Flying Saucer

THE flying saucer has made its appearance in a local household.

Wiping the dishes this week a local housewife saw a saucer fly from her hands and land upright on the window shelf, not even damaging two salt and pepper shakers parked on the shelf or chipping the saucer.

In my case flying saucers are not an unusual occurrence, but they usually land on the table and smash to smithereens.

Where 'Hoppers Go

OUR column's recent query as to the whereabouts of grasshoppers at night led us to make inquiries.

Female apparel, it transpires, provided short-lived refuge for quite a few quite a few.

Night tennis players and students at Tech. were not exempt and it was with inhospitable squeals the hoppers were returned to the outside world to find lodgings elsewhere.

Jokes And Jokes

THE one who thinks our jokes are poor

Would straightway change his views

Could he compare the jokes we print

With those we cannot use.
