects in the shape of penguins, koalas, elephants, frogs, etc. Have the souls of these individuals spent time as fragments in these types of animals? Is there a borderline conscious identification with characteristics attributed to these animals?

Might it be because these people had probably positive experiences with the animals in previous lives, or is it just from the current lifetime in childhood? This might also relate to other collections: stamps and coins, rocks and fossils, seashells, butterflies, buttons, posters, etc., or even types of pets one cares for. What are the reasons we collect things? Definitely not necessarily greed. Where might our interests come from besides simple past life interaction? Is there any future-life preparation being done by us collecting today?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the reasons for various types of collections are very complex, varying with each individual.

This Awareness indicates that the general interest in collecting has to do with the appreciation of ownership or of being able to possess certain things which are attractive or intriguing to an individual.

This Awareness indicates, for example, a child may find an interest in dolls or in toys of some nature and in such interest, which may occur at quite a young age, the entity may later find similar dolls that serve as reminders of a previous doll or toy and so the entity then is attracted to that particular doll or toy. This Awareness indicates in the process of further observation of things on the market, the child may find similar things which remind him of other toys which he has had.

This Awareness indicates in some instances, the doll may remind him or her of some individual or may serve as some symbol of the entity's future life, such as the Barbie dolls, which serve as inspirations to young children in regard to what they wish to look like when they grow older.

This Awareness indicates there are so many complexities in terms of why entities want certain possessions or certain trinkets or certain types of shells, rocks, beads or objects, that there is no set pattern that can explain something of this nature in a single answer.

This Awareness indicates that it is possible that some object might recall a past-life experience, but in most cases this is more of an incidental situation rather than the norm.

This Awareness indicates that in regard to pets and choices such as the types of dolls and so forth, the interest may stem also from the particular child's sensitivities. For example, one child may be drawn more toward dogs, another toward cats. Another may like things that are unusual and be attracted to monkeys or snakes or some other creature for pets.

Astrological Makeup a Strong Influence

This Awareness indicates that it will depend in part on the astrological or horoscope makeup of the individual.

For example, an entity whose Venus is influential will be attracted to those things which are sensitive to the touch, which are comforting to the touch, such as silk or fur of a soft nature; whereas an entity who might have, for example, a strong Mars quality, might be interested in such offbeat animals as porcupines or more aggressive type animals.

This Awareness indicates that there also can, of course, be influences from stories and experiences that have been remembered as children; wherein for example, the story of a small animal being told may gain fond memories, or it might create some kind of fearful imagery for the child. For example, a child of young age being told of the wolf and its mischief in a fairy tale, might at a later time have a slight fear of dogs, seeing a similarity in the wolf and the dog.

This Awareness indicates that on the other hand, the child seeing the wolf and identifying with the wolf, perhaps hearing a story in which the wolf is humorous in nature, and the child thinks this character is quite funny, the child may at some later time be highly attracted to dogs, which remind him or her of the wolf.

This Awareness indicates it is so complex for each individual according to the way in which they are perceiving these various animals or trinkets or objects in terms of their own interpretation and as mentioned, for example, stamps. Some children like small details, and like to put things in certain order, whereas others would like to have large, powerful-sounding toys, so that one child may go for the Big Wheel while the other goes for the stamp.

This Awareness indicates that it will depend largely on the personality of the child--whether they have good concentration or whether they like to be out and about, whether they are quiet and into themselves or whether they like crowds around them.

Very Little Past Life Influence in Collecting Items

There is, however, very little pattern in regards to past life influences in reference to the selection of different types of creatures, unless it is a phobia that carries over from a previous lifetime. For example, an entity who has perhaps been bitten by a snake in a previous lifetime, may have a fear of snakes.

This Awareness indicates that, obviously, an entity who perhaps was a lion-tamer in a circus, upon passing over and reincarnating, might have an affinity toward cats and animals that was stronger than for many entities. The entity might indeed have a fascination for lions.

This Awareness indicates, however, it is too complex and there are too many influences involved to give simple rules as to why entities chose this or that fascination for their entertainment and obsessions.

THOSE WHO COLLECT CATS

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

How about these ladies, and it's usually women, and there's usually at least one in every small town that they call "The Cat lady" who seems to collect cats? They just might wander by and they just hang around and she keeps them, or she can't say "no" to a cat. When I was a kid, there was woman called "The Cat lady"; I think she had something like sixty cats. You read about this every now and then: women who usually live by themselves and have a house full of cats. Is this just simple collection or is there something more deeper and meaningful in that type of thing?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this has to do with a mothering nature, as well as the concern for small creatures. This Awareness indicates that Virgos are particularly susceptible to small creatures; they tend to care about small creatures more so than other signs; that wherein an entity has something in Virgo which is influential, this may trigger an interest in small and weaker creatures.

This Awareness indicates that this interest may then be expressed (depending on the entity's horoscope), either as a career activity, wherein, for example, the entity becomes involved in working with animals, such as in a pet shop or kennel or veterinarian activities, or the entity may simply have this as part of a personality concern, in which any stray animal that comes around receives special, loving attention.

This Awareness indicates that the qualities that entities exude in terms of their personal interests cannot easily be determined by a rule-of-thumb in term of reincarnation or anything of this nature, for in some cases, there may be some carryover from previous lifetimes; in other cases, it will simply be in the entity's horoscope or in the entity's environmental upbringing.

This Awareness indicates that often an entity is attracted to animals out of personal loneliness, having a need to establish a relationship with some creature that they can manage easier than they can manage in terms of human relationships. This Awareness indicates there are some entities who have difficulty in their relationships with humans, but have great comfort in dealing with animals, because they can create and maintain a sense of control as well as a sense of affection, between themselves and the animals. This Awareness indicates that it will depend on the individual and the type of animal and the experiences the individual is going through in terms of their general life at the time.

This Awareness indicates that in many cases wherein entities have large numbers of cats, for example, the entity might simply be living alone and not have anyone who would restrict them from taking in just one more poor stray cat, and the entity may find himself or herself becoming somewhat overwhelmed by so many animals, but still not knowing which one to get rid of, because they have made themselves so vulnerable in accepting just one, then another, and another, and another, etc. And when one begins a pattern, the pattern itself can perpetuate its own information-processing, and the entity, then creating this processing of a pattern, becomes taken over to some degree by the pattern. Thus, the entity may take in more and more cats until some influence stops the action.

This Awareness indicates this is particularly so if the action of taking in the poor stray cat is of greater importance than the action of finding a home or finding some other solution to the cat's problem.

This Awareness indicates that wherein an entity feels that by taking in the cat, they have solved the problem, this, then, can become a solution for stray cats. And the entity may find herself taking in more and more stray cats, only to suddenly awaken at some point and realize that the cats may not have a problem, but she has a problem: with the neighbors, or the city, for she is not allowed, perhaps, to have sixty cats running around in her yard or in her home without experiencing great problems.

Karma is Not Always Created From Past Lifetimes

This Awareness indicates that it is not so much that karma is always created from past lifetimes: Karma is that which is created by patterned behavior or sudden and dramatic or traumatic behavior, in such a manner that it leaves a strong mark on the psyche of a individual related to some kind of attachment,-- attachment to a deed, an act, or to some situation.

This Awareness indicates that this does not necessarily have to come from previous lifetimes; that entities are in fact continually being presented with opportunities for creating negative or positive karmas. And that which begins as a positive karma, such as taking in stray cats, might eventually lead to a negative karma, such as having to find a way to get rid of sixty stray cats, for example.

Discernment is extremely important for entities, in that the appearance of something of a positive nature, given sufficient time and allowed to perpetuate itself, can lead to something negative. It does not always lead to something negative. One must learn to be discerning to determine what is occurring in regard to activities, for what is in appearance at one moment may appear differently to others or at another moment.

Why Michael Jackson Collects Strange Animals

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

How about entities like Michael Jackson who make the papers because he collects bizarre animals; like he recently bought a giraffe that he keeps in his yard? He's got a lot of acreage evidently, but he's also collected other exotic animals. Is this a pattern like was indicated, or is there something more to that type of thing?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this was a psychological characteristic of the entity, reflecting his own creativity, in which he is inventive in nature and is drawn to that which is unusual or out of the ordinary. It is this appreciation for the extraordinary that allows him to express a peculiar talent, reflecting his own uniqueness; and this same characteristic that allows him to be particularly creative in a unique way, has to express itself also in his other activities, such as his interior decoration, his clothing style, his home, the selection of friends he may have, or the selection of animals and pets he might choose to put into his life.

This Awareness indicates that this collection of unusual animals would not be so rare to individuals if others had the kind of money which he has; for if money were no object, owning such animals would not be that expensive or difficult in terms of energy and cost to the individual. It would simply be a matter of taste,--what pleases the entity.

Do Dead Animals Hang Around their Masters?

(How Vikki T's Uncle Used her Hound Siegfried)

QUESTION:

Speaking of animals, our hound, Siegfried, who has been one of the family for fourteen years, was killed on the road today, and I've been thinking on and off all day about animals like him that have had a deep attachment to a family. Do their spirits hang around the property or the house or do they have an astral shell similar to entities that are seen, because I know my sister, when she was little, would occasionally see a cat that had died which she loved very much, sleeping at the foot of her bed.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the animals generally have an astral shell that lingers for some time in the area to which they are attached.

This Awareness indicates there is also another portion of the animal which goes on to other activities. These other activities generally are associated with certain human qualities,-- not exactly that which you would refer to as a soul, but more in regard to certain emotional energies that are evolving, and may serve to supplement the souls.

This Awareness indicates that It has given information previously and entities can also find information on this in the Percival works, Thinking and Destiny; that there are certain energies that are cast off when an entity passes over. These energies can go to plants and to animals. In many cases, animals take on certain human energy that has been cast off from one departing this plane. Thus, in previous information regarding your dog, Siegfried, wherein there was some reference by one who channeled information that Siegfried was, in a previous lifetime Vikki T.'s Uncle Bud; this Awareness indicates that it was not Uncle Bud himself reincarnated into Siegfried, but rather there were certain emotional energies from Uncle Bud which were not capable of following the entity's soul as it moved into higher sojourns in the afterlife, and these emotional energies were then released and found attachment in the dog Siegfried, so that they might be close to Vikki T.

This Awareness indicates that this as a kind of protective action for Vikki during a part of her life in which she was somewhat vulnerable and needed that kind of support. This Awareness indicates that at present time, the support from these energies is no longer needed, for Vikki T. has acquired self-sufficiency and the energies of the Uncle Bud emotional levels are needed elsewhere by the uncle in his present situation, in which he is making preparations for re-entering into the earth plane. (This Awareness indicates that this is not something that is occurring immediately, but is not in the great distant future.)

This Awareness indicates that in many instances portions of the energy of an individual will go into an animal and reside there temporarily, while the individual's higher frequencies and soul force moves through other planes and through the bardo states.

This Awareness indicates in some instances in which the entity does not return for reincarnation, those cast-off portions will continue and move from creature to creature as a kind of evolving soul force, giving the animals certain personality as it moves from one creature to another.

This Awareness indicates in other instances where the original soul force is ready to re-enter embodiment as a reincarnation, those cast-off portions will return to that entity in the furthering of the entity's sojourn on earth in the entity's new body.

This Awareness indicates this is not in any way indicating that the soul of a human goes into an animal. Rather, there are certain thought forms or magnetic energies --emotional energies, which can be cast off from an entity passing over that may go into an animal for a certain duration of time. These are likened unto fragments of the individual that enter into the animal to help serve the animal in its capacity, and in some cases, to help serve those around the animal.

