

This Saucer Really Flies

People at Moorabbin (Vic.) really did see a flying saucer this week.

But it was only a model built by 14-year-old Adrian Chipper, of Frankston.

The saucer is shown in flight (above). The builder is shown (right) with the model, which he designed himself.

The flying saucer, which is powered by a miniature diesel engine, took three weeks to build.

This Saucer
Really Flies

Really Flies

People at Moorabbin (Vic.) really did see a flying saucer this week.

But it was only a model built by 14-year-old Adrian Chipper, of Frankston.

The saucer is shown in flight (above). The builder is shown (right) with the model, which he designed himself.

The flying saucer, which is powered by a miniature diesel engine, took three weeks to build.

