D.B. Sweeney stars as Travis Walton in "Fire In The Sky." The film is based on the true story of Travis Walton, whose abduction by a UFO is one of the best documented claims of an alien encounter on record. The Paramount film was directed by Robert Lieberman, produced by Joe Wizan and Todd Black, executive produced by Wolfgang Piltner, and co-produced by Tracy Torme, Robert Strauss and Nilo Rodis-Jamero, from a screenplay by Tracy Torme.

Dear Aileen:

Dear Aileen:

Thanks for the copies of the Missing Link.

They are selling well at the store.

February was a slow month but the last 3 days were just great. It should start to pick up during the Easter of Spring break and continue upward after that. I am also selling the "Messengers of Destiny" video and it is an excellent tape. I just placed my fourth order from Britt. She said that Lee (Elders) was working on another tape because of now there are over 700 video been taken of UFOs in Mexico. It is on the Mexican news every night. It is a shame that the news media here is not picking up on it.

I will be going to the special screening of "Fire in the Sky" in Orlando and will be getting free tickets from Paramount Studios to pass out. I hope the movie is a hit and makes a lot of money. It will encourage them to do more on this subject. There are thousands of stories that would make excellent scrips for the big screen. I would like to see the Meier story put to a movie. If done right it would wake a lot of people up.

Love and Light, Jim Greenen, International UFO Center, Orlando, Florida.

Dear Aileen:

Here I'm enclosing an article written by me about MARCAHUASI, a mystical power place in Peru that might be related to the Sphinx, Stonehenge and the Sidonia area in Mars. Man, many sightings have taken place there and Mission Rama members have astrally projected (consciously and as a group) into a fourth dimensional cave where they were shown some archives on golden plates concerning part of the lost history of the world.

It should be important for American researchers to find out that Marcahuasi exists, because of the possibility of being a major stone-based ceremonial and energy center of a by-gone Atlantean and/or Lemurian era. I'm also sending this to J. J. Hurtak.

If records have been left in the stone and real colossal statues have been carved, 1) the technique used to create these forms would be unknown, or 2) the effect of weathering has eroded and disfigured the forms sufficiently to leave us with a choice whether to believe these are natural formations or not.

Sent in by a subscriber in Florida.

Also from the same subscriber comes the following information:

There are important temples of "those of the white robes" as well as extra-terrestrial bases in the Andean Region. In Lake Titicaca exists both an extraterrestrial base and a sacred temple. The "Temple of the Lake" utilizes a solar disk to redirect Solar Energy into the world as it is needed. It is also a depository of important records.

Another important base belonging to the Confederation is found north of a mountain called Illimani, in Bolivia. Many pre-arranged sightings, energy transfers and Xendras have taken place there. Also, near La Paz in a magnetically charged mining area different forms of contact have taken place. Another place in Bolivia for this type of encounter is near a mountain called Huayna Potosi.

The Bolivian ruins of Kalasaya are - according to information received during a conscious astral projection experience - the remains of an external temple that reflected activities of the inner retreats. Here, another attempt to maintain an active utilization of knowledge took place.

East-South-East of Cuzco, in the Department of Madre de Dios, near a world famous ecological preserve called Manu National Park, there is a very special temple of the White Brotherhood. No one, except those of the purest heart and intentions can physically reach it if they have been invited. The name of this place - which is told about in legends - is Paititi. In this sacred temple (which is guarded mostly by Venusians that inhabit the nearby Blue Base of Upper Paititi), another Solar Disc is kept. Perhaps a powerful Lemurian crystal is also kept as well as seven important archives of instruction. Hundreds live here.

A human link of balanced, mature and loving persons is desired in order to represent humanity as a bridge between the Cosmic and Earth-based white brotherhoods. The delivery of important records that contain the history of humanity as a cosmic species as well as forgotten scientific and universal principles is expected. Many may be those who receive fragments of these records. This information will help to establish the foundations of the new humanity and to avoid the errors that led to the downfall of the previous ones.

Man is expected to become a Beacon of Light in the Universe, surpassing many civilizations that now are more advanced both spiritually and scientifically in order to eventually show them the way to reach to higher dimensions of Consciousness.

Symbols are expected to be sent to Earth. Those of a pure heart of Universal Awareness, in touch with their Christ Self; those who have proven to be messengers of selfless service to evolution; those who are initiates at the service of the Profound Love of the Cosmic Consciousness will be able to decipher the symbols, specially those that will be codified in a Universal Language of the Light which can be understood ONLY by those of the Light.

Much interference took place when many cosmic civilizations were influenced by the Luciferian Rebellion. Some of these civilizations in our galaxy originated in Orion and one of the important Orion leaders was called Satan. Nevertheless a group of Orions, faithful to the established cosmic principles as transmitted from the Mental Universe by the Cosmic Christ, Emmanuel, settled - escaping from a civil war - on the satellite of Jupiter known as Ganymede about 15,000 years ago. They call their artificially sustained colony of colonies "Morien". There exist three or four cities such as Crystal City and Brotherhood City where beings from many different worlds of the Confederation live together in harmony. The leaders of this world are 12 wise individuals called the 12 Minon.

Also, there are council meetings of the 24 Elders of the Galaxy in this world. The main group from Orion in Morlen is a beautiful race of bronze-copper skinned humans (like sun drenched American Indians), who are very athletic and have eliminated their excretory digestive organs and live in a Fifth Dimensional State of Consciousness. Their molecular vibrations and electromagnetic emanations are faster than ours on Earth and all of them possess complete psychic abilities. Mr. Sixto Paz Wells and Mr. Luis Fernando Mostajo Maertens were transported to Morien by means of artificially generated dimensional time/space portals called Xendras in order to assimilate a way of life that humanity must learn. They were taken there to learn life principles and to corroborate the existence of certain record plates in which the history of all life forms of our local Universe of nine galaxies (ruled by the Council of Nine in the Andromeda Galaxy) is contained. Our brothers from Morlen do not consider themselves superior, just older. They were once in a stage of evolution similar to the one we are now.

In order to prepare for contact at these levels (which may include going into a spacecraft physically) daily prayer, meditation, a vegetarian diet (lacto-ovo is alright), yoga, Tai-Chi or other form of psycho-physical exercise, reception of cidial energy from our Sun and Manasic energy from the Central Sun of our Galaxy, and, above all, contacting the Inner Retreat of the Holy of Holies in our Heart is recommended. Also, vitalizing of our etheric bodies through simple pranic exercises and going outside from the cities is recommended. Becoming a channel for healing energies is another way to be prepared and in all Mission Rama reunions, circle healings for Mother Earth as well as for specific persons were performed. Here, extraterrestrial guides may send energies that are re-transmitted by those of the group. Silent meditation, mantraring the repetition of our cosmic names and calling upon the Great White Brotherhood utilizing The Great Invocation was also practiced together with a continuous watchfulness of our words, thoughts and actions to try to maintain a balanced, positive and loving state of mind. Initiations such as the incorporation of semi-materialized cesium pyramid crystals in order to form another chakra near the heart plexus were also undergone. Final molecular acceleration was accomplished by entering the Xendras or by being irradiated before going into a physical spacecraft.

I believe that many had the opportunity of entering different degrees of Xendras, and of these, some were transported to another point in space-time. I also believe that extremely few went into a physical spacecraft. Perhaps, only Sixto Paz and Luis Fernando Mostajo were given the opportunity of encountering the guides physically inside a spacecraft.

What was learned within Mission Rama must be shared with English-speaking light workers because both North and South America have work in common to do to establish energy and informational networks. Cities of light will be eventually established in both continents and new energy grids have to be established. The Condor must unite with the Eagle, so to speak. The concept of "our group" has grown to include all humanity within Mission Rama, specially since 1990. It is said that the Masters do not sponsor any specific group.

There are underwater and land bases where Rama groups used to go for contact and spiritual excursions. They are found in many countries. In Peru, other than the ones I stated before, I know of one called Aquos which is a few miles off the northern coast, near the city of Trujillo. I also know of another one that starts roughly 37 miles south of Lima and extend underwater and underland both near the beaches and inland. This base is managed by different extraterrestrial groups and was extremely active in the 70's giving flying demonstrations to those that went to this area for the purpose of watching UFOs. The main town associated with this base is called Chilca and it was here that the first confirmation sighting took place. Curiously, next to Chilca, there's a little town called Las Salinas where there are medicinal springs and caves that face the ocean. Also, the area was one of the very first to be cultivated in the Americas, thousands of years ago and there are some more recent ruins on top of some hills. Specifically, there are the ruins of a step pyramid on a hill next to the springs. Unfortunately, motorcyclists like to climb it and it has been enormously eroded over the last decade. I believe that the underwater section of this base was evacuated in 1974.

"Aqualum" is the name given to another underwater base at 35 degrees to the Northwest of the coastal town of Chancay, in Peru. It is completely peopled by Venusians.

In the northern jungle a man built a pyramid following guidance and a friend of mine visited him after hearing reports of many sightings of UFOs in the area. He was told that there was a base nearby and where it was to be found. When he ventured walking towards the expected base, there came a point when he started to feel dizzy and to sense that the environment was changing. Probably this meant that he encountered a space-time distortion of some sort. He didn't continue to find out.

Mission Rama members visited an Andean base called Rumi Suyu, located in the Department of Huanuco. The trip took place in 1975, which was a special year for contacts. The base was used by the Apunian people (highly evolved extra-terrestrials from Apu, located in Alpha Centauri), but now is used by the Venusians.

The planets associated with the Confederation related to Mission Rama are many. Some of them are: Alopea, Amion, New Antares (10th planet of the 5th star in the Constellation of the Crab, their ships are like a series of disks united by a common shaft), Ozema (a planet on the 6th star system of the Constellation of Aquarius), Apu (a huge planet in the system of Alpha Centauri whose guides are deeply involved with Mission Rama), Cali (in Andromeda), Celbion, Centella (found in the area of the Constellation of the Ursa Major; it directs the cultural development of many planets in the Confederation), Cerpican (in the Constellation Canis Majoris; a beautiful planet with spacious cities and huge learning centers), Eupujo, Fela, Morana, Rugu (another planet in Alpha Centauri), Siron, Venus (possesses semi-subterranean cities, the main one being Ormac; Venusians have recently entered into the Fourth Dimension), Xilox (possesses great cultural and spiritual advancement), Xoxa (possesses a university of mental doctors and guides and is located in the Constellation of Andromeda).

In the Confederation there are 32 planets that are waiting for planet Earth (Merla) to join in an alliance with them after the transition into Fourth Dimensional Consciousness. Morlen, being a colony of colonies, will not be included in this arrangement.

Some Orions were assigned - together with beings from the Constellation of Tauro (Pleiadeans) - the preparation of the last stage of the awakening process of humans upon Earth. They followed the directives of the 24 Elders in order to do this, but due to Luciferian influence these groups of Orions failed to do their part as assigned. The Orions in Morlen were in some way also related to this failure and their present efforts to help our planet are also helping them karmically. As part of their redemptive experience, they are also preparing instructors for the new humanity.

Awakening individuals prepared by these guides that work with the Great White Brotherhood are usually instructed in three stages:

1. They are taught consciously or unconsciously in "dreams".
2. They are consciously taught during astral projections where they may be taken to inner retreats, UFOs and other places.
3. They are met physically and taught.

Even when the assigned Orions failed to accomplish their task, the Pleiadeans did accomplish their assignments by genetically programming what would become Jesus' physical body and by guiding the Jewish people in the Horeb.

As part of a process of helping humanity awaken and re-integrate into the Cosmos, it seems that certain codes of light, sound, and universal principles are being sent to different parts of the world. It is interesting to note that some "antennas" of Mission Rama received many years ago strange symbols that look very similar or identical to the strange scripture found in the ancient Meroitic Civilization that was located south of Egypt, in a region that was called Nubia and now is called the Sudan. Perhaps these symbols, as well as those appearing every summer in England (the corn or crop circles) are urgent consciousness activating messages that we must pay attention to.