Hindu Belief in Transmigration of Souls

QUESTION:

Is that how some of these religions like the Hindu, I be believe, cling to the notion of transmigration of the soul, that entities go directly into animals, like the cow, which is sacred in India?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this is how these concepts come about. It must be understood, however, that it is only fragments or portions of the soul, the outer layers of attachment that have developed around the soul, which migrate into animals. The soul itself, as that which in its purest form, moves back to the White Light and through the bardo experience between lives, even though certain fragments or portions of the soul are left to migrate into plant and animal life, serving to enhance the plant and animal life on the earth plane.

Can Stars be Photographed in Outer Space?

QUESTION:

Going into another area, there's a question that comes up in a magazine called "Pulse of the Planet." I'd like to read a little of this and ask Awareness if It would explain this.

"An interesting question has recently been raised which will be put to our readers. It seems that stars might not be recorded on photographic film or videotape when the camera is taken into space outside of the earth's atmosphere and orgone envelope. When we first heard of this idea, we found it hard to believe until we searched through photographic records dating back to the Apollo program. We reviewed many books, compendiums and slide sets of published NASA photos taken from space and on the surface of the moon by hand-held cameras used by the astronauts, and we have not been able to find a single star in any of them.

"One can see the pitch-black background of space, the lunar surface, the satellites and other equipment of the astronauts, but no stars anywhere. This is so even in photos where the shutter speed of the camera would have had a slower setting. From the various quotations by the astronauts, it is clear that they could see stars, but none of the quotations suggest that the astronauts were awed by looking at the stars of the galaxy, that they were exceptionally beautiful or grand to look at, as is the case when seen from earth on a clear night away from city lights. Readers are encouraged to double-check this matter and let us know if they find a space photo with stars. Warning: Don't be fooled by star-like debris floating near recently separated satellites or booster rockets, or by dust on the photos which can be brushed away. Perhaps there is a straightforward explanation for this."

Can Awareness explain if this is true or not?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this is a situation that requires a totally different way of looking at what entities have been given in terms of....

This Awareness indicates that this is highly difficult at this time. This Awareness wishes that this question be re-asked at a later time. There are several aspects to this in part related to a certain degree of misunderstanding in regard to the questioner's perception, and also misinformation in regard to what entities have been told, and also certain principles involved in photography and atmospheric effects on film; so that these variations, each playing a part, affect the appearance and the response to the question. It is somewhat too complex to separate these three areas for a proper answer in the way the question is asked.

This Awareness suggests that there is a book available for entities to consider in regard to this, called Moongate, which may answer, to some degree, part of this question of the lack of stars in many of the pictures.

This Awareness indicates there is also the consideration in regard to the questioner's assumption that all pictures from outer space do not show stars.

This Awareness indicates that there is also the problem of the action of atmosphere in its filtering process in regard to its effect on energy being emitted from stars to make them visible.

This Awareness indicates that energy being emitted from stars moving through atmospheric pressure tends to bend and react differently in the atmosphere than in a non-atmospheric state, and this can have an effect on the action of film, but it is not seen as being sufficient to create a sky totally devoid of stars.

Rather, the action of filming bright planets, (such as the earth) from outer space, wherein the border around the earth is seen as black and starless, has more to do with the excessive light reflecting from the earth, so that the light of the stars is not bright enough to make a mark on the film, without the stars being given more time on the film, which would in turn create too much light on the film and an over-exposure, so that the earth could not be seen or filmed.

This Awareness indicates, in other words, it is likened unto taking a picture of a street light and trying to spot fireflies at the same time in the vicinity of the streetlight. If one holds the shutter open long enough to spot the fireflies, the streetlight would overexpose the film so that you still would not see the fireflies.

Some "Moon Landings" a Hoax, Some Not

This Awareness indicates in regard to the Moongate reference, this being a book in which it proposes that certain alleged flights to the moon never took place, but were filmed in a studio. This Awareness indicates that this was, in some of the instances, fact; that some of these alleged photographs were actually filmed in studios in a manner to give the impression that they were being filmed on a moon-like terrain. This Awareness indicates this being much less expensive than to actually send entities to the moon.

This Awareness indicates, however, that It has previously suggested that there have been flights to the moon even prior to those which were publicized. This Awareness is not saying there were no flights to the moon; rather It is saying that some of these alleged photographs taken on the moon were in fact taken in certain places on earth and caused to appear as though taken on the moon.

This Awareness indicates that this as having been dramatized in a movie called Capricorn One in a fictional story of astronauts being sent to Mars, when in reality they were sent to a studio, wherein the pictures made it appear that they were on Mars.

This Awareness indicates that the Capricorn One movie as fictional, but it was not that far off from exposing a certain principle based on truth. That entities who wish more information on this may enjoy reading the book Moongate,* which alleges that the flight to the moon did not take place. This Awareness indicates that there is a certain misunderstanding within this book, but there is also a certain amount of fact within the book.

* "Moongate," by William L. Brian II is published by Future Science Research Publishing Co., Box 86372, Portland, Oregon. (Also available from CAC. Please refer to Book Catalog Price Sheet.)

ALDRIN'S FAMOUS "ONE STEP FOR MANKIND" SPEECH A FRAUD

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

Was the time, I believe it was the entity Gordon Aldrin, made his now-famous speech about "one giant step for mankind,"-- was that incident one of the times just indicated as being filmed on the earth?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates this is in the affirmative. This was a time in which the United States needed a great boost in its morale and prestige and needed to convince the public and the world of the superiority of the United States in its space program.

This Awareness indicates that there was other activity in which mankind did already have a base on the moon; so in this sense, it was not so much deceptive,--it was more that it was creating an artificial or fictional image based on factual accomplishments. The artificial creation actually following a previous moon landing that was done in great secrecy.

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

That was information Dr. Beter put out, was it not?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the "one giant step" setting occurred in 1969, that there was a landing prior to that time --in fact, several years before--that the United States even had space programs prior to the Sputnik launch, but because they were secret, the Sputnik launching caused a propaganda scoop for the Russians, and the United States could not simply, at that time, admit: "Hey, that's nothing! We've got people on the moon!"

This Awareness indicates rather, they had to eat crow in a sense, and pretend to be catching up, using the Russian lead as an excuse for raising more money for further action for their space program.

This Awareness indicates the United States had even already had a space probe on Mars prior to the alleged moon landing of 1969.

This Awareness reminds you that in the 'moon dust' brought back from that 1969 journey, scientists examining that 'moon dust' found a strange phenomena --bone fragments. This Awareness suggests the 'moon dust' came from the deserts on earth.

THE PLAN TO PUT ATOMIC WASTE INTO THE GAZA PYRAMID

QUESTION:

Thank you. A question from Dees-P. in New Mexico. She writes: "I do not know whether or not you are still asking questions of Awareness from the membership, but I feel that the following question is of enormous importance. Once, long ago, I read in the New York Times that the United States government was interested in the barbaric proposition of placing uranium waste in the Gaza pyramid. So I assume that the government was well aware of the possible transformation of such waste in a pyramid into a beneficial agricultural material, a concept which I have in my head although I'm not certain of how it got there. I would like to know if this concept is valid and, if so, if it is feasible?"

The requirements for safety and exactitude in construction being very formidable, but after all, we were able to execute the Manhattan Project, an enormous achievement, however despicable. What material would be best for the pyramid; how large a size to be effective, and some notion of the time required for the transformation? If everything were favorable for a pyramid project by the government, getting acceptance of the idea might be the heaviest project of all, but nothing ventured, nothing gained

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that It does not see that this as being a system that would serve to neutralize radiation effectively. It can help to neutralize radiation in cutting down the time, the natural time of radiation into a shorter period of time, but it is not seen as being a solution to the present world's problem, because the times of accomplishment would still run into enormous number of years;--many lifetimes.

Other Ways Radiation Can be Neutralized

This Awareness indicates that there are, however, certain other ways by which radiation can be neutralized. That with a orgone-type creation of Wilhelm Reich, (which could itself be made into a pyramid shape, if one desires such a shape), there can be a development of a tool or device that could assist in a rapid depletion of the radioactive material. This is something which the government already understands to some degree, and is being researched.

This Awareness indicates there are also other methods of reducing radiation through the use of diamond dust and other substances.

This Awareness indicates that in the coming century, beginning in approximately 2010, a gradually increasing program of planetary cleanup will begin, so that by 2020 it will be in full action, whereby such radioactive wastes around the globe and in the oceans, and the various types of debris and pollution and toxins around the globe will be neutralized, cleaned up, and the earth made more habitable. There will also be moratoriums on further pollution and ways whereby vegetation in certain areas will be encouraged, so that oxygen will again be on the increase.

This Awareness indicates this, of course, providing entities do not destroy the ozone layer prior to this time period.

This Awareness indicates that already, there are these seeds being planted in regard to environmental issues which ten years ago were scoffed at by the majority of leaders and people of the world. Today, entities are taking this quite seriously. This Awareness reminds you of readings given back in the early part of this decade regarding Pluto's movement into Scorpio as a time when environmental issues would come to the fore and the pollution concern would become a major concern for everyone.

This Awareness indicates that Pluto is still less than halfway through Scorpio. It will still remain a major issue throughout this time period. Thereafter, the actions will begin, which will help to mobilize global cleanup.

This Awareness reminds you that during this time of Pluto in Scorpio, entities have witnessed great environmental problems that were undreamed of by the majority of entities, who were busy scoffing at environmentalists. They have seen the near destruction of the whales and other life species, the near destruction of the forests, and especially of rain forests, the ozone layers, the declining amount of oxygen available on earth, gigantic oil spills, Three Mile Island, Chernobyl, and other nuclear plant radiations, pollutions, dioxin spills and pollutions, and the exposure of government tests on soldiers in Yucca Flats, Alar on apples, other toxins in other foods, to the point where entities are now asking supermarkets to carry organic foods, to the point wherein entities are willing to pay more for organic foods, --water being so polluted that entities are buying distillers.

The Environmental Chickens Have Come Home to Roost

This Awareness indicates the chickens have come home to roost in the environmental sense, and entities are waking up to the realities of acid rain, dying lakes, dead fish, polluted waters. There are said to be over fifty nuclear weapons lost in the oceans. This is conservative figure released by Greenpeace; there are actually more that have been lost over the past thirty years, --mostly by Russian submarines, some by Americans.

This Awareness indicates the world is quickly becoming likened unto a giant garbage disposal. Garbage from cities as that which is becoming a major problem. Some five years ago, when people spoke of recycling, the masses, the public officials, the media scoffed. Now, repeatedly, cities are requiring recycling of cans, bottles plastics.

The Seeds of Global Cleanup are Being Planted

This Awareness indicates that the seeds of cleanup of the globe are being planted, even as entities are awakening to the problem of pollution. Yet that awakening is moving slowly for some, as chemical companies and various industries continue to dump tons of pollutants into the atmosphere, into the lakes and rivers, and into the food chain.

This Awareness indicates that there is much concern about the fluorocarbons and how the release of these refrigerants and air conditioning fluids are destroying the ozone layer. There is much talk now that entities, in going out in the sun, need to use sun screens to prevent skin cancer because the ozone layer is no longer protecting. Yet, while this occurs, entities still want their refrigerants for their air conditioning, and the industries are slow to change, to find new ways to prevent the release of these fluorocarbons, and the ozone layer still continues to shrink, and skin cancer continues to increase.

Who Will Win: The Poisoners of the Earth or the Awakeners?

This Awareness indicates that it is a question of who will win -- the poisoners of the earth, or those who would awaken the masses and ask for a cleanup of the environment. If those who poison the atmosphere have their way, then life on this planet has little hope of survival for more than a few more decades, another generation or two. If those who advocate a global outlook, a concern for the environment of the planet--if these entities can get their point and message across, then the earth and the people thereon may survive for many generations to come.

Ed's Note: This reading was given June 3, 1989. The information on the Photon belt would not be given for another 4 years later; however, the reference to the year 2010 is consistent with the information given later.

A Chain Letter to Help Get Rid of Styrofoam (Changing Consciousness has got to begin somewhere!)

