NZ PM blasts our man Hinch

KIWI Prime Minister Rob "Piggy" Muldoon has scathingly attacked Truth columnist Derryn Hinch.

And all because outspoken Derryn dared to criticise New Zealand — and Mr Muldoon — in Truth.

Hinch branded Mr Muldoon "abrasive, abusive, evasive, objectionable and pugnacious" and said New Zealand was now a racist cauldron threatening to boil over.

HANGUPS

Furious, Mr Muldoon told a New Zealand newspaper that Hinch was "sick".

He said: "I can imagine that having a name like Derryn would make him hate his parents and hide behind a beard."

"But why take his hangups out on the rest of us?"

Hinch — a New Zealander who left to come to Australia

★ DERRYN HINCH ... happy with his name.

17 years ago — laughed when Truth told him he'd upset the NZ Prime Minister.

He commented: "I'm quite happy with my name and I love my parents dearly."

"This is typical of Mr Muldoon — he rants and raves but makes no attempt to answer the important points I made in my Truth column.

"He accuses me of hiding behind a beard — maybe he forgets that everybody from Jesus Christ to Abraham Lincoln has sported a beard at some stage.

"I find it very sad that a Prime Minister of a troubled country like New Zealand could stoop to such low smear-mongering in an attempt to dismiss reasoned criticism.

ANSWERS

"Let him answer the issues if he really is genuine.

"But I doubt if I'll hear anything else from him — he knows he hasn't got the answers."

'Galaxy creatures on giant spacecraft'

TRUTH exclusive by JOHN PINKNEY

AMAZING shots of outer space humanoids inside saucer-shaped inter-galactic spacecraft have been discovered in a color movie film taken by an Adelaide detective.

Scientific investigators regard the photographs — released exclusively to Truth this week — as a major breakthrough in UFO research.

The Kodak company in London has confirmed that the film is genuine, and could not be a hoax.

Some frames show an immense, multi-levelled craft from which a saucer-shaped object is emerging.

Rock idol crippled in bar brawl

THE career of a leading rock guitarist is in jeopardy after a freak incident in New Zealand last week.

Kevin Borich, who heads the group Kevin Borich Express, severed tendons and sinews in his right arm when he was pushed through a plate glass window during a brawl at a hotel.

Doctors in Auckland do not know to what extent the injuries will restrict movement in his arm.

The trip to New Zealand was a double tragedy for the successful rock artist.

Borich had flown to Auckland for his father's funeral. The hotel incident happened after he saw solicitors to settle the family estate.

ENGAGEMENTS

Doctors will examine Borich later this week and remove stitches from the gashed arm.

A spokeswoman for Michael Chugg Management, which handles the Kevin Borich Express affairs, said all engagements for the group had been cancelled.

Miss Kathy Howard said: "He was taken to hospital for immediate surgery and was in hospital five days."

"He'll just have to give the arm time to heal."

Borich, originally from New Zealand, came to Australia with the successful Las De Das band.

In Kevin Borich Express, he worked with international stars Rod Stewart and Jeff Beck when they toured Australia.

His most popular album, Celebration, the band's Australian debut, was followed by Lonely One and No Turning Back, which was recorded in America.

The latest album, Kevin Borich Express Live, was recorded at Australian concert venues and during a performance for inmates at Parramatta Jail. — JANE SYMONS

Girl gang bashed Sally, 16

A SCHOOLGIRL, 16, has told a court three girls bashed her near the Geelong Football Club disco.

Sally Anne Foster told Geelong Magistrates Court the girls said they wanted to talk to her, then bashed her.

She told Mr William Guy SM, the girls ran off, then two of them came back and bashed her again.

BROKEN

Miss Foster, of Cairns Avenue, Newtown, said she suffered two black eyes, some front teeth were broken and her lip was cut.

Karen Lucas, 17, unemployed, of Myrtle Avenue, Newcombe pleaded guilty, before Mr W. Guy to a charge of assault causing bodily harm.

Miss Foster said she went to the Cats Disco at Kardinia Park, Geelong, about 5 pm on December 23 with a girlfriend.

She said she was walking through Kardinia Park later when Lucas and two other girls grabbed her by the arm and said they wanted to talk to her.

Miss Foster said: "I was punched in the face and the head."

"After they bashed me up, Karen said that was enough and they all ran off. But the other two returned without Karen and bashed me again."

Policewoman Karen Allen told the court Lucas admitted to police she and two other girls assaulted Foster.

NAMES

She said Lucas told police: "Last time we had a fight she (Miss Foster) called us names and we could not get at her because she was in a car."

Senior Sergeant Stan Woolard said police believed Lucas did not lead the attack.

The court was told the other two girls had appeared in Children's Court.

Lucas' father told Mr Guy his daughter was sorry about the assault and he believed she had learned her lesson.

Mr Guy convicted Lucas and placed her on 18 months' probation.

MICROSCOPE TURNS UP 'EERIE BEINGS'

In other shots, small beings can be seen through the "windows" and on the surface of the major ship.

The UFO footage, which runs for 210 seconds, was taken on January 22 last year by Jose Luis Duran, a private detective, of Sunnymeade Drive, Aberfoyle Park, South Australia.

Mr Duran has spent the past 12 months photographing 1000-magnification details through an Olympus electron microscope.

News of the eerie, foetus-like creatures revealed by the microscope's searching lens has sent bombshell reverberations through the scientific world.