The extraterrestrials known in Mission Rama have always been very serious and responsible and have always required great strength of will from our part. They are benevolent and hold many sacred principles dear in their heart. It is believed that the time has come for Earth to end its recurring cycles of failure and to become what it was originally intended to become. Opening the heart to Universal Love, in touch with our Christic Presence is the key that will unveil the mysteries. A great level of responsibility is asked from all Light Workers in this period of time and the more we work as one great mental body, the more we will free ourselves from ignorance and bondage and we'll be able to claim back our true nature.

Master Soromez from the Retreat of the Lake gave us a message which still is the most useful teaching for those that in earnest desire to enlighten their souls and to make progress in this transition to Fourth Dimensional Consciousness: LOVE GOD ABOVE ALL ELSE AND YOUR BROTHER AS YOURSELF.

Adonai.

MARCAHUASI

A little known mysterious place in the Peruvian Andes is called "Marcahuasi". The word means "house of two floors", but it is also known as "the altar of the Gods". It is situated 13,000 feet above sea level, near the small town of San Pedro de Casta. Pedro de Casta can be found east of Lima, and after a 2 hour winding climb up a mountain road which begins in the city of Chosica. In Marcahuasi, several UFO's have been sighted and photos of persons alleged to be extraterrestrials are shown standing on a rock. This happened several years ago making the headlines in Lima newspapers.

This place, Marcahuasi, is considered by many to be an ancient ceremonial site where an energy vortex and "planetary memory register" is also found. Marcahuasi extends as a plateau for about three square kilometers. It was formed by volcanic intrusion. White diorite jasper is homogeneously found throughout this plateau.

The most interesting characteristic of this place is what seems to be a collection of hundreds of lithic sculptures. In his recent video, "The Face on Mars", Richard Hoaglund mentions Marcahuasi. This place seems to be related to other mysterious stone monuments such as the Sphynx, and Stonehenge. This is attributed to the fact that certain of the mythic figures found in Marcahuasi are also found around the world and cross through many different cultures.

Marcahuasi might be the remains of a prehistorical period in which certain symbolic figures were represented around the globe under one underlying cultural influence. This influence may have been Atlantean and seems to have prompted the development of several "dolmenic" or lithic cultures.

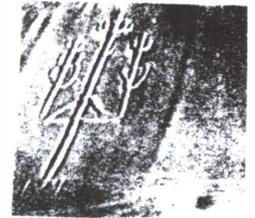

There are traces of faded colors and pictograms on some of the lithic structures. There are the remains of more recent Indian constructions and tombs.

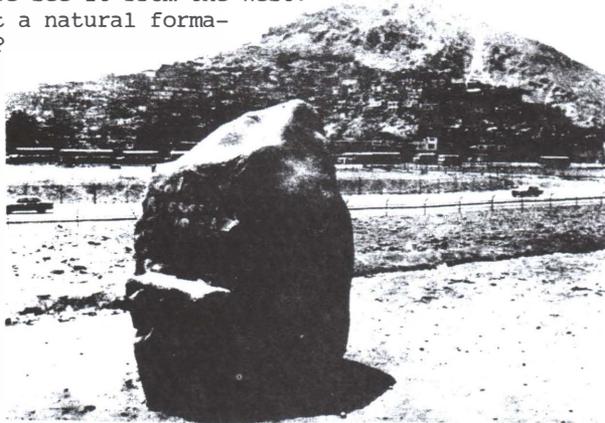

Marcahuasi. "Monument to Humanity" here showing its fourth profile. This is perhaps the most striking figure found in the plateau. The "face" is looking towards the South and we see it from the West. Is it a natural formation?

Marcahuasi. "Altar of the Abyss" Cuts on the stone are seen forming great tables, which may have been used for sacrifices.

Paracas. Facing the Pacific Ocean and in an area teeming with marine life this "candelabrum" or "tree of life" is found. It is connected with the Nazca lines and is another poorly understood symbolic form found in Peru. It might be the signal left by one of the first ET colonists after they reached our system of reality.

San Cristobal. A hill outside of Lima near another Huanca settlement. There are a few carved rocks. A UFO was sighted hovering above the summit by persons living in the shantytown below. Each year, there's a pilgrimage to a miraculous cross placed on the summit by Catholics.

There is a new service starting up. It is not an organization, it is not a research foundation. It is a place that you can go to talk to someone who will be willing to listen and sympathize. It is called:

FRIENDS OF INTERPLANETARY VISITORS
NO BULL!... NO EGO!... NO GREED!... NO WASTE! &
ABSOLUTELY NO SPIES!

Address: 1208 Ipswich Drive, Wilmington, DE 19808-3016 (302)994-7509

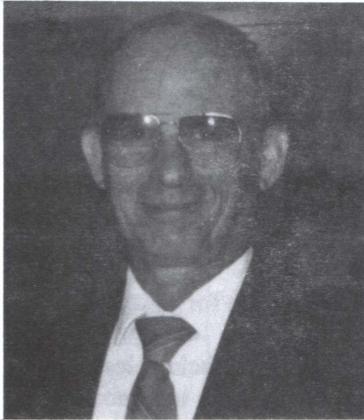

FRIENDS OF INTERPLANETARY VISITORS is a welcoming committee of people whose sole purpose is to assist and comfort those who are having or who have had contacts or abductions with space aliens. There is no membership fee and no newsletters are published. This is not a group of people that holds public meetings or private meetings. Information is exchanged in private on a one-to-one basis at a convenient location. We, of FRIENDS OF INTERPLANETARY VISITORS, have no type of agenda, political or otherwise. It is felt that is best left up to the various UFO organizations.

FRIENDS OF INTERPLANETARY VISITORS believe that the infighting among UFO organizations and fighting between UFO organizations is counterproductive in dealing effectively with the UFO phenomenon. It is not a question about who is right and who is wrong. The most important aspect of this phenomenon is to listen to the individual and their viewpoint based on their experience or experiences. This objectivity and openness will help to identify those interplanetary visitors without attack or confusion. Only at this point, can we ever establish a positive relationship with our interplanetary visitors.

The rules of FRIENDS OF INTERPLANETARY VISITORS are simple. No bull, no ego, no greed, no waste and absolutely, no spies. Any public appearance is extremely limited in giving information about the existence of this committee. There is no leader as all members of this committee are, equally, friends of interplanetary visitors. No favoritism exists.

INTERNATIONAL UFO CENTER

By James S. Greenen

I am Jim Greenen, owner of the International UFO Center, located in Orlando, Florida. I will be writing some future articles on some of the information that I have been told by many people visiting the UFO Museum since it opened in August 1992. To be in a unique position of being the owner of the most visited UFO Museum in the world, and to be able to listen to these people tell of their experiences, is probably the most rewarding experience of all.

Unfortunately, a lot of information I will write about in future articles, I will not be able to give out names, or any other information that might be traced back to the source. I hope you will understand that this is to protect the individual. Some of these people are still in sensitive positions, such as the ONI, Military, Pentagon, etc.

Some of the interesting things I have observed in the 7 months of dealing with the general public is interesting, to say the least. My opinion to the question, "is the general public ready for the release of the existence of UFOS?" Sorry folks, but the answer is "NO!" I will probably get a lot of flak over that answer, but let's sit inside the Museum with me for a minute. We are looking out the large picture window. There is a sidewalk with an iron railing on the other side (we are on the second floor) so people won't fall to the parking lot below. Here comes a family walking by now -- the man spots the picture of the UFO in the window and quickly turns his head away, looking around to see if anyone saw him looking at the picture. The wife also saw the picture but she was less obvious, she just looked with her eyes and did not turn the head. They grab their children and quickly step to the right bumping into the railing. If it wasn't for that railing there would be a pile of bodies stacked up in the parking lot below!

Got the picture? To some I am doing the work of the devil or Satan. To others that do come in, walk through the Museum, and watch George Knapp give his "Best Evidence" on the video; they will make comments as they walk out the door such as "I still don't believe it and all those pictures are fake." I think these people just want to confirm their beliefs. You can bounce one of these crafts off the top of their thick skulls and they still won't believe.

Because of the location that the Museum is in, and also because Orlando is the entertainment capital of the world, probably 50% of the people that come in the Museum are from other parts of the world. The people from the UK and other countries, I find, are far more open minded than the Americans. They are more willing to talk about their experiences, and their opinions on the subject of UFOs, without looking over their shoulder, or talking in a whisper. Yes! the government has done an excellent job over the last 45 years. Shall we all tip our hats to this select group of individuals in our government for the excellent job of programming they have done in the past 45 years. And let's not forget the news media who are also a part of that group that have been programmed.

Now the big problem is, how are they going to reverse this programming without making themselves out as big liars and keeping some people from jumping off of a bridge or chucking their Bible into the trash can to join an occult group. That is something that our Big Brothers will have to come up with for they have created this problem. That would be a good problem for the think tank in Washington to work on. My personal opinion is to look toward "SETI" to supply the answers to this question.

People that read magazines, books, and have a general desire to know what this UFO thing is all about -- sorry!, I can't supply the answers, for it's up to each individual to think for themselves. This is the problem that exists now. We let others do our thinking. In future articles I will relate some information to you that has come from people that have been so kind as to tell me their experiences. I will, on occasion, give my opinion but remember, it is only my opinion and I am not without error.

In my next article I would like to set the wheel in motion, so to speak, and set the stage to do some heavy thinking. Let's see if we can put some of this information that we have collected over the past 45 years to good use.

From George Friedrich comes the following letter:

Received your letter about my new book, "UFOs Creators of Man?" I agree with you that many of the present, and past writers are just out for the money, and really make up a science fiction story. I am not of this breed! I love UFOs in more ways than one. You see, I have the ability to contact them and have done so many times. Some before witnesses. I do not do this to "show off", and have only called them in times of need. We have a "special" relationship, that to many cannot be had. A strong bond.

In fact if it wouldn't have been for "them" I would never have written a single article - or my book. It's a long story but one borne of love.

If interested I will explain. I call these people "them", for to call them "aliens" is not true - and demeaning.

UFOs and I have a very special relationship! Special in many ways. Love for each other and respect, are two of them.

We live on a small lake in the woods of Wisconsin. A secluded spot. It is common for us to see UFOs, many just above our house.

Last December 7 at 10:20 p.m. there were four near our home, complete with their colorful lights. This is an "every day" occurrence, but we love it - and "them". So you see I am not one to seek publicity and what I write is the truth -- no bull.

My book, "UFOs Creators of Man?" should be out soon. Owl Press, P. O. Box 81, Rosholt, WI 54473, Judy Statezny, Publisher. You can contact her for more information.

"Minds are like parachutes, both must be opened to work."

My photos taken by our own astronauts of UFO in outer space will be in the book. Real eye openers. No more government debunking! These are their own NASA pictures.

GEORGE FRIEDRICH, dubbed "King of the UFOs," looks at negatives of what he believes are unidentified flying objects. Friedrich, 76, resides in the town of Sharon and has written articles for UFO publications about his sightings. (Journal photo by Doug Wojcik)

By JOHN ANDERSON

George Friedrich was pleased in the late 1970s when two different internationally circulated publications dubbed him "King of the UFOs."

Snazzy recognition, he thought, for a retired butcher enjoying retirement in the quiet farm country of Portage County's town of Sharon.

George received the title as the result of articles he wrote for "Beyond Reality" and "Official UFO" publications about his numerous sightings.

However, he sensed a certain uneasiness when his name showed up a couple of years later in "An Eccentric Guide to the United States," for his claims of having spotted scores of flying saucers.

George, who is now 76, says he can stomach that kind of patronizing publicity but cannot abide what he regards as the federal government's lack of forthrightness with the public in revealing what is known in Washington about unidentified flying objects.

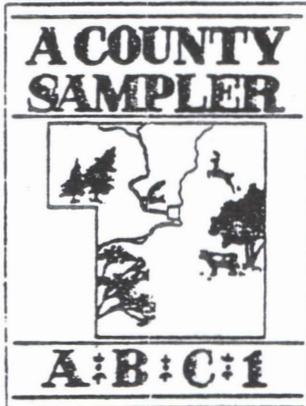

"What are they afraid of? Do they think there'll be a panic?" he says of the government officials.

