

'Flying saucer' in Norway

OSLO August 25 (AAP)—
Police in north-central Norway are searching for a "flying saucer."

Two young women are reported to have seen a dark, long-haired, foreign-looking man leave the "saucer" while they were picking berries.

The women said the man appeared friendly and anxious to talk, but he could not understand English, French, or German.

After the man had vainly tried to explain himself with words, gestures, and drawings, he climbed into the "saucer," which rose straight into the air and disappeared, the women said.
