

FLYING SAUCER

:0:

Seen in France

TOULON, Monday: Two French motor cyclists swore in Toulon yesterday that they talked to the "pilot" of a flying saucer parked in the middle of Hyeres-Touron road on Thursday night.

The two men, Mario Rapellini and Pierre Ottoviani told police they found the flying saucer was a circular object with two legs resting on the ground.

It had a bulge on top, and two ear-like openings at the side.

As they gingerly approached they said a medium sized man "dressed in grey overalls of some strange material stepped out."

The following conversation took place in French.

Rapellini: Are you a Martian?

Stranger: No I'm French; where am I?

They told the "pilot" where he was and he re-entered his machine through a "triangular opening."

A stream of vapor issued from the saucer and it rose slowly vertically into the air, as its motor roared up, then streaked off at great speed leaving an orange glow in its wake.