QUESTION:

We went to a lecture by Dr. Finnegan, a local chiropractor who uses very advanced techniques, and before his lecture, he showed us a Styrofoam cup and he gave a talk about the environment, and he said that the Styrofoam cup will take like 30,000 years to biodegrade, and there's millions of tons of this stuff being thrown out every day and used, and it finds its way into the ocean where it kills endangered species like sea turtles and all kinds of things, and he was saying that he was going to write up --it was in the form of a petition, I think - a chain letter --to go out, asking people to boycott the stores, the restaurants, that continue to use this type of Styrofoam, and he says that it's got to begin somewhere.

When people tell him, "Well, you know, you're taking on way too much, you'll never win," and he said, which I thought was true, that somebody's got to start it somewhere, and this would be a good way to start. We signed up and we waited for his information to come through, and unfortunately, it wasn't very clear; it needs to be rewritten, because it doesn't really fire people up and inspire them to put twenty-five cent stamps out and so forth, to send out. But I'd like to ask Awareness: Would something like this, if it could be done correctly, if it could be set forth on the dangers of something as simple as Styrofoam and get going a chain letter asking for boycotts: would this be effective in the long run, or is it worth the energy?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that any amount would be worth the energy, that indeed it could have some strong impact.

This Awareness indicates, however, that there is even more involved in this than the disposal of the Styrofoam cups and containers.

This Awareness indicates that in the very creation of Styrofoam, the emission of gasses as that which effects the ozone layer. This Awareness indicates for this reason, in some states already laws are enacted that phase out these Styrofoam containers and, for example, egg cartons are now being again made from paper or cardboard, and the Styrofoam egg cartons are becoming obsolete.

This Awareness indicates that they are still available, but gradually during the next year, they will be phased out. That some states have not yet begun this process, but it is part of the effort in altering the destruction of the ozone layer to phase out the Styrofoam use.

This Awareness indicates that it would be beneficial for entities to boycott any products or containers of Styrofoam. This would send a clear message very quickly to entities.

FOLLOW-UP STATEMENT:

We've been doing this for a while with book publishers who send books packed in Styrofoam popcorn, and we put requests on the book order to "Do not send Styrofoam, but pack with paper or something else, because Styrofoam takes 30,000 years to biodegrade" or something to that effect.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates there is a certain type of corn dust that has been developed as a carrier of bacteria that can be used for the biodegrading of plastics; that this also has some effect on styrofoam to speed up the decay of the substance; that there are entities working on this kind of situations, so that eventually the cleanup of the planet can be accomplished. So long as entities continue to focus on and encourage this kind of action, it is more hopeful than it would appear.

This Awareness indicates these garbage dumps that hold enormous tons of baby diapers and other plastics can be affected by the use of this corn dust and its particular bacteria, so that even this, over time, can be altered.

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

Is it possible through genetic engineering also, is it not, to create some kind of bacteria that would chew up the substances?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This is in the affirmative.

Wilhelm Reich's Orgone Accumulator as a Solution to Deal with Atomic Waste (The "Desert Makers")

QUESTION:

In relation to Wilhelm Reich in neutralizing waste, there's an article in the Critique magazine called "Alternative Perceptions of Assumed Scientific Beliefs" by Thomas Maxwell Thompson. It seemed to confirm what Awareness just indicated. I'd like to read just a little of this. It says, in a section called, "Neutralizing Atomic Wastes:

Another facet of the nuclear problem that is overlooked and little known is Wilhelm Reich's experiments with radioactivity.

Those who know of his work have knowledge of his Orgone Accumulator, a simple, passive device for the accumulation of life energy or what Reich termed the Orgone. Concentrations of orgone energy have been proven experimentally to remiss cancerous tumors. In his Oranur experiments (1951-1955) Reich showed that when radioactive material is placed inside a lead container and then inside an orgone accumulator, and then buried for about five years, the content of radioactivity is reduced drastically.

The reductions of radioactive elements takes place in far shorter time than is allowed for in standard theories of half-lives. The Atomic Energy Commission would not like you to know this. They are in league with the corporations disposing of nuclear waste and this is a multi-billion dollar industry.

It seems that the small group in control of most major international corporations have a definite plan for contamination of major population concentrations. Just drive around any major city and check on the locations of waste dump sights, of all kinds, and this pattern will become more clear.

Reich termed the forces behind the suppression of beneficial knowledge "the Desert Makers". They make deserts in the minds of people through control of their intellectual input, and they make deserts on the planet by their insane grab for power, using up the natural living systems of earth to supply our energy needs in a controlled, manipulated manner. At the same time the knowledge of free natural energy is suppressed with force, ridicule, bribery or misinformation. Of course the human race is nowhere near responsible enough to handle the implications of free energy, but who are these forces that stop us from trying?"

Would Awareness agree with that summation?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this is very clear and very much in the affirmative.

QUESTION:

Does Awareness have a closing message?

A More Responsible Behavior Can Preserve Those Things of Value

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that there is much that entities can feel hopeful about in the coming years. There are still great dangers. There are economic as well as environmental dangers. The political dangers are always present, especially in certain areas under certain types of government.

This Awareness indicates that even in spite of these dangers, there is that growing trend toward a more global society in which more responsible behavior is becoming recognized as a way of preserving those things of value. Whereas in the past, the gun and the whip and the financial establishment was seen as the only way to preserve the values of society, it is now becoming apparent that there are greater methods of promoting and preserving higher values. These are through communication, through people, through justice, and through proper interchange of ideas and harmonious responses to the problems that entities face.

This Awareness indicates that the world has changed considerably in the last one hundred years; that wherein entities thought only in terms of extreme polarities, entities now perceive degrees of response. Instead of strong negative reaction to something, an entity may take a slight affront and indicate displeasure. In some cases, that is sufficient. It is no longer necessary, in some cases, for an entity to grab his or her arms and go for the throat of an opponent when a mere objection and expression of displeasure is sufficient.

This is a sign of increasing sensitivity on the part of individuals who are learning to relate, not by extremes of polarity, but by degrees of acceptance and rejection. The degrees involved need to be emphasized. Entities need not mow down their opponents with machine guns and tanks; they could use water hoses and disperse the crowd, and the effect would be much more humane and much more acceptable to the world.

This Awareness indicates that if one can use tear gas instead of bullets to accomplish the same thing, is not that the better way?

This Awareness indicates that entities need to be more perceptive in regard to the use of power; and even if they are not willing to yield any of their power, to use it with greater care, expressing it in degrees, so that entities can understand the full implications and respond accordingly.

The Children Massacred in Tiananmen Square

This Awareness indicates that in the recent slaughter in China, there were children in the crowds. There were curious people who gathered simply because there was a crowd of people there. They went out into the square just to see what was going on, just to be with the crowd; yet these entities were slaughtered, because someone in power feared them and saw them as a threat to their control. They had no intention of seizing control. Many of them were just children, curious as to what was going on. They did not even know what democracy was. They were not there for a cause; they were there to be with the crowd, because something interesting was happening, and they wanted to be there as part of it, to see what was happening.

This Awareness indicates that there are too many entities who are not discerning in regard to the actions they take. They pollute, they oppress, they destroy, they violate, they misjudge, misrule, misinform, and create havoc for others out of their own ignorance, or lack of understanding or lack of compassion. These things must change as entities move into greater levels of discernment and approach life as a global society.

It is appalling and strange that certain segments of some societies can be so sensitive and so clear and so compassionate to the needs of others, while other segments of other societies can be so single-minded and fanatic and thoughtless, and determined, and so self-righteous that they would slaughter others without caring who or why or what they were doing to them,-- this in terms of not only the military actions, but also in terms of pollution, poisons, toxins, and other forms of violation.

Humanity is Evolving Because of Discerning Entities

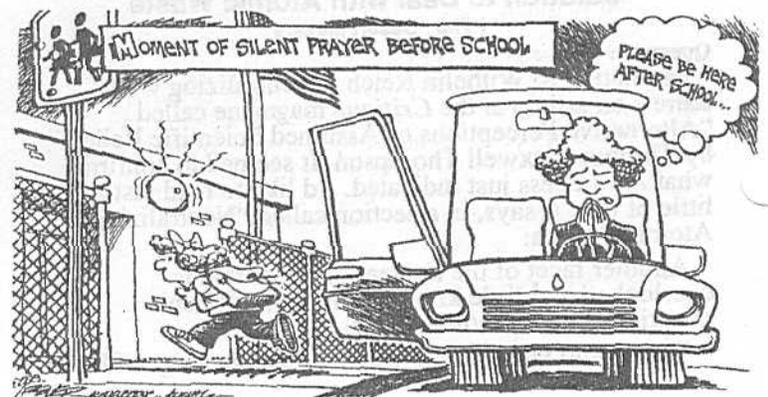

This Awareness indicates in spite of all of this, the fact that there are many who are sensitive, who express compassion, who recognize the shades of gray, the degree between the polarities; this is a sign that humanity is evolving into a higher nature of being, and these evolving masses are leading the way for others to follow. And it is extremely hopeful that this change is moving with such momentum that in the next century these extremes of polarity will have been passed into history and will fade, leaving a consciousness of the masses that can adjust in degrees to each other's aberrations and differences without going berserk, or reacting with violence.

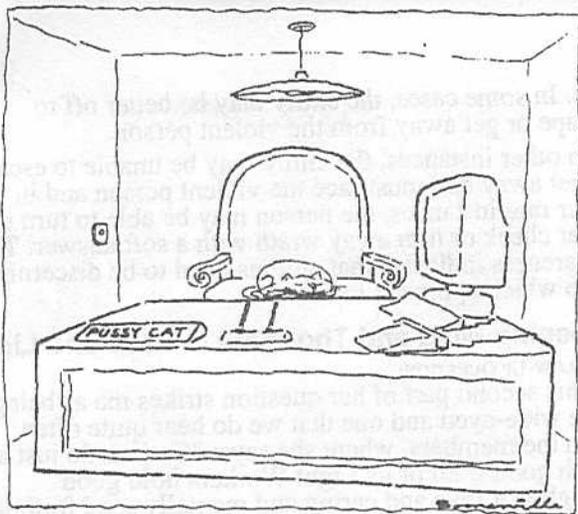

This Awareness suggests the interpreter be brought from trance.

RESIST NOT EVIL

(Won't This Only Strengthen the Anti-Forces?)

QUESTION:

A letter from Elsie Lindahl, in Mesa, Arizona, to Vicki, that contains several questions. I'll read it. "How can we reconcile non-resistance as Jesus taught, resist not evil, and doing all we can to fight oppression and bad government and so forth? Isn't it so that as soon as we put forth resistance to anyone or anything, the anti-force will strengthen itself to push harder, the more it encounters resistance?"

"I seem to be confused about which direction to go. Can we do just as much good if all of us Light Workers hold good thoughts of love and caring and mentally send forth love and light to all, including the anti-forces? And isn't it true that when we keep our mind and thought and deeds in love and light, that the spiritual helpers can then use these good thought-waves to bring into earth, powers that can melt hard hearts and dissolve harmful powers? Please help me understand!"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that there are different kinds of resistances that entities may put forth. That in the phrase: "Resist not evil", It spoke of a physical action which was the example of something that could be allowed and unresisted: This as in the example of being slapped on one cheek and turning the other cheek.

What Jesus Meant by "Resist Not"

This Awareness indicates that this was given as an alternative to the argument that entities should slay their enemies, should fight with their enemies; wherein Jesus said: "But I say unto you that you resist not evil. If a man slaps you on one cheek, that you turn the other cheek." This Awareness indicates that it was given as being a method by which to avoid the fighting that would otherwise occur if you followed the eye for an eye technique as presented by the Hammurabi code.

