

Could it be a saucer?

NOT A FLYING SAUCER, but it is believed this radiosonde balloon — or a balloon like it — was mistaken for one in Britain recently. The balloon is being released from the Air Ministry Meteorological Station near Crawley, Sussex, to record wind velocity and automatically transmit readings to the ground.

