

SIGHTING OF LIFE RAFT

WIESBADEN, April 12.—

The United States Air Force has announced that a life raft has been spotted in the Baltic Sea, 40 to 50 miles north-east of the island of Bornholm.

The pilot of the search plane saw what appeared to be a man wearing an "exposure suit" in the raft.

He also said there were unidentified objects in the immediate area.

Exposure suits are specially designed to protect fliers forced to bail out into icy water.

Danish naval cutters are steaming to the scene and a Danish flying boat has also been sent.

Bornholm is about 300 miles south-west of Latvia, where Russians fired on an American plane last Saturday.
