

“Flying Saucer”

With all the intriguing statements appearing in the press recently regarding people seeing “flying saucers,” Mrs. W. J. Kirke mentioned to her husband that she would very much like to see one herself.

Her husband’s eyes lit up, and minutes later he called Mrs. Kirke out to see the mysterious “flying saucer.” What she saw was her husband nonchalantly toss a piece of crockery; which goes with one’s teacup, into the air. It broke, and Mrs. Kirke is now one piece short in her tea set—all because of her wish to see a “flying saucer.”
