

NOT A "FLYING SAUCER": What looks like a real "flying saucer" is, in fact, an important piece of equipment built at Stockton-on-Tees by the Power Gas Corporation for Imperial Chemical Industries. Technically referred to as a "dished end," this 11-foot diameter stainless steel shape is part of a pressure filter for the new I.C.I. works at Wilton (U.K.).