

FLYING SAUCER PICTURE ?

DARWIN, Fri.—
An Alice Springs newspaper, the "Centralian Advocate," today published a picture which an anonymous photographer claims is of a flying saucer.

The editor, Jim Bowditch, said that the picture and an accompanying note were found under his office door a few days ago. The note read:

"For several reasons, one of which is that I can hardly believe it myself, I refuse to come forward to allow my name to be used, but study this picture of a flying saucer yourself.

"I was taking pictures of Mt. Gillen (overlooking the town), on January 15—the day a number of Alice Springs people said they heard something they heard something strange pass over the town.

“Suddenly, an enormous, round-looking object appeared from behind Mt. Gillen.

It went high, then dropped to come quite low between Mt. Gillen and the town.

“It was not travelling fast at this stage, and I took the picture.”

The photograph shows Mt. Gillen in the background with a large object in the sky between the photographer and the mountain.

Many Alice Springs people believe it is genuine, but others say it could be anything from a button to a washing machine.

It is circular, has a circle in the centre, and six heavy veins running to the outside of the circle.