With an insatiable interest in natural science, he has pursued a variety of hobbies, including geology, and has made some important finds as a prospector. You'll be hard-pressed to find anyone in these parts who knows more than George about the rock formations underpinning our state.

'King of UFOs' calls Portage County home

A man of many dimensions with his inquisitiveness, fertile mind and openness to new ideas, one description of him that is not fair is eccentric.

After all, his interest in UFOs is shared by some people in high places, including former President Jimmy Carter, who, about the time of moving into the White House, told of having seen objects in the sky that defied explanation.

The slightest hint a president might believe in flying saucers was enough for George to write a letter directly to Mr. Carter. To the "UFO King's" astonishment, a reply came from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration with a packet of negatives of unidentified objects taken by astronauts on earlier space flights.

There were no explanations of the negatives other than when and where they were taken. "They're remarkable," George marvels. In his estimation, they erased any doubt he might have had about spaceships from who knows where.

They were taken by crew members of Skylab, Mercury, Atlas VII and Gemini XII.

The ability to secure this kind of material from the federal bureaucracy was as short-lived as Carter's presidency. George did, however, gain information from a reporter who claimed to have startling stories about U.S. and Russian astronauts in the early to mid 1960s who reported a variety of phenomena, including detailed descriptions of alien ships and their travel patterns.

The information was included in the manuscript George wrote entitled, "UFO or God," which was published in hard cover in 1975. About 3,500 copies were sold.

What prompted his interest and his active study and writing about flying saucers?

George had paid little or no attention to such things before moving more than 20 years ago from the Fox River Valley, where he had spent nearly all of his life, to the town of Sharon.

One summer night, a neighbor, Ken Buckingham, called to him from outside a bedroom window to come outside and witness a brightly lighted object overhead that made a spectacular show by moving up and down and taking sharp turns, abrupt stops and starts.

Talks with others living nearby revealed that such kinds of happenings were not uncommon in the neighborhood. He and his wife, Henrietta, began paying attention.

One summer night in 1973, while being visited by 13 people from a Paranormal Society in the Wausau area, George was able to show others of like mind why he was interested in things extraterrestrial. What he described as a huge, globe-shaped, pulsating, luminous object appeared not far above the trees and gave everyone an "incredible" show.

All told, George, in many cases with Henrietta, has seen well over 100 UFOs. They've been bright silver or white, some were red and others gold in color. They've been circular and pie-shaped, a few have appeared to be like blimps. Some have disengaged to smaller units, they say.

The best time to look for them, according to George, is on clear, cloudless nights away from city lights and noise. "Don't let your eyes roam all over the sky," he instructs. "Look at one spot for quite awhile before picking another spot to view. By doing this you will notice any strange lights or moving objects."

George reveals some of his deepest thoughts on the subject when he advises that people will be more successful in the sightings if they "do not show fear of any kind and think love for them." He adds: "Concentrate your thoughts that you want them to contact you, and that you know who they are."

His writings through the years have prompted a flood of mail to his cottage home. Because UFO publications make their way around the globe, he's had correspondence filled with detailed descriptions about sightings from every part of the world. "It's interesting," he observes, "how many young people have written."

Publications from New York and California carrying his articles have prompted responses from as close to home as Nelsonville, Milladore, Waupaca and Wisconsin Rapids. "This was a hot area in the 1970s for sightings," he explains.

In recent years, George has been inactive as a UFO enthusiast. One of the reasons is that the number of sightings is way down in this part of the country. "They go in flaps or groups. Russia is where most of the activity has been lately," he reports.

This summer, however, he intends to be more attentive in keeping watch.

To skeptics, George offers a fascinating observation. He concedes there are any number of kooks who share his interest. How does he decide who's legitimate? He talks to them. Then he lets his intuition take over.

What do you think?

The following article was sent by Gary Schultz Perhaps by the time you read this it will already have happened but we hope not. This is one of the rare conventions we have covered in the Missing Link. It is too good to pass up!

RACHEL, NEVADA -- The organizers of the "event" are touting it as the happening of the year, a landmark event of historic significance in the continuing saga of "concerned" public's move to uncover the government's "UFO secrecy".

Not so, say military officials both at the Nevada Test Site and Nellis Air Force Range who are beginning to be perturbed about the event that will take place right near their "backyard".

The proprietors of the location of the event - Pat and Joe Travis, owners of the restaurant-bar where the main event will be held - are ecstatic as it will bring in much needed business from increasing publicity by the media.

The reason for all this commotion? An unprecedented public forum that is to take place on April 30 and May 1 in a tiny community of Rachel, Nevada located only 22 miles north of the outer perimeters of a top-secret military area controversially known as Area 51.

More than 300 participants, including a number of investigative journalists and some writers for aviation magazines such as Jane's Defense Weekly as well as several local and out-of-state TV crews and others in the media, will all converge in this tiny sleepy town for a two-day public forum on April 30 and May 1, the purpose of which will be, according to the organizers, to "expose" to the public and to "demand" from military authorities "once and for all" the truth behind the secrecy surrounding the "deal" at Groom Lake (Area 51) and the Papoose Lake (S-4) complexes.

Gary Schultz, director of a Southern California-based group known as the Secret Saucer Base Expeditions is convinced that the government is hiding alien crafts at Papoose Lake (10 miles south of Groom Lake) and that a joint technological exchange program of some sort is going on among aliens, the military and a select group of top scientists and that the public must be made aware of the situation.

"There's no doubt about it", says Schultz, "... some select U.S. pilots are regularly being given instructions in maneuvering several disk-shaped crafts at Papoose Lake." Like a fire-brand crusader, Schultz who organized this upcoming event, has taken hundreds of enthusiasts to the perimeters of Area 51 for the past three years and seems to be totally committed in bringing this out to the public. He became a true believer after the night of February 28 of 1990 when he claimed to have observed in awe what seemed to be a metallic disk-shaped craft that suddenly appeared over Jumbled Hills and flew towards the Groom Lake area. Both facilities, according to Schultz are conveniently hidden from the public's view by the Jumbled Hills (that cover the Papoose Lake area) and the adjoining Groom Mountains (that cover the Groom Lake complexes known as Area 51), thus making it impossible for anyone to see the facilities from Highway 375 or from any of the county dirt roads in the area known as "public land" in the Tickaboo Valley.

"This event is going to be a showdown of sort... a 'show of force' to let the Groom Lake officials know that we are serious about exposing what is being covered up", says Norio Hayakawa, co-organizer of the event who describes himself as a former regional director of another California-based group that calls itself the Civilian Intelligence Network. "We are going to call upon several compartmentalized engineers, technicians and even construction workers at the site to 'come out of the closet' and urge them to confide to us what is really taking place out there". According to Hayakawa, many of the construction workers who are involved in the expansion of the secret facilities reside in small communities such as Tonopah, Rachel, Alamo, Ash Springs, Hiko and Pioche. "We know several technicians that even have temporary residence in some of those communities who have contacted us during the past year. They are definitely afraid of being identified as whistle-blowers" says Hayakawa. However, "the vast majority of top scientists that work at both Groom Lake and Papoose Lake are flown in daily by a special charter plane that flies out from a restricted area at McCarran International Airport in Las Vegas", he states.

Hayakawa has also been instrumental in organizing many trips to this remote desert area. He claims that the government is test-flying several state-of-the-art aircraft that almost resemble "flying saucers", some of which could even be the rumored Aurora spy plane allegedly built by Lockheed. The other crafts that are already maneuvering are TR-3A, commonly known as the "black manta" and several diamond-shaped aircraft known by the insiders as "pumpkin seeds" that use pulse detonation propulsion systems. "There is no doubt in my mind that this Nevada facility is where the leading edge technology is located... the leading edge in propulsion systems, in computer applications, and even the latest in medical technology, especially since human pilots have to withstand extreme degrees of G-forces required in maneuvering the latest ultra-sonic aircraft. The public hasn't the slightest idea how advanced our state-of-the-art technology has come in terms of aeronautics and aerodynamics. I have come to the conclusion that our government, especially under the auspices of such top-secret agencies as the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory and DARPA (the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency), now has the capacity to simulate and even 'stage' fake extraterrestrial landings by building believable disk-like crafts and create an alien threat if they really want to, in the near future for some reason or other." Yet at the same time Hayakawa emphasizes that he does not rule out the possibility that there may indeed be higher technology there at Papoose Lake (S-4) complexes, the origins of which we cannot yet verify at the moment but which could very well be 'alien technology'.

According to Hayakawa, whose sources he declines to divulge, both the Groom Lake and Papoose Lake operations will completely shut down all test schedules beginning 5 days prior to and 5 days after the conclusion of the two-day seminar. "Both the Wackenhut Special Security Division, employed by the Department of Energy to guard the outer perimeters of Groom Lake area and the entire Lincoln County Sheriff's Department whose headquarters are in Pioche, Nevada, will be mobilized not only for crowd control but also to prevent anyone or any fringe contingent groups from climbing atop several of the hills that overlook the Groom Lake areas.

Several of those hills are (topographically-speaking) located on public land (Bureau of Land Management) and not officially within the military boundary. Yet, according to Hayakawa, climbing atop those hills such as White Sides, is now punishable by stiff penalty including hefty fines and confiscation of all cameras and video camcorders. It took more than eight months before his friends' camera and video camcorder, minus the films, were finally returned by the authorities after being confiscated last year. Hayakawa says he climbed atop the White Sides hill when he took along with him several science writers from Japan in March of 1992 to take a view of Groom Lake. Hayakawa claims that because of his connection to a source within a Special Operations group at the Office of Naval Intelligence (which he again says he cannot divulge at this moment), pressure was apparently applied from higher authorities on Patricia Cafferata who was the Lincoln County District Attorney at that time to expedite the return of the equipment. "Fortunately, somebody out there applied pressure on her. They just didn't want the confiscation incident to turn into an international affair involving the Department of State since the confiscated equipment belonged to my friends who happened to be Japanese citizens. This happened on public land, not within the military boundary... it is interesting because she is no longer the District Attorney of Lincoln County", says Hayakawa.

Hayakawa says that despite the presence of a growing number of curiosity seekers that come to this remote area of Nevada to see what is going on at Area 51, the government seems to be in full swing of operations undeterred by the public, especially since the vast majority of the secret installations are most likely built underground so as not to be detected by spy satellites domestic or foreign. "They must be under some kind of a time-schedule to accomplish whatever they're testing or doing out there", he concludes. "We must bear in mind", he adds, "that it is the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory, and not the Air Force, that is behind what's going on at the Papoose Lake (S-4) Area. Robert Lazar was compensated by the Navy for his work at S-4, not by the Air Force".

The main attraction for the two day event will be the rare public re-appearance of Robert Lazar. "He will be the focus of attention when he will present a special surprise there", claims Schultz. Lazar is the former government scientist who claims to have worked on a compartmentalized secret project at the S-4 facility under contract from E.G. & G. company which is a special defense contractor with the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory, closely associated with DARPA (the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency). Lazar claimed that he worked on a back-engineering program to test-fly a disk-shaped craft at S-4. Although he does not claim that he has ever seen any alien entities there himself, he emphatically stated (and continues to state) that there is alien technology at S-4.

According to both Schultz and Hayakawa, Lazar still reports to Los Alamos National Laboratory in New Mexico an average of at least two days a month to do some contract work for the Navy. "We must bear in mind that Lazar is an acknowledged physicist with specialty in top S.D.I projects such as the research on particle beam system", says Hayakawa, "and that may well be the reason for him to use the 'UFO' story as some type of smokescreen to draw the public's attention away from the real defense projects that the government does not want the public to know about."

Another celebrity among the so-called "UFO circuit" is George Knapp, former anchorman for KLAS-TV in Las Vegas (CBS affiliate) who will speak at the two day seminar. He says that he will present some new information that he recently acquired which will further substantiate the validity of Robert Lazar's claims. It was George Knapp who first brought Lazar out to the public through his news programs. Knapp recently returned from a trip from Moscow, the purpose of which he will not disclose until the seminar.

Among the other 'riveting' line-up of speakers will be Tony Pelham, an investigative journalist who uncovered and documented some of the first cattle mutilations in Lincoln County, according to Schultz. Pelham was one of the first reporters that brought out to the public the existence of Area 51 itself long before Knapp broke the story on TV news.

