

Writer Says He Met Man From Mars

LONDON, Sunday.

Cedric Allingham, a British thriller writer, claims he has met a man from Mars who came to earth in a flying saucer.

Mr. Allingham described the meeting in a newly-published book, "Flying Saucer from Mars."

Mr. Allingham, an amateur astronomer, stated that he met the martian last February on a lonely stretch of the East Scottish coast near Lossiemouth.

Mr. Allingham said that in each of the martian's nostrils was the end of a breathing tube to counteract the effect of the world's oxygen, as martian air is composed mainly of nitrogen.