

CRAFT WORK AT WADDIKEE ROCK

Craft work and competitions have been the main features of the monthly meetings of Waddikee Rock CWA

Winners of competitions were announced at the annual meeting.

Flowers: M. Chapman, B. Nier.

Crafts: B. Hier, R. Hier.

An indoor plant was presented to each as a prize.

The meeting to remember was a progressive luncheon to celebrate the branch's 29th birthday.

Six members from the home link Wirrulla took part and four homes were visited for the luncheon which included a look at shade houses and gardens.

Following the luncheon members had a look at Waddikee Rock and the monument where John Charles Darke was speared.

Following a short meeting the candles were lit on a beautifully iced cake by C. Beinke, fanned out by M. Chapman, and Fay Kelsh, president of Wirrulla branch, cut the cake.

Officers re-elected for this year are: president, M. Cummings; vice-president, M. Chapman; secretary, I. Haines; treasurer, R. Hier; handicraft secretary, B. Hier; social secretary, C. Beinke.

It was resolved to continue evening meetings every third Tuesday monthly.

Sue Hanes will be hostess for July.

●News of an unidentified flying object sighting near Port Lincoln makes the lead story and budding journalists Cindy Martin (left) and Fiona Dixon-Thompson design their front page to give maximum impact to the article. Aged eight, the girls are students of Miss Denise Glover's class at the Port Lincoln Primary School. Recently, as a creative writing lesson students were required to write a story of a UFO sighting. The students' work is to be made into a book.