John Lear, a controversial pilot who states that he formerly flew for Central Intelligence in a number of covert missions, will also speak at the seminar. John Lear, the son of William Lear who was the developer of the Lear Jet, says he will divulge some yet undisclosed information that he recently acquired on the Groom Lake facility.

Schultz and Hayakawa both say that, without question, some top officials of the Groom Lake facility as well as the Office of Special Investigations at Nellis Air Force Base who were already informed of the event will be in attendance at the seminar, probably disguised "incognito" as participants at the seminar. "They will no doubt be there just to see how much information we have acquired on both Groom and Papoose Lake facilities", says Schultz.

"There's just no telling what's going to happen on April 30 and May 1 in Rachel, Nevada", concludes Hayakawa. "It could indeed be the historic event with some startling announcements", he chuckles.

HOW CAN YOU ATTEND:

Space is limited so don't hesitate sending in your reservation. Unfortunately (the Little A 'LE' Inn is rather small), this event will sell out quickly. Plan to camp out Friday night. Bring tent, sleeping bag and warm clothing (and cool clothing for daytime). Another idea: Form groups and share the cost of renting an RV in Las Vegas. Convenient RV hookups are available throughout Rachel. For campers, Porta-pottys and faucets for water are provided.

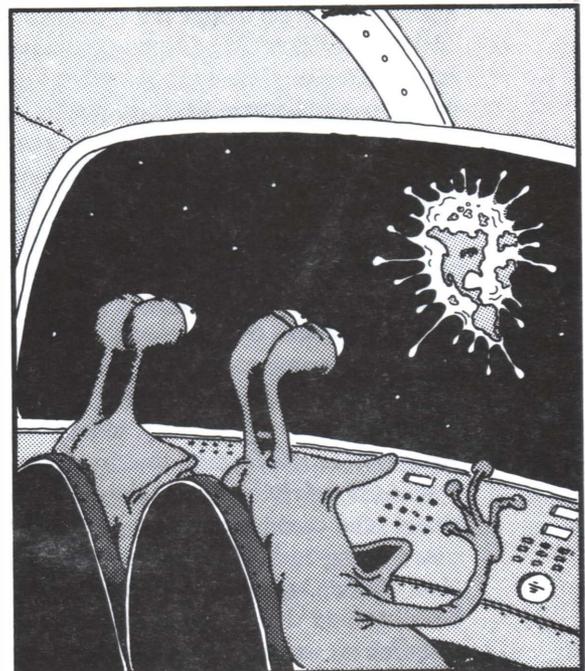

COST: includes all speakers, all workshops and all buffet meals is just $50. Make check or money order payable to "Norio Hayakawa" and send to:

world to beauty and tranquility once again. We are the Children of Earth and God is the force that put us here. We have been given an opportunity to prove our worth. Let us put our prayers and meditations together to heal our planet and man's misguided ways. It has to begin within each one of us. If we all do our part, that Utopian world will be our reality, not just a beautiful dream of how it could have been.

"Oh, gross!"

I visit the former USSR two or three times a year doing scientific and cultural exchange. I also do a small bit of business with my new enterprise, The Planet Earth Trading Company.

Through luck and hard work, I've been able to make some important connections in the field of UFO study, the most notable of which is Dr. Vladimir V. Rubtsov, Director of the Research Institute on Anomalous Phenomena. This is an important opportunity for exchange of information and opinion between the U.S. and the former Soviet Union.

The countries that comprised the former Soviet Union are undergoing very tough times right now. It's very difficult for us here in the States to grasp the enormity of the task of switching from a monolithic centrally planned economy to a western-style market economy and democracy.

During this time of change, it's extremely important to give what support we can to our overseas counterparts. Our help, people-to-people, is best placed with those people in similar communities of interest. There are two ways to help. The first and most important is communication. Dr. Rubtsov, his colleagues, and people with a serious interest in UFOs need to hear from us... need to hear that we support their efforts to continue UFO research in their part of the world. This moral support is incalculably valuable in this time of change and insecurity. Secondly, they need some financial support. Actually, at this time, we're very lucky. Due to currency exchange rates and the low standard of living in the former Soviet Union, a contribution can go TEN TO ONE HUNDRED TIMES further than it would here in the west. Remember, average income is only $10 - $15 a month. Even a small gift can have a big effect.

Money is needed for translating books and articles. Specifically, there is a project to get Dr. Rubtsov's 1991 book UFOS AND MODERN SCIENCE (written with Y.V. Platov) translated and published in english. Personal computers and software in Russian and Ukrainian are desperately needed. Videocameras, tape recorders, and basic investigatory tech that we take for granted here at home is non-existent. Even such simple tools as paper, camera film, etc., that are necessary to investigations are in short supply or are unobtainable.

By way of this letter, I'm asking you for two things: a letter for Dr. Rubtsov and his friends, and a financial contribution. Funds will be disbursed through Dr. Rubtsov and the Institute, but you can specify what you'd like your contribution to go for. All monies will be provided to researchers in the former Soviet Union or will be used to buy and transport necessary items unobtainable there. No money will be used for westerners' travel or personal expenses. A listing of contributors (you may remain anonymous, if you like) and an accounting of expenditures will be available. Checks should be made out to Frederick Olsen III/ EAST-WEST UFO EXCHANGE PROJECT. Your letter and gift mean so much, and will have a powerful effect on the way our world is headed.

Please help.

Frederick Olsen "FO3"

P.S. My next meeting with Dr. Rubtsov will be in Kharkov during the week of May 5th - 12th. Even if you choose not to contribute, won't you please send a letter of encouragement? Letters in Russian or Ukrainian are much appreciated, but any letter is treasured.

INTERACTIVE ABDUCTION REPORT

By Lorne Goldfader

Director UFORIC

Vancouver, B.C., Canada

During the month of October, 1992 as if on command and for no apparent reason I sent a package of UFO and abduction material to one of the office clerks in my large workplace. I have never done such a thing in my 17 years in the business. Within a week, the young lady responded by sending down a note that she suspected some kind of abduction activity. Over the course of the following weeks I asked her to keep a journal, observe and report to me all unusual events. The data indicated to me that there was indeed a possibility of alien intervention. I proposed to her that she draw a question mark and the face of an alien on her leg which she did. This conversation and the experiment took place January the fourth, 1993.

March 11, 1993 she attended a session with our hypnotherapist. Under hypnosis the young lady confirmed numerous abductions which began at the age of two. Her reactions were extreme fear, anger and crying. The aliens apparently altered the genetics of her fetus while she was in her mother's womb and told her that they made her to be different from other humans, that she was special and had a purpose which would soon be revealed to her. She was taken to their planet which was "dry and dusty, contained structures and people with white hair". Before the end of the session our hypnotherapist asked if there was anything that needed to be uncovered at this time. Her immediate response was, "JANUARY THE FOURTH". Within five hours of my conversation with the abductee and while she was in bed with her husband, the aliens arrived. They put the husband in a deeper sleep so that he was unaware of the presence of the visitors. She was "broken into little pieces, disintegrated and transported to a room." There were several 'greys' who took off her clothes and examined her body to make sure she was not sick. They found the QUESTION and brought the main individual who always appears in charge who asked her what the question was for. She was frightened to death and could not respond. He commented that the eyes on the alien face was not correct. The purpose of the question was not concerning the drawing but why they were coming and what they were doing, so they incorrectly guessed at the purpose or meaning of the question mark. As if in defence at her lack of control she blurted out: "Lorne (my name) - do you guys know him, Lorne, do you know him?" The hypnotherapist asked during the session: "Do they?" The response was in a totally calm, fearless change of voice: "Ohhhhh yes, THEY know who HE is (pause) - Sometimes they want Lorne to be quiet but he's NOT". I was amazed that the abductee had enough presence of mind and conscious control to ask this question.

On the night of the hypnosis session it appears as if the abductee's brother and close friends were visited in their sleep. This is a very active ongoing case in which it appears as if the aliens are reacting to investigative intervention.

BRIEF UPDATE OF RECENT PACIFIC CANADIAN INTERIOR SIGHTINGS - 1993

One of the largest waves in recent memory began in the small village of Heffley Creek, British Columbia near the small city of Kamloops, 425K N.E. of Vancouver when on January 14, 1993, a young teenage girl saw an object near her home. She flashed her flashlight three times and the object clearly responded by flashing back to her in the same sequence.

On January 20, a large fireball with a "burning tail", resembling a meteorite was seen and reported by hundreds of people to the local RCMP, weather office, radio and newspapers.

John Webster, one of our investigators in the interior, and myself, through long distance calls to many of the witnesses determined that the object was seen all the way from Kamloops to Williams Lake along Highway 97, the Caribou highway. On the average the sighting lasted 1 - 2 minutes. Too long for a meteorite and was seen by several independent witnesses to have a bluish-green aura. Within this aura and slightly behind it were two smaller balls of light. A piece of the main object broke off and fell near a set of hills or ridges near Kamloops. Similar objects were reported in the state of Georgia in the USA and in Russia within a two week period after.

On the following 8 - 10 days other unidentified anomalous aerial phenomena were reported, both in the morning at sunrise and in the evening. Two ground level near landings were reported, one near Williams Lake and the other near Kamloops. The lady at Williams Lake witnessed a "glowing ball of fire" sitting behind the trees for 30 minutes. An interview was done on audio tape.

As of February 16, 1993 close sightings are still being reported but greatly reduced in number. We are monitoring the situation and are sending a team to these areas to attempt to capture the phenomena on video. The attempts, dates and locations will be confidential until we have achieved credible evidence. The longitude is close to Stonehenge in England.

Many of us came to this planet to help our fellow man. Some of you remember where you came from and that you volunteered to be here. There have been those of you that have been resistant even to being on this plane at all, but you are still serving in whatever capacity you have chosen. So it has been for me also.

Most of you are aware of my own close encounter when I was 17 years old. I was in a beam of electric green light. Since that time I have been involved (in one way or another) with UFO research. Most people that go down this road can vouch for the variety, and unexpected circumstances that go along with it.

The long time subscribers know that the Missing Link always came out, no matter what, or where the circumstances took me. Thanks to your loyal support, and informative letters and articles, the Missing Link will continue to be published.

There have been changes within our organization. For many years now, I was the sole organizer, hypnotist, publisher, receptionist, shoulder to cry on, well you get the point. It had gotten to the point that I could not physically keep up with the demand. Our organization had grown too big for me! I felt that I was not able to do a good job, and

I could not find any help with the many burdens and responsibilities that go along with this position.

After turning over my position to my Vice Chair person, I saw that there was still a need for closed meetings, and hypnosis. The new officers did not want to deal with contact cases. They opted, instead, to have an open discussion group in the Seattle area on the fourth Saturday of every month.

After much soul searching, I decided that I could not let the contactees that came to me for help be turned away. It just was not in my heart to do that. I decided that I would continue to have closed meetings and hypnosis sessions for those people that need it. After all, this is what I chose for my life's work, isn't it?

So let this be the truth to dispell any rumors that I am stepping down. I am not, and the magazine will continue to prosper, as long as you, dear readers, contribute the information, and other articles that are so very vital to our bringing to you one of the finest magazines available today! We are NOT full of advertisements, and the Link serves a purpose in bringing together all of those readers that are otherwise isolated. This was the intent when I started this magazine in October of 1982. It still is.

From Scotland and the Strange Phenomena Investigations Org comes the following article. Used by permission.

*From the magazine ENIGMA
By the Editor, Malcolm Robinson*

I was speaking over the phone recently with a chap from East Kilbride who is plagued, 'if that's the right word?' with a whole range of spirit manifestations and disturbances which is throwing his life into turmoil. Basically he was asking me if he was alone in this, was there anyone out there who shared similar effects that he could talk to and generally discuss the whole thing with? I explained that he wasn't alone, that this type of spirit occurrence was quite common, unfortunately, I explained, that at the moment I wasn't aware of anyone who was receiving similar effects as much as he was, but upon learning of any such cases I would let him know straight away.

