

Science Film Vogue

THANKS to the flying saucer stories, Hollywood is going all out for science-fantasy films.

First on the list is "Rocketship X-M," and coming up are "Destination Moon," "When Worlds Collide" from a book about the earth colliding with another planet, "Who Goes There," about the inhabitant of another world who lands at the North Pole, gets frozen in the ice and is then defrosted.

Virtually every studio is preparing one of these films.