This Awareness indicates that there are, of course, other ways of resisting evil that may be necessary, in the sense that if it is an evil act that you are tempted to do and you do not resist that temptation and commit an evil act, this is not the same kind of example that Jesus spoke of. This Awareness indicates that it is a totally different situation. If you are tempted to cause someone harm, get revenge or create some kind of difficulty for someone, and you feel the temptation is an evil or negative act on your part, of course you may wish to resist following through on that evil act.

How to Divert the Energy of an Act

This Awareness indicates that in this sense you may wish rather than become obsessed with the act, divert the energy of the act into something else. As an example, one entity being very angry that his girl friend was not there or had gone out with someone else, rather than doing an evil act to her, went out and chopped a cord of wood for her. Upon her return, she realized how angry he must have been to chop so much wood at her dating someone else. The entity was impressed at the way he channeled his anger and decided at that point to marry him.

This Awareness indicates that these examples of diverting energy from a direct resistance to some other form of expression are also found in the martial arts field wherein rather than confronting someone who is attacking, you divert their energy and let them fly past you, perhaps even hurrying them past you with some little added force. This allows for the entity's own energy to work, not to create a clash of flesh and bones with you, but to bypass you and in this manner, their own energy works against them, rather than you and the entity clashing in a collision course.

This Awareness indicates that in terms of your particular concern about dealing with those who are causing problems in your life or in your world by objecting to their activities, there is nothing negative about verbal objections which can be seen as a kind of resistance to their activity. There is often the need to confront negativity or so-called evil in a manner that does not result in collision or violent reaction.

Passive Resistance Has Certain Limitations

The example given by Jesus of meeting a physical blow with a passive response is that which was reflected later in the actions of Gandhi. This Awareness indicates however, that it must be realized that Gandhi's actions were being portrayed on a much larger stage than the mere slap of a face, and that many of the people in India suffered cruel treatment from the British before the Gandhian method of passive resistance actually had an effect, and that without the publicity that accompanied Gandhi, these methods may not have had any effect of a favorable nature at all.

This Awareness indicates that the people in Nazi Germany who went passively into the gas chambers had very little effect on the Nazi regime, until the activities received great publicity after the war was over, after the dangers had passed. Only then was the publicity strong enough for decent citizens to become outraged.

This Awareness indicates that thus, passive resistance or non-violence has certain parameters in which it can be effective and in other parameters it loses its effectiveness. The same may be said for the concept of resisting not evil. In some parameters it is effective to resist not evil, but in other parameters there needs to be some resistance.

Resisting the Evil Being Perpetrated on Others

If you see a large person beating up on a small child, and you see that this is not being to the benefit of the child, and that it could be extremely damaging to the child, then you may need to interfere, if possible, and resist the evil being perpetrated on the child. The resistance may require resistance, or resisting through verbal or legal methods, such as calling for help from police or others, or you may find certain words which stop the entity from further beating of the child, but the question may be asked: "Are these forms of resisting? Are you resisting the evil being perpetrated against the child?"

This Awareness indicates that it would appear so. This Awareness indicates that if you hinder the expression of another, is that not resistance? Therefore, in some parameters it may be necessary to resist the evil that is being perpetrated. But in the particular parameter mentioned by the Biblical story requiring the turning of the other cheek, this was an example of how one might meet violence with non-violence.

It would of course require that the violent person has some sense of decency, for there are others in the world today, who, upon seeing the opportunity to strike someone who would not strike back, will seize that opportunity and make the best of it by totally and utterly destroying the victim who responds not to their aggressive violence.

This Awareness indicates that in some cases, if an entity is provoked, one slap across the face will be enough. This Awareness suggests that if, in other cases, the entity is not satisfied with one slap, he or she may wish to continue beating on the victim, and if successful, will always feel inclined toward further beating of the victim whenever riled to do so.

This Awareness indicates in other words, entities may find times and circumstances in which they do need to deal with violence in others by protecting themselves or by seeking protection from elsewhere, outside themselves. This Awareness indicates that the Law Of Love resists not evil, but is an entity required to give up their life to someone who would perpetrate evil against them? This is another matter, and this Awareness suggests that it is not necessarily the appropriate action to sacrifice your life in order to let evil have its full expression against you, But if you do not, you may be violating the Law Of Love.

There Has Been Enough Martyrdom in the World

This Awareness indicates that It does not insist that you love evil, and let yourself be violated by it. It simply describes that if one is totally loving, one would resist not the evil, but one can be totally loving and still become the victim of evil, as was demonstrated by the story of Christ being slain on the cross. This Awareness has indicated that there has been enough martyrdom in the world, and there needs be no more.

An Example of Passive Resistance to Evil

This Awareness does not encourage entities to love others so intensely that they allow themselves to become victims of violence, just so that evil can have its way. This Awareness indicates that occasionally, forces that act aggressively and violently can be mollified or made passive by a passive response to them. This depends much on why the aggressor is so aggressive

If they have a fear, they may cover the fear with aggression and may appear to be very evil and hostile, only to discover that the person they feared is passive and is not ready to fight back, in which case, they may, at that time, back off and become less hostile and less aggressive toward the passive person. This would be an example of a practical time to use the passive approach of "Resist Not Evil."

This Awareness indicates that there are others who are determined to be aggressive and look for weak and helpless people, passive people against whom they can take out their aggression. If these people are loving and passive and resisting not, they become the perfect target for the pent-up rage of such aggressive people and they simply become the victim on which the aggressive entity takes out his or her rage.

"Resist Not Evil" Not a Blanket Rule

No one really benefits by being passive in this kind of situation. Unfortunately, it isn't always easy to tell which kind of behavior will pacify or silence the aggressive attack. This Awareness indicates that the rule of "Resist Not Evil" is not a blanket rule to be used in every instance of violence being perpetrated against one. In some cases, the entity may be better off to escape or get away from the violent person.

In other instances, the entity may be unable to escape or get away and must face the violent person and in other rare instances, the person may be able to turn the other cheek or turn away wrath with a soft answer. This Awareness indicates that entities need to be discerning as to which approach to use.

Keeping Mind and Thoughts in Love and Light

(FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

This second part of her question strikes me as being a little wide-eyed and one that we do hear quite often from the members, where she says: "Can we do just as much good if all of us Light Workers hold good thoughts of love and caring and mentally send forth love and light to all, including the anti-forces? And isn't it true that when we keep our mind and thought and deeds in love and light, that the spiritual helpers can then use these good thought-waves to bring into earth powers that melt hard hearts and dissolve harmful powers?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the consciousness of entities emanating vibrations of love have an effect on the mass consciousness, and add to the general amount of love in the mass-consciousness. It may not be effective in a great way until masses are capable of expressing love in this manner, and often there will be individuals or situations in which a person or a situation creates intense negative energy, causing great stress or pain to others and these vibrations may counter any similar mass love vibrations in consciousness.

If the negativities are stronger and more prevalent in consciousness, then the general body of mass consciousness begins to feel these negativities as a major oppression. Thus, in the sense that love is expressed in consciousness as a general form of expression, often the entities who are loving will help to add a greater amount of love to the mass of consciousness, and this then makes others feel better.

This Awareness indicates that there is no way to guarantee by being loving that the amount of love in consciousness will outweigh the amount of negativity in consciousness, for these things do tend to shift back and forth. Negativities and hostilities sometimes gain a majority control of consciousness, while love recedes. Then, love may suddenly begin to grow and express in a majority control of consciousness, while negativity recedes.

This Awareness indicates that often, if you see yourself becoming negative, rather than resisting the negativity that you see coming on, you will be better off to get negative very quickly and get it over with quickly so that you can again become more positive and loving and add your love and light to the mass of consciousness.

ISN'T LIFE SUPPOSED TO BE FUN?

(Fun Being the Active Pleasure of Being)

QUESTION:

We received a rather long stream of consciousness-type letter from Darby Anderson Els, which does contain some questions, and I think, that what I'll do, is I'll read the letter and then go back and re-ask particular questions, because the whole thing ties in.

She writes: "While, we're at it, I also have a question or questions for Awareness, however, what exactly I want to ask isn't clear to me at this moment. So bear with me while I try to synthesize...and once I get rolling, Flash, (my computer) will help me with clarity.

It's about, well, it starts with the idea that life is supposed to be fun. That's my fundamental concept, although many would immediately tune out, finding the word fun, far too frivolous to apply to life. So I'll explain that when I say fun, I mean the active pleasure of Being. Including what might be termed work, but if life is experienced purely, as I think it is intended, work would be fun too.

Now, from my personal point of view, there's nothing I like better than simply Being. Yet, I live in this world where one is supposed to do something to make money, pay rent, etc. O.K., so I found something that I enjoy doing besides reading, writing and playing out-of-doors, that can and does generate income—which is dying yarn, weaving cloth and making clothing and bedcovers from it.

And I'm moving right along, savoring the process of playing with color, creating things, and saying to myself, how good it would be if this matures into a nice little business that supports me, supplies my needs with money to spare and share, (enough even to buy some land)—at the same time, allowing myself time to smell the roses. (Actually, wanting even more free time to be able to devote part of my energy to writing, acting and directing theater.) Then along comes a friend who says, "But you're not doing it right. You can't just have fun, you have to tend to biz. You don't even know what biz is. You're heading for a tumble."

Now, I think this person's right, to the extent that if one plans to go to sea, it's prudent to take a compass and have looked at a chart. (And besides, I've been told by another trusted source that it's time for me to be foundational.) But this previous giver-of-advice doesn't really enjoy himself much, doesn't allow space-time for fun in his life. Doesn't know how to.

Indeed, I now see much discrepancy in how we two view life that it is making my question more clear to me. Here's an example: When last we spoke, he compared life to a race, saying that there were two kinds of participants—those who just liked to race, and those who wished to win—and that he wanted to win big. I countered by saying life to me was more like climbing a mountain, and that the very act of climbing should be enjoyable, so that if one fell off a cliff before reaching the top, it would have still been a good climb.

Anyhow, both of us admit to bleak periods. So, where's all the pleasure I know can saturate life? Or is it a matter of, until we clear our cellular memories of all the misconceptions, the traumas and dramas, until we go purely through the crucible of pain—(a system which I would like to see replaced somehow—why can't we be taught by JOY?)—we're stuck with turmoil, periods of darkness, and all too often life is no fun at all.

And for the record, I often hear people say they can't do what they want because they have to work. I cringe each time I hear it. No, that can't be right. What about following our bliss? And possibly, the general acceptance of this work-attitude, is what keeps my contention of life-should-be-fun choked down, as a vine-weed can strangle a flower.

Am I making my point?...It also has to do with trust. And going-with-the-flow. And the belief in abundance. I've come to accept that lack and limitation are only real in the little minds of man, but are therefore outwardly manifested in our world. And I can't really blame the rest of you-all if I can't get it straight myself. But if indeed it is true that all needs can be met—that the demand never exceeds the generative powers of Supply-Central, then, oh, what a world we could have! Should have. Would have. If we'd only take it to heart.

But, do I float through life on blind trust? Can I be totally directed, protected, provided for, or, do I always have to make sure I lock the barn door? Am I being naïve about this life-should-be-fun stuff, or what?

I guess my point is that I don't want to just drift and never achieve anything. But then, if I am directed, I can't be just drifting, can I? I mean, wouldn't I be drifting exactly where I'm supposed to? And after all, isn't the question: how's the quality of life, not the quantity of what one can achieve? Yet, is it my job to chart the course myself, consciously utilizing those creative powers extended through me, or get out of my own way and let it be?

When I do feel in-the-flow, joyous, sunny, lovingly alive to life, having fun—none of this crap bothers me, because it appears to all be parts of one giant puzzle, each fitting perfectly into the other, with a beautiful ever-expanding picture slowly, but surely, taking shape. And I attempt to follow the advice my Higher Self imparted (via Flash) not long ago—RESIST NOT. Hardly anything novel, but incredibly, powerfully, helpful when understood and applied.