Since around 1988, his deceased mother and father have been in regular spirit contact with him 'clairaudiently', passing on general hints and information. However, a more benign presence, or 'presences'? have been at work in which frightening and evil looking 'hologram' like faces, have been appearing above his living room carpet. He claims to have been taken over by an invading spirit on several occasions, and received hoards of information about 'someone's life' (he doesn't know who) which lasts only a few minutes. He has also seen small spirit faces appear on a door within his home. This chap has visited numerous Spiritualist churches in quest of an answer, and other than being told that he was 'born psychic' and spirit is "using him" as a vehicle to impart their presence he is no further forward in knowing 'why'. Why him? He has also been told by spirit, (his alleged guide is an American cowboy would you believe?), that he is 'special', 'very special', and he is being 'trained' to receive spirit on a more higher level than anyone else before him. (Mmmm)

This chap kept repeatedly saying to me, "I know this all sounds crazy, but you must believe me". But what might intrigue the readers of ENIGMAS, is, that he claims that Extra Terrestrials are working with spirit in an effort to raise human consciousness to effect a better world (so what's new eh?). The alien that he saw, (psychically not physically), resembled in all accounts, 'bar one' to the typical 'grey'. i.e., large head, small child like body, four fingers, or digits, (webbed between digits) the difference here was its skin color, he reported it as being pink, the same as humans. He claims to have been inside a UFO but can't seem to recall all of the details. He was informed that these 'aliens' came from the planet Venus (yes, that's what I thought?). Not the physical Venus mind you, but the etheric Venus, in plain Hindustani..an extradimensional plane at a different vibratory level to the physical (and why not?).

He has been pulled out of his sitting chair by his arms by unseen presences, 'his arms sticking up way above his head' in which moments later he lost consciousness for several minutes. Upon regaining consciousness, he experienced a terrific warm glow in his chest region, and an overpowering peaceful feeling pervading him. He later learned, that a tumor which was previously diagnosed in his chest area, had "mysteriously vanished". We spoke on the phone for over an hour on a whole range of topics specifically relating to him in which I mentioned that as a researcher, I was still trying to obtain evidence to show Joe Public that these things do occur. He put me in my place by saying that I would never get this evidence from others, but would only obtain it by myself, by meditation and a strong desire to receive spirit impressions, etc., "well maybe", I said. "Look", he went on, "spirit could have golden rays streaming out from a mountain showing to all and sundry of their existence, but it doesn't work like that," (so what else is new?). "Receiving spirit", he went on, "comes from oneself, and once you know from your own experiences, then no matter what any other individual has to tell you about their own personal experience, 'you' didn't experience what they did so how can you know that what they tell you is real? (applies to UFOs too I suppose?). Personal experience is what it's all about."

Before I got the chance to ask for his phone number he was quickly off the phone. I sit here and wonder now if this guy was for real, in the sense that true spirit communication was being relayed to him, or, alternatively, he could have been one of the many people who suffered delusions, hallucinations, etc. Peter Sutcliffe, the infamous Yorkshire Ripper who murdered over 15 women, claimed to hear voices in his head. Was this truly spirit? albeit of the "none too pleasant variety"? or was it delusions, split personality disorder? Call it what you will. There are many people globally who suffer from hearing voices, from whence do these voices come from? Is it a medical condition, or is it that some individuals are born more psychic than others whereby they 'attract' deceased spirit personalities who wish to infringe their presence onto that individual. In olden times (before Robert Maxwell?) some people were institutionalized for being what "others" felt as 'mentally disturbed'. But we may speculate that perhaps these individuals were indeed psychic, but living in an age of ignorance and skepticism of such matters, this imbalance was looked upon as sheer insanity.

I've dealt with one case slightly similar to this, and as a Spiritualist I know that sometimes 'earthbound personalities' can't accept that they are dead probably in situations in which they lost their life suddenly, and linger on in the lower astral realms. Spiritualist rescue circles try to help these individuals, and have over the years been successful on many an occasion. Maybe that is what is required regarding this gentleman's case? even although, as he stated, he is destined for better things. James Hervey Hyslop, Professor of logic and ethics at Columbia University of 13 years, is convinced of the reality of possession as a factor to be thought of. In his book, "Life after Death" he wrote about possession thus.. "Before accepting such a doctrine, I fought against it for 10 years after I was convinced that survival after death was proved. But several cases forced upon me the consideration of the question. The chief interest in such cases is their revolutionary effect in the field of medicine. It is high time for the medical world to wake up and learn something..."

Hyslop further stated in his last book, "Contact with the Other World"... "the existence of evil spirits affecting the living is as clearly taught in the New Testament, and implied in the Old Testament, as any doctrine there expounded. The term possession is employed by psychic researchers to denote the abnormal influence of spirits on the living.." Dr. Titus Bull, director of the James H. Hyslop Foundation, had this to say about possession. ..."An obsessing personality is not composed of the soul, mind and will of one disembodied being, but is in reality, a composite personality made up of many beings. The pivot obsessor or the one who first infringes upon the sensorium of the mortal, is generally one with little resistance to the others. He or she, therefore, becomes an easy prey to those who desire to approach a mortal in this way..." I wonder to what category my East Kilbride caller is?

The following letter was sent to us. It is typical of what experiencers encounter in the professional world. We are keeping the name confidential to protect anonymity.

I am forty-one, college-educated, and an erstwhile community college English teacher and free-lance editor from Syracuse, New York. I now live with my husband in Carlsbad, California, where I went to seek the area's intellectual open-mindedness in an attempt to solve my current emotional difficulties, stemming partly from alien contact and also partly from the prejudiced treatment my honest claims occasioned back in the somewhat more hidebound medical and religious Establishment of the Northeast. (Before last year we had been living in Eastern Connecticut.) I am indeed receiving more open-minded treatment here.

I am writing you for any case study evidence you may be able to furnish me on others who may have had experiences physically or spiritually similar to mine. I was unfortunately branded "psychotic" back in Connecticut by at least two overhasty, doubting professionals in a position to damage my permanent medical record solely on the basis of my perhaps too-frank avowals of alien-related psychic experiences. Having rested a bit over here, I am very eager to vindicate myself. In one case, that of a psychiatrist's hasty, half-hour diagnosis of me, I may even have material for a lawsuit.

Not only was I probably abducted at least once by the "greys" when young -- though being very young, and deeply overcome with dread during the experience I have suppressed the memory deeply and even under hypnosis am having trouble recovering it fully.

I also, since 1982, have experienced an astonishing, extreme "psychic cleansing" and from then on experienced frequent psychic transmissions of a dynamic, religious quality attempting to transform my psychological and sexual attitudes towards the world to suit a higher social condition. I have seen a future time when there will, supposedly, be a higher order of society on this Earth, equal sharing of male and female roles and a more balanced spiritual life for people, and eventually, an evolutionary change to a slightly larger brain size, seen in a slightly higher forehead.

I have been told in what appear to be prophetic revelations, that at some point, there may have to be helpful alien intervention to help Mankind safely to the next stage of our development on this earth. I've seen visions of a mass landing of alien spaceships. The alien intervention will be, I'm told, (I've been shown scenes of mass destruction, as well as scenes of a cleaner planet, intended to help forestall mass self-annihilation from either the threat of global war or from the build-up of global pollution generally, along with the effects of overpopulation. The aliens will supposedly physically make possible this transition so our race can survive the climax to its first stage of development and endure a cleansing and shifting of consciousness to a second, higher level of spiritual existence where physical war will not be known and where spiritual difficulties, though still there, will be of a somewhat higher order.

I am no snob, nor a fanatic. These astonishing visions and psychic transmissions literally started assaulting me with great force while I was at Yale Divinity School in 1982, forcing me to quit. I have written extensively about what I have learned/heard psychically, though I am guarding some of these writings to myself, afraid of upsetting people, having used the writing process partly for myself alone, to cleanse myself, but also to preserve what may someday be useful information for humanity but is still ahead of its time. I consider the experience to have some kind of religious significance to involve in short, the salvation of the human race. It is a non-denominational experience entirely and is NOT Christian per se, though my own background is Protestant and lately, ironically enough, I have felt some impulse to seek the understanding and emotional protection of the Catholic Church (at its best and least dogmatic) in order to find some sympathy for the reality of charismatic experiences, an emphasis the sometimes too-intellectual Protestant Church sometimes lacks, and also find some sympathy for the traditional female position, somewhat more lacking in America among those with economic and organizational power (though I am no man-hater and love men, too, being taught also to try and understand their spiritual point of view.) The Catholics might also for a time help me bear the weight of change and of "differentness" that this extraordinary experience has forced upon me, by giving me the comfort of a traditional context for my experiences.

Lastly, I have even been shown that waves of human beings may have to be transported from this planet to save them from death by pollution and starvation, and that there would be some distant, pre-prepared planet, prepared by aliens to suit our needs, where these "waves" of the human population will have to be harbored for a certain period of time, perhaps several years, while the aliens (greys??) perhaps with the help of other alien races, attempt to physically cleanse our planet by massive technological means unknown to us to prepare it to be reinhabited. People taken here will be treated with great love and care, and be returned at some point to the Earth, whereupon the aliens, their task done, would depart.

One last note: I had a couple of intensely vivid dreams when young of a pristine planet, like Earth but with somewhat larger, more dramatic geographic features, including a long, deep defile flanked by soaring red cliffs, to which (and here I'm confused still) I was either taken briefly in a very early abduction I may still be suppressing (age 2-4, I'd guess), or to which myself or perhaps my children or children's children would someday be taken. Such visions have carried the aura of a Divine revelation, and my being felt surrounded by overpowering, physically palpable love many times since then. I feel drawn, once again from time to time to the Catholic Church for a sense of comfort, to take the "alien largeness" and novelty out of the experience, though I fully admit that I am at heart non-denominational, and believe the prophecies I've been seeing, if they ever come true, to refer to all men and women worldwide, regardless of affiliation.

Despite the sering beauty of the "Plan" I've been shown, such as I've mentally witnessed it, I've found the prospect of an alien visitation and of even temporary alien control, however well-meant, emotionally exhausting and lonely almost beyond bearing, in the absence of the corroboration of others who have had the sense of immediacy I've had about it, who have had not only revelation but intense, constant preparation, psychically, for a new society. It is difficult until I receive deeper corroboration from others, and comfort, to work more than part-time. The trouble has been that some others, including some professionals, are not very receptive (no reason they should be, I suppose, except that some premature conclusions have threatened to go onto my permanent record, as I was naive enough to talk about this at all to the conventional psychiatric profession without thinking twice -- something I'll never do again).

Could you do me this favor, if you have time, if you have access to case histories similar to my own. I would love to have your, or any organization's corroboration over some of the details of my experience. I have already read several books, including one by Whitley Streiber and Betty Andreasson, and these are a little helpful, but the nature of their transmissions and the treatment of them personally are not in every respect parallel to my own. For one thing, the abduction I had when young is still only hypothesized from shadowy dreams and is not the main event with which I'm concerned. Streiber and Andreasson's abductions were the main event. Their books centered on well-remembered, repeated physical abductions and on their physical treatment. I've had mostly -- and this since '82, with only a possible abduction in the distant past preceding it -- a purely psychic and religious transformation with no physical beings present, geared towards life in a new society. Moreover, to the conventional medical profession, both Streiber and Andreasson, especially Andreasson, may appear fanatics and exceptions to the normal human experience, and hence fail to furnish strong enough corroboration in and of themselves to clear me of any false diagnosis. I made a mistake in overtrusting conventional medical authority to be at all open to this, but I admit I did it out of extreme loneliness and need to talk about what has been a seringly lonely experience. At the time I went to these professionals I personally knew no-one who had been through exactly what I have. Since then, I may have met one or two with some kind of psychic transmissions of a slightly similar nature, but not carrying point for point the same story.

Specifically, can you furnish me case histories, or parts thereof, without including people's names, that corroborate in some detail the specifics of my experience as I've outline it above, assuming any exist? Have there been enough individuals either you or other therapists or other UFO organizations have had contact with who have reported similar experiences for a case to be built for a widespread phenomenon -- one that might help vindicate me and clear my medical record?

