

. . . and again in America

New York, Friday

Two pilots and an electronics engineer claim to have tracked a "flying saucer" on a radar screen for eight miles near Osceola, Arkansas.

The Navy Department is investigating their report of a "round, shiny object that whizzed past their plane."