So, Avaton, if you feel these ramblings of mine are universal enough in nature to warrant a response from Awareness, and you catch my drift, feel free to paraphrase me. (I've noted your struggles in the past, having to relay run-on questions to Awareness, and I never thought I'd be guilty of handing you another, so I DO apologize). Hang in there! With Love, Darby."

Well, that's the end of the letter. I couldn't paraphrase it, so I read it. Does Awareness have any Universal Comment to that letter?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that there are considerations here in regard to choices, to be made regarding experiences and directions, and purposes and ways of viewing things, and there are considerations here in regard to events in one's life that are either difficult or pleasurable. This Awareness indicates that these things are often beyond one's control.

This Awareness indicates that It has previously indicated that your own free will is very limited; that much of what occurs to you has come about through external events and through conditioning that has been implanted in you from childhood, or from previous lifetimes. This Awareness indicates that the area that is available for you to deal with in life experiences, which is clearly and fully yours, is that area of attitude.

In your philosophy, that life should be fun or enjoyable, you can keep that attitude of enjoying life, even in the experiences of certain difficult situations. This Awareness indicates that of course there will be times when things will be less enjoyable than during other times. This Awareness indicates that it is always a matter of degree.

You may say that these are unenjoyable times, or you may say that they are less enjoyable. It is a matter of attitude, and the entity who sees life as a race or a struggle, creates an attitude that parallels that viewpoint of life and will have good reason to experience that viewpoint and see that viewpoint as being realistic.

If the entity sees life as sheer drudgery, there will always be the attitude that seeks to focus on the sheer drudgery of life, thus, the attitude you bring to the situation is that which creates your reality as you perceive it. Even though the reality may be shared by others who perceive it in different ways, you yourself have control over your attitude and your perception of reality.

It is your choice. You can enjoy the work, you can hate the work. You can enjoy the life experiences, or you can hate your life experiences. It is more fun when you have an attitude of enjoying your work and your life experiences and you have that choice at every moment, whether to enjoy or to dislike these things.

Put a Time Limit on Your Negativity

This Awareness suggests that entities who may fall into a mood swing, wherein one day they love life, they enjoy life, and then suddenly something goes wrong, and they feel they hate what is happening, may choose to switch and become negative, consciously become negative very quickly and say: "I hate this at this moment! I hate this and I'm going to be angry about this for 30 minutes!"

By putting a certain time-limit on your negativity, it allows you to vent your negativity very strongly and to get into it fully and know that when the time-limit is up, you can again start enjoying life, for you have dealt with the frustrations that have caused your negativity, stay with it until your time-limit is up or until you become bored with your negativity.

When it is finished, then start talking about how much you enjoy life and enjoy your situations. It creates a realization of the power of your attitude.

When one can control one's attitude as easily as turning it on and turning it off, one then is in charge of one's life, and can truly enjoy life.

The Basic Premise that Life Should be Fun

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

Then, this basic premise this entity bases her life on,-- that life is supposed to be fun in the sense of the active pleasure of being-- this is a valid premise then, isn't it?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that this is a premise chosen by the entity as a way of looking at life. It is not necessarily valid to everyone. Another might say: "Life is a struggle," or "Life is cruel," and may base their entire being and experience on such a premise. The entity who says life is cruel will surely set out to prove the premise and will, no doubt, find sufficient proof, for whatever entities create as a premise for their view or attitude of life generally is substantiated by the experiences and their perception of those experiences.

It is the same as the entity who creates a premise: "It is cold", while another may say: "No, it's not cold, it's just right!" Another might say: "Well, I'm a little warm." The entity who says it's cold is going to find evidence that it's cold. Perhaps feeling his or her skin to be cool, and the entity who says "I'm a little warm" will find evidence to support that suggestion. It is subjective and not an objective decision, it is a subjective observation or perception.

Therefore, all may be right, and neither is necessarily wrong in how they view the temperature or the world, but each is subjective in that viewpoint. Thus, the entity who says: "It is a cruel world!" may be quite correct from his or her perception of the world, while the entity also present in the same moment and space may say: "It is a very pleasant life!" and that entity may also be absolutely correct considering his or her perception of the world.

Attitude determines the perception. Perception creates the appearance. The appearance suggests the reality that is perceived and experienced.

Why Not Just Go With the Flow?

(FOLLOW-UP QUESTION):

Her belief that this has to do with trust and going with the flow, and the belief in abundance that she's come to accept, that lack and limitation are only real in the little minds of men and therefore, outwardly manifested in our world, --is this valid?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This is valid for this entity. It is not necessarily valid for others. It is a way of viewing, a way of perceiving reality. It is one entity's perception of what the entity perceives as reality. This Awareness indicates that another may totally disagree. Who is to say which is right. Is this truly an elephant? Is this elephant as I perceive the elephant to be, or is the elephant as the other person perceives it to be who stands at the opposite end of the elephant?

If entities do not see the same thing when looking at the same thing, it is simply because they perceive it differently.

This Awareness indicates it is not possible to say that one person has the right perception of life without acknowledging that others who have a different perception also have the right perception of life. All see life differently.

Is there any one perception of life that is more accurate than others? Is there any one that is absolutely right and others that are all totally wrong?

This Awareness indicates it is a matter of how discerning people are, and how they subjectively view life and no one can say for sure that another's view of life, which appears true for them is absolutely false, or absolutely right. This Awareness indicates that it is more fun for entities to live a life in which they view life as a pleasant situation than for those who view life that it is full of drudgery and difficulties. The lives lived which perceive life as drudgery and hardship are those which reap what they perceive and exaggerate the drudgery and hardship of life so that they experience the difficulties that they perceive in life.

Those who see life as joyful will notice little things that are exaggerated in their minds, in their experiences to such a degree as to bring considerable joy to them. An entity may walk along a path, and one sees this path as that which holds a troubled soul with the weight of the world on his shoulders. Another may walk along the same path and see a beautiful flower growing beside the path and think: "How wonderful! This beautiful flower presents itself here for me to see, to enjoy! It is like a splash of cosmic blessing presented to me by God!"

This Awareness indicates that it is the same path, but the travelers have a different perception of what is experienced on the path. The one says: "Poor me!" The other says: "Lucky me!" Which of these two will enjoy life most?

This Awareness indicates that the attitude entities adopt determines how they perceive life, whether it is enjoyable, pleasant or difficult and full of drudgery. All entities may choose the attitude they wish to carry in their enjoyment or experience of life.

Resist Not—Drifting with the Flow

(Is This the Fool in the Tarot?)

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

One final question on this. Where she says: "I guess my point is that I don't want to just drift and never achieve anything, but then, if I am directed, I can't be just drifting can I? I mean, wouldn't I be drifting exactly where I'm supposed to?" Is this Pollyanna-type rationale, or is this the Fool in the Tarot card, stepping off the cliff?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that the concept of Resist Not, which this entity has focused on is that which is closely associated with the attitude of drifting or moving with the Tao. The Tao being the forces of life; letting life move you. This Awareness indicates that this particularly relates to the Fool stepping off the cliff. The Fool stepping off the cliff is not necessarily a negative experience. It is an experience in which the entity is moved strictly, totally by faith, from moment to moment, and this can be quite an enjoyable action.

This Awareness indicates that there are times in one's life when this may be the appropriate action and may allow the entity to be moved by higher spiritual forces in a direction that it needs to go. This Awareness indicates that once the entity understands the direction, the entity may then move to the next card in the Tarot: the Magician.

After the Fool One Moves to the Magician

The Magician, knowing where it is to go, then begins to put forth effort to make things happen. The Fool does not seek to make things happen, but only to respond to what is happening. The Magician seeks to make things happen in accordance to that which he or she sees as being the direction chosen. At this stage in this entity's life, it is much like that of the Fool in the sense of allowing one to respond to life's forces and energies and attuning to the higher spiritual energies to respond to these.

This Awareness indicates it is more pleasant to be responsive in this sense than it is to be creative in the sense of the Magician. The Magician, in trying to manifest or create something expresses a will, a desire, a goal, and when one has desires and goals, one suffers from the lack of achievement of those desires and goals. There is the experience of: "I want to see this happen, but it hasn't happened yet, therefore, I must continue to struggle."

Thus, the entity who comes and says: "Life isn't just fun and games. Life requires effort." This entity is moving as a Magician, seeking to establish, to create, to make something work in his life, and is willing to put forth energies of his own will. The entity is not as trusting of life itself, and feels the need to bend the will of nature to conform to the goal which he, as a Magician, seeks to establish.

This Awareness indicates that these are two different approaches toward life. This Awareness indicates that entities may switch from one to the other at different stages in their lifetime experiences; that the same may be said for other Tarot cards. These are different attitudes which entities may take on or take off, according to their momentary perception and need in their approach to life at its different stages.

This Awareness indicates in other words, the Tarot cards symbolize different attitudes that entities can experience as they move through life from one stage to another. This Awareness suggests that when entities do not know where to turn, which way to go, or how to get there, it is very beneficial to slip into the role of the Fool, to step off the cliff of the moment, to let the Higher Forces guide, knowing that before your foot hits the ground, holy ground will appear.

Drifting in the Tao of Life

Thus, by moving from moment to moment, letting the Higher Forces move you, the forces of Life, knowing that as this occurs, in your total surrender to the Divine Force, you will be moved in the direction you are to go, for your Highest Purpose. It is a matter of trusting the Higher Forces and surrendering your own personal will to these Higher Spiritual Guides and Forces.

This may be done temporarily for a short duration or some entities may go through a long period of time drifting in the Tao of life, from experience to experience, being moved by the spiritual energies until they find their lives situated in such a way as to suddenly have new meaning and purpose, and out of that new meaning and purpose, emerges a Magician from your consciousness who develops a sense of direction and purpose and goals then are formulated, desires are seen and the Magician begins to struggle to attain those goals and desires.

WERE ALL SOULS CREATED EQUAL?

QUESTION:

Five questions from Sharon Kane, which I'll read as one question. "Were all souls created equal? What accounts for special talents? Superior intelligence, psychic abilities, and will we all end up equal?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that all souls are individual, unique and basically different from each other, and their development and evolution came from the experiences which they chose to follow; that much of the development of the souls had to do with their personal interest and focus of attention in the experience of many lifetimes.

This Awareness indicates that they have an equality in the sense of spiritual value, not so much in the sense of likeness or similarities. Will they ever be equal? This Awareness indicates the question is: Equal to what? For they are all unique and will always be unique.

(FOLLOW-UP QUESTION)

So, special talents, superior intelligence, psychic ability, things like that which manifest in one entity's lifetime, these are products of numerous past lives. Is that correct?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

Of various efforts on the part of the entity in the development of those particular qualities which may be carried over from one lifetime to another, or developed within a lifetime.

(FOLLOW-UP QUESTION):

Are these qualities also genetic, and can they be passed on to generations?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness indicates that to some degree, there is a genetic carry-over through the parents to the child of certain qualities such as intelligence and aptitude, but that the child also contributes to this by picking his or her parents from whom to be born.

Each and Every Soul is Unique

CLOSING MESSAGE:

This Awareness indicates that there are countless forces and energies acting upon each individual. Many of these energies are strong, forceful, blatant and demanding. Others are soft, gentle, subtle and weak, but have influence. That each individual is bombarded from moment to moment, day in and day out, lifetime after lifetime, with energies that are affecting the entity's soul and developing as the entity's soul evolves, and these influences help to make up the uniqueness, the differences between one soul, and another.

There are no two souls exactly alike. This Awareness indicates that each entity is likened unto its own unique creation, and each entity is divinely created with that uniqueness, and therefore, is totally precious to this Awareness, and has absolute right to be where and who it is. Each soul is its own master, and such entities realizing the uniqueness of their own soul, have every right to be pleased with themselves and their unique differences.

This Awareness suggests that once entities recognize their own unique worthiness, they also tend to appreciate the uniqueness of each other also.