Specifically: How many others have experienced an intense personal transformation/preparation for a future society, have had ongoing psychic transmissions, have either been taken to or seen in prophecy or dreams another planet (my present hypnotherapist in California claims others he's heard of or talked to have also seen a planet with tall red cliffs!), and how many others have seen the coming of the aliens as either being part of a religious salvation plan or, more rationally put for the rationalists, or as part of a mass shift in world consciousness to a higher social order? In particular, who has seen the relationship between male and female -- ailing since we were born from the ape from too great a role separation between inner and outer, between female-dominated home and male-dominated public sphere, from too little sharing of roles between the sexes -- as central to this coming social and spiritual change? I hear that Brad Steiger calls "Star People" those who claim to come from some other planet, though I have not yet read his books. I do not have the impression that I come from another planet, but rather that I was either shown one when young either during a suppressed abduction, which I dreamed about later, or that I may have at least glimpsed in a prophetic dream where members of our race may have to be taken and held for some time in the future, under very benign conditions, while our planet Earth is cleaned and prepared for rehabilitation.

I am writing the University of Toronto also for such case study information as they can provide, their archives on alien abduction cases apparently being large. I am entirely sane, I assure you, but am eager for vindication. I have experienced great loneliness and some ill health from feeling "singled out" for such psychic interference. It is extremely stressful to be forced to feel different from others merely because of what one is being psychically subjected to, the timing of the transmission being literally against one's will, however beneficial the intent may be for the future condition of the race as a whole. I am no snob about my experiences, but am forced to feel some pride in the enormity and meaning of it -- for it is profound, and its spiritual lessons make ultimate sense to me regarding our race's, including my personal need to mature. I do not feel I've been brainwashed evilly, but shown what is good and natural for us to do to get along with each other and to love ourselves in a future society. Yet, though I've been given hope for the future, I do naturally feel fear and loneliness from the enormity of it and from the lack of corroboration from those around me, most of whom appear to have had no such experience. I feel some anger at others' unwillingness to speak about the aliens, and over my unrewarded bravery in being willing to broach the subject on numerous occasions. I have, I'm afraid, been told "no" by a couple of others who may be experiencing something similar, I think, but who seem somehow inclined, or bid, not to discuss the matter with me; I've been told by their silence. Must we all stay silent on what hurts us, for fear always of frightening others? After a point I grow tired of trying too hard to be discreet while under enormous stress myself, to indulge others' fear of exposure or others' fear of learning anything, in short, of having to shut up to suit others. The more specific corroboration I can receive over my experiences from large, accepted organizations such as yours, the more likely it is that I can cleanse my record of any misunderstanding and misdiagnosis.

Thank you for your patience and understanding. I am looking forward to hearing from you. You might, when you answer, also suggest to me titles I might read that contain creditable corroboration. I have, as I say, read only The Andreasson Affair, Fawcett's The UFO Cover-up (portions of), Streiber's Communion, and Budd Hopkin's Intruders. There are so many books out now on alien visitation, including some scientific examinations from without -- useful indeed -- and some personal experiences from within, such as mine, as well as those merely chronicling physical abductions. Please direct me to helpful sources; I would be so grateful. The loneliness I experience daily has, for ten years, been placing me under stress no-one should have to suffer.

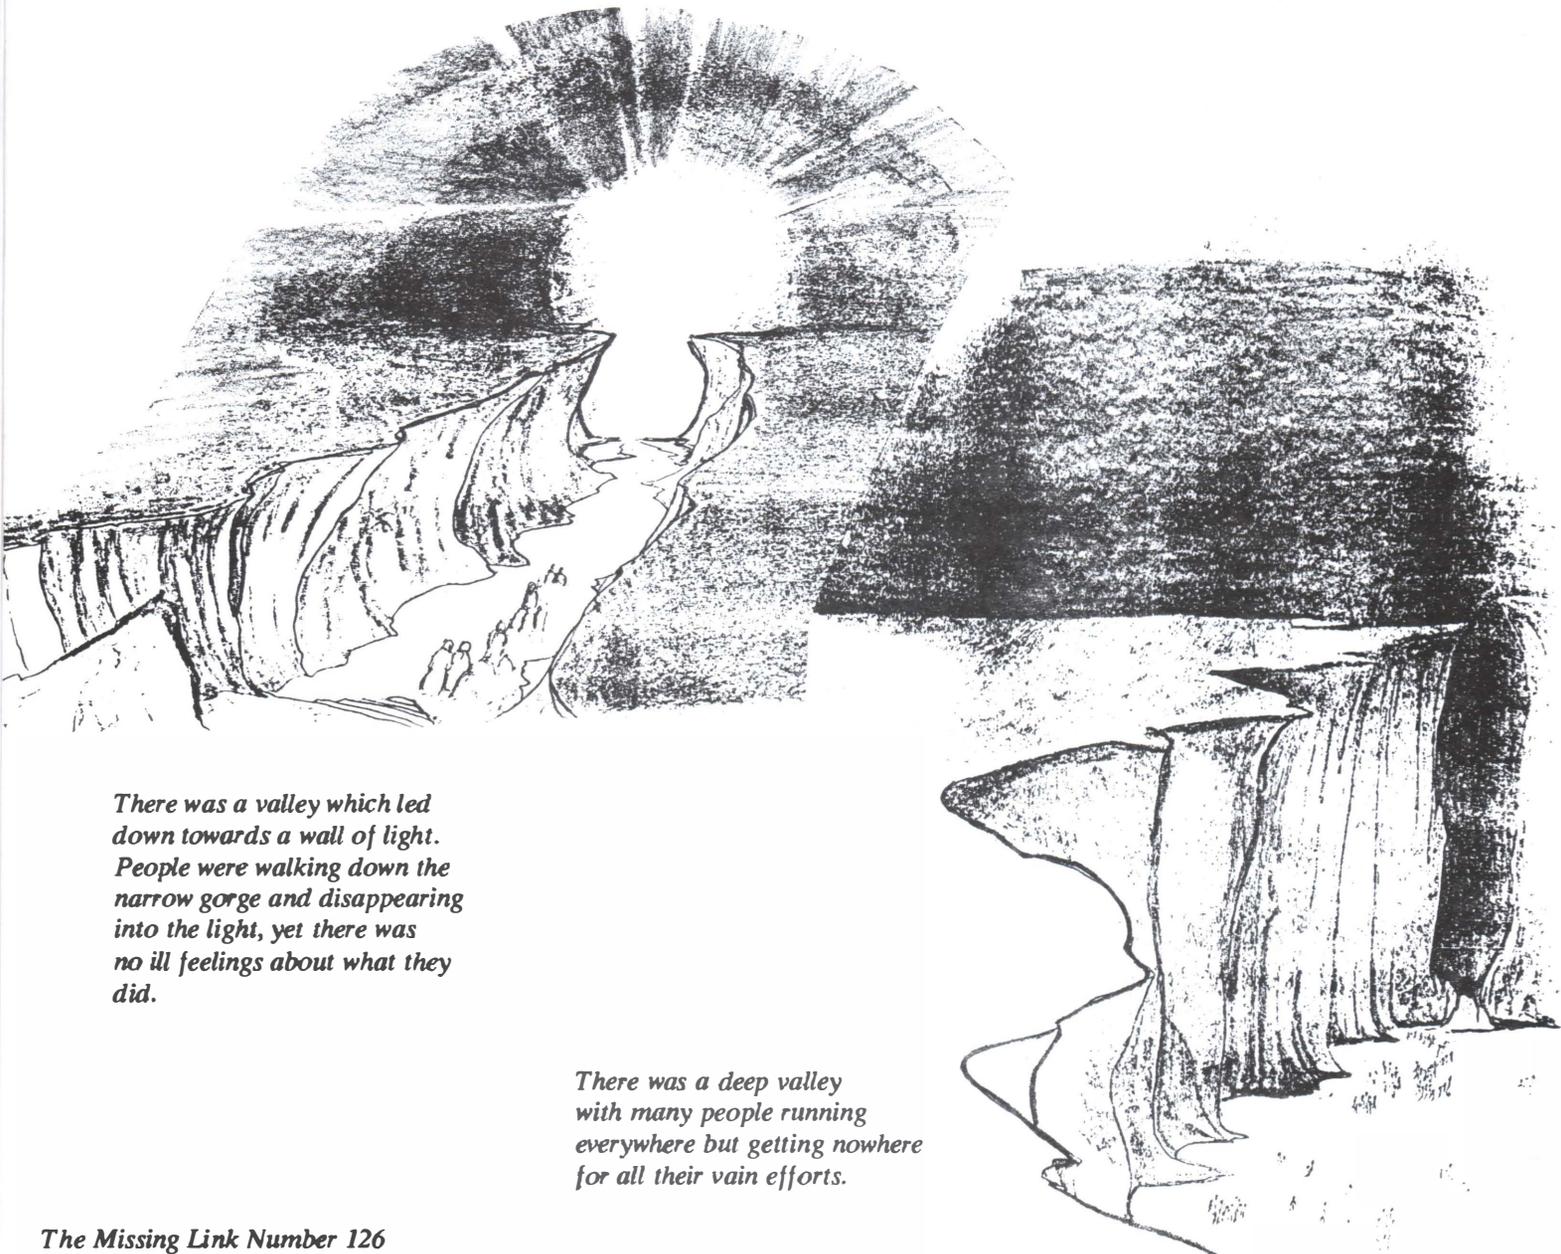

There is one visible public figure I suspect may have had transmissions or a transformational experience similar to my own, though I cannot be sure of this until he himself corroborates this by answering me. I have written him two letters -- one recently -- and received as yet no answer, though he is a busy person, and perhaps he somewhat rightly considered me an intrusion on his privacy. I certainly do not wish to overtrouble anyone after a time. I am referring to the syndicated cartoonist Berkeley Breathed, author of Outland. He has expressed, though sometimes in violent anger, a reconcilist position towards male and female in our society, as well as indirectly confessed to a terrifying personal transformation of some sort, attended by what he pictures as grey beings with large heads. I do not wish to trouble you further on what may be of no concern to you, but it is barely possible he has had something similar. He certainly continually expresses the fact that he is in a lonely position towards society, and has been brave more than once not only in criticizing his own sex's group behavior, but that of women as well. But, perhaps I am wrong. In one's loneliness one may end up placing a misconception, a too helpful one, upon others' self-expression and communications.

Again thank you, LEB, California

Editor's Note: Transmissions of a similar nature may be found in the book, "Mary's Message to the Earth", by Annie Kirkwood. What Mary has imparted telepathically follows your line of thought. Also the accompanying picture was drawn by a experiencer of what he saw. It was retrieved under hypnosis. Fortunately he was a very good artist. I know of another case here in Washington where the person landed at a place with red rock cliffs. It was on another planet and happened before he came to this life. He was greeted by two "people" and taken to an orange ocean, as thick as oatmeal, for a type of ceremony. I assure you, you are not alone.

Some good books are Wendelle Stevens "Contact series". They represent many persons experiences - some of being taken to other planets. I am specifically thinking of UFO Contact at Botucatu and UFO Contact from Andromeda. You may become disheartened at the grammatical errors within as a writer, but the essence is there and that is what we are looking for in research.

Since I have included your letter in this issue I would ask anyone who has had similar experiences to write in and we will send the letters on to you. Please note on the envelope that the letter is for LEB.

VISITING DEATH

Woman tells of glimpse of Paradise

Betty Eadie / "We are here to help each other, to care for each other, to understand, forgive and serve . . . to have love for every person on Earth."

By Kathie Price
The Arizona Republic

Twenty years ago, Betty J. Eadie took a trip she will never forget.

Her destination was filled with vibrant light, green gardens, waterfalls, beautiful flowers, melodious music, friendly people and considerate tour guides. Immersed in her surroundings, she relaxed, went on adventures, visited with friends and learned an awful lot about life and love.

The place was so wonderful that Eadie didn't want to go home. When she did, she longed to return.

Eadie didn't just take a trip to paradise. She believes she toured Paradise with a capital P — the place religious folks call heaven.

In her book, Embraced by the Light (Gold Leaf Press, $14.95), published in December, Eadie recalls an experience that happened during a brush with death after surgery. Eadie, a resident of Seattle, was in Phoenix last month to promote the book.

