IT OVER AND DECIDES THERE'S SOMETHING IN THIS

FLYING SAUCER BUSINESS

I have heard a lot of talk and what not about this Flying Saucer over the last few days.

"Look here, Jack," said Hard-Case Harry. "If those people think they are the first persons in Roma to see a Flying Saucer they are mistaken. Why, I have seen plenty of them every pay night for the last 40 years."

YOU know, Roma is famous for a lot things—its friendly policemen, its grapes its oil wells, etc. It really hit the news a long time ago with the appearance of the Bunyip. Later, the disappearance of some very important cattle. Now we have the appearance of the "Flying Saucers". What next?

THERE really must be something in it. I put it down to the fine weather we are enjoying. Maybe the "Martians" have come down to sample some. With all these election speeches going on, I don't think they will be with us very long.

I do hope the whole matter is worked out very soon,

is worked out very soon, because I have lost many hours sleep trying to get a glimpse of this "thug." But from now on I am going to bed to dream, and read all about it in the morning—the Flying Saucer, I mean.

ONE last thought: Methinks there were plenty of people who saw the "Flying Saucer" on Saturday night and are not game to tell.