Did Unicorns Ever Exist?

QUESTION:

A question from April C., in Mesa, AZ. She writes: "Does the symbol of the unicorn have some kind of significance for Wanderers? I'm a Wanderer and I have always been drawn to unicorns, and I have dreams about them also. Were there ever real unicorns on earth? Are there unicorns anywhere in the universe, in the third dimension or on other planets?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that a great deal of symbolic understanding, metaphor and poetic idealism resides within the form described as a unicorn. This Awareness suggests the strongest resonance within spirits regarding this particular so-called mythological beast is the remembrance on a spiritual or perhaps cellular level regarding the initial freedom spirits enjoyed upon the original setting about of the earthly physical experience.

This Awareness suggests that (there were) a wide variety of such forms which are no longer continued within the ecological interactions between species on earth today. This Awareness suggests that spirits enjoy a tremendous freedom, creativity and manipulation of matter in creating forms to embody and experience in ever new and creative ways the physical experience in consciousness.

Spirits can Slow Down their Energy and Inhabit Anything

This Awareness suggests that spirits could decelerate their energy essence, slowing it into either human, animal or combination forms, such as centaurs, and such: half-man, half-animal; mythological beasts that continue and endure in lore and legend, not unlike the beast, the unicorn, suggested.

This Awareness suggests that the particular attraction to the unicorn hearkens to these early experiences and this early freedom and exists as a gentle nudge and reminder of the tremendous creative physical powers to manifest and manipulate matter which exist, yet are so grossly removed from current human experience due to the self-imposed limitations and dense energy networks that constitute mass consciousness.

There is also an irreverence, unique to a unicorn in that it is perhaps the more fanciful, free and magical aspect of certain existing animal forms such as horses and other beasts of burden who have become likewise entrapped within the birth/rebirth cycle, and limited to meager existence's within the limitations and the manipulations of the human species.

A Wanderer's Spirit Continually Cries Out for More

This Awareness suggests that the entity refers to herself as a 'Wanderer' and that this particular distinction includes those souls with trace memories of the former excitement and empowerment upon creating and embodying such fanciful, imaginative and diverse forms in which to inhabit and experience life in unique and wonderful ways.

This Awareness suggests that the group distinguishing themselves as 'Wanderers' seek fulfillment in uniquely irreverent, creative and non-traditional ways, specifically since they have had so many unique experiences and that their spirit continually cries out for more. This Awareness suggests that this animal is a likely and effective symbol capturing the irreverence, the mystery, the fantasy and the freedom of these creative souls.

SHE LENDS MONEY TO RESCUE HER FRIENDS AGAIN AND AGAIN

(Deadbeat Friends: When is Enough, Enough!)

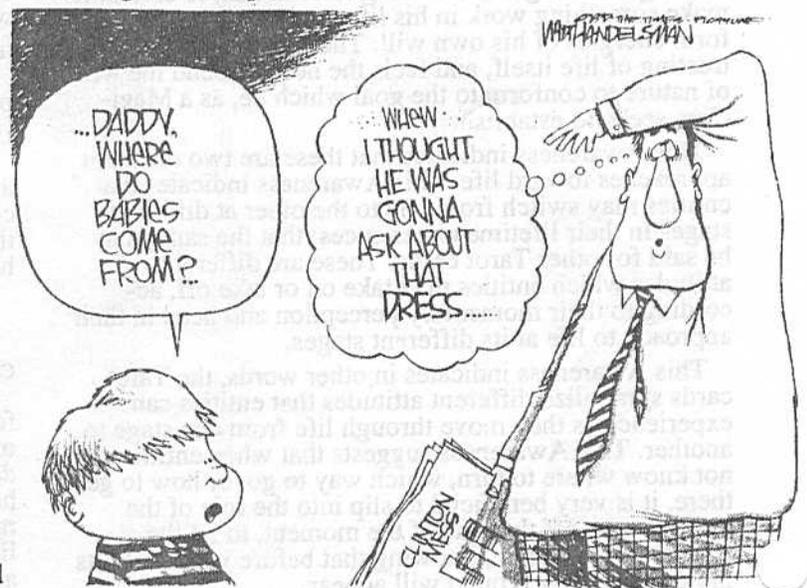

QUESTION:

A question from JD in New York. It's rather long. I'll read her statement:

"Please advise me on a chronic problem which is just tearing me up. Others can use the advice too. People I know, including "friends" from whom I almost never hear, manage to get themselves into dire financial straits and beg me to "lend" them money to rescue them,-- troubles, often of their own making.

"Although I am fortunate to have some savings, I prefer to donate it to outfits that help the truly needy feed themselves, or CAC, or other worthwhile causes. In these cases of people wanting to be rescued, they tug my heart with their pitiable circumstances: faced with eviction, sole support of minor children, sick pet needing medical attention, no money for food, a two-month delay before government assistance can be secured, and so on.

"I am heartbroken for their plights, but they need large amounts of money to probably stave off the problems for a short while only, when those sums could help many, many others far worse off in Third World countries; faceless, anonymous, distant people. But the ones here are people I have known for years, and may be, in fact, my closest familiars, yet they often seem to have brought their troubles upon themselves by callous disregard for their health, by subjecting themselves to such stressful conditions as to render themselves disabled by illness, by having never saved any of the generous income they had in the past, by pursuing an artistic career that never seems to pan out, and by trusting the false promises of others that their efforts would pay off, by being promised employment by a friend, sufficient to meet expenses barely, and then learning the premise was withdrawn, and in one case, by flatly refusing to apply for food stamps and welfare "because it would be too depressing and I just feel too humiliated."

"Then they beg me to rescue them! I am just torn apart by these entreaties. Though they may have had a run of bad luck, they were also less than realistic about supplying their own, or blindly hopeful or so plainly stubborn in their unwise choices that led to these disasters. Compassion wants me to help them, but it would undermine vastly greater compassionate giving elsewhere.

"Wisdom seems to say that these people must be left to live with the consequences of their actions or in-actions, their choices for their own spiritual education, yet, I can't bear to see these enduring the most horrific circumstances and me, supposedly their "friend." "Friends" presumably being the people you turn to when you need help.

"One of these people has been "borrowing" from me for nearly 10 years while pursuing a film career that never comes to fruition, or at least hasn't yet. "I don't know what else to do!" he wails. "Nothing else means anything to me! I can't see any meaning in working just to survive!"

"This person is about my closest intimate, and one of the most truly decent harmless beings I know. I finally stopped regular "loans" to him some months ago and told him I did not want to be his financial supporter, yet he again begged me for help because he is in dire straits and claims to have nowhere else to turn. Even Welfare pays less than half the costs of a studio apartment here!

"What does one do under such frustrating and heart-rending conditions? Sit back and let someone you care about get thrown out in the streets, or spend money that could improve the lives of thousands of families overseas? What is truly wise and kind?" she asks.

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness has several comments. First, that the entity throughout the description, succinctly, eloquently and accurately described the source of the suffering as within the control of the entities who now seek refuge from the result of these manifestations. This Awareness suggests, also, that the entity JD recognizes certain social limitations, certain conditions within mass-consciousness which one can readily point out as obstacles which stand between these entities and the outcomes desired.

This Awareness suggests that the entity JD experiences the tension and conflict between these two varying sources affecting the entities, ultimately achieving dramatic, painful, drastic situations, to which they respond by asking that she share her resources to basically "bail them out". This Awareness suggests that she realizes, also, that no matter how much compassion, generosity and resources she continues to set forth in these directions, that hers and most people's resources can never satisfy the needs with continuing situations and conditions that exist.

It would take very little time to deplete resources, placing them down dry wells, so to speak, as she understands and knows. This Awareness suggests that this is an accurate understanding, for the greatest compassion she can offer beyond minimal and temporary financial assistance, is the enlightenment that the entities require to understand the cause and effect relationship between their beliefs and the events created in their lives.

This Awareness suggests that the entity JD has been told in previous discussions at numerous times that she has a role to play in the Enlightenment which is now upon humanity. This situation she describes is an excellent opportunity for her to begin to pass along and disseminate information which she receives and share the understandings which can empower these entities to break the cycle of creating want and suffering and replace such dire conditions with those that are spiritually desirous.

This Awareness suggests that in each and every case noted, that the entities desire certain outcomes, yet steadfastly believe in their impossibility, in which she describes as 'blind hope' which is instantly dashed by even blinder fear. This Awareness suggests that entities driven to pursue creative dreams and avenues professionally, which have yet to yield substantial or even minimal rewards in an economic sense, are indeed attuned to spiritual intention, to creatively and doggedly pursue the manifestation and actualization of such dreams and visions.

However, an entity who believes, as the spirit is telling him or her, that there is no value in performing a task to make a living which is unrewarding, might also carefully examine other existing beliefs regarding opportunities and limitations that exist within the community the entity has chosen to live.

This Awareness suggests that this particular entity mentioned might, in fact, through his steadfast belief that any profession aside from that which he defines clearly and pursues so doggedly, yet meets with no success, has severely limited his options to truly experience success and expression through unexpected routes.

This Awareness suggests that if such an entity truly believes fulfillment can be achieved in living his dream of creative expression, then that entity will respond and act to any such opportunity with the firm belief that it will lead the way to the carving out of the niche or to the unexpected opportunity to find an existing occupation which can be fulfilling and in line with the overall goal and direction.

Spirit is Limited to Operate Within the Belief System

This Awareness suggests that opportunities abound which lie unnoticed within the minds of such individuals because they are so utterly convinced that each and every professional opportunity outside of a very slimly defined profession to which they cling, would be a dead-end or an insult to the spirit.

This Awareness indicates that this is a distortion in understanding, for spirit operates to bring about and create those events which are desired, but is limited to operate within the belief network, so that if the belief is not truly behind the idea that success will be attained regardless of how circuitous the path may be, then that belief is in fact a limiting one.

This Awareness suggests that the entity has grossly limited the actions he will take so that several opportunities which would have opened the doors to provide the very outlet which he seeks, have escaped him. This Awareness suggests that each and every entity who has approached another for assistance from a seemingly, or not, self-created situation, that in communicating the understanding of the connection, the 'cause and effect' relationship between belief and outcome, can be the best most productive assistance such entities can receive.

This Awareness indicates, however, that entities truly suffering in an immediate need of relief of a very temporary yet sufficient degree, that providing such relief within the context of the 'enlightenment' which is to follow, is perhaps the most appropriate combination of help, or light, to be offered to such individuals.

This Awareness suggests that such entities would be immediately resistant, defensive and further demeaned by any communications seeming to apply blame to the victim situation in which they find themselves, within a society promotes "victimization" at every turn. This Awareness suggests that due to so many limiting ideas, attitudes, assumptions and concepts within mass consciousness, that a victim mentality is perpetuated.

Personal Accountability Often not Considered In Law

This Awareness suggests, for example, that the American judicial system rests upon applying blame, finding fault, and finger-pointing, often to the tune of significant sums of money wherein external forces and people are found to be liable, responsible and at blame for situations which, on many levels, have been created by the individuals themselves, at least with psychic participation by default.

Such victimization is based in religious traditions that explain good luck or bad luck befalls humans at the whims of gods and devils, never once hinting at personal accountability.

Victimization will Become Outdated as we Become "Civilized"

This Awareness suggests that as 'civilization' becomes just that, the entire concept of victimization will become outdated in that personal responsibility, accountability and most importantly, opportunity, will become the norm. This Awareness suggests that this may sound alarming and disturbing within the existing frameworks of understanding, but that in its net effect, it will be tremendously empowering to individuals.

This Awareness suggests for the entity JD to seize this opportunity, using her reputation as a gracious and generous benefactor, by converting the distribution of resources in these particular cases, to the distribution of enlightenment, following stop-gap financial interventions as she deems appropriate.