Researchers say her story is the most detailed account on record of a near-death or dying experience. Melvin Morse, a physician who has published his research on near deaths in The Light and Closer to the Light, calls it "a textbook of the near-death experience." But on the evening of Nov. 19, 1973, nobody was studying people who had "died," nor was anybody writing best sellers on the topic. And Eadie, a half-Sioux reared on a diet of strict Catholic schools, had never heard about near-death experiences.

Eadie, a 31-year-old mother of seven married to a retired Air Force computer specialist, was lying in her hospital bed after a hysterectomy. In her interpretation of what happened, she said she suddenly felt pulled out of her body, floating above it unafraid.

A trip into the void

Three men, who she sensed to be ancient in wisdom and knowledge, appeared at her side and offered to be her guides. After looking in on her family at home, Eadie said she was propelled forward in a dark void and felt a profound sense of healing, love and peace.

"I became aware of other people as well as animals traveling with me, but at a distance. . . . I sensed their experience was the same as mine," Eadie writes in her book.

That was just the beginning of her trip.

Lessons drawn from the light

Here are a few excerpts from Betty Eadie's interpretations of her near-death experience:

On healing: The spirit and mind greatly influence the body's health. "All healing takes place from within."

On illnesses and bad times: Many are "a result of our free will to express ourselves." But some are planned by a soul before it enters the earthly plane.

"All experience is for our good, and sometimes it takes what we would consider negative experience to develop our spirits."

On prayer: Prayers with intensity and faith are noticed first. Insincere prayers of repetition are not heard.

God knows our needs but waits for an invitation. Prayers for others are answered if they respect the other's free will and needs.

On Jesus: He is the son of God, was also a God himself who was chosen before Creation to be the savior.

"His mission was to come into the world to teach love."

On religion: Each person is at a different spiritual level. Each religion is a steppingstone toward full awareness.

"All religions upon the Earth are necessary because there are people who need what they teach. We have no right to criticize any church or religion in any way."

The Rev. Jack Spaulding / Some people believe without a doubt that Jesus and Mary, the mother of Jesus, speak through the priest at Scottsdale's St. Maria Goretti Catholic Church. "I try to come every Thursday," churchgoer Tom Haley said. "I really believe that the Blessed Mother and the Lord visited down here."

Messages from Heaven

Service is 'something special'

By Don Harris
The Arizona Republic

They continue to go, the faithful and the curious, filling a Scottsdale church each week as a Catholic priest delivers in hushed tones a message he says comes directly from Jesus Christ.

"I've seen miracles (before)," said Elaine Cronin of Escondido, Calif. "I've seen rosaries turn to gold."

Cronin said she had heard about the services at St. Maria Goretti Catholic Church, 6261 N. Granite Reef Road, and wanted to see for herself what was happening.

After leaving the church Thursday night, Cronin said. "I feel peaceful."

Earlier, the Rev. Jack Spaulding assured a first-time visitor that there would be "no razzle-dazzle." Indeed, the service was somber.

Some of the estimated 700 who attended Thursday night believe without a doubt that Mary, the mother of Jesus, appeared during the service, and that Jesus spoke through Spaulding. Others who were there, including "AzScam" undercover agent Joseph Stedino, aren't so sure, but say they feel a sense of peace at the weekly prayer services.

Panel of inquiry

Nearly three years ago, Bishop Thomas J. O'Brien of the Phoenix Diocese appointed a commission of inquiry to determine what was going on at the upscale church where Spaulding, 47, Maria Goretti pastor, and his followers "believe they are receiving (teaching messages) from Jesus Christ and the Blessed Virgin Mary."

In early 1990, O'Brien issued a statement saying the commission found that the messages "are explainable within the range of ordinary human experience" and that "they are not miraculous."

Nevertheless, O'Brien has allowed the prayer services to continue "for the spiritual welfare of all," provided there is no "unequivocal claim of miraculous intervention."

"It's something special," said Tom Haley, 52, of Scottsdale, a Honeywell employee.

"I try to come every Thursday. I really believe that the Blessed Mother and the Lord visited down here."

'People should come to pray'

Stedino, whose undercover work led to a major political-corruption scandal last year, said he and his wife, Gail, live in the parish and attend the two-hour services "to pray and to spend some time with God."

"I don't expect to get anything out of this," Stedino said. "I'm here to put my stresses aside."

Linda Williams of Scottsdale was one of the original attendees of the Thursday-night services in 1989, when just a few showed up.

"People should come to pray," she said. "Miracles do happen, but that is not the reason they should come. They should not expect to see a miracle."

Early in the service, which includes a recitation of the rosary and a Mass, Spaulding delivered a brief message that had been given him by one of the parish visionaries, Gianna Talone of Scottsdale. The message, according to Margie Perry, Spaulding's administrative assistant, was from Mary and urged the faithful to continue to pray.

"Our Lady appeared during the service," Perry said. "Gianna knelt quickly. When I saw her kneel, I knew Our Lady was there."

When it was time for the homily, Spaulding stood at the center of the altar. With head bowed, he began to speak slowly, softly. The church became eerily quiet. A baby cried once. Someone else coughed once. It was almost as though Spaulding were in a trance. Occasionally, he paused, seeming to wait for the next words to occur to him.

'Feeling of peace'

The message, which lasted barely five minutes, advised that those who keep the Ten Commandments will have joy and not face chaos and confusion. Spaulding blessed religious objects and concluded the service with a general healing prayer.

Perry said that when Spaulding delivers his own homily, he tends to be dramatic. But, when Spaulding receives messages from Jesus, he becomes subdued.

"Most of time, he doesn't even remember what he said," Perry said. "The words go right through him."

Visitors have come from all over the world, including the Philippines, Hawaii, Mexico, Canada and England for the Thursday services, according to Perry.

Bernie Rekiere, 56, of Phoenix, an electrical engineer, said he just learned of the services from relatives who are visiting from Illinois.

"I got a feeling of peace and contentment," said Rekiere, a member of a nearby parish.

"What he (Spaulding) says comes from someone who cares. Whether it's Jesus or him or some other spirit, I don't know."

by Helga Morrow

A Lesson In Antigravity

Every contact with my scientific friends causes another bulb to light up in my head. Having recently watched a video from the American Academy of Dissident Scientists, Alternative 3 – Mars Survival Colonies, by Vladimir Terziski (May '91, I World UFO Congress, Tucson, Arizona), I suddenly became aware that, although this film was only released in 1991, it had happened while I was a child. I remembered my father telling me almost identical facts.

One part of the film also demonstrated how antigravity takes place and, as I watched, the following memories surfaced immediately.

After World War II, it was still very difficult to get metal toys. One Saturday when I was about ten or eleven years old, Daddy came home and brought me a surprise. He handed me a little cube-shaped cardboard box with red lettering on it. I excitedly opened it because he seldom gave us presents unless there was a special reason. I looked inside and pulled it out! I didn't know whether to jump up and down or exclaim, "What the heck is this?" He told me it was one of the first metal toys made since the war.

Only it wasn't really a toy. He told me to stick out my finger and of course I was puzzled, but knowing Daddy, I was sure I wouldn't be disappointed. He carefully wrapped the string on the gyroscope and yanked it. To my joy and surprise, it balanced seemingly forever on my finger. I was overjoyed. Then Daddy pulled out a string and held it taut. Again, the gyroscope balanced on the string and I squealed, "Daddy, you're the greatest." He replied, "Get a glass and fill it with water." Again, like magic, it balanced on the edge of the glass, and he watched my joy and enthusiasm. I believe he was testing my attention span.

When he said, "If you think this is so great, let me show you something." I chased after him to his room where he was pulling out books and papers. Knowing I could ask only relevant questions, I asked him what it was used for. With that, things like notes and books started to collect on the bed. He stopped in the middle of the flurry and said, "This gyroscope is the secret of balance in airplanes and ships. It keeps them from flopping around. It is a device for antigravity and I'm surprised the government would allow this to be used as a toy, sold in dime stores, no less."

I said, "I can imagine it balancing planes, but what about ships? Like the steel tankers you worked on at Maryland Dry Dock?"

"Oh, not those kind of ships." A shuffle of papers, and voila! a photo of a white ellipse.

"What is that?"

He replied, "That is a ship, manned from outer space. They are mostly disc shaped. They don't wobble and can fly at any angle. Watch!" He placed the gyroscope sideways on the edge of the glass and it didn't fall off.

"What is in this ship, Daddy?"

"It is manned by people like you and me who are here to help us with their knowledge and breed with our people."

I looked at the pictures; they were black and white. They appeared to be like the flying saucers you can find in any good UFO book. However, these were not on a New Age bookshelf in those days and appeared to be highly secretive photos.

I asked him what made them run and how they took off. I was told to get my two toy Scotty dog toys that had magnets attached to them. I was told to hold them in opposite directions from each other and immediately they pushed away from each other. He also showed me several articles that were published (perhaps in scientific journals) that he was very proud of, but couldn't divulge to anyone. The articles he showed me seemed to deal with time.

He said, "Follow me," and we both bolted down the steps to the back yard. He hastily collapsed the clothes line out of the way. He grabbed the old galvanized bucket and tied a piece of clothes line to it. He filled the bucket three-quarters full of water. Then, to my surprise, he stood in the middle of the yard and started swinging the bucket, on the end of the clothes line, around and around. He yelled, "Do you see anything unusual?"

I said, "Yes, the water isn't falling out!"

He came to a stop and said, "You try it." I repeated his actions and he yelled, "Do you notice anything different?"

"The water isn't falling out!" I said.

He yelled, "Besides that!" I kept swinging the bucket a few more times and he kept saying, "Concentrate – what else? Look at your feet!"

I looked at my feet and answered, "I'm not going as fast as the bucket."

He said, "You're right – you are in the center of a vortex, doing very little work because you are in the center!"

What a lesson. I've never forgotten it. What a teacher!

The Ultimate Deception

My father hid behind the cloak of an average "John Doe draftsman," a typical 9-to-5 type of guy, when in actuality he was a very well-known scientist. Knowing what I do now, it is obvious to me that, due to the nature of his work, he had access to some very top-secret information.

In May 1952, he came home from a trip very upset, distraught and totally out of control. His calm facade and usual cool demeanor had vanished. He barely said anything to Mother, brother and me. Since I always sat next to him at the end of our sofa, I noticed him writing. More and more, endless writings. Oddly enough, he got up in the wee hours of the morning and wrote and wrote and wrote 'til dawn. The more he wrote, the more distressed he became. It got worse. He started crying, the tears flowing down his cheeks. I felt then, and still feel, he was hiding something so horrible that he didn't dare speak out. His incessant writing seemed to be a silent scream. He appeared not only distraught but scared to death for me and the rest of the family. His bottled up secrets were gnawing at him constantly.

My mother sat in her corner in total silence when he was upset and my brother "took off" so he wouldn't get in the way.

He seemed to be getting worse and worse every day. He had always been interested in my school work, but somehow, this trip home, he never shared with me about my homework. I felt alone, as if he were a stranger in our midst. His face became that of a frightened man.

All I did was say, "What's wrong, what can I do to help?" That did it! He jumped up, thrust his notes in my face and screamed, "It's all lies! Lies! They are lying to all of us. This whole world is a damned lie! You should not have been born. They are only going to select certain ones. The little man has no say, we are nothing. They are planning a damn war in 1966 where the blacks and the whites will kill each other off so a certain part of the population will be thinned out. The war will be devastating, the likes of which we've never seen in America in this century. A blood bath.

Selective Breeding

"It is useless for you to have a child, although if you select the right person to breed with, there may be hope for you. Otherwise, they will check out the child's background (the father) and it will be another reject. For God's sake, check out the father of your unborn child. Make damn sure his background is clean — no alcoholics, nothing but pure, healthy mental and physical bodies, no criminals or convicted felons and, above all, above-normal intelligence and attractive appearance — an intelligent jerk won't do either. Those who have inbred [certain ethnic groups] because of their religion have innate blood diseases and will be eliminated as inferior unless they intermarry."

I said, finally, after this strange tirade, "What are you screaming for Daddy? I just want you to tell me now why are you screaming at me? I did nothing wrong!"

He yelled, "After they have messed up this planet, they are going to start over again some where else, on the moon, on Mars — they are putting us there in colonies. They are being set up now. The governments of the world are all conspiring to set this up!"

I thought he had "flipped." Not saying anything, my mother ran to the phone and called the police.

"You will see mass destruction in your lifetime. When you're 55 you will remember my words. They may kill me, but my words will live on. You will find out who I really am...."

With that, the police came to the door. My mother and brother finally got their way. Daddy was severely clubbed with their night sticks until his unconscious body was dragged into the paddy wagon.

My mother told the cops, "He's a nut who believes in flying saucers, and I want him behind bars in the nearest mental institution." We had no car and went to the police station in the police car. It was a horrible nightmare.

Men in Trenchcoats

Mother told me we could see Daddy every Wednesday. A dear friend and co-worker from Martin Marietta (name withheld) drove us. There he sat in his barren room. No voice, no emotion, no eye movement. He looked as if he were in a catatonic state.

Later, I noticed men (in trench coats) questioning my mother at home. She always said they were friends from the Martin company. Frankly, I knew she didn't know who the heck they were. I'd come home from school and I'd see them leave. Looking back now, I'd say they looked very much like the Secret Service men I've seen many times since.

The men in trench coats always came once a week to bring my father's paycheck and ask about his progress. They were very interested in what Daddy had said before he left. Mother was told to burn his writings which she did; however, I still remember some of them.

The news from the hospital was that Daddy was coming home for a visit in August. I was happy. Even though he had survived the brutal shock treatments, his well-being was precarious. My father spoke in soft, guarded sentences. It was just polite family conversation. Nothing earth-shattering happened during the visit. Again, we bade farewell and he went back to the hospital. A few weeks later, in September, he was released. Oddly enough, during this very traumatic experience, he was still carrying a top-secret clearance with his company, even after three to four months in the hospital. Evidently, he was too important for them to fire.

Alternative 3

Alternative 3, by Leslie Watkins with David Ambrose and Christopher Miles (published by Sphere Books, England) is one of the most controversial books of our time. At one point it was permanently removed from bookshelves and banned worldwide. It tells about colonies being formed on the moon and Mars, populated by the foremost people in every field of endeavor (whether kidnapped, selected or persuaded) in an attempt to save the best segment of the population from the certain disaster of the greenhouse effect. These colonies are purported to house everything from selected breeders to scientists. It's clear to me now that my father was worried about my chances of being "selected" if I were to breed with the "wrong type" of specimen. He was terrified that my offspring would not be good enough to be among the selected few to survive and propagate in the new colonies.

No one knew of his breakdown or his affiliation with flying saucers. The hospital diagnosed him as paranoid-schizophrenic because talked about flying saucers and aliens. But the doctors assured my mother this was harmless illusion, that he'd get out of it eventually.

Well, things were all quiet, until we got news from Daddy that he was to live permanently in Denver, Colorado. Mother refused to go because of the high altitudes in Colorado. A lot of engineers who had transferred to Colorado had died of heart attacks (seemingly because of the thin air). Many of my father's fellow engineers dropped dead within one to two years of being transferred there. On some occasions, my school called my mother to find out who I was or what kind of American I was. The neighbors were also questioned.

On very rare occasions, I'd sneak into my father's bedroom and look at the pictures of the flying saucers. Not even my mother knew about them. But I knew his secret hiding places and I knew I was being prepared for something in the future. Age 55 seemed so far away. When I figured it out in 1952, 1992 seemed so distant. I pictured myself as an old lady. But something in this madness made sense; someday I would be able to share my story safely.

I think he knew that the real issues were hidden behind smoke screens, and that, unfortunately, the smoke screens were what made headlines. He believed that racial wars were not spontaneously triggered by a minor incident but by well-planned, clandestine operations, in an attempt at genocide – to “thin out” the population. He saw the women’s movement, even abortion rights, as the eventual control of women for selective breeding. He always said communism was a joke to create friction between believers and non-believers, a cloud to obscure truth. The stupidity of Lincoln was to have freed the slaves and then not give them real freedom. This, he thought, was the injustice that would lead to racial wars.

He also mentioned that I should have only one child if I did decide to breed. Love was not in his vocabulary, except to love one’s fellow man, as in mankind.

He told me that there would be a time when beings the government deemed inferior would not be allowed to reproduce, that the government would eventually decide for us. “That is why it’s important for you to breed with the right person, at the right time, when you grow up. Breeding is most important. An intelligent female with a below-average male will produce inferior children. It’s a question of breeding only superior beings with superior beings. They won’t be hurt – just not allowed to breed, so their inferior genes will become extinct. This is the only way the human race can breed out criminals, murderers, violence, diseases and genetic disorders. This is what they have achieved in other star systems. This is not the only star system. There are endless varieties of galaxies. They walk among us, breed with us and have integrated into our civilization. We [the scientists] are working on this now.”

What about our “gifted children” programs? How are these children being observed? What statistics are being gathered and what are they used for? Where is the information going?

My father felt that our seed must be perfect – strong – so that no one person or group could take away our rights or make us prisoners on Earth or on another planet. Mental and spiritual training are vital to strength, as is discipline. The incorruptible who adhere to the will of God will survive on this planet. Speak and live only the truth!

Russia moves ahead with MIR 2

Russian funding of its new Mir 2 space station is accelerating as the U.S. space station program faces redesign or cancellation, according to Aviation Week & Space Technology. The growing political, budget and redesign problems facing the Space Station Freedom are expected to lead to a study by NASA and the White House of how a greater synergy can be created between the U.S. and Russian programs. The new Russian station is scheduled to be permanently staffed by late 1996 or early 1997 and fully outfitted by 1998. Freedom’s first element is not likely to be launched until late 1996. It will not be permanently manned until at least 2000.

Space Station Partners Dismayed

NASA’s international partners on the space station are dismayed at the possible loss of years of work on their portions of the orbiting laboratory, according to Aerospace Daily. The partners say they will hold NASA to its agreements as they cooperate in the hurry-up redesign ordered by the Clinton administration. The partners operate under the Inter-Government Agreement, which sets the framework for international cooperation and allows for shortfalls in funding and redesigns, with procedures for the partners to cooperatively work out the changes. An official of Japan told the Daily that his government wants the continuity of its space station program maintained. The space station is a “litmus test” for future scientific cooperation in space and other fields, he said.

Animal forms can be found in abundance. For example, there is a figure that resembles the Goddess “Thueris” of ancient Egypt. There is also a figure of a horse facing towards the sky that has also been found at Stonehenge.

According to Mr. Daniel Ruzo, discoverer of Marcahuasi’s metaphysical significance, there are stone tables, not only in this mysterious place, but throughout the America’s. Stone tables that represent the links between “telluric” (or Earth based) forces and cosmic forces.

It is reported that some individuals have astrally projected to Marcahuasi. They have seen archives of ancient world history inside a cave in the Fourth Dimension.

The entire feeling Marcahuasi gives to visitors is that of a power place and it seems that there is much more to it than what one can see on the surface. Given the proper research, this could very well lead many of our best scientists to the fascinating truth about the ancient peoples of this region.

THE TERRESTRIAL SEARCH FOR GOD

by
L. L. Wood

Through the haze of world confusion, and strife, I am starting to realize our destiny here on this planet. I am beginning to see why we have come here. Indeed, it is no easy task!

Our world is going through a transformation that will determine the eventual evolution of our species. As strife and conflict increase, so do global conditions that threaten our very lives. If we are to survive our own "technology", then we must learn to do it in a cooperative manner with ALL peoples.

Several years ago I was on a radio talk show (KLAY in Tacoma, Washington). I had mentioned how we, as a people, would have to start thinking "globally" instead of nationally. I stated the fact that there are no boundaries visible from space. They are manifestations of our desire to be separate from our neighbors. This separation, and desire for duality is the very cause of our struggle and strife on the planet.

As soon as I had said that, a middle aged woman called and was hysterical that we should defend our borders lest the "Communists" invaded us! She was of the mind set prevalent 40 - 50 years ago when people were so scared of the "Red Threat" that was generated during the McCarthy years. You would have thought that I had asked her to sign over her individuality and possessions to some unnamed enemy.

I see that we are all being pulled by the force of life within us towards the Great Central Sun of our Universe, and the inevitable joining of Spirit with the Creator. It is an exciting time to be alive!

The key to unlock the hearts and minds of humans is LOVE! It is not just a catchy phrase. Through the power of love, all good will manifest - Creativity, Beauty, Art, Music, Poetry, Dance, Evolution, The Power of God, the Force of Life Eternal!

It is my sincere desire for all mankind to listen and strive to become one - in our minds and hearts - with the God Force. It will be ecstasy and perfection. Can you see the time when all peoples on this planet will be helping each other, sharing what they have amongst one another, and making beautiful objects for everyone's enjoyment?

Those who can not feel it in their hearts will be reincarnated on a home planet more akin to their soul's vibration. It may take them longer to realize what it is they are supposed to be doing with their lives - but that is the same all over the Multiverse. Each soul gets the same chance. Some societies do not forget their past lives like we do, and are able to progress rapidly with each successive lifetime.

In my time on this planet I have had the pleasure of meeting, and seeing first hand, some of God's Light Workers. I pray that there will be many more as time goes by. I have been so impressed by their way of life and actions, that I am bound by Spirit to strive with all of my might to lead my life in such a way that I, too, will bring Glory to God's name!

As time goes by, I see the predictions of things to come are indeed coming to pass. It is as if our collective consciousness is getting more tuned to the Universal Mind. As we learn of things that will be, they quickly assert themselves into fact shortly thereafter. Serendipity.

I am not afraid of what is ahead for all of us. I know that the "I" I speak of will never die. Death is but a moment of time, it will be brief. There are worse things in life - hatred, prejudices, war, molestations of the weaker, and worse that I care not to mention. So Death is but a stepping through a door. This I am not afraid of. My Spirit will be guided by the God Force.

It is important now to clean up our minds and bodies. We must abandon all addictions, and eat clean, high carbohydrate foods. Animal flesh will stagnate the souls attempt to reach higher levels. Prayer and meditation should become a regular, daily practise. Learn to quiet your mind so that God can speak to you, and you will hear what is being said. Stop the incessant internal chatter! The next level of being is a mental one, and all of our thoughts will have form. If you learn to focus and control your thoughts in this lifetime through meditation, the next level will be a beautiful and productive one with few "hard lessons" to learn.

Excercise the body! This is perhaps the hardest for some of us. Today's modern technology promotes a sedentary lifestyle. (When was the last time you physically got up and changed the television station?) We will have to be in "Top Flight" condition to withstand the rigors and stresses put upon us in the near future.

Look at the disrespect we show our own planet. Do you really think that pollution, rain forest destruction, underground nuclear testing, Chernobyl disasters and so on, can go on forever without some sort of karmic backlash? Our recent weather disasters and unusual patterns are a result of this type of behavior. We must stop this activity or suffer even more severe "disasters" that will kill millions of people and make the storms and natural disasters of 1992-1993 look like a short squall. What will be left of our beloved planet for our children to inherit?

Our Elder Brothers (an ancient tribe of Central American Indians called the Kogi) are sick at heart at what we and our TECHNOLOGY have done to our Beloved Mother. Many of us are still in touch, with recent incarnations as Native Americans before the White Brothers came. Those memories make our hearts hurt to see what has happened in America in just 200 short years. The problem, however, is a global one, and you can well imagine what has taken place in areas much older than America.

In your meditations, envision Terra as the Garden of God. See it in a Utopian fashion. Generate a Love vibration to heal the wounded and scorched Earth. See people shaking hands with one another, throwing down their weapons of destruction. See yourself planting trees and flowers. See the sky a beautiful, clean blue, where the only thing to break the skyline is a large tree. This is how our planet would be - will be - if we can learn to live with nature and each other instead of thinking and acting selfishly, and against the Laws of Nature. We must not abuse the power we have been given.

I know there will be tumultuous times ahead before we have come through the cleansing. Those of us that are left will band together and use the power God has given us to restore our
