

Today's saucer a jet

Here's a flying saucer report today which can be simply explained.

Two people, 100 miles apart, rang Adelaide authorities with "positive" reports that a flying saucer had just passed over SA flying north-west at about 10 a.m. today.

"It was travelling at a terrific speed," they reported, "and leaving a great trail of white smoke."

One report was from a woman at Mooreook and the other from a man at Burra.

The answer was simple.

An RAAF Vampire jet fighter was streaking along at 35,000 ft. on its way from Laverton, Victoria, to Woomera Rocket Range and was positioned in that area about that time.

At 35,000 ft. vapor trails, giving an illusion of white smoke, were of white smoke, were almost certain to form. authorities said.