Professor J. Allen Hymek, former astronomical adviser to the U.S. Air Force, has asked Mr Duran to rush him a copy of the film for evaluation at the Centre for UFO Studies in Illinois.

CONFIRM

Meanwhile, Mr P. M. Sutherst, customer relations manager for Kodak, England, has ruled out any possibility of trickery.

In a letter to Oxford UFO scientist Mr Derek Mansell, Mr Sutherst says: "I have checked this movie film and I can confirm that it was correctly manufactured and processed."

"I can also say that the images on the film were formed optically, so they actually existed as you see them."

Mr Duran showed Truth more than 1000 negatives from the film this week.

Several shots have already been inspected by Britain's Contact International organisation, whose scientific advisers believe the film depicts alien spacecraft.

From London, the group's scientific research officer, Mr Derek Mansell, said: "The lights are definitely not those of aircraft."

"Space agencies have confirmed that there was no debris entering earth's atmosphere at that place and time."

Mr Duran told Truth: "The first thing I saw, before I grabbed my camera, was a red and blue light, moving from the north-west over powerlines, toward the back of my house. The object was coming from the ocean."

"I was a paratrooper, and I was trained to identify planes by sight, sound and speed. This was no plane."

"I got my movie camera — an electronic Canon Auto-Zoom 10-14, using high-speed Ektachrome 160 film — and took pictures."

"Behaving very much as if it was trying to attract attention, the object, flashing bright lights, changed direction several times — then headed for a big, brilliant star, Venus."

"I'm delighted that Venus is also on the film, as experts cannot now claim that is what I saw."

Mr Duran's film, taken at 4.17 am, seemed to show little more than a brightly-moving light.

But, inspired by news that the Channel 10 Network's UFO film, taken over New Zealand, would be computer-tested, he decided to analyse his own footage.

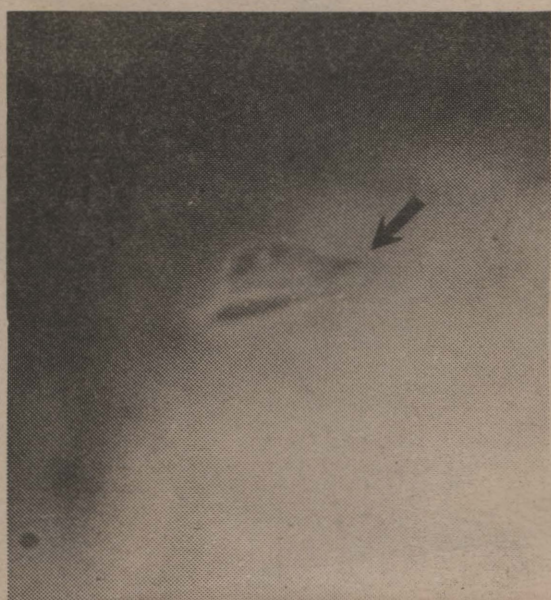

From a friend, Mr Eddie Clark, who manages a scientific equipment store, he borrowed a $7000 Olympus BH system electron microscope.

Painstakingly, at the heartbreakingly slow rate of one frame per hour, he took the 1075 micro pictures that are now startling the world scientific observers.

Mr Duran said: "Photographic experts assure me that the major object, an immense, multi-layered ball, is at least 1200 feet in diameter."

"It's so big that, in one shot, it fills the frame from one end to another."

"But what staggers us most is what we can see, at

★ THE bell-shaped object arrowed is claimed to be a UFO silhouetted, in the brighter area, against the mother ship.

1000 magnifications, emerging from the craft.

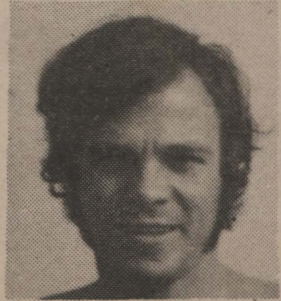

"One picture shows an object in the perfect, classic flying saucer bell-shape, moving away from the immense ball."

LIVING

"In other pictures, seemingly living occupants, with gold helmets and space-cords, can be seen through portholes and moving about on the craft's surface."

"And this is only the beginning."

"Soon my footage will be analysed overseas, with equipment far more powerful than mine."

Aunty out to rule the air waves

By GERALD LYONS

THE Australian Broadcasting Commission will introduce two new programs to 3LO in an all-out bid to improve its radio ratings.

In one, a talk-back show, the noted psychologist Doctor Bob Montgomery will be among a distinguished panel of speakers giving advice on a wide variety of topics.

Titled City Sound and compered by Muriel Cooper and Alan Stokes, the program will be heard daily from Monday, February 4, between 10 am and noon.

Sweeping changes have been made in its radio current affairs area, with the ABC bringing all its big guns to bear in Frontline, from 8.30 to 10 each morning.

Andrew Potter, 30, an experienced radio and TV journalist, will host Frontline in the timeslot previously occupied by Liz Bond, who recently resigned.

Potter, who joined the ABC in 1970, has been working in London over the past 12 months as a producer and presenter of the British program AM.

AMBASSADOR

He will be backed by a panel of experts including Mr Alan Renouf, former Australian Ambassador to Washington.

Other commentators include: Barry Donovan, industrial affairs; Robert McAlpine, urban affairs; and Alan Carroll, business affairs.
