NEW YORK. — "Flying saucer" spotting in America is growing to fantastic proportions as Westerners, not to be outdone by the growing crop of reports from the eastern States, claim to see whole squadrons of the mysterious shining discs racing across the sky.

However honest some of the observations may be, there is no doubt that many of them are hallucinations, and that many more are deliberately prankish, particularly since the news agencies and national dailies have begun devoting considerable space to reports, however wild.

One report in this latter category was a Montana airline pilot's tale of being chased by a "flying yoyo," which fell apart when it flew into his slipstream.

A news agency seriously reported this tale, but circulated a denial after the pilot's employers had forced him to admit that it was a hoax.

DENMARK, TOO

LONDON. — "Flying Saucers," similar to those seen in America and Canada, have been seen over Copenhagen, capital of Denmark, according to the Swedish newspaper. After
