

SPOKE TO MAN FROM FLYING SAUCER

PARIS, Tuesday.

Two French motor cyclists told Toulon police last night that they had talked to a man from a flying saucer, which they found parked in the middle of the road near Toulon.

It was a circular object with two legs resting on the ground. It had a bulge on the top and two earlike openings at the side.

As they gingerly approached, they said, a medium-sized man, dressed in grey overalls of some strange material stepped out.

One of the motor cyclists asked (in French): "Are you Martian?"

The stranger replied: "No, I'm French. Where am I?"

They told him, and he re-entered his machine through a triangular opening.

A stream of vapor issued from the saucer, it rose slowly vertically and then streaked off at great speed, leaving an orange glow in its wake.