This Awareness suggests that if these entities indeed constitute a community, a kindred friendship, then they would provide an opportunity to develop specific discussion groups and interactive friendship networks with which to share information and enlightenment and reclaim the creative power to manifest those life events that they desire, rather than to blindly hope for them, yet unconsciously, but completely keep themselves from attaining them, due to the dogged yet unexamined belief systems which they embody.

This Awareness suggests that each and every such entity who is indeed a "friend," as she states, would be far more receptive to this particular brand of generosity, and those that are not will affirm with their reactions the true level of the friendship and community desired.

If we have completion we can continue.

Spiritual Education: Isn't That the Bottom Line?

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION:

One thing about this she mentions, which I think is probably significant, and wasn't covered, where she says: "People left to live with the consequences of their action or inaction; their choices for their own spiritual education."

Now, isn't that the bottom line? There's an old saying that "You can extend your hand to a person that's down, but he's got to pull himself up" and that all of these experiences that entities have on this physical plane are part of their spiritual education, and has much to do with their soul growth: so my question is: "Isn't that true?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests that suffering has nothing to do with soul growth, and that this has been a gross distortion due to the limitations and the misunderstandings of the incredible power and capacity entities have to manifest the desired results in their life and physical existence.

This Awareness suggests that virtually every entity on the planet earth today lives with the results of their own creations, and in some way is spiritually intended to discover the meaning and the wisdom embodied in such creations. However, this Awareness suggests, as will be echoed throughout the Lessons of Enlightenment, that human beings were never intended to operate without the spiritual internal directives from which they are now separated.

This Awareness suggests that it is the Grand Challenge and community effort of each and every earth-bound entity to decipher, through the signals and hints of spirit, how life, in fact, works, so that control can be regained. This Awareness suggests that 'soul growth' is readily available when certain understandings, or more accurately, certain misunderstandings are removed and replaced with accurate concepts regarding human nature; what it is, what it isn't, and how it works.

This Awareness suggests that humans understand a great deal about their existence. They recognize that they cannot fly, that if they jump from a cliff and flap their arms, they are not likely to survive. Therefore, they do not go about attempting to fly on a normal regular basis.

This Awareness suggests that entities understand a great deal about their physiology. They know how to stay alive and how to protect themselves. This knowledge is transferred and shared between entities and no such soul 'suffering' is necessary. This Awareness suggests that parents do not feel any inclination to keep information, knowledge and education from their children to ensure that their soul development not be interrupted by too much assistance and help.

This Awareness suggests that for this same reason, understanding of the human condition and enlightenment is the only truly valid and successful offering in such situations, for it is understanding of the human condition and understanding of self and the creative capacity, and why the limitations have been placed upon the creative capacity that continue to create undesirable painful, impoverished events, such as these.

This Awareness suggests, however, that to continue to buy an entity's way out of the situation that they continue to put themselves into, is not only imprudent, but is postponing the soul development, in that this is the intuitive understanding behind the reticence of this very compassionate entity to want to continue to solve such problems with her resources.

The Cycle that Creates Suffering and Want

This Awareness indicates, again, that the Enlightenment as to the inner workings of the human system in imparting the understanding that entities create that which they concentrate upon, that which they give up emotional energy to, and yet if this power is not directed thoughtfully, rationally, and purposefully, that the emotional energy which springs from limitations, will create exactly those events recreating the limitations which are feared, in an endless cycle of suffering and want.

This Awareness suggests that it is no mistake that the creativity often works in reverse without understanding, for ultimately the human species, after seeing a replay of historical actions, mistakes, again and again and again and again, with varying explanations along the way, falling away to new and improved ideas which fall away to yet others, will ultimately bring entities to the understandings that are now offered in the Lessons of Enlightenment wherein entities direct and control their very lives with a far stronger hand than they have any idea.

This Awareness indicates indeed, whether or not the Enlightenment occurs at this time or at some later date, entities will continue to recreate those very scenarios that accurately reflect the belief systems: right or wrong, good or bad, spiritually fulfilling or spiritually frustrating, until they recognize this cause and effect relationship.

When such empowerment has been attained, then, and only then, will soul development truly occur, for humanity cannot be humanity until all human functions, faculties and abilities are known, exploited and utilized for the spiritual development and expression and continuing expansion of All That Is.

If we have completion we can continue.

FEEDBACK FROM A LONGTIME CAC MEMBER ABOUT THE NEW DIRECTION

(A Realization that a single belief system is not the way)

QUESTION:

I received a long E-mail letter from Gordon Scott up in Canada, which I would like to read to Awareness and ask It to comment. In the past, this entity has sent in many perceptive questions, and he covers quite a bit here, and it probably is worth publishing to the membership, particularly with Awareness' response.

He writes: "Dear CAC friends. Hello Avaton! Since you are the editor of CAC and decide what is published, etc., I thought I should direct my comments to you. I've been with CAC a number of years now, and now that CAC is moving in new directions, I thought I would maybe send in some comments, some suggestions and perhaps some positive constructive criticism.

"For the last 2 years or so, on a personal level, I have slowly been re-evaluating where I've been spending my time, the information I've been reading, and my way of reacting to that information. I originally started out just being involved in spiritual exercises, TM, and other such stuff to grow. Then, at CAC I became more involved in the other information, I did less of the 'spiritual' stuff and got involved in studying various sources, writing letters and so forth, and now recently have begun to question the value of that, and I'm trying to get back more into personal inner growth.

"You said in your comments recently that 'you didn't know what to believe in any more.' That kind of hit the nail on the head for me! It is not that I felt like giving up on trying to find the truth. Rather, it hit me that I had forgotten the CAC motto to 'Not Believe anything, but to question, explore, doubt and discover for yourself what is the truth.'

"I had been trying to find a single belief system which would encompass my own experience, the daily news, the conspiracy stuff, and so forth and so on. I no longer am searching for a belief system, one I can 'inform others about,' but just read what I am interested in, try to make more time for meditation and health issues.

"CAC, I see, is also somewhat struggling for a new mode, judging by the last few issues, so let me add my voice as to praise, criticism and suggestions. First of all, a very warm welcome to Grace, and we all wish her success and fulfillment. To Paul I say, 'Thank you for a job well done,' and wish him the best in his new ventures and hope he takes care of his health and that we will still hear from him from time to time.

"CAC is moving away from the conspiracy stuff to positive issues. I find the change especially interesting, as the change has also stimulated in me a complete re-evaluation of how I perceive CAC as well. The readings where Grace discussed the Oklahoma bombing I found at first very disturbing, but after looking at it from various points of view, found it afterwards to have been a great blessing.

"You don't realize what rigid belief systems you may have had for years until you finally begin to question them! What really struck me about the reading is how totally different it was from what Paul's channel would have said. I think we can safely predict that if the same question was asked of Paul, the reading would have discussed issues such as the cover-up, the importance of informing others, police powers and so on, whereas Grace's reading focused almost exclusively on the emotional aspect of it; that Tim McVeigh would never have gotten involved in this if he was really in touch with his emotions.

"I thought about these differences for some time, and got a lot out of that particular reading. First, a big thank you to Grace, because it finally nailed an issue for me that was nagging me for some time: whether or not I was making best use of my time by writing letters to the editor, to politicians and so on.

"Her answer was 'Pay attention to your emotional system.' If, when I really felt like doing it, then I should, Don't do it because it is 'right,' not because somebody has to do it, and so on. And that meant, if the feeling was clear and real, it would persist, and hence, now I just let a 'writing impulse' sit for a few days, and if it is real, it will be real 3 days from now.

"The next issue that came up I found very interesting. What does it mean that Paul and Grace should provide such a different approach to such a question? Isn't it the same Cosmic Awareness that they both contact and channel? Doesn't the Interpreter report from time to time that the channel is '85%' accurate?

"What do they actually contact? Some Universal Being? Or just their own subconscious? Or something in between? Frankly, I really don't know. To say I do know would only be an assumption. After much soul searching, I came to realize something I knew, but had forgotten for many years, and that is this: All CAC is, is a little New Age newspaper that publishes readings by a psychic, a psychic which uses a certain independent observational lingo like 'This Awareness suggests' and that from time to time would self-report, when asked about accuracy, that 'This channels appears to be 85% accurate.'

"Never once has any independent test been conducted to verify the accuracy. CAC is not like Farsight Institute which did public trials, nor is it like Edgar Cayce, who was well documented in his diagnoses and healings, who, I might add, was actually unconscious during the readings.

"To sum up, as a personal belief system, I had begun to assume that the information was reasonably accurate because it was from a 'Source of Higher Consciousness' which transcended the Interpreter. In reality, all I really know is that it is an interesting newspaper that I have really enjoyed reading all these years.

"Now that Grace is doing the readings, a whole new outlook is coming out, and this is how I perceive it: They both do a conscious form of trance reading. The polarity difference in their readings must have something to do with their personal value systems. Paul provides readings based upon a masculine perceptive; that it tends to be more intellectually oriented; in other words, details, information, something we admired, especially in his younger days; the amount of actual details he produced.

"Grace, on the other hand, provides readings from a more female perspective: the emotions. Thus, the emphasis on a personal relationship to the information, the emphasis on being in touch with one's true emotions. These perspectives are not in conflict with one another. Just a different way of looking at life.

"Go to a party and just observe men and women! Men talk about cars, computers, power plays at the office, or engage in some form of action; computer games, and so on. They talk to share information. Women talk about their friends, their husbands, their soap programs, their family, gossip about co-workers at the office and so forth. In other words, they focus more on people and emotions more than men do.

"It's the old book Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus. This is not a judgment, only an observation. We are born different. Set up a toy room and let children play. The girls play with dolls, the boys play with the toy trucks.

"Since the many years CAC has had a polarization toward a "masculine" perspective, outward-looking toward the world of information, it is appropriate to now focus more towards developing an awareness and sensitivity toward the inside, which includes, but is not limited to the human emotions.

"But, I think that we should not focus only in that direction. CAC is about developing Awareness. Awareness can flow in two directions. It can flow from the source, through the individual ego, emotions, mind and senses, out into the world, and perceive All That There Is, all that It has created. It can also flow back to examine Itself, to observe the human mind, the emotions, back to even observe the very source of Itself.

"Maharishi of TM, describes this direction as going from a perception of "thinking/feeling/my-ness/awareness/is-ness." To really know the world around you, you need to become aware of more than just your own block. To really know yourself you must become aware of that part of you which is much, much more deeper than just human emotion.

"You have to become aware of that part of you which transcends all individuality and is pure consciousness. It is an experience which transcends all duality, where the body, mind, and emotions do not even exist. A truly developed Awareness should be able to flow equally well in either direction; flowing in or out at will.

"In that sense, CAC should still provide its membership with information about the world as well as inner personal development. As a possible format for CAC, I would suggest that Grace do what she does well: provide us with discussions which lead to inner development; and that the editor continue to do what he does well: keep us informed from time to time about new health information and world-events, and that CAC also publish from time to time, a psychic with a different perspective; perhaps the Jim Jacomini mentioned in the recent issue.

"And, from time to time, publish an answer to the same question by both psychics. The readings will no doubt have differences and similarities. This will serve to remind us that it is not Cosmic Awareness that is speaking directly. It is in fact an Interpreter speaking, and we must remember not to become complacent.

"By publishing differing points of view from time to time, this will help to keep the membership mentally healthy, to remind us that not even CAC has the absolute truth on everything and that we should "not believe anything, but to question, explore, doubt, and discover for yourself through your own channel, what is the truth."

"CAC, from time to time, may present us with valid information, but the real value is when it encourages us to think for oneself. Just as an aside, I put the Photon Belt to the test of this. "Check it out for yourself and see what you can find." I decided to track down all the info I could find on the so-called Photon Belt. I checked the Internet with every major search engine, and found a fair amount of material, but it was all channeled information!

