

Instructions for the Passing Over

A guide manual for the living and the dead.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR 'PASSING OVER'

It is the function of those who are aware, on this plane, to assist others in the passing over. Instructions are as follows:

No entity should be alone, if this is at all possible, at the moment of passing over. For eight hours after the passing over, in some cases seven to ten hours, there is that sentient*appreciation, there is that awareness, there is that identity yet with the material body. Information may yet be received. The body during this time should suffer no outrage, mutilation or disgrace of any nature, but entities, on this plane, should give information to those who are passing over and this information should come from that inner awareness which considers the following:-

It must be remembered that death does not have that black edge that appears on paper indicating requiems. It must be indicated that those candles that are aflame and priests chanting those incantations of last rites, are not the WILL of This Awareness.

It is indicated that hearses that are draped with black, that mourning, those tears, that all those sad things that surround the passing over are but that movement of the mind that is in error.

It is indicated that long processions to particular places where entities are placed with some ritual into those graves, those hidden places, those crypts, that this information which entities have received concerning the passing over which is in error.

Death is not that time of sadness and fear that entities have been led to believe. The passing over is that possibility which entities have on this plane of receiving that fuller experience that can come to entities after the passing over.

For those who are dedicated to greater development and awareness this becomes a sacred duty of these individuals on this plane to assist those who need assistance at the time of the passing over.

Phase 1: :::

It is suggested that entities on this plane do attend near that form, that residue, and that certain things be repeated, and that these various repetitions do indicate that entities who have passed over are those entities that are loved. That the love which entities experience on this plane is in a part that which is received from other entities, but that love which is that experience beyond that which entities experience in relation one to another, has been with entities during their existence on this plane and this love does not leave them after the passing over.

* sentient:- feeling, emotionable, perceptive, subceptive, alive to impressions, easily affected, aesthetic, aware.

There is nothing on the physical plane, on the plane of limbo, or on the plane of Essence that separates them from the love of This Awareness except THEMSELVES.

It is indicated that they pass over to the experience wherein there is great light and great love. It is suggested that this be made clear, that entities understand that they move toward greater love.

Phase II. ::

It is suggested that entities on this plane then do confide, with those who are passing over, that information be given them concerning that which This Awareness has referred to; that on the threshold there are earth bound entities, there are incarnates, there are those who do beckon from the plane of limbo. There are sounds, there is darkness. There are great shapes and there are colors. There are great shapes which are surrounded with auras which are gray. There are auras which surround entities that are near those who are passing over wherein there are emanations of great darkness, browns, blacks, and grays. At this time very little can be seen. Much can be heard. There are changes in temperature. The love of This Awareness is with entities (call the one passed over by name) as they move from this darkness toward light. What is felt is not pain. What is experienced is not fatigue. Fears and apprehensions are those that entities must understand. Fear is on the threshold of new knowledge. It is indicated that after this information is given, that again those who are passing over should be contacted.

Phase III. ::

(call the passing entity by name) At this time comes that longing that great wish to retrace their steps. The mind is now far from what is considered home but in truth the mind does move closer to its home. Entities must now be made to understand, at this stage of the passing, over that this great longing does occasion within them that sense wherein there is a wish to return to earth, to return to those who have been loved. At this time, entities do need assistance. Those on this plane, who are aware, should caution them as to rebirth. At this time, many entities do forsake that path which they have taken and turn back once again toward this physical plane and do indeed search out those entities, on this plane, who are copulating and do attempt to again enter the womb. There is an identification with male or female. There is an attempt to again enter the womb.

It is suggested that entities, who are aware, do caution those passing over (call them by name) in reference to rebirth, that they be advised not to again turn backward. It is suggested that those who are passing over be told that there awaits them that great life, that movement toward things unknown wherein they may understand those things which have yet been a mystery, wherein they find peace and wherein they find perfect love. It is indicated that, at this time, entities may well understand those things not knowable. It is indicated that, at this time, entities do find that fuller experience, that all knowing, that memory of all that has passed and all that shall be. It is indicated that there is that opportunity to indeed experience that Valhalla, that Heaven, that Paradise, and all those symbolic references that entities do not yet half-believe.

Phase IV. ::

It is indicated that the fourth step that should be given to entities who are passing over is as follows:-

Once entities have advised those who are passing over as to that information alleviating them from fears of actual passing, when that information is given wherein entities are told who are passing over as to those great joys and that awakening which is ahead, and that information given wherein entities are advised and counseled as not to seek rebirth, that then indeed that entities on this plane must meditate. In their meditative effort that they envision that the soul-substance of these entities then does move toward the plane of Essence and away from the plane of Limbo. Through this strong meditative effort, there can be affected, for those who are passing over, that experience wherein they may avoid those eternities some entities do experience on the plane of Limbo.

Phase V. ::

(call the entity passed over by name) In the event that it becomes necessary for rebirth, that entities do indeed have their choice of that place of birth, on this plane. That no one on the plane of Limbo, that no one on the plane of Essence, and no entities on the physical plane, can, in any way, change that free will that entities yet have in reference to the country of their rebirth. Entities should be carefully warned that, in reference to that land wherein they are to be born, this should be one of high spiritual advancement. Suggested that as they are borne on those wings, those great feathers, as they move and pass those strange landscapes, as they move over those mountains, that as they seek rebirth that they do choose the country of their rebirth and that this should be one of high spiritual advancement.

Phase VI. ::

It is suggested that entities do still exert the active principle of the mind wherein there is free will and that entities may choose their own parents. They do have this opportunity to move toward those whom they feel no repugnance, toward those for whom they feel attraction, toward those entities that they wish to choose as parents, that they have this right. No entity in the plane of Limbo, on the plane of Essence, none on the physical plane, can affect any change in their minds, in reference to the active principle or their own free will.

It is indicated that after and during the passing over that the mind power and ability, of the entity, to understand in nine times greater than when that entity was on this physical plane.

This concludes the instructions for those passing over. Information that may be added to this and will be of great value is that which you may receive through the Interpreter during future Interpretations.

It is indicated that entities do communicate with those who are passing over in reference to the foregoing steps and that they do read and give information as indicated by this Awareness. You should change the wording to suit the past intellectual associations of the individual. This information should be given within the first two hours after the passing over. This same information should then be repeated four hours after the passing over and again there must be affected this kind of communication eight hours after the passing over.

When this information has been given in the manner suggested by Awareness, entities then may consider that they have done what was necessary to assist those who are passing over.

Entities who do indeed perform this kind of service for those who have passed over will find that their own passing over is that of greater ease and therein reward for this service which they have given.

NOTE:-

There should be no maltreatment of the physical body for at least seven, eight or ten hours after passing over; that what then happens to that residual and to that material form that remains is of no consequence either to that entity or to This Awareness.

Entities that return to the womb for a brief time and then leaves before rebirth or are stillborn goes directly to the plane of Essence and will not return.

It is the sacred duty of those who have this knowledge and are aware to assist those who need assistance at the time of passing.