"Not one single tiny bit of physical evidence from any observatory appears to exist. The "picture" on Sheldon Nidle's world-wide-Website has no references and it is very easily shown to be just "an artist's rendition" and not an actual photograph. A ring appears as a circle only when you photograph it at 90 degree's. When photographed looking at the edge, as if the earth were just about to enter, it would appear as a line.

"In other words, look at a coin at 90 degree's and then at its side. It photographs as a circle only when you are far away from it, and at 90 degree's to the plane of the radius. The so-called "Photon Belt" is not a third-dimensional object, if it exists. Either it is 4th dimensional or it is like Saint Twinkle: it exists if enough of humanity believes in it.

"Anyway, back to my main point about publishing other sources. I remember years ago when you used to publish the "Letters From Bill." I really enjoyed that period in the CAC newsletter. Hopefully, you might be able to find a similar format when we could have more than just one perspective again.

"Anyway, thanks for all the time you guys put into the newsletter for us, the members. Hopefully, my suggestions have been worthy of your time. Regards, Gordon Scott."

Does Awareness have any comments for Gordon?

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness suggests several comments, and suggests that perhaps in the future, such a lengthy passage might be parceled into units such that this Awareness can respond with insights as they are received, rather than the Interpreter attempting to hang on to them such that it distracts from the continuing verbiage of the question.

This Awareness suggests, however, three major comments. First, that this entity Gordon is to be congratulated heartily for the insights, the self-examination and conclusions which he has gleaned with a relatively limited amount of information distributed through the entity Grace in that an unusual amount of self-understanding has already been attained on many levels.

Second, that his discussions and conclusions regarding and contrasting the former Interpreter with the current Interpreter, in that there is wisdom and accuracy in many of his statements and conclusions. This Awareness suggests, however, that rather than contrasting the potential planetary origin of males versus females, that perhaps an alternate explanation is more valid, regarding the differences in focus between the entity Grace and the entity Paul Shockley.

Most Individuals Are Attuned to Cosmic Awareness

This Awareness suggests, as has been previously indicated, that the source of this Awareness is available to each and every entity who should so choose to partake of Its wisdom and, in fact, most individuals are attuned and do partake; however, they regard the experience as one of 'insight,' 'creativity,' 'imagination,' or simple thought processes which lie unexplained.

This Awareness suggests that given the relative progress and evolution of the human species, that this particular capacity lies mostly dormant within entities and that specific entities have set about their incarnation's with the express Destiny Path of bringing enlightenment, which can re-connect entities with such abilities and make significant alterations to the evolutionary course upon which humans now find themselves.

This Awareness suggests that the entities involved in the organization Cosmic Awareness Communications have attracted, through their energies, their intentions, in keeping with the Destiny path, the entities who serve as channelers for this agency, and that each contribution has been significant, timely, and necessary in specific sequence, so that specific empowerment and enlightenment can now become the focus.

Awareness Compares the Focus of Grace and Previous Channels

This Awareness suggests that in the comparison of the two focus's and sources, the most accurate description would be that the focus toward ultimate enlightenment was initially upon providing information specifically addressed to information within the boundaries of mass-consciousness, such as information regarding specific conspiracies scenarios, activities of individuals, governments, et cetera information; accepted belief systems regarding nutrition, health and activities in that this information could provide entities useful tools to work within the existing mass-consciousness, to achieve certain understandings which would prepare them for the step outside of mass-consciousness, wherein they could look down upon it with the clarity and empowerment inaccessible within its confines.

This Awareness suggests that the entity Paul Shockley was prepared for his destiny in that certain life events, certain physical afflictions, certain experiences allowed for the development of his mental landscape to accommodate the energy of this Awareness as specific to insights within the workings of mass consciousness, yet from a broader level of understanding than any given entity would normally have access to.

Grace not a Limited Source but a "Liberated" Source

This Awareness suggests that the significant difference now, through the Interpreter Grace, is that her life experiences have reflected the same sort of preparation in keeping with her Destiny Path regarding the mental framework's, belief systems and perspectives through which she perceives the energy of this Awareness, but that rather than the assumption that this is a limited source, this Awareness suggests that this is a 'liberated' source, in that It allows entities to step beyond the illusions of mass-consciousness and to step directly into the Light and empowerment of understanding their very creative role and the power that they possess which can reclaim certain victimizations, manipulations, and all of those foreboding outcomes and scenarios which had been previously predicted and focused upon. This shift "to the positive" is to show how entities direct and create their life events, not just react in fear and anger to some unexplainable, sinister or uncontrollable forces.

Gordon has Experienced the Reality Shakeup Intended

This indicates that the entity Gordon has experienced exactly the reality shakeup intended by the change in focus and direction. He has realized that his very reality is based upon his perceptions, beliefs and focus of energy. He has examined former "truths" from alternate perspectives and discovered each to be questionable, if not impeachable. This reality shakeup is precisely the first step in restoring individual creative power. For when entities have the realization, likened unto hitting the nail upon the head in which they no longer know what to believe, they have created that openness and receptivity to the wisdom of spirit. They then realize that mind will allow any belief, and that they are lost in mental confusion without some sort of guidance.

This Awareness indicates this understanding opens an essential doorway to higher consciousness. For this is the moment that entities will comprehend the concept of spiritual intention. Without it, they are less to wander aimlessly within beliefs of mass consciousness.

This Awareness indicates that it is universal intention that the beliefs are directed by the spirit and that those judged as workable and appropriate by spirit are the only beliefs suitable to contain within mind. Once this initial understanding is in place, then entities can begin rebuilding the beliefs of mind, dismantling those that frustrate spirit and constructing those that allow its expression. The only way to decipher "good" and "bad" beliefs is through the language of human feeling, pleasure and pain.

The Language of the Spirit Is Human Emotion

This Awareness indicates that the discussion of the transcendent goal of unifying all consciousness and transcending mind, body and emotion, as an ultimate goal is accurate to the point where the statement is made that "knowing oneself is much deeper than human emotion". For such unity is impossible without first understanding the language of spirit, which is human emotion. Knowing one's self is the task of emotion. The influx of consciousness "flowing in and out at will" is exactly the information provided by the feeling feedback of spirit.

This Awareness offers hearty encouragement to the entity Gordon in sharing his impressions and thoughts and encourages his future reflections and questions. This Awareness suggests that he will specifically benefit and resonate to the Lessons of Enlightenment, and through this process which has already begun within him, he will see the necessary difference in levels of abstraction between information springing from within mass-consciousness to that which transcends the boundaries of mass-consciousness and identifies them as the illusions that they are.

This Awareness suggests, however, that this tremendous opportunity and spiritually liberating experience which is now upon those embarking upon the serious study of the Lessons of Enlightenment, can be accompanied by any and every such source of information that the organization deems appropriate in response to any and every inquiry and request by the membership.

This Awareness suggests that any and every inclination of the editor to provide alternate, complimentary, oppositional, however they may be perceived, perspectives and sources of information, that the contents of the newsletter is of no specific interest to this Awareness above and beyond the central impetus revolving around the necessary empowerment and enlightenment which is now at hand.

This Awareness suggests that the entity who describes the shift of focus onto emotions and describes the influx and outflow of consciousness has yet to completely embrace and resonate to the fact that emotion is the language of spirit and the creative energy through which entities can reclaim the power to design with complete free will, the events the spirit desires.

The Masculine/Feminine Approach is an Oversimplification

This Awareness suggests the discussion regarding masculine and feminine approaches to interpretation of this Awareness is an oversimplification. The interpreter Grace's perception of human workings rather than human doings, is a unity of both yin-yang energies, a compatibility of ratiō and emotion, and could be more accurately described as an androgynous approach or channel to this Awareness. The message of human creative power and reconnection to spiritual intention is the single-most essential step toward evolution of consciousness.

This message is in no way limited to some touchy-feely "Cosmic Marshmallow" philosophy wherein the feelings are simply something to be attended, while keeping all the restrictions, conflicting beliefs and assumptions which prevent the spiritual communication from completing its circuit.

This Awareness suggests that the entity might assume that this new direction is simply reiteration of a trend which passed quickly several decades ago, wherein a shift in consciousness was not completed, yet did make its mark with a popular bumper-sticker, stating: "Feel, Don't Think!"

This Awareness suggests the entity can be assured that this is not a choice between male and female, between feelings and thought, between passion and intelligence. Indeed, for the first time, a complete understanding is offered which unifies human passion and ratiō into a cohesive whole through which the mind can interpret and carry out spiritual intention and humans can begin their evolution.

Why the Need to Focus Upon Emotions at this Time

This Awareness suggests one further comment to Gordon. This Awareness suggests that the focus upon emotion at this time is the necessary rudimentary step which will provide basic understandings which the lack of has allowed an outgrowth of debilitating beliefs and limitations which now need removal.

This Awareness suggests that they will continue until this essential process in human capacity is understood, and with this understanding, the door to ever-evolving consciousness can be opened. Without this essential first-step, humanity will remain mired within the confusion and limitation of mass-consciousness, instead of experiencing the spiritual liberation that they rightfully deserve.

If we have completion we can continue.

WHAT EXACTLY IS IT THAT VIBRATES WITHIN THE ATOM?)

(The Relationship Between Sound and Matter)

QUESTION:

A question from Bruce Taylor. It's an E-Mail, with no address. He writes: "John Keeley developed machines for various purposes that were activated by sound. Keeley described many processes: chemical interaction, for example, in terms of harmonic relationships. He indicated that intervals of music, e.g., perfect thirds, fifths etc., describe the structure of matter.

"Before the structure of the atom was known, i.e., neutrons, protons and electrons, he formulated a model of an atom. In fact, his model looked a lot like what, in Quantum mechanics, are called "quarks." Generally, Quantum Mechanics indicates that what we thought we knew about atoms for all these years, is wrong, which incidentally is pretty funny if you happen to have been a reactor operator for a couple of decades.

"Atoms are now thought to be not particles at all, but holographic nodes caused by the interaction of different frequencies. Apparently, it does not occur to anyone to wonder "Just what is it that is vibrating?" There are books from India and Tibet which describe moving large objects by using sound.

Would Awareness care to comment on the relationship between sound and matter? Why would a combination of tones cause matter to form, dissolve or move?"

COSMIC AWARENESS:

This Awareness acknowledges that entities in the physical science of quantum mechanics are also experiencing the "reality shakeup," although they may not yet be aware of it. For their evidence leads them to very multiple or "unrealistic" conclusions.

However, this Awareness suggests that there is a tremendous amount of technological potential within the harnessing of the energy and the secrets of sound. This Awareness suggests that certain past civilizations have experienced more technological progress along these lines, yet that most, perhaps even all of this knowledge and wisdom has been lost.

This Awareness suggests that when the entity asks "What is it that is vibrating?" the it he describes is the energy of Universal Spirit which permeates everything within All That Is. This Awareness suggests that humans experience spiritual resonance to tones and various rhythms and sounds in that the spirit insists, through this curiosity and pleasurable seduction and positive effect upon the physical and emotional aspects of humanity, that eventually it will become an area of technological pursuit.

This Awareness suggests that humans respond involuntarily in emotional reactions to various compositions, harmonies, melodies, and this is why music has existed since the dawn of humanity. This Awareness suggests that much of the working mechanism upon the physical and emotional consciousness of humans remains a mystery, but that the rhythms and the vibrations intermingle with the rhythms and the vibrations, the consciousness of the entity, in ways that can create certain alterations and do create certain alterations, be they subconscious and less directed, in much the same way that human Will Energy manifests events inadvertently.

This Awareness suggests that a tremendous amount of energy can be harnessed through the manipulation of sound, and that much more clarity and conscious understanding regarding such potential will only be available once entities become successful at removing existing belief limitations, so that they can become receptive to possibilities, creative insights and artistic impulses which will eventually lead to such discoveries.

If we have completion, we can continue